والعلامات حتى 19 أغسطس 2014

Holy_bible_1

اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأيضاً أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد حدثت مثل ابن الهلاك وحرب هرمجدون وظهور

الشاهدين وحزقيال 38 وغيره ولا نعرف متى ولكن أشعر انها اقتربت.

بدأت تحدث بوضوح ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. فلا نعرف هل المسيح سيأتي في سنة ام سبع سنين ام

سبعين سنة أم أكثر فكرر لا احدد مواعيد وارفض من يحددون ولكن نذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان

عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى

نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نشمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في

مصايحنا لان الظلمة والضيقة اقتربت جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذاري انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه سابقا. فأكرر لا نحدد المواعيد ولكن أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم ياتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

Mysterious Shifting Lights Observed Near Huge Black Hole

A NASA spacecraft has spotted strange light shifts near the heart of a supermassive black hole that could help scientists better understand the inner workings of these monstrous objects.

The agency's Nuclear Spectroscopic Telescope Arrayprobe, or NuSTAR, looked on as a mysterious X-ray source, called a corona, moved closer to a supermassive black hole. The black hole's immense gravity pulled harder on the corona the closer it came, stretching and blurring the X-ray light in the process, researchers said.

BRAZIL'S BIGGEST CITY FACES RATIONING AMID DROUGHT

BY ADRIANA GOMEZ LICON

SAO PAULO (AP) -- Brazil's biggest city is running out of water and options.

The worst drought to hit the Sao Paulo region in 84 years is forcing local authorities for the second time in a year to put water pumps below the gates of the main reservoir, where the level has dropped sharply, so water can flow to the city's 9 million people.

Federal prosecutors are also demanding that state officials immediately present a plan for water rationing, warning that otherwise the reservoir could go dry.

STORY HIGHLIGHTS

(CNN) -- A powerful earthquake struck early Monday in western Iran, injuring at least 250 people in a region near the border with Iraq.

Local authorities said they fear the quake may have caused widespread destruction in rural areas.

The 6.2-magnitude earthquake hit at a depth of around 10 kilometers (6 miles) in an area 36 kilometers southeast of the Iranian city of Abadan, the U.S. Geological Survey said. It was followed by a series of aftershocks.

The quake injured at least 250 people in the province of Ilam, Iran's official news agency IRNA reported, citing local disaster management authorities. The tremors cut off water, electricity and phone lines in Abadan.

There were no immediate reports of any deaths.

Ilam Governor Majid Asghari told IRNA that authorities expected to find severe destruction in rural areas close to the epicenter, which was roughly 40 kilometers from the Iraqi border and not far from Iranian oil exploration and production facilities.

Bárðarbunga volcano (Iceland) shaken by hundreds of earthquakes

An intense earthquake swarm started yesterday under Bárðarbunga volcano, located under the northwestern part of the Vatnajökull ice cap. It is continuing at the moment and accompanied by elevated harmonic tremor. This might indicate a sub-glacial eruption at the volcano, but this needs yet to be confirmed. The last eruption of Bárðarbunga volcano was in 1797, while another eruption in 1910 took place at neighboring Hamarinn volcano. - Extinction

Hundreds of dead fish are showing up in a southwest metro lake.

According to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, researchers from the University of Minnesota Extension took samples of water and fish at Lake Bavaria in Chaska.

The DNR says the water quality is fine, and all the fish that have died are black crappies.

All have damage around their gills and in their livers, which is a possible sign of bacteria, according to the DNR.

It'll take a few more weeks to determine if a virus is responsible for killing off the fish.

The DNR says about 100,000 to 200,000 black crappies live in Lake Bavaria.

Jurien Bay residents call for action as rotting fish drive tourists away; claim it is 'like having a dump near Uluru'

By Gian De Poloni
Updated Mon at 4:13pm

Hundreds of rotting dead fish and crabs washing up on a beach in Western Australia's Mid West are sending tourists away in droves and causing local businesses to suffer.

Residents of Jurien Bay, two hours north of Perth, are fed up and are looking to the State Government for answers.

For the past 14 years, rotting seaweed has infested the town's harbour, being pushed in by winter storms and depriving the water of oxygen, resulting in large scale fish kills.

One of the biggest kills was in November 2013, when thousands of fish were found floating dead in the water or decomposing on the shore.

