والعلامات حتى 8 يوليو 2014

Holy_bible_1

اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأيضاً أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد حدثت مثل ابن الهلاك وحرب هرمجدون وظهور

الشاهدين وحزقيال 38 وغيره ولا نعرف متى ولكن أشعر انها اقتربت.

ولكن ايضا علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير وفي الجيل الأخير

بدأت تحدث بوضوح ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. فلا نعرف هل المسيح سيأتي في سنة ام سبع سنين ام

سبعين سنة أم أكثر فكرر لا احدد مواعيد وارفض من يحددون ولكن نذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان

نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء المسيح بل ايضا قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون

عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيئه. بمعنى
نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في
مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيقه اقتربت جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت
في الضيقه لان وقتها تجميع زيت سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذاري انه لن
يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه سابقا. فأكرر لا نحدد المواعيد ولكن أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم
استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول
انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم
لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم ياتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن
كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

فيجب علينا ان نذكر الكل بالاستعداد والتوبة من الان حتى لو كان سيتأخر فقد نسلم وديعتنا في
اي وقت

Is Earth's magnetic field getting weaker? Dramatic dips spotted across the Western Hemisphere could damage satellites

- Esa's Swarm satellite constellation reveals data on Earth's magnetic field
- The results, presented in Denmark, show the field is weakening in places
- The Western Hemisphere, in particular, is dramatically getting weaker
- But other places, including the east coast of Africa, are becoming stronger
- This is seen by some as a sign the magnetic field will soon reverse
- And areas of different intensity can also be harmful to other satellites
- The three satellites also accurately tracked the magnetic North pole

Earth's magnetic field is a protective shield for our planet from cosmic radiation, but it's also somewhat of a mystery - scientists aren't sure why it moves and changes in intensity.

And now the first set of high-resolution results from Esa's three-satellite Swarm constellation reveal that the field is actually getting weaker, albeit by a small amount.

Measurements made over the past six months confirm the general trend of the field's weakening, with the most dramatic declines over the Western Hemisphere.

Government scientists are not only blaming global warming for the centuries-long collapse of western Antarctic ice sheets, but global warming is also being blamed for record levels of sea ice in the South Pole.

Antarctica's sea ice set another record this week, reaching 815,448 square miles above normal, breaking a record set this past weekend of 800,776 square miles above normal ice coverage.

These two records set within a week of one another shattered the previous ice extent record of 710,428 square miles above average that was set back on December 20, 2007.

The strongest typhoon of 2014 could hit Japan within 48 hours and bring destructive, high-speed winds over 150 miles per hour, Stars and Stripes reports.

South Korea and the Philippines could also be affected, according to AccuWeather.

The Weather Channel noted that the storm could be "extremely dangerous" and that it's heading toward Okinawa. The U.S. military is watching the storm closely, as Okinawa is a military hub with all branches hosting bases there.

Military bases in the region are currently at Typhoon Condition 3 (out of 4), with Kadena Air Force Base predicting the following wind forecast (via Stripes):

- Sustained 40-mph winds, from 11 p.m. Monday.
- Sustained 58-mph winds, from 5 a.m. Tuesday.
- Maximum 155-mph winds and 190-mph gusts, noon Tuesday.
- Winds diminishing below 58 mph, from 8 p.m. Tuesday.
- Winds diminishing below 40 mph, from 3 a.m. Wednesday.

4 dead in magnitude-6.9 earthquake in southern Mexico, Guatemala

Published July 07, 2014 • Associated Press  122  216

TUXTLA GUTIERREZ, Mexico — A magnitude-6.9 earthquake on the Pacific Coast jolted a wide area of southern Mexico and Central America Monday, killing at least four people and damaging dozens of homes.

The U.S. Geological Survey said the quake hit at 6:23 a.m. (7:23 a.m. EDT) on the Pacific Coast 1 mile north-northeast of Puerto Madero, near the Guatemala border. It initially calculated the magnitude at 7.1 but later lowered the figure to 6.9.

Firefighters spokesman Raul Hernandez said at least two people died in their homes from collapsed walls in the Guatemalan town of Pati, in the border province of San Marcos. Another woman in Quetzaltenango died from a heart attack.

