والعلامات حتى 7 اكتوبر 2014

اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأیضا أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن ایضا علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. و نذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء

المسيح بل ایضا قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر

هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان

عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيقة اقتربت

جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشتر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم ياتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا بعض الاحداث التي قال عنها الرب يسوع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 7 لانه تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة وتكون مجاعات واوبئة وزلازل في اماكن

مت 24: 8 ولكن هذه كلها مبتدأ الازعاج

مت 24: 9 حينئذ يسلمونكم الى ضيق ويقتلونكم وتكونون مبغضين من جميع الامم لاجل اسمي

مت 24: 10 وحينئذ يعثر كثيرون ويسلمون بعضهم بعضا ويبغضون بعضهم بعضا

مت 24: 11 ويقوم انبياء كذبة كثيرون ويضلون كثيرين

مت 24: 12 ولكثرة الاثم تبرد محبة الكثيرين

مت 24: 13 ولكن الذي يصبر الى المنتهى فهذا يخلص

مت 24: 14 ويكرز ببشارة الملكوت هذه في كل المسكونة شهادة لجميع الامم ثم ياتي المنتهى

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

السماء

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

المسيح لا يتنبأ ولا يتوقع بل يعرف

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَانَ تُؤْمِنُونَ.

Skywatchers have plenty of reasons to look up toward the heavens this month.

October brings a number of stargazing treats, including eclipses of the moon and sun, a dependably dazzling meteor shower, and good opportunities to view planets such as Mars, Saturn and Jupiter. A comet will also make a dramatic flyby of Mars; though that event won't brighten Earth's skies, it should find its way onto computer screens around the globe, thanks to the phalanx of probes circling and studying the Red Planet.

Here's a brief rundown of October's skywatching highlights, which should draw many people out into the crisp autumn air (or springtime air, depending on which hemisphere you call home). [October Skywatching Highlights \(Video\)]

The first big event comes on the morning of Oct. 8, when the moon will darken in the second total lunar eclipse of the year. (The first one of 2014 occurred in April.)

The moon will begin entering the outer fringes of Earth's shadow at 4:15 a.m. EDT (0815 GMT), and the 59-minute-long total eclipse phase will start two hours later, at 6:25 a.m. EDT. Observers throughout the Asia-

Mystery fireball lights up the Utah sky like a UFO... but astronomer insists it's just a meteor

- Utah residents reported flashing white, blue, green lights at 4.40am
- Some listed the sighting on UFO Stalker, object 'lingered moving slowly'
- But astronomer claims it was a burning meteor too far away to hear

With dazzling flashes of green, blue and white, a mysterious object lit up the Utah sky early this morning.

It silently soared over the state at around 4.40am, seemingly lingering for a few seconds.

But while some excitedly rushed to report a UFO, one astronomer claims it was a burning meteor that was so far away it couldn't be heard.

On the list of the 47 peaks most at risk, according to the Japan Meteorological Agency, is Mount Fuji, one of the most recognisable landmarks in the Asian country.

The Earth seems to have been smoking a lot recently. Volcanoes are erupting in Iceland, Hawaii, Indonesia, Ecuador and Mexico right now. Others, in the Philippines and Papua New Guinea, erupted recently but seem to have calmed down. Many of these have threatened homes and forced evacuations. But among their spectators, these eruptions raise question: Is there such a thing as a season for volcanic eruptions?

Dozens of dead sharks found washed ashore on Oak Island

Posted: Sep 28, 2014 2:38 PM MDT
Updated: Sep 30, 2014 12:34 PM MDT

By: Ben Powell - email

OAK ISLAND, NC (WECT) - The NC Division of Marine Fisheries is investigating after dozens of dead sharks were found washed ashore on a popular beach strand in Brunswick County on Sunday morning.

Michael Boswell, a local resident, said he was walking on the beach when he spotted about 50 dead sharks on the sand near Southeast 64th Street in Oak Island.

The unidentified sharks range in size from approximately 1'-5'.

Boswell said he reported the discovery to police in Oak Island. Since the initial report, the sharks have been picked up and removed from the beach strand.

However, since the sharks were found below the tide line, this issue is under the jurisdiction of the NC Division of Marine Fisheries.

The exact cause of death for the sharks is still undetermined. According to Patricia Smith, a public information officer with that agency, crews are on their way to Oak Island to investigate the matter.