Despite years of remediation works, the beach had to be closed last week after another influx of dead marine life.

Ian Stiles from the Jurien Bay Marina Action Group says the smell is unbearable and is deterring tourists from visiting the town's popular reef marine park.

Dead anchovies in Foster City's lagoon: Natural occurrence blamed on fish depleting necessary oxygen supply

August 14, 2014, 05:00 AM By Samantha Weigel Daily Journal

 Like 18

Visitors and residents near Foster City's Gull and Marlin parks may have witnessed a natural phenomenon last weekend as thousands of anchovies died and washed ashore on the lagoon's beaches because their sheer volume depleted the oxygen they needed.

Once city officials noticed the dead fish washing ashore and in the lagoon, which is fed by the Bay, they immediately began to test the water and have since cleaned most of them up, said Public Works Superintendent Mike McElligott. The quality of the water was safe, however, it did show it was depleted of more oxygen than usual, McElligott said.

Although the event was unusual for Foster City and hasn't happened in at least the 10 years McElligott said he's worked for the city, there is a biological explanation for it.

"This particular incident has not happened. But we have had fish die off about five or six years ago due to a red tide," McElligott said. "We tested (the lagoon) for dissolved oxygen, it was low in those areas and I didn't realize what was going on until I called the National Marine Fisheries Service."

Sometimes anchovies school so close together or get stuck in a narrow water body that over a period of time they deplete the water of oxygen and consequently suffocate, said Steve Miller, administrative officer for the Fisheries Ecology division in Santa Cruz, a sub-branch of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Incidents such as this are uncommon, but the Santa Cruz Harbor experienced a similar and larger anchovy event when millions died around July 31, Miller said. The harbor is narrow and increased sightings of whales and seagulls can be an indicator that anchovies are nearby, Miller said.

"The anchovies had been along the coast for several months and that's what brought the whales in and there's been huge swarms of seagulls, Miller said. "It probably took a week for them (anchovies) to accumulate, then they get trapped and then the water gets inhaled and goes through their gills. And that's what gills do, it filters oxygen out of the water so they basically suffocate."

McElligott said the city wasn't aware that there were specifically anchovies in the lagoon and it can be hard to tell.

"We don't do a check to see what kind of fish are in there, but since we let water in from the Bay, we don't know what sea creatures are getting in," McElligott said. "With the water the way it is, it's murky because it's brackish like the Bay. ... Also, we dye the lagoon a blue color and the reason for dyeing it is not just to have it look pretty, it's to prevent algae and subsurface grass from growing so we don't have to kill it with chemicals."

Since the anchovies appeared, the city has cleared them from the beaches and it's likely those that hadn't washed ashore have

The emergence of a large number of dead fish in the Great Swamp, mostly small sizes and fingerlings have worried fishermen village of Sevillano, rural area Cienaga, Magdalena. Ecological and environmental emergency, they say, is caused by lack of oxygen in the pond and sedimentation of streams.

The lack of oxygen causes the death of thousands of fish along the Salinas de Santa Pola

ALBERT RIVERA | ELCHE

The poor water of lagoons perimeter of the Natural Park of the Salinas de Santa Pola has killed thousands of fish in recent days. The intense heat and increased evaporation, together with the lack of rain has triggered wetlands lose oxygen necessary for fish life growing up in the area.

The dead specimens representing over 30,000 kilos of fish, mostly mullet, and other also typical of wetlands as sea bass, eel and carp species. This property only Agrícola Pantanet, responsible for economic use about three million square meters included in the Natural Park, which is far economic loss of 200,000 euros. The land that encompasses the Santa Fe Swamp, as well as the place is called, about 90% belongs to the municipality of Santa Pola, while the rest of the wetland is in Elche.

Since the company Pantanet say that while they can not replace the water found in the minimum flows, "fish kills will occur" and can double the economic losses of the company. " They add, "could be affected tourist operations carried out in the area." In this sense Moses Serrano, responsible for the direction of the Santa Fe Swamp, highlights the tourist and environmental work of the company in addition to raising and selling of different fish, the presence at the International Tourism Fair (Fitur) and different packages of guided tours that take place in the area of the wetland as part of the Parque de Las Salinas.

Thousands of dead fish are blanketing the Belle River near Lake St. Clair.

Fish began floating to the surface near the island between West Belle River Road and Lalonde Street, near Belle River High School.