Guatemalan President Otto Perez Molina spoke on radio Emisores Unidos of a fifth case, a newborn hit by a collapsing wall in a San Marcos hospital.

The civil defense office in the Mexican state of Chiapas reported on its Twitter account that one man had been killed in Huixtla by a collapsed wall.

Big Earthquakes Double in 2014, But They're Not Linked

By Becky Oskin, Senior Writer

If you think there have been more earthquakes than usual this year, you're right. A new study finds there were more than twice as many big earthquakes in the first quarter of 2014 as compared with the average since 1979.

"We have recently experienced a period that has had one of the highest rates of great earthquakes ever recorded," said lead study author Tom Parsons, a research geophysicist with the U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) in Menlo Park, California.

Earthquakes larger than magnitude-7 since 2000.

Kamchatka's Shiveluch spews new ash plume 8 km into sky

Shiveluch, one of the largest and most active volcanos of Russia's far-eastern Kamchatka Peninsula, has spewed a plume of ash as high as 8 km into the air, the Kamchatka Emergency Service reported on Sunday.

"The wind is driving the ash cloud southeastwards. There are no populated centers along its path," the report says.

Although no ash fallouts have been registered in the Ust-Kamchatsky district, rescuers have recommended tourist operators to cancel tours in the vicinity of the volcano.

The orange-level volcanic alert has been issued for aircraft flying over the peninsula.

It's the second ash plume ejected by Shiveluch since the beginning of July. On July 1, a cloud of ash shot up 7 km above sea-level.

Mount Slamet still spews volcanic ash

Purwokerto, Central Java (ANTARA News) - Mount Slamet, which covers five districts in Central Java, was reportedly still spewing volcanic ash in the area around its peak.

On Friday night, thin volcanic ash began pouring out in the area around the observation post, head of Mount Slamet Observation Post, Sudrajat, said here on Saturday.

However, there was no red-hot lava spewing from the volcano, which intersects the five districts of Banyumas, Purbalingga, Pemalang, Tegal and Brebes.

That lava was seen from Monday night (June 30) to Tuesday (July 1).

"Unfortunately, on the last two nights the peak has been covered with mist, so we couldn't make any observations," Sudrajat said.

The activity on Mount Slamet increased again on June 29 and has shown no signs of cooling, according to the observations made so far,

The authorities have imposed alert level II (Waspada) on the volcano, and there was no activity to increase the alert levels, Sudrajat said.

The increasing volcanic activity may have been caused by gases from the previous volcanic activity, that was blocked by stones, forcing the mount to release its trapped energy, Sudrajat said.

"I hope that is the case," he said.

Chicago Sinkhole Swallows Cars, Mother and Son Hospitalized

Heavy rain that swept through the Midwest and Great Lakes Monday night washed out a road in Kane County, west of Chicago. The 10-foot deep sinkhole formed on Thomas Road, which is in a rural area, according to Kane County's Facebook page. NBC Chicago reports two people, a 41-year-old woman and her 15-year-old son, had to be rescued from a Ford Taurus that fell into the hole just before 4 a.m. Tuesday. Both survived but were taken to the hospital. Kane County Sheriff's Office Lt. Pat Gengler told ABC 7 Chicago the road "had been completely washed out." More

Glenavy River: Almost 400 trout dead due to 'high severity' pollution

The NIEA said the fishkill was caused by a 'high severity' water pollution incident.

Almost 400 trout have died in what has been described as a "major fish kill" in a County Antrim river, the Northern Ireland Environment Agency (NIEA) has confirmed.

The incident at the Glenavy River was reported on Friday evening at about 17:00 BST.

The NIEA said it was due to a "high severity" water pollution incident.

They have launched an investigation into the pollution.

Environment Minister Mark H Durkan said: "I am concerned about this. I will be monitoring developments here closely along with NIEA officials."

Hundreds of dead fish are still littering the shores of one of Tyrone's most popular fishing lakes, horrifying anglers and passers-by.

Staff from the Department of Culture, Arts and Leisure (DCAL) have been removing the rotting bodies from Brantry Lough in plastic bags all week.

It is now estimated that the total number of dead fish, which are mostly stocked trout, will be in the region of 10,000.