Oak Island Mayor Betty Wallace said it is illegal to dump any species of dead fish on the public beach strand. The only permitted forms of fishing on the beach are fishing for consumption or catch and release.

Even though this matter falls under the jurisdiction of the NC Division of Marine Fisheries, Wallace said she plans to ask town staff to look into the issue from their end.

"I plan to contact our town manager to review the situation," said Wallace. "We should ask the public works department to keep a watch on this to make sure it doesn't become a public health issue. We will be contacting the proper authorities to see what can or should be done."

Stay with WECT.com for more on this developing story. We will update this story as more information comes into our newsroom.

DALLAS — A patient in a Dallas hospital was confirmed Tuesday to have the deadly Ebola virus, the Centers for Disease Control said Tuesday. The Dallas patient remains in "strict isolation" at Texas Health Presbyterian Hospital Dallas. Officials said there are no plans to transfer the him to a specialized hospital with a biocontainment unit at this time.

Officials would not confirm or deny if he was an American citizen, saying only he was "visiting family in the U.S."

DALLAS — The sister of the first Ebola patient diagnosed in the United States said her brother told relatives that he had notified officials the first time he went to the hospital that he was visiting from Liberia.

Mai Wureh said her brother — Thomas Eric Duncan — went to a Dallas emergency room on Thursday and they sent him home with antibiotics. Duncan told his sister that hospital officials asked for his Social Security number, and he said that he didn't have one because he was visiting from Liberia.

At a news conference Wednesday, Dr. Mark Lester confirmed that a nurse asked Duncan on his first visit whether he had been in an area affected by the Ebola outbreak that has killed thousands in West Africa.

"A checklist was in place for Ebola in this hospital for several weeks. That checklist was utilized by the nurse, who did ask [the] question [if the patient had been to Africa,]" Lester said. "[...] Regretfully, that information [was not shared] with the full team."

As the medical team assessed Duncan on his first visit, they thought it was a low-grade viral infection. Dr. Edward Goodman, a Texas Health Presbyterian infectious disease specialist, said when Duncan went to the emergency room Thursday he was not DALLAS — Parents rushed to get their children from school Wednesday after learning that five students may have had contact with the Ebola patient in a Dallas hospital, as Gov. Rick Perry and other leaders reassured the public that there is no cause for alarm.

The patient, identified by The Associated Press as Thomas Eric Duncan of Liberia, arrived in the U.S. on Sept. 20 to visit family. Dallas County Health and Human Services Director Zachary Thompson said county officials suspect that 12 to 18 people may have had contact with Duncan.

"Right now, the base number is 18 people, and that could increase," he said. Thompson said more details are expected by Thursday afternoon. The number includes five students at four schools, Dallas school district Superintendent Mike Miles said.

"This case is serious," Perry said during a news conference at Texas Health Presbyterian Hospital Dallas, where Duncan is being treated. "Rest assured that our system is working as it should. Professionals on every level on the chain of command know what to do to minimize this potential risk to the people of Texas and of this country."

There's Really No Way To Screen for Ebola at Airports

The Centers for Disease Control confirmed on Tuesday that the first case of Ebola has been confirmed in the United States.

In July, the Nigerian government announced that they had started screening passengers at international airports for signs of Ebola after a passenger showed up in Lagos suffering from the illness, which kills up to 70 percent of the people infected with it. Treatment options are extremely limited. Nigerian airport authorities began checking passengers who just arrived from Sierra Leone, currently under a state of emergency, and they began looking for fever,

Why Won't Obama Ban Air Travel From Countries Where Ebola Is Out Of Control?

Why does Barack Obama refuse to take even the most basic steps to protect Americans from Ebola? Even though it has already been demonstrated that Ebola can be brought over to the United States by a passenger on an airplane, Obama refuses to do anything that would even restrict air travel from nations where Ebola is spiraling out of control. Back in September, Obama said that it was "unlikely" that any individual with Ebola could get through the "extensive screening" at our airports and pose a threat to the general population. But he was wrong. That has already happened. And yet the official White House position is that there is "no consideration of a travel ban" at this point. What possible explanation is there for such gross negligence? More

Ebola outbreak: 'Five infected every hour' in Sierra Leone

Mark Buttle from Save the Children says cultural practices may be putting some people at even greater risk

A leading charity has warned that a rate of five new Ebola cases an hour in Sierra Leone means healthcare demands are far outstripping supply.