The Essex Region Conservation Authority suspects storm runoff, including sewage that bypassed treatment, from Monday's record rainfall is to blame.

ERCA conducts water sampling on Wednesday's along the Belle River, but results from this week are not back, yet.

Lakeshore Mayor Tom Bain and ERCA both started receiving calls Thursday night.

By Friday, thousands of fish could be seen floating on the river.

Mussel growers in western France have called for emergency state aid as they face an "unprecedented" squeeze following a 90-per-cent plunge in production of the shellfish blamed on bad weather and pollution.

Marine mystery disease along Pacific Coast baffles scientists

Sea stars up and down the Pacific Coast are dying off in record numbers, and scientists say they can't figure out what's going on. Reports indicate that in some areas of Washington State, for instance, upwards of 80 percent of the sea star population has vanished, while other areas are reporting strange phenomena like sea star limbs falling off and literally walking away on their own — what one marine group coordinator likened to "an alien thing." For the past several years, students, environmentalists, and even ordinary citizens have noticed a drastic increase in the number of gravely ill or dead sea stars littering the West Coast. One group that monitors sea life around Island County, Washington, says sea stars are increasingly succumbing to a mystery disease that some have dubbed "star wasting" syndrome that, when it runs its full course, causes sea stars to disintegrate. The incoming tide has already claimed lives of thousands of fish in the Gulf of Mexico and it is now reported to be closing in on the coast. The Red tide bloom is expected to wash ashore striking the mainland in around two weeks.

According to the Florida Fish and Wildlife Commission, the bloom is spread about 80 miles in length and approx 50 miles in width in Gulf of Mexico but presently the tide is from 40 to 90 miles offshore.

- WHO panel: It is ethical to offer unproven medication to try to fight Ebola
- Pair who took an experimental drug appear to be improving, but one man who took it died

(CNN) -- The first two doses of an experimental serum created to treat Ebola went to American missionaries.

Then the drug was sent to treat a Spanish priest.

The two Americans, Dr. Kent Brantly and Nancy Writebol, appear to be recovering. The priest, Miguel Pajares, died Tuesday morning.

That's the problem with experimental drugs that have never been clinically tested in humans: No one knows whether they'll work -- and if they do, in whom.

AP

The World Health Organization says the death toll in the Ebola outbreak in West Africa has passed 1,000.

The U.N. health agency said in a news release Monday that 1,013 people have died in the outbreak, which has hit Guinea, Liberia, Sierra Leone and possibly Nigeria.

Authorities have recorded 1,848 suspected, probable or confirmed cases of the disease, which causes a high fever, vomiting and bleeding. The outbreak was first identified in March in Guinea, but it likely started months earlier.

The updated WHO tally includes figures from Aug. 7-9 when 52 more people died and 69 more were infected.

Ebola is highly lethal and there is no licensed vaccine or treatment for the disease, but so far three people infected have received an experimental drug.

Defenseless: Outrage in Nigeria as government fires 16,000 doctors on strike despite Ebola crisis – death toll hits 1,145

Posted on August 16, 2014

August 2014 – AFRICA – The death toll from the worst ever Ebola outbreak has risen to 1,145, the World Health Organization said on Friday, as 76 more cases were reported from August 11 to August 13, 2014. The U.N. health agency said that a total of 152 confirmed, probable, and suspected cases of the deadly hemorrhagic fever were reported from countries in West Africa, bringing the total number of cases up to 2127.

Nigeria defenseless- A death sentence? The growing spread of the Ebola virus in Nigeria remains serious enough to keep the nation in an official state of emergency, with thousands concerned that the virus will spread like it has in other West African nations. In what many are calling a massive failure of optics, however, the Nigerian government has chosen to fire up to 16,000 doctors due to an unrelated medical employee strike. In a memorandum to the Nigerian Health Ministry, the Permanent Secretary for Federal Ministry of Health L.N. Awute announced that Nigeria would suspend its medical residency program and terminate the jobs of the resident doctors. The order, which cites President Goodluck Jonathan as its unilateral source, also "asked the management of all public hospitals to take necessary measures to restore full medical services in the hospitals, even without the resident doctors." The termination follows a month of strikes by doctors of the Nigerian Medical Association, who began striking on July 1st, demanding better

A member of the West African regional body Ecowas has become the third person in Nigeria to die of Ebola fever, Ecowas said on Wednesday.