Dead fish wash ashore in Nanakuli

Posted: Jul 03, 2014 8:40 PM MDT
Updated: Jul 03, 2014 10:19 PM MDT

By Chris Tanaka - bio | email

NANAKULI, OAHU (HawaiiNewsNow) - Hawaii News Now viewer Lawena Painter was on her morning walk along Nanakuli Beach when she saw them, scores of small dead fish littering the beach along the tide line.

"It was very, very disturbing. We were afraid at first, but we still went swimming. There was nothing in the water" she described.

The Department of Land and Natural Resources is aware of the occurrence, and has been investigating. It says the fish in question are juvenile gurnards.

"They're coming up on the shore with the currents, on the high tides they'll come in if the current is coming onshore, then they'll wash up in the tide line" said Aquatic Biologist Alton Miyasaka.

While the results of their pending investigation won't be available for two to three weeks, Miyasaka says this event is most likely a natural phenomenon, and not anything nefarious.

THREAT: Eurostar trains at London St Pancras where it is feared that the virus could be carried on [ALAMY]

A new outbreak of ebola is sweeping across countries in West Africa as authorities struggle to contain it.

It has already killed nearly 400 people who suffered multiple organ failure and haemorrhaging.

And it could spread to the UK if action is not taken to prevent it.

The disease is passed through bodily fluids such as blood, semen and sweat.

It starts with fever and fatigue before causing multiple organ failure and massive internal bleeding.

It is feared passengers flying into Paris might carry the disease and could bring it to the UK if they travel on to London using the Eurostar.

No vaccine: If the new strain of swine flu was released, it could kill up to a billion people

What was extraordinary about the great flu pandemic of 2018 was not only that it came exactly 100 years after the Spanish flu of 1918, but that it also killed 5 per cent of the world's population.

In 1918, that proportion meant some 100 million people. In 2018, nearly 400 million fell victim.

Of those, some one million were in Britain. Nearly every family lost a loved one, with children and the elderly being particularly vulnerable.

The NHS was unable to cope with the sheer numbers infected, which ran to around ten million — almost a sixth of the population.

RUSSIA LAUNCHES LARGE-SCALE NAVAL DRILL IN BLACK SEA SAME DAY AS NATO

by RT | JULY 5, 2014

Some 20 warships, over 20 airplanes and helicopters, as well as the marines and coast artillery are taking part in the Black Sea Fleet exercise, Russian Defense Ministry reported. The war games launched the same day as NATO's military drill in the area.

Starting from July 4, the scheduled training maneuvers are conducted in the whole of the Black Sea, the Ministry told journalists on Friday, adding the drill is being carried out according to international standards.

"The exercise plan involves performance of a number of combat training missions, including destruction of enemy naval forces at sea and organizing naval and coastal air defense," the Ministry explained.

Under command of Admiral Aleksandr Vitko, the Russian military of the Black Sea Fleet will also exercise in the search, detection and destruction of imaginary enemy submarines.

Coordinated actions between naval forces, coastal units and aviation are being practiced within the maneuvers.

ISIS Is Taking Over Iraq Using Captured American Weapons

By Michael Snyder, on July 2nd, 2014

ISIS is marching through city after city in Iraq, and they are doing it with American weapons. Thanks to a series of stunning victories in recent months, ISIS has captured a vast array of U.S. military equipment including trucks, Humvees, rockets, artillery pieces and Stinger missiles. When the U.S. was pulling out of Iraq, we were extremely generous to the new Iraqi army. We basically armed them to the teeth with equipment that U.S. taxpayers paid for. But now that the new Iraqi army is folding like a 20 dollar suit in the face of ISIS jihadists, vast quantities of that military equipment are falling into the hands of some of the most radical jihadists the world has ever seen. And considering the fact that ISIS also recently seized the equivalent of nearly $500 million in cash from a bank in Mosul, the leadership of ISIS won't be having much problem buying anything else that they might need either. ISIS is getting stronger with each passing day, and they are not going to be satisfied until the Iraqi government has been toppled. It is a geopolitical mess of epic proportions, and there don't seem to be any easy solutions on the horizon.