Save the Children said there were 765 new cases of Ebola reported in the West African state last week, while there are only 327 beds in the country.

Experts and politicians are set to meet in London to debate a global response to the crisis.

It is the world's worst outbreak of the virus, killing 3,338 people so far.

There have been 7,178 confirmed cases, with Sierra Leone, Liberia and Guinea suffering the most.

Mass graves being prepared in Liberia – Doctors without borders, refusing volunteers – “too late to fight outbreak”

September 2014 – LIBERIA, Africa – Liberia, the West African nation hardest hit by Ebola, has begun a frightening descent into economic hell. That's the import of three recent reports from international organizations that seem to bear out the worst-case scenarios of months ago: that people would abandon the fields and factories, that food and fuel would become scarce and unaffordable, and that the government's already meager capacity to help, along with the nation's prospects for a better future, would be severely compromised. They are no longer scenarios. They are real. While these trends have been noted anecdotally, the cumulative toll is horrific. The basic necessities of survival in Liberia — food, transportation, work, money, help from the government — are rapidly being depleted, according to recent reports by the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization, the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank.

The FAO says that food is in increasingly short supply. Fields in some regions have been abandoned in part because people perceive Ebola may be coming from them or from the water used to irrigate them. “People are terrified by how fast the disease is spreading,” Alexis Bonte, FAO Representative in Liberia, said in a statement. “Neighbors, friends and family members are dying within just a few days of exhibiting shocking symptoms, the causes of which are not fully understood by many local communities. This leads them to speculate that water, food or even crops could be responsible. Panic ensues, causing farmers to abandon their Sierra Leone government cannot account for more than 1,000 Ebola patients: missing, dead, out of the country?

September 2014 – AFRICA – Sierra Leone's largest newspaper, the Awareness Times, is reporting with alarm that at least 1,028 Ebola patients appear to be missing in the country, as official Ministry of Health statistics account for a smaller number of combined victims and survivors of the disease than the total number of registered cases. The Awareness Times report notes that the Ministry of Health has confirmed 2,000 cases of Ebola in the country. Its official statistics note that 540 have died, while 432 are classified as survivors. That leaves 1,042 unaccounted for cases. The report follows up on a New York Times piece in which a Western diplomat is quoted as saying that official statistics in Sierra Leone are highly untrustworthy. According to the Times, those numbers are believed to be "largely inaccurate," rendering them borderline useless. Said the diplomat: "Even a 2-year-old child can look at them and see they don't add up." The Times notes that Sierra Leone has responded to the crisis largely by quarantining large areas— nearly all 14 districts in Sierra Leone are at least partially quarantined, and it is believed that between one and two million people are being kept locked down due to this measure.

(CNN) — Samples collected from four patients who recently died have tested positive for enterovirus D68, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). It is unclear what role the virus played in their deaths.

Enteroviruses are very common, especially in the late summer and early fall. The CDC estimates 10 to 15 million infections occur in the United States each year. So even though the samples from these four patients tested positive, the virus could have nothing to do with their deaths.

Mosquito Virus That Walloped Caribbean Spreads in U.S.

By Kelly Gilblom | Sep 30, 2014 10:01 PM MT | 526 Comments Email Print

A mosquito-borne virus that can cause debilitating joint pain lasting for years has spread to the continental U.S. after infecting hundreds of thousands of people in the Caribbean and Central America.

The virus is called Chikungunya, an African name meaning "to become contorted." While the illness, first identified in Tanzania in 1952, has long bedeviled Africa and Asia, the only recorded cases in the U.S. before July involved patients who contracted the virus abroad.

Now, 11 cases have been confirmed as originating in Florida, spurring concern this may be the beginning of the type of explosive growth seen elsewhere from a disease that has no vaccine or cure. Medical and environmental experts are debating how best to quell the outbreak before it takes off.

"In a way it's surprising it hasn't been here yet," said Scott Weaver, a professor at the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston.

Dengue fever, the Chikungunya virus and the Zika virus are all spread by the bite of an mosquito. Read More

September 2014 – EGYPT – The Egyptian Minister of Health and Population, Dr. Adel Adawi announced a human case of H5N1 avian influenza (AI) in a 3 month girl from the Giza governorate. The case, according to the Minister, the date of onset of the illness was Monday, 9/22/ 2014, where she was presenting symptoms of fever, sore throat, cough and vomiting. The girl's parents took her to the Hospital of the Abbasid and she was released three days later. They said the child had exposure to dead birds.