Jatto Asihu Abdulqudir, 36, a protocol assistant, was travelling to an Ecowas function with Liberian Patrick Sawyer, the man who brought Ebola to Nigeria last month. Abdulqudir had been under quarantine. The country has reported eight cases of Ebola since Sawyer arrived on July 20.

Ebola in Ghana? Two Liberians show signs of Ebola infection in Kasoa

Posted on August 14, 2014

August 2014 – AFRICA – It is yet to be confirmed whether the deadly Ebola Viral Disease has found its way into Ghana but reports reaching Peace FM indicates that two persons, currently admitted at the Kasoa Poly Clinic, have shown signs of it. The two, according to Peace FM's Central Regional correspondent, Seth Mantey are from Liberia and have been residing at the Kasoa Buduburam refugee camp with their families. He was informed by Dr. Mills, the head of the Kasoa Polyclinic that following the signs he has seen the patients display, he wouldn't be surprised if turned out to be the Ebola viral disease. According to Seth Mantey, aside the pain he saw the patients displayed, blood was also oozing from their eyes and ears. "When they coughed, you could also see blood in it. Doctor Mills revealed to us that he has called on authorities to come and take samples of blood to give a proper account."

Seth Mantey disclosed that the Kasoa Polyclinic which is situated at the Awutu Senya District has also recorded seventy one (71) cases of cholera cases. One person is reported to have died as a result. However, with the challenges associated with the fight against the deadly Ebola Viral Disease, Peacefmonline.com would like to urge all especially government to put in safeguard measures to prevent its spread as Ghana serves as the home for most asylum seekers within Africa. -PFO

New mosquito-borne virus now in Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, LA (WVUE) - A new mosquito-borne virus has made its way to Louisiana.

DHH confirms 13 new cases of West Nile this week

This Louisiana Department of Health and Hospitals confirmed 13 new cases of West Nile virus this week, bringing this year's total to 42 reported cases.

This week's new infections include three neuroinvasive disease cases in Caddo Parish, and one each in East Baton Rouge and Livingston parishes. There were also four new cases of West Nile fever reported in Chikungunya fever, which has been recognized in Asia and Africa for more than 60 years, was seen for the first time in the Western Hemisphere last December when it showed up in the Caribbean, said LSU AgCenter entomologist Kristen Healy.

"We know of eight cases of chikungunya fever so far in the state of Louisiana," Healy said. "There has been one case in Grant Parish, three cases in Jefferson, three in Orleans and one in Tangipahoa."

The disease is unlikely to be fatal, but it is possible, she said. "This is especially true in the elderly, those who are seriously ill and newborns of infected mothers."

There is no antiviral treatment available for chikungunya.

"Really, all that we can do right now is provide some relief for the symptoms," Healy said.

The most common symptoms, according to the CDC, are fever and joint pain. Other symptoms may include headache, muscle pain, joint swelling, or rash.

China Continuing to Weaponize Space with Latest Anti-Satellite Missile Shot

China last month conducted another test of a satellite-killing missile that reflects Chinese efforts to weaponize space, the commander of the U.S. Strategic Command said Wednesday. "It's very problematic to see China working to weaponize space in tests like this one they just had, and so [it's] very concerning to me as the U.S. Strategic Command commander, and to our nation at large, given our dependency on that capability," said Adm. Cecil D. Haney, Strategic Command chief. Haney, speaking to reporters after remarks to a Stratcom-sponsored conference on nuclear deterrence, also voiced worries about the recent increase in Russian strategic nuclear bomber incursions into U.S. air defense identification zones near Alaska and close to U.S. territory. "I will say that the business of them coming close to the United States of America, we take very seriously," said the four-star admiral who is in charge of U.S. nuclear warfighting forces. The blunt comments about Chinese weaponization of space are unusual and followed the July 23 test of what U.S. officials said was China's low-earth orbit DN-1 anti-satellite interceptor.

It was the latest ASAT test by China that both Pentagon and State Department spokesmen described as a "non-destructive" prototype. China, for its part, did not identify the July 23 test as an ASAT weapon. Instead, China said it involved a missile defense system. The Chinese Defense Ministry dubbed the test "a land-based anti-missile technology experiment." Frank Rose, deputy assistant

North Korea fires rockets as Pope Francis' arrives in South Korea on first Asia trip

Updated 14 Aug 2014, 11:14pm

North Korea fired three short-range rockets into the Sea of Japan just before Pope Francis arrived in Seoul on his first visit to Asia.