To say that the new Iraqi army has been incompetent would be a massive understatement. Not only have they run away like scared kittens from these jihadists, they have also left behind staggering amounts of weaponry for them. According to the Los Angeles Times, ISIS has captured "the weapons stores of the 2nd and 3rd [Iraqi army] divisions in Mosul, the 4th division in Salah al Din, the 12th division in the areas near Kirkuk, and another division in Diyala". And we aren't just talking about rifles and ammunition. We are talking about some pretty impressive hardware...

Iraq's Shiite-led government now has another thing to worry about: A 'Zero Hour' attack from inside the capital, which would be perpetrated by sleeper cells.

" There are so many sleeper cells in Baghdad," a high-level security official told Reuters on Thursday. " They will seize an area and won't let anyone take it back... In western Baghdad, they are ready and prepared."

The officer told the news agency that there are roughly 1,500 sleeper cell members inside Baghdad and another 1,000 just outside the capital.

" We are ready. It can come any minute," an alleged member of one such sleeper cell told Reuters. " We will have some surprises," he added. The news agency said that any time a stranger approached during its interview with the man he would hide his face with a baseball cap and stop talking.

WASHINGTON – The rise of the Islamic State, the former ISIS, has prompted Saudi Arabia to re-think its funding and arming of Sunni rebel groups in Syria, many of whom are now joining the Islamic State as it threatens to attack the Saudi kingdom.

Informed sources say that while Saudi Arabia will impose stricter, yet undefined, controls over the Sunni groups it supports to counter the Iranian-backed Shiite groups in Syria, its attention now has become more riveted on its own security.

As part of the new Saudi strategy, King Abdullah bin Abdulaziz appointed Prince Khalid bin Bandar as head of Saudi intelligence to replace Prince Bandar, who recently was relieved of his position. Prince Khalid previously was deputy minister of defense.

Israel ready to help Jordan fend off Iraq insurgents if asked

JERUSALEM
(Reuters) - Israel is ready to meet any Jordanian request to help fight off Islamist insurgents who have overrun part of neighboring Iraq, an Israeli official said on Friday, although he believed Jordan was capable of defending itself.

Jordan is one of two Arab countries - along with Egypt - to have full peace treaties with Israel and Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu on Sunday praised Amman's stability while echoing Western powers in pledging support to safeguard it.

Asked to elaborate on the statement, Strategic Affairs Minister Yuval Steinitz said potential Israeli assistance could include sending troops or arms, though he saw that as unlikely.

"We have an interest in ensuring that Jordan does not fall to, or be penetrated by, groups like al Qaeda or Hamas or ISIS," he told Reuters.

WASHINGTON – President Barack Obama and Secretary of State John Kerry have both released statements to celebrate the Islamic month of Ramadan, as the administration prepares for the annual Iftar dinner at the White House.

To commemorate the beginning of Ramadan, the White House released a statement from President Obama on Friday. In the statement, the President pays tribute to Muslims across the world and describes Ramadan as a “blessed month” and a “sacred time.”

“Here in the United States,” Obama wrote, “we are grateful to the many Muslim American organizations, individuals, and businesses that are devoted to creating opportunity for all by working to reduce income inequality and poverty, not only through their charitable efforts, but also through their initiatives to empower students, workers and families with the education, skills and health care they deserve.”

“At a moment when too many people around the world continue to suffer from senseless conflict and violence,” Obama continued, “this sacred time reminds us of our common obligations to pursue justice and peace and to uphold the dignity of every human being.”

▶ Likewise, Secretary of State John Kerry praised the Ramadan tradition in a statement released Friday, wishing Muslims “a peaceful Ramadan and joyful month.”

“Across the globe, Muslims will assemble and celebrate a rich tradition with fasting and prayer, as generations have done every year since the time of the Prophet Muhammad,” Kerry stated. “Here in America, Muslims will commemorate Ramadan in ways that reflect the great diversity of our country and the spirit of community that binds us together.”

“The diversity and patriotism of America’s religious communities are sources of strength for all of us, and our freedom to worship is a powerful reminder of the traditions we share,” Kerry added. “E Pluribus Unum—From Many, One. And from many faiths, we stand together in one shared country.”

ISIL militants storm church, kidnap priests in Iraqi Mosul

Sunni militants stormed a church in the northern Iraqi city of Mosul on Sunday and kidnapped two priests and a nun, witnesses said. Militants of the Islamic State in Iraq and the Levant (ISIL) jihadist group have in recent weeks seized large parts of northern and western Iraq, including Mosul, as well as a string of towns stretching south towards Baghdad.