A throat sample was taken and analyzed and confirmed positive for avian influenza virus (A / H5N1). The child was treated with Tamiflu and is reportedly in stable condition. According to the Health Ministry, this is the fourth human H5N1 AI case of 2014. However, the people at FluTrackers point out that this is the fifth case of the bird flu, writing on their site, "We have a record of 4 previous cases. 3 were announced by the Ministry of Health of Egypt and 1 was announced by the Ministry of Health of Beheira governorate: #14 Egypt – Female, 56, hospitalized in critical condition, #15 Egypt – Child, 4, mild condition, #16 Egypt – Female, 86, hospitalized in serious condition and #19 Egypt – Male, 34, hospitalized on ventilator Death."

(Reuters) - Russia has reported the first cases of a highly pathogenic bird flu virus in nearly two years in villages in Southern Russia, the World Organization for Animal Health (OIE) said on Tuesday.

Domestic chickens, geese and ducks were found infected with the H5N1 serotype of the disease on Sept. 1 in two villages in the Altai Krai region near the border with Kazakhstan, the OIE reported on its website, citing data submitted by the Russian ministry of agriculture.

Russia's veterinary service Rosselkhoznadzor was not immediately available to comment.

The report to the Paris-based OIE said the previous occurrence of the H5N1 strain in Russia was in December 2012.

The H5N1 virus first infected humans in 1997 during a poultry outbreak in Hong Kong. Since its widespread re-emergence in 2003 and 2004, it spread from Asia to Europe and Africa and has become entrenched in poultry in some countries, resulting in millions of poultry infections, several hundred human cases, and many human deaths.

The latest outbreaks in Russia, which lead to the death or culling of 344 birds, were thought

Record High Polio Cases in Pakistan

October 04, 2014 7:16 AM

VOA News

FILE - A Pakistani health worker administers the polio vaccine to a child during a vaccination campaign in Bannu on June 25, 2014.

The number of polio cases recorded in Pakistan this year has hit a record high.

An official with the Pakistan National Institute of Health in Islamabad says 202 cases have been reported so far this year, surpassing the previous record of 199 in one year.

A health official told the French news agency AFP Friday that 15 cases of polio had been reported in the past two days.

About 60 polio vaccination workers have been killed by militants since 2012, mainly in the restive northwestern tribal areas that border Afghanistan and are home to Taliban and al-Qaida militants. The new cases have emerged in these areas.

There Will Be Pestilences: Why Are So Many Deadly Diseases Breaking Out All Over The Globe Right Now?

Ebola, Marburg, Enterovirus and Chikungunya - these diseases were not even on the radar of most people coming into 2014, but now each one of them is making headline news. So why is this happening? Why are so many deadly diseases breaking out all over the world right now? Is there some kind of a connection, or is the fact that so many horrible diseases are arising all at once just a giant coincidence? And this could be just the beginning. For example, there are now more than a million cases of Chikungunya in Central and South America, and authorities are projecting that there will be millions more in 2015. The number of Ebola cases continues to grow at an exponential rate, and now an even deadlier virus (Marburg) has broken out in Uganda. We have gone decades without experiencing a major worldwide pandemic, and many people believed that it could never happen in our day and time. But now we could potentially see several absolutely devastating diseases all racing across the planet at the same time.

On Monday, we got news that the first confirmed case of Ebola transmission in Europe has happened. A nurse in Spain that had treated a couple of returning Ebola patients has contracted the disease herself...

Irbil, Iraq (CNN) — Turkish soldiers and tanks took up position along the border with Syria on Tuesday as its government debated whether to deploy troops to battle the Islamic State terror group, a move that comes as tens of thousands pour into the country to escape ISIS fighters.

The flood of refugees from Syria has escalated — with 150,000 people fleeing to Turkey in recent days — as ISIS fighters armed with tanks and heavy weapons advance on the predominantly Kurdish town of Kobani, known in Arabic as Ayn al Arab, destroying villages in their path.