The Pope will spend five days in South Korea, meeting some of the country's five million Catholics on the first papal trip to the country in 25 years.

The last rocket was fired 35 minutes before Pope Francis was due to touch down.

"North Korea fired three short-range projectiles into the East Sea (Sea of Japan)," a South Korean defence ministry spokesman said.

Pope Francis is expected to send a message of peace to Pyongyang when he conducts a special inter-Korean "reconciliation" mass in Seoul on the last day of his visit.

Church officials in the South had sent several requests to Pyongyang to send a group of Catholics to attend the event, but the North declined the offer, citing its anger at upcoming South Korea-US military drills.

The Catholic Church, like any other religion, is only allowed to operate in North Korea under extremely tight restrictions, and within the confines of the state-controlled Korean Catholics Association.

It has no hierarchical links with the Vatican and there are no known Catholic priests or nuns.

The European Centre for Law and Justice (ECLJ), the international affiliate of the American Center for Law and Justice (ACLJ), on Monday blasted the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) for biased comments accusing Israel of war crimes in its effort to defend its civilian population from attacks by Hamas terrorists while failing to acknowledge the deadly terrorist tactics used by Hamas that clearly violate international law.

"While insinuating that Israel is committing war crimes as it protects its civilian population under attack by Hamas terrorists, the Red Cross is turning a blind eye to the deadly terrorist tactics used by Hamas—using its own population as human shields—in clearly violation of international law,"

A new report reveals that US President Barack Obama's administration stopped a shipment of missiles to Israel late last month and tightened weapons shipment procedures to Israel, as tensions between the two nations grow amid Operation Protective Edge.

The report in the Wall Street Journal, released Wednesday night, cites US officials in Obama's administration, who say they discovered Israel had requested a large number of Hellfire missiles directly through military-to-military channels. An initial batch of the missiles was about to be shipped, according to sources in Israel and the US Congress.

At that point, the Pentagon stepped in and put the transfer on hold. Further, top White House officials instructed various US military agencies to consult with the US State Department before approving any additional requests from Israel.

A senior Obama administration official was quoted in the report as saying the transfer shouldn't have been a routine "check-the-box approval," given Israel's defensive operation in Gaza against Hamas, which is recognized as a terrorist organization by the US.

UK threatens to Ban Arms trade with Israel

Britain issued Israel an ultimatum whereby it would suspend the sales of munitions to the Jewish state by British companies should the hostilities with the Gaza-based militant group Hamas resume once the current 72 hour-long ceasefire expires. The statement comes several days after Prime Minister David Cameron's office said it is reviewing licences to sell arms and military goods to Israel in the light of ongoing operations in Gaza. Britain's government has approved licences for the sale of military goods to Israel worth at least £42 million ($71 million, 53 million euros) since 2010, according to government figures obtained by the Campaign Against Arms Trade (CAAT). These are mostly to supply weapons control and targeting systems and components for ammunition, drones and armoured vehicles. "We are currently reviewing all export licences to Israel to confirm that we think they are appropriate," said a Downing Street spokeswoman on Monday. More

ISIS-branded Hoodies and T-shirts for sale in response to growing demand

In Turkey, it's never easy to arrange interviews. This is especially true in Istanbul, where life is saddled by traffic and the near-constant movement of the city's roughly 18 million inhabitants. Still, tracking down the owner of a shop selling branded merchandise celebrating the world's most currently infamous terrorist group proved to be a particularly tall order... The shop would barely perk the interest of an unconcerned passerby if it weren't for a prominent rack of men's clothing ranging from T-shirts to sweatshirts to cargo pants placed directly in front of a main display window featuring the logo of the Islamic State of Iraq and Al-Sham, or ISIS. The Sunni extremist group has captured the world's attention in the past two months thanks to its rapid territorial gains in Iraq and the brutal brand of Shariah law it enforces in towns it has captured. Up to 80 Yazidis have been reported killed by Isis (Islamic State) fighters in the biggest massacre so far of the Iraqi minority.

Kurdish and Yazidi sources reported that dozens of people in Kocho village, about 25km from Sinjar city, had been summarily executed after refusing to convert to Islam.