According to Iraq's most senior Christian leader, Chaldean Catholic Patriarch Louis Raphael I Sako, there were about 1.2 million Christians living in Iraq before 2003. Today there are, at most, 500,000.

Two nuns and three orphans have been missing since Tuesday in militant-held areas of the northern province.

When we reached Sanjiang, in Zhejiang province, an elderly woman was angrily telling the pastor how at the end of April police dispersed members of her congregation and neighbouring ones who had come to protect their new Protestant church from being bulldozed. Several pastors were arrested and many detained, including those from the Sanjiang church – one of the officially sanctioned (and government controlled) "patriotic" churches. Many supporters were also arrested, including pastors from the underground house church movement. One, who asked to be referred to only as W, escaped the police raid by hiding in a nearby warehouse.

For years, during her evening walks, the woman had watched the construction work taking place on the massive church, which was just a few hundred metres along the main road from her house. When we were there in May, flashing lights warned us of the police roadblock that had

Evolutionists Infuriated by Creation Cartoon Shown in Public School

ATLANTA – A furor erupted recently at an Atlanta high school after a science instructor showed an illustration from Christian apologist Ken Ham to her students.

According to reports, Anquinette Jones of Henry W. Grady High School taught a freshman Biology class last spring. Using a 52-slide PowerPoint presentation, Jones introduced the theory of evolution to her students, as required by the Atlanta Public Schools science curriculum.

The PowerPoint presentation is primarily pro-evolution, asserting that evolutionary theory is supported by numerous scientific fields, including anatomy, embryology, and biochemistry.

“96% of the human genome is the same as the chimpanzees [sic] genome,” one slide emphasizes.

▶ Despite the PowerPoint’s seemingly pro-evolution message, many people were concerned by a single slide in the presentation which depicted evolution in a negative light. According to the high school’s student newspaper, the slide included an illustration of two dueling castles—one labeled “Evolution (Satan)” and the other labeled “Creation (Christ).”

Many people were outraged by the cartoon.

“I was offended, but more shocked and disturbed that a teacher in [Atlanta Public Schools] could get away with putting that in a classroom,” one student’s parent told the school newspaper. “Offended is probably the wrong word at this point; it is very troubling to me that a teacher who is in a position of influence over children in a public school can put something up [like the cartoon].”

Not only does the castle illustration mention creation and Christ, it also implies that a belief in evolution leads to numerous social ills, including divorce, racism, abortion, euthanasia, and homosexuality. These social issues are depicted as balloons sprouting from the evolution castle.

Bank Teller Claims She was Fired Over Telling Customers to 'Have a Blessed Day'

WALTON, Ky. – A bank teller in Kentucky has filed suit against her former employer after she claimed that she was fired for telling bank patrons to 'have a blessed day.'

Polly Neace says that she used the phrase on the job for two years, but in 2011, she received a Code of Ethics violation notice from U.S. Bank in Walton, asserting that several customers had lodged a complaint. Neace says that she had never personally heard anyone complain about her well-wishes.

"I say 'Have a blessed day' all of the time," she told local television station Fox 19. "I don't think there's any better kind of day you can have than a blessed day."

The warning Neace received also claimed that the teller had asked a customer, "Did you take the Lord's name in vain?" and that she urged the individual to find salvation in Christ. Neace denies the allegation.

"While you are entitled to your beliefs and we support that, you may not proselytize those beliefs in the workplace," the written warning read. "Effective immediately, you will no longer discuss the subject of faith or religion with customers or co-workers. Religious items must be removed from the teller line where [they] can be seen by customers."

Neace told reporters that the following year she was again reprimanded for saying "God bless you" to a client.

"A customer went through the drive thru and I waited on them," she explained. She said, 'God bless you.' I said, 'Thank you. God bless you, too.'"

On several occasions, the teller complained to her employer as she believed that she was being targeted for her faith. Shortly after the 2012 incident, in expressing concern about another matter, she commented that she "might as well go ahead and tell customers [to] have a blessed day." She was fired the following day.

Neace is now suing U.S. Bank for religious discrimination.