ISIS threatens to gas British troops in Iraq

British special forces in Iraq have been ordered to carry chemical protection suits amid fears Islamic State terrorists could be plotting to launch horror gas attacks. Crack troops are in the north of the country training Kurdish Peshmerga fighters and identifying RAF bombing targets as part of Operation Shader. And spies warn IS fighters have stolen poison gas from Syrian forces. This could be unleashed on British troops in the wake of air strikes on the Islamic extremists in Iraq. The soldiers now carry nuclear and biological warfare protection and respirators. All vehicles are being fitted with gas detectors and an RAF Regiment trained in chemical warfare is on standby to fly to the region. The move comes as Britain was warned the battle to crush IS in the region could last up to a decade. And Barack Obama admitted the US "underestimated" the murderous group's emergence in Syria. The Mirror understands there are many more UK troops in Iraq than admitted by the Government.

Islamic State Beheads 7 Men, 3 Women in Terror Campaign

Islamic State beheaded seven men and three women in a northern Kurdish area of Syria, a human rights monitoring group said on Wednesday, part of what it described as a campaign to frighten residents resisting the militant group's advance. The head of the Syrian Observatory for Human Rights, Rami Abdulrahman, said five anti-Islamic State Kurdish fighters, including three women, and four Syrian Arab rebels were detained and beheaded on Tuesday 14 km (8 miles) west of Kobani, a Kurdish town besieged by Islamic State near the Turkish border. He said a Kurdish male civilian was also beheaded. "I don't know why they were arrested or beheaded. Only the Islamic State knows why. They want to scare people," he said. Reuters could not independently verify the information. Islamic State fighters have carried out several beheadings of enemy fighters and civilians in Syria and Iraq. The beheadings are often carried out in public and with a message that any violent or non-violent dissent will not be tolerated. More

Two new Chinese cruise missiles 'could sink a 3,000 ton warship'

Staff Reporter | 2014-09-29 | 15:28 (GMT+8)

A C-602 missile, also known as the YJ-62. (Internet Photo)

China's PLA has released the details of its two anti-ship cruise missiles — the C-602 and C-802A — designed to sink warships weighing above 3,000 tonnes, reports national broadcaster China Central Television (CCTV).

Both cruise missiles are designed by the China Aerospace Science & Industry Corporation. Guan Shiyi, an expert from the corporation, said that the cruise missile is designed to fly like an aircraft in the atmosphere. With an engine similar to those in airplanes, the cruise missile can skim at low altitudes above the sea surface, making it very difficult to detect on radar.

China test fires 10,000-km range nuclear missile that can reach most of US and European cities

China has flight tested an upgraded version of its 10,000-km range Dongfeng missile which could reach most of the US and European cities, days ahead of its October 1st National Day to demonstrate its nuclear capability, media reports said. The People's Liberation Army, (PLA) launched a Dongfeng-31B on September 25 from the Wuzhai Missile and Space Test Centre also known as the Taiyuan Satellite Launch Centre in Shanxi province, Hong Kong-based South China Morning Post reported quoting US media reports. The first flight test of an upgraded mobile intercontinental ballistic missile in the lead-up to National Day aimed to show the world that China was reinforcing its nuclear deterrent, it quoted military experts as saying. The DF-31B is an upgraded version of the DF-31A and the launch was at least the second time the PLA's Second Artillery Corps had tested a DF-31 missile in the past three months. In late July, the PLA conducted a flight test of a DF-31A in what was the fourth known flight test of that missile in two years, it said. The DF-31 system has an estimated range of nearly 10,000 kms, enough to deliver a nuclear warhead to the capitals of Europe or the west coast of the US. The mobile missiles are designed specifically for travel over rugged terrain and in difficult road conditions. More

Children perform in mock beheading at Islamic Jaffari Center in Thornhill, Ontario

An Ontario mosque is coming under fire for using young Muslim children to conduct mock beheadings in a school play.

Video footage of the Islamic Jaffari Center in Thornhill, Ontario, shows children as young as 4 years old watching and learning to conduct beheadings in a play that reportedly took place two years ago.

The video was featured on the Canada's Sun News Network television program, "Byline with Brian Lilley."

A young boy can be seen sitting on the floor as another boy approaches him from behind with a machete.

At the end of the play, the boy playing the part of the executioner announces, "Here are the heads."