As the men were rounded up and shot, several hundred women and children were reportedly taken hostage.

Islamic State militants threaten Turkey with violence if Euphrates water supply not restored

Islamic State militants have directly threatened Turkey with violence as they swore to "liberate" Istanbul in order to reopen a dam on the Euphrates River. Water flow to parts of Syria and Iraq is at a record low.

The apparent closure is especially unfavorable to the terrorist group, as its new 'capital' Raqqa, in northern Syria, is in that zone. This is creating a humanitarian catastrophe as water levels plummet in nearby Lake Assad.

In a new Vice documentary episode on the IS militia, one member warns that if the Turkish government doesn't open the Euphrates Dam back up, the group will do it for them by "liberating" Istanbul.

The Iraqi children 'drinking their parents' BLOOD to stay alive'

Children trapped on a mountain by Islamic State militants in Iraq are drinking blood from their parents to stay alive, it emerged today. Their horrendous plight was revealed after some 8,000 Yazidis were finally able to escape down Mount Sinjar where they have been under siege from jihadist fighters for the last week. Those fleeing have made it to relative safety at a camp in Dohuk Province in Kurdistan, where they have told horrific stories of the 30,000 who have been left behind. Sky

News correspondent Sherine Tadros, who is at the camp, said: 'One man has just told us how he saw four children die of thirst. 'There was nowhere to bury them on the mountain so they just put rocks on their bodies. 'Another man was saying the children were so thirsty, their parents started cutting their own hands and giving them blood to drink.' Hundreds of other families have also made it across the border after trekking for hundreds of kilometres through sweltering temperatures to safety. They are being given food, water and medical treatment at shelters in Turkey and Syria after being driven out of their town by ISIS more than a week ago.

Some have been forced to pay smugglers their life savings to take them on perilous journeys across the border into Turkey, sometimes through minefields. They are among several gruelling treks to freedom the community has taken after they were sent scattering to the four corners by the insurgency, which has trapped around 30,000 others on Sinjar Mountain with no food or water. Around 2,000 Yazidis have made it to a refugee camp in Derabon, a small village near Zakho on the Iraqi Kurdistan-Turkey border. But with no passports, many are having to sit tight and hope the

UK STORES TO IMPLEMENT 'TRACKING MANNEQUINS'

"When the customer walks past visual merchandising equipment... an alert is triggered"

Several large retailers in the United Kingdom have begun testing a new type of mannequin that sends digital alerts to shoppers' cell phones as they walk past.

Created by tech developer Iconeme, the mannequins deliver detailed messages about a store's merchandise to customers who download the accompanying app.

"Mannequins in the shop window or within the store environment communicate with a customers smartphones via an app," Iconeme says. "When the customer walks past visual merchandising equipment that incorporates a VMBeacon, an alert is triggered."

Iconeme, who plans to bring the technology into the US market, says that the mannequins can alert users as far as 50 meters away, even when a store is closed.

"The store window becomes a portal for interactive selling, 24 hours a day, making greater use of the retail space on offer," says Iconeme.

(Reuters) - Community Health Systems Inc (CYH.N), one of the biggest U.S. hospital groups, said on Monday it was the victim of a cyber attack from China, resulting in the theft of Social Security numbers and other personal data belonging to 4.5 million patients.

Security experts said the hacking group, known as "APT 18," may have links to the Chinese government.

"APT 18" typically targets companies in the aerospace and defense, construction and engineering, technology, financial services and healthcare industry, said Charles Carmakal, managing director with FireEye Inc's (FEYE.O) Mandiant forensics unit, which led the investigation of the attack on Community Health in April and June.

"They have fairly advanced techniques for breaking into organizations as well as maintaining access for fairly long periods of times without getting detected," he said.

The information stolen from Community Health included patient names, addresses, birth dates, telephone numbers and Social Security numbers of people who were referred or received services from doctors affiliated with the hospital group in the last five years, the company said in a regulatory filing.

The stolen data did not include medical or clinical information, credit card numbers, or any intellectual property such as data on medical device development, said Community Health, which has 206 hospitals in 29 states.

The U.S. Navy has directed that Bibles be removed from hotel rooms on naval bases following a complaint from a prominent atheist organization, reports state.