"The public policy of the Common Law of Kentucky ... prohibits an employer from discriminating against a person on the basis of his or her religion and, further, protects the employee from retaliation for complaining about discrimination on the basis of his or her religion," the lawsuit states. A federal judge has struck down Kentucky's ban on same-sex marriage, ruling that gay couples have the right to marry in the Bluegrass State.

"In America, even sincere and long-held religious beliefs do not trump the constitutional rights of those who happen to have been out-voted," U.S. District Judge John G. Heyburn II wrote in the ruling, which concluded that the state's ban violated the U.S. Constitution's equal protection clause.

The judge stayed the ruling pending an appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 6th Circuit, meaning same-sex weddings are not yet allowed in the state. However, Heyburn criticized Kentucky Gov. Steve Beshear (D) for arguing that the ban preserves the state's birth rate and therefore contributes to Kentucky's economic stability.

"These arguments are not those of serious people," Heyburn wrote.

Beshear plans to appeal Tuesday's ruling.

Earlier this year, Heyburn ruled that the state must recognize same-sex marriages performed in states where the weddings are legal. That decision is also temporarily on hold pending legal challenges.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. – A federal judge appointed by former president George W. Bush rejected Kentucky's ban on 'same-sex marriage,' declaring that the U.S. Constitution is the final authority on marriage, not its author, God.

U.S. District Judge John G. Heyburn II ruled Tuesday against Kentucky's constitutional amendment that sought to protect marriage as being between one man and one woman and banned so-called marriage between members of the same-sex.

The preamble of Kentucky's state constitution written in 1891 states, "We, the people of the Commonwealth of Kentucky are grateful to Almighty God for the civil, political and religious liberties we enjoy, and invoking the continuance of these blessings, do ordain and establish this Constitution."

Voters in 2004 passed a referendum to protect the biblical definition of marriage within the state.

"Only a marriage between one man and one woman shall be valid or recognized as a marriage in Kentucky. A legal status identical or substantially similar to that of marriage for unmarried individuals shall not be valid or recognized," reads Kentucky Constitutional Amendment 1 of 2004, which was overwhelming approved by 75% of voters.

In his decision, Heyburn took a shot at those who hold to the historical and biblical belief that marriage comes from and is defined by God and those who voted for the amendment, expressing that such beliefs do not rise above the equal protection clause of the U.S. Constitution.

"In America, even sincere and long-held religious beliefs do not trump the constitutional rights of those who happen to have been out-voted," Heyburn declared in his ruling.

Heyburn also criticized Kentucky Gov. Steve Beshear (D) for arguing that the ban preserves the state's birth rate, and therefore contributes to the economic stability of Kentucky.

U.S. diplomats take part in gay pride parades

Gay pride marches this past weekend spotlighted the effort by the Obama administration to elevate homosexuality and use it as a political weapon.

Diplomats reportedly took part in gay pride parades and embassies flew the rainbow flag along with the official flag of the United States government.

"President Barack Obama has taken the U.S. gay rights revolution global, using American embassies across the world to promote a cause that still divides his own country," the Associated Press reported on Saturday.

It was the "Obama administration that launched the push to make lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender rights an international issue," the AP notes.

The United States sent five openly gay ambassadors abroad last year, with a sixth nominee, to Vietnam, now awaiting Senate confirmation. American diplomats are working to support gay rights in countries such as Poland, where prejudice remains deep, and to oppose violence and other abuse in countries like Nigeria and Russia, where gays face life-threatening risks.

Burger King has concocted yet another way to have it your way: a gay pride burger.

The Proud Whopper, as it's called, comes wrapped in a rainbow colored wrapper with this inscription: "We are all the same inside." It will be sold through Thursday at one Burger King restaurant on San Francisco's Market Street, that was at the heart of the route for last weekend's 44th annual San Francisco Pride Celebration & Parade.

Burger King on Wednesday morning at 8 a.m. EST plans to post a two-minute video about the Proud Whopper on its YouTube channel.

"It showcases who we are as a brand," says Fernando Machado, senior vice president of global brand management at Burger King. "It shows how we, as a brand, believe in self-expression."

The inspiration behind the unusual burger wrap and video, he says, is Burger King's localized efforts to put into motion actions that support its recently-tweaked slogan: "Be Your Way."