JPMorgan Says Data Breach Affected 76 Million Households

By Hugh Son | Oct 2, 2014 5:39 PM MT | 485 Comments Email Print

JPMorgan Chase & Co. (JPM), the biggest U.S. bank, said a previously disclosed data breach affected 76 million households and 7 million small businesses.

Customer names, addresses, phone numbers and e-mail addresses were taken, the New York-based bank said today in a regulatory filing. Hackers also obtained internal data identifying customers by category, such as whether they are clients of the private-bank, mortgage, auto or credit-card divisions, said a person briefed on the matter.

The breach affected anyone who visited the company's websites, including Chase.com, or used its mobile app, said the person, who requested anonymity because that information wasn't publicly disclosed. Some of those affected by the incursion are former clients of JPMorgan, which currently has 85 million customers and reaches half of all U.S. households, the person said.

The bank, led by Chief Executive Officer Jamie Dimon, hasn't detected "any unusual customer fraud" related to the attack, and clients aren't liable for unauthorized transactions that are promptly reported to the company, according to the filing.

UFO Appears Above Hong Kong Pro-Democracy Protesters

Posted: 10/01/2014 11:51 am EDT | Updated: 10/01/2014 6:59 pm EDT

Ongoing pro-democracy protests in Hong Kong have drawn tens of thousands of citizens, taking to the streets, demonstrating their opposition to news that China will choose the candidates for the upcoming 2017 election.

During one of those protests, the crowd got a little something extra as a brightly lit object appeared in the sky above the throng, moving slowly at first and then, as the BBC caught it on camera, the UFO suddenly shot up in the air out of sight.

A television viewer in Scotland watched the demonstration news coverage and recorded the broadcast. When he saw the object in the sky, he later sent the video to a local news outlet, the Hamilton Advertiser, according to OpenMinds.TV.

Watch this video of the alleged UFO in the sky above Hong Kong:

The aerial object first appears on the left side of the screen, descends in front of a building, and moves to the right toward another tall building where it stops and hovers. Then, with an almost visible burst of energy, it suddenly launches straight up in the air.

The U.S. Government Is Borrowing About 8 Trillion Dollars A Year

By Michael Snyder, on September 29th, 2014

g+ Share Tweet Pinterest Email ShareThis

I know that headline sounds completely outrageous. But it is actually true. The U.S. government is borrowing about 8 trillion dollars a year, and you are about to see the hard numbers that prove this. When discussing the national debt, most people tend to only focus on the amount that it increases each 12 months. And as I wrote about recently, the U.S. national debt has increased by more than a trillion dollars in fiscal year 2014. But that does not count the huge amounts of U.S. Treasury securities that the federal government must redeem each year. When these debt instruments hit their maturity date, the U.S. government must pay them off. This is done by borrowing more money to pay off the previous debts. In fiscal year 2013, redemptions of U.S. Treasury securities totaled $7,546,726,000,000 and new debt totaling $8,323,949,000,000 was issued. The final numbers for fiscal year 2014 are likely to be significantly higher than that.

So why does so much government debt come due each year?

Well, in recent years government officials figured out that they could save a lot of money on interest payments by borrowing over shorter time frames. For example, it costs the government far more to borrow money for 10 years than it does for 1 year. So a strategy was hatched to borrow money for very short periods of time and to keep "rolling it over" again and again and again.

This strategy has indeed saved the federal government hundreds of billions of dollars in interest payments, but it has also created a situation where the federal government must borrow about 8 trillion dollars a year just to keep up with the game.

Global debt is still rising strongly, crimping growth and threatening defaults around the world

As if the fast degenerating geo-political situation isn't bad enough, here's another lorry load of concerns to add to the pile.

The UK and US economies may be on the mend at last, but that's not the pattern elsewhere. On a global level, growth is being steadily drowned under a rising tide of debt, threatening renewed financial crisis, a continued squeeze to living standards, and eventual mass default.

I exaggerate only a little in depicting this apocalyptic view of the future as the conclusion of the latest "Geneva Report", an annual assessment informed by a top drawer conference of leading decision makers and economic thinkers of the big challenges facing the global economy.

Aptly titled "Deleveraging? What Deleveraging?", the report points out that, far from paying down

PORTLAND – The Christian owners of a bakery in Oregon state that they will be forced into bankruptcy if the government stands by its imposition of a fine in excess of $150,000 after the couple declined to make a “wedding” cake for a lesbian because they viewed it as a form of personal participation in the event.