In March of this year, the Freedom from Religion Foundation (FFRF) sent a letter to the Navy Exchange Service Command (NEXCOM) advising that two unidentified service members contacted them to report that “every Navy lodging room they have stayed in during decades of service contained a Bible” but rarely other religious or non-religious books. The organization asserted that such practice is unconstitutional and shows favoritism toward Christianity.

“Providing Bibles to guests in Navy-run hotels amounts to a government endorsement of that religious text,” the letter stated. “Including Bibles sends the message to non-Christian and non-religious guests that they should read the Bible... Such a practice alienates non-Christian guests whose religious beliefs are inconsistent with the message being promoted by the Bibles, including the 20% of the U.S. population that is nonreligious.”

Following receipt of the letter, NEXCOM issued a directive—which has now just been made public—that Bibles currently in hotel rooms on naval bases must be removed by September 1st.

It also noted that the “Commanding Officer [will] determine, in accordance with personnel readiness and military regulations, whether [future] materials will be accepted and how they will be handled and distributed.”

The Bibles had been placed through the years by various groups, including Gideons International.

One of Britain's biggest hotel chains has removed Bibles from its rooms to avoid upsetting non-Christians.

The decision by Travelodge has been condemned as 'tragic and bizarre' by the Church of England, which says Bibles in hotel rooms are important to provide hope, comfort and inspiration to travellers. But the chain, which runs 500 hotels, said the country was becoming increasingly multicultural and it had taken the action for 'diversity reasons'.

The smell of campfires in the night air and the sound of Cicadas outside my window reminded me it was summer in Upstate NY. I haven't ever liked summer. It's not just because I am always warm. You'll never see me wear a coat even on the coldest winter day. That wasn't the real reason I disliked summer, my childhood was the reason. I loved school as a kid and I didn't want it to end. I knew that ending of the school year meant loneliness. The other kids looked forward to a summer of playing hopscotch and marco polo in the pool. To most it meant a summer of overnight camps with ghost stories and s'mores to look forward to. I longed for an overnight camp but that wasn't in the cards for me. Most of my childhood was in a wheelchair which wasn't conducive to me playing hopscotch or marco polo. School days or rainy days meant the other kids were inside and would keep me company. But hot summer days meant all of the kids were outside and I was alone. I wished for a summer full of rainy days but I knew that wasn't realistic.

One summer my parents took pity on me and found a way for me to spend a weekend at brownie camp. An older girl scout was assigned to help me get dressed and go to the bathroom. She followed me everywhere and assisted me. It was heaven. I remember falling asleep in the night air in the top bunk the girl scout had helped me get into. I felt like a normal kid for once but it was short lived. I am unsure why I couldn't continue doing this, maybe it was too much to assign someone to a grown girl or maybe it was just too good to be true.

When my son began his transition from female to male at age 12 I knew I was fighting a battle. I knew the world could be cruel and I wasn't sure the world was ready for transgender children, but ready or not my son was coming. When fighting a battle one must arm themselves. I not only created my own weapons I created an arsenal. I knew surrounding my son with as much support as I could muster would be key in fighting the nameless, faceless enemies that seemed insurmountable. One of the many things I

Study Reveals Most American Pastors Silent on Current Issues Despite Biblical Beliefs

Most pastors believe that the Bible addresses the current issues of the day, but few speak about them from behind the pulpit, according to a recent study from a prominent research organization.

George Barna was a guest on the American Family Radio program "Today's Issues" on Thursday, where he explained a research project that he has been working on for the past two years. In his study, Barna's organization asked pastors across the country about their beliefs regarding the relevancy of Scripture to societal, moral and political issues, and the content of their sermons in light of their beliefs.

"What we're finding is that when we ask them about all the key issues of the day, [90 percent of them are] telling us, 'Yes, the Bible speaks to every one of these issues,' he explained. "Then we ask them: 'Well, are you teaching your people what the Bible says about those issues?' and the numbers drop...to less than 10 percent of pastors who say they will speak to it."

Barna's group also polled pastors about what factors they use to gauge whether or not a church is successful.

▶ "There are five factors that the vast majority of pastors turn to," he outlined. "Attendance, giving, number of programs, number of staff, and square footage."

"What I'm suggesting is [those pastors] won't probably get involved in politics because it's very controversial. Controversy keeps people from being in the seats, controversy keeps people from giving money, from attending programs," Barna said.