The move also demonstrates BK's desire to stay connected to its base of Millennial customers. Gay rights is an issue that reverberates strongly with many Millennials both inside and outside the U.S. Burger King also was a sponsor of San Francisco's gay pride parade. Machado says that's the first time Burger King has sponsored a gay pride parade in the U.S., though it may have sponsored some outside the country.

The downtown San Francisco Burger King sold "Proud Whoppers" last weekend, during the parade and also passed out some 50,000 rainbow Burger King crowns, that were worn by parade participants and spectators. The video, created by the Miami office of Burger King's ad agency David, captures customers discussing whether or not (CNSNews.com) – At an event to celebrate the “pride” of gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender people at the White House on Monday, President Barack Obama credited a homosexual professor who “helped shaped” his thinking on the LGBT rights agenda.

“I just wanted to acknowledge him, because he helped shape how I think about so many of these issues, and those sort of quiet heroes that sometimes don’t get acknowledged,” Obama said of Lawrence Goldyn, one of his college professors at Occidental College.

Vancouver Schools' New LGBTQ+ Policy Includes Gender-Free Pronouns Xe, Xem and Xyr

(CNSNews.com) – The Vancouver (British Columbia) Board of Education has approved a sweeping new policy for accommodating lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, two-spirit, queer, questioning and “all sexual and gender identities,” including the creation of three pronouns, replacing masculine and feminine with xe, xem and xyr (pronounced ze, zem and zur).

Two spirit is an Aboriginal term which means having both feminine and masculine spirits. It's not limited to gender expression or sexuality, but encompasses them both while incorporating a spiritual element. It's a standalone identity, not an Aboriginal term for gay lesbian.

A second source has confirmed that JP Morgan Chase has asked each of its employees whether they are “an ally of the LGBT community,” which employees have taken as a veiled threat.

Each year JP Morgan Chase sends its employees a survey asking questions related to management and other non-controversial issues. A longtime Chase employee told Professor Robert George of Princeton that the survey this year included the following questions for the first time:

Are you:

- 1) A person with disabilities;
- 2) A person with children with disabilities;
- 3) A person with a spouse/domestic partner with disabilities;
- 4) A member of the LGBT community.
- 5) An ally of the LGBT community, but not personally identifying as LGBT.

This employee was alarmed to receive the final question. If he answered no, he feared, he would be opened up to criticism that may affect his employment. Only a few months ago Brendan Eich was hounded out of the CEO role at Mozilla for not supporting LGBT marriage.

The employee told Professor George he fears for his job:

This survey wasn't anonymous. You had to enter your employee ID. With the way things are going and the fact that LGBT rights are being viewed as pretty much tantamount to the civil rights movement of the mid 50s to late 60s, not selecting that option is essentially saying "I'm not an ally of civil rights;" which is a vague way to say "I'm a bigot." The worry among many of us is that those who didn't select that poorly placed, irrelevant option will be placed on the "you can fire these people first" list.

The government officials there claimed a decision by the bakery to refuse to create the cake amounted to discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation – even though homosexual "marriage" is not legal in Northern Ireland.

(CNSNews.com) - The number of Americans 16 and older who did not participate in the labor force climbed to a record high of 92,120,000 in June, according to data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS).

This means that there were 92,120,000 Americans 16 and older who not only did not have a job, but did not actively seek one in the last four weeks.

That is up 111,000 from the 92,009,000 Americans who were not participating in the labor force in April.

In June, according to BLS, the labor force participation rate for Americans was 62.8 percent, matching a 36-year low. The participation rate is the percentage of the population that either has a job or actively sought one in the last four weeks.

Before the crucial visit to Beijing next week, the governor of the Russian Central Bank, Elvira Nabiullina met Vladimir Putin to report on the progress of the upcoming ruble-yuan swap deal with the People's Bank of China and the Kremlin used the meeting to let the world know about the technical details of its international anti-dollar alliance.