As previously reported, Aaron and Melissa Klein operate Sweet Cakes by Melissa in Gresham, which is now operated from the couple’s home after the Kleins’ shut their doors due to harassment. In January 2013, Aaron was approached by a mother and her daughter as the two were interested in a cake for the daughter’s upcoming wedding—to her lesbian partner.

“My first question was what’s the wedding date,” Klein told television station KTW in Portland. “My next question was [the] bride and groom’s name. ... The girl giggled a little bit and said, ‘It’s two brides.’”

He stated that he then informed the women that the bakery does not make cakes for homosexual events.

“I apologized for wasting their time and said that unfortunately, we do not do same-sex marriages,” Klein explained.

The women then left Sweet Cakes upset about the incident, and later, one of them filed a complaint with the state. The Oregon Attorney General’s office soon launched an investigation against the Klein’s as the state’s non-discrimination laws prevent public accommodations from being denied to any individual on the basis of “race, color, religion, sex [or] sexual orientation.”

But Klein states that he regularly serves homosexuals. He believes that there is a difference between serving homosexuals in general, and having to personally facilitate same-sex ceremonies, which is an act of participation.

“I have customers come in almost on a weekly basis that are homosexual,” he said. “They can buy my stuff. I sell stuff. I talk with them. That’s fine. ... This was not the first time we’ve served these girls.”

Street evangelist Mike Overd is being prosecuted in Britain for an alleged religious aggravation public order offense. (Facebook)

Street evangelist Mike Overd, a client of the Christian Legal Centre, is being prosecuted in the United Kingdom for an alleged religious aggravation public order offense.

The charges follow a complaint to police in Taunton, that Overd made a comparison between the perfect life of Jesus and the life of Islam's prophet, Muhammad.

Police have informed the former paratrooper that the Crown Prosecution Service wishes to bring three charges against him under Section 5 of the Public Order Act.

A Taunton police sergeant recently gave an interview to BBC television and a newspaper locally, urging residents to film the evangelist's preaching as it was alleged that Overd's preaching was "causing offense."

The officer has also asked local traders to film Overd if they believed he was preaching "offensively."

Atheist Group Says Hobby Lobby Family Is 'Threat' to US; Sees Bible Museum as Attempt to 'Influence Congress'

The controversial Museum of the Bible, a project spearheaded by Hobby Lobby President Steve Green, is scheduled open in Washington, D.C. in 2017, and is seen as a threat by an atheist group that claims the intent of the museum is not to educate tourists, but to "influence Congress." News of the museum's pending construction came not long after Hobby Lobby won a religious freedom case before the United States Supreme Court. The court ruled in June that Hobby Lobby could be exempted from providing four birth control methods that can lead to the early termination of a pregnancy. Since the announcement of the project, the Museum of the Bible has generated negative responses from secular groups, including the Madison, Wisconsin-based Freedom From Religion Foundation. "I think they (the Green family) are a great threat," Annie Laurie Gaylor, co-president of FFRF, told The New York Times, when she was asked to comment on the Green family's plans for a 430,000-square-foot-Bible museum. "My instincts would tell me that they are choosing Washington, D.C. because they intend to influence Congress." More

Atheist Activist Group Seeks to End Bible Classes at North Carolina Elementary Schools

A prominent atheist activist organization is seeking to end the presentation of optional Bible classes at several elementary schools in North Carolina. The Madison, Wisconsin-based Freedom From Religion Foundation (FFRF) recently sent a letter to officials with the Rowan-Salisbury School System after it received a complaint from an unidentified individual who took issue with the Bible being taught to children in public school. 'According to reports, the 45-minute classes are being held at Cleveland, Woodleaf and Mount Ulla Elementary Schools and parents may opt their children out of the instruction if they wish. FFRF says that it was informed that one class "presented the Bible as literal fact, including teaching a seven-day creation, giving students examples of 'God's plan' that 'clearly' showed the universe was created with a purpose, and supposed examples of the Bible predicting scientific discoveries." "These classes are flagrantly unconstitutional," the letter, written by attorney Patrick Elliott, states. "Presenting the text of the Bible as true in a public school violates a host of Supreme Court cases." More

The University of California will designate gender-neutral restrooms at its 10 campuses to accommodate transgender students, in a move that may be the first of its kind for a system of colleges in the United States.