Pastor Chuck Baldwin, a radio broadcaster and former presidential candidate, commented on the study in an article published on Friday entitled Odds Are that Your Pastor is Keeping the Truth from You Instead of Preaching It. He opined that Barna's research shows that most pastors deliberately choose not to speak on the issues of the day despite knowing that the Bible speaks to them.

Connect with Christian News Like 451k Follow

"That 90% of America's pastors are not addressing any of the salient issues affecting Christian people's political or societal lives should surprise no one," he wrote. "It has been decades since even a sizable minority of pastors have bothered to educate and inform their congregations as to the Biblical principles relating to America's political, cultural and societal lives."

A woman in Albuquerque was arrested after she poisoned her roommates' food and drinks.

The reason why she poisoned them is even more disturbing.

Police allege Shari Walters, 53, was caught by a female roommate having sex with the roommate's dog, Spike.

Walters boasted that this was not the first time she had had sexual relations with the roommate's dogs.

When the male roommate, who was also Walter's boyfriend, found out that Walters confessed to having sex with the dogs, he promptly ended their relationship, KOAT reports.

Walters told police that she sought revenge for the relationship breakup by poisoning both of her roommates. According to the report, Walters used rubbing alcohol and toilet bowl cleaner to poison the food.

The roommates are being medically treated and are expected to fully recover.

Corpus Christi, Controversial Religious Play, To Premiere As Documentary

Corpus Christi - Final trailer from Breaking Glass Pictures on Vimeo.

What if Jesus was gay?

This is the premise of Terrence McNally's controversial play, "Corpus Christi," that originally appeared at the Manhattan Theatre Club in 1998. The play's premiere was met with massive protests and outrage from the religious right, sparking an intense journey for all of those involved in its production. Now, the experiences surrounding this play are being made into a documentary.

According to a statement sent to The Huffington Post, "This feature documentary follows the troupe, playwright, and audiences around the world on a five-year journey of Terrence McNally's passion play, where voices of protest and support collide on one of the central issues facing the LGBT community -- religion based bias."

فهذا أقول المسيح اقترب ميعاد مجيؤه لا احدد مواعيد بل ارفض من يحدد مواعيد ولكن اطلب
شيئين

الأول نصلي ونستعد ونعد زيت لمصابيحنا لاستقبال العريس بالصلاة والصوم وخدمة أبناء الله
وتنقية القلب والاستعداد بلبس العرس.

أفسس 6: 15 وَحَازِينَ أَرْجُلَكُمْ بِاسْتِغْدَادٍ إِنِّجِيلِ السَّلَامِ .

رسالة بولس الرسول الي أهل رومية 13

13: 11 هذا وأنكم عارفون الوقت انها الان ساعة لنستيقظ من النوم فان خلاصنا الان أقرب مما
كان حين امنا

13: 12 قد تنهى الليل وتقارب النهار فلنخلع اعمال الظلمة ونلبس اسلحة النور

13: 13 لنسلك بلباقة كما في النهار لا بالبطر والسكر لا بالمضاجع والعهر لا بالخصام والحسد

13: 14 بل البسوا الرب يسوع المسيح ولا تصنعوا تدبيرا للجسد لأجل الشهوات

احترس ان لم تتمسك بالمسيح من الان قد لا تستطيع في المستقبل القريب بسبب الظلام.

الثاني لا نخاف

بطرس الأولى 3: 14

وَلَكِنْ وَإِنْ تَأَلَّمْتُمْ مِنْ أَجْلِ الْبِرِّ، فَطُوبَاكُمْ. وَأَمَّا خَوْفُهُمْ فَلَا تَخَافُوهُ وَلَا تَضْطَرُّوْا،

بل نفرح

رسالة بولس الرسول إلى أهل فيلبي 4: 4

إَفْرَحُوا فِي الرَّبِّ كُلَّ حِينٍ، وَأَقُولُ أَيْضًا: اْفْرَحُوا.

افرحوا لان عريسنا قد اقترب مجيؤه. وانتبهوا الشيطان يريد أن نفقد سلامنا ولا ننال أكاليل.

وأيضاً استعدوا فقد تسلموا وديعتكم في أي وقت فهناك 150 ألف شخص يموتوا في اليوم الواحد

المسيح اقترب فاصنعوا ثمار تليق بالتوبة واستعدوا لاستقبال العريس.