On June 10th, Sergey Glaziev, Putin's economy advisor published an article outlining the need to establish an international alliance of countries willing to get rid of the dollar in international trade and refrain from using dollars in their currency reserves. The ultimate goal would be to break the Washington's money printing machine that is feeding its military-industrial complex and giving the US ample possibilities to spread chaos across the globe, fueling the civil wars in Libya, Iraq, Syria and Ukraine. Glaziev's critics believe that such an alliance would be difficult to establish and that creating a non-dollar-based global financial system would be extremely China designated a clearing bank in Seoul for yuan transactions in South Korea on Friday, coinciding with a visit by President Xi Jinping, as Beijing promotes greater use of its currency overseas, AFP reports.

China's central bank has authorised the Bank of Communications, the country's fifth largest lender, to undertake yuan clearing business in the South Korean capital, the People's Bank of China (PBoC) said in a statement.

The announcement came as Chinese President Xi Jinping wrapped up a state visit to South Korea on Friday. China is seeking to make the yuan - also known as the renminbi - used more internationally in keeping with the country's status as the world's second biggest economy behind the United States.

18 Signs That The Global Economic Crisis Is Accelerating As We Enter The Last Half Of 2014

By Michael Snyder, on June 30th, 2014

A lot of people that I talk to these days want to know "when things are going to start happening". Well, there are certainly some perilous times on the horizon, but all you have to do is open up your eyes and look to see the global economic crisis unfolding. As you will see below, even central bankers are issuing frightening warnings about

"dangerous new asset bubbles" and even the World Bank is declaring that "now is the time to prepare" for the next crisis. Most Americans tend to only care about what is happening in the United States, but the truth is that serious economic trouble is erupting in South America, all across Europe and in Asian powerhouses such as China and Japan. And the endless conflicts in the Middle East could erupt into a major regional war at just about any time. We live in a world that is becoming increasingly unstable, and people need to understand that the period of relative stability that we are enjoying right now is extremely vulnerable and will not last long. The following are 18 signs that the global economic crisis is accelerating as we enter the last half of 2014...

#1 The Bank for International Settlements has issued a new report which warns that "dangerous new asset bubbles" are forming which could potentially lead to another major financial crisis. Do the central bankers know something that we don't, or are they just trying to place the blame on someone else for the giant mess that they have created?

#2 Argentina has missed a \$539 million debt payment and is on the verge of its second major debt default in 13 years.

We're hardly ever fast to wake up to what might be going on with our data. But once in a while, we're suddenly roused and make a noise.

Such has been the case with the revelations surrounding Facebook's manipulation of the News Feeds of almost 700,000 people in order to see if it would make them happier or sadder, depending on the content presented.

Now, a former member of Facebook's Data Science team has revealed that, for much of its existence since 2007, the team operated with seemingly little supervision.

Andrew Ledvina, who was on Facebook's team from February 2012 to July 2013, told the Wall Street Journal: "There's no review process, per se. Anyone on that team could run a test. They're always trying to alter people's behavior."

This, if true, might make for a profound surprise to those who somehow believed their data was, indeed, their data.

Ledvina suggested that tests were conducted with such regularity that some scientists worried that the same people's data was being analyzed more than once.

Since the controversial study on human emotions, Facebook has reportedly stiffened its procedures. However, since 2007, the Data Science team has reportedly run hundreds of experiments without users' consent or even knowledge.

In 2012, the company created a 50-person panel of experts in areas such as data security and privacy. (The company won't release the names of these experts.) From the beginning of this year, members of this panel have reviewed all research beyond standard product testing.

A Facebook spokesperson said: "We are taking a very hard look at this process to make more improvements."

U.S. Soccer Team Tracks Movement to Prevent Onset of Injury

By Sonali Basak | Jul 1, 2014 8:21 AM MT 68 Comments Email Print

When the U.S. Men's National Team runs onto the field today in an elimination World Cup match against Belgium, doctors will track their every footstep, leap and dribble.

Using matchbox-sized GPS tracking devices, team physician George Chiampas can follow his players' every move to help keep injuries at bay -- especially those that could keep his best out of the tournament.

The technology helps measure the distances his players run as well as their workload over time.

"That's just one example of the data we use," said Chiampas, who oversees one of the world's best-conditioned teams. "We have a pool of physicians and sports administrative staff that look at that data. It's something moving forward as technologies improve and you have access to those sorts of things."

"I am most proud that FIFA understood the value of medicine, that they support all the activity at least for the doctors," Dvorak said. For this, "prevention is the bed crown."