University of California President Janet Napolitano's office said in a statement on Monday that the action stems from an effort to make the system more welcoming to lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender students.

Under the plan, all single-stall restrooms at University of California campuses will be converted to gender-neutral facilities, officials said, and newly built and renovated campuses will also have such accommodations that can be used by everyone.

University of California officials do not have details on how many single-stall restrooms exist at the system's 10 campuses, which in total serve about 238,000 students, nor how much it will cost to convert

Boehner rakes in cash for openly 'Gay' Republican

Speaker John Boehner vowed last year that he'd back gay GOP candidates. Now, he's making good on his word. The Ohio Republican is heading to California this week, where he'll raise cash for openly gay Republican candidate Carl DeMaio in defiance of several conservative groups. Boehner's trip to the Golden State marks the second leg of his fall tour to expand House Republicans' 17-seat majority. The GOP's efforts to broaden the playing field include races in blue regions like New York, New England and California, and support for gay candidates like DeMaio and Massachusetts's Richard Tisei. "I'm disappointed but not terribly surprised that some extreme far right groups would rather lose elections than win elections, and have been very destructive for so many years within the Republican Party," DeMaio said in a phone interview. "I'm glad so many people are finally realizing that and standing up to that, saying we may not agree on all issues but we agree on the vast majority of issues." More

Target Releases New Commercial Featuring Lesbian Women Preparing Room for Baby

The retail giant Target has released a new promotional advertisement that features two lesbian women who are preparing a room for the arrival of a child.

"Baby Digs: The Magic of Space" was posted to YouTube on October 1st, and has already obtained over 22,000 views—as well as a lot of controversy.

"I'm Amanda, and I'm Cat," the ad begins. "And we're having a baby!"

"We don't know what the gender is yet, but we are really excited to find out," Cat states.

"I hope that baby has Cat's talent, and I hope it has [Amanda's] quick wit," the women remark to each other.

"Amanda's a writer; I'm a comic book illustrator . . . I think that we hope that we can share our love for science . . . Yeah, we'd love to pass that on to our kids," the commercial continues.

"We want our child to know that anything is possible, and that there's also nothing wrong with and everything right with pursuing knowledge and learning about the world," Amanda says.

Cat then kisses Amanda's head, and the screen reads "future space wanderer, due Jan. 21."

The advertisement has generated mixed reaction online.

"This commercial has given me such joy in being reminded that there are other people like us, other people that are having families, and that are being recognized as such," wrote one lesbian woman from Utah.

"No, you two are not having a baby. One of you is having a baby . . . and then will be raising that baby in a broken home where no father is present," another stated. "Why do you put yourselves above the needs of your child? And why does Target support putting adults' desires above children in our society?"

"No, 'we' are not having a baby!" another echoed. "God designed conception of children to only be between one man and one woman."

13: 12 قد تناهى الليل وتقارب النهار فلنخلع اعمال الظلمة ونلبس اسلحة النور

13: 13 لنسلك بلباقة كما في النهار لا بالبطر والسكر لا بالمضاجع والعهر لا بالخصام والحسد

13: 14 بل البسوا الرب يسوع المسيح ولا تصنعوا تدبيرا للجسد لأجل الشهوات

احترس ان لم تتمسك بالمسيح من الان قد لا تستطيع في المستقبل القريب بسبب الظلام.

الثاني لا نخاف

بطرس الأولى 3: 14

وَلَكِنْ وَإِنْ تَأَلَّمْتُمْ مِنْ أَجْلِ الْبِرِّ، فَطُوبَاكُمْ. وَأَمَّا خَوْفُهُمْ فَلَا تَخَافُوهُ وَلَا تَضْطَرُّوْا،

بل نفرح

رسالة بولس الرسول إلى أهل فيلبي 4: 4

إَفْرَحُوا فِي الرَّبِّ كُلَّ حِينٍ، وَأَقُولُ أَيْضًا: اْفْرَحُوا.

افرحوا لان عريسنا قد اقترب مجيؤه. وانتبهوا الشيطان يريد أن نفقد سلامنا ولا ننال أكاليل.

وأيضاً استعدوا فقد تسلموا وديعتكم في أي وقت فهناك 150 ألف شخص يموتوا في اليوم الواحد

المسيح اقترب فاصنعوا ثمار تليق بالتوبة واستعدوا لاستقبال العريس.
