والعلامات حتى 4 نوفمبر 2014

اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأيضاً أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن أيضاً علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. ونذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء

المسيح بل أيضاً قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر

هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان

عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيقة اقتربت

جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم ياتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا بعض الاحداث التي قال عنها الرب يسوع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب انظروا لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

مت 24: 7 لأنه تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة وتكون مجاعات واوبئة وزلازل في اماكن

مت 24: 8 ولكن هذه كلها مبتدأ الازعاج

مت 24: 9 حينئذ يسلمونكم الى ضيق ويقتلونكم وتكونون مبغضين من جميع الامم لأجل اسمي

مت 24: 10 وحينئذ يعثر كثيرون ويسلمون بعضهم بعضا ويبغضون بعضهم بعضا

مت 24: 11 ويقوم انبياء كذبة كثيرون ويضلون كثيرين

مت 24: 12 ولكثرة الاثم تبرد محبة الكثيرين

مت 24: 13 ولكن الذي يصبر الى المنتهى فهذا يخلص

مت 24: 14 ويكرز ببشارة الملكوت هذه في كل المسكونة شهادة لجميع الامم ثم ياتي المنتهى

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

السماء

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

المسيح لا يتنبأ ولا يتوقع بل يعرف

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَانَ تُؤْمِنُونَ.

وايضا لنتنبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَاَنْتَصِبُوا وَاَرْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ.»

A potentially catastrophic asteroid has been discovered by astronomers, who say there's a slim chance that the 410-meter-wide minor planet will crash into Earth in 2032, creating a blast 50 times greater than the biggest nuclear bomb.

The asteroid, described as 2013 TV135, was found in the Camelopardalis (Giraffe) constellation by the Crimean Astrophysical Observatory in southern Ukraine, the Minor Planet Center of the International Astronomers Union said.

"On the night of October 12, I was watching the Giraffe constellation, it was an in-depth monitoring as part of the comet search program," Gennady Borisov from the Crimean Astrophysical Observatory told Itar-Tass news agency. "This is when the asteroid... was discovered. The first observations show that it moves quickly and is relatively close."

The discovery has been confirmed by astronomers in Italy, Spain, the UK and Russia. In Russia, it was seen with telescopes at the Master Observatory in the Siberian republic of Buryatia, the IAU Minor Planet Center said.

Giant Sunspot Has Scientists Scratching Their Heads

A colossal sunspot — at 80,000 miles wide, the largest seen in about a quarter of a century — is acting peculiarly, producing lots of flares but hardly any coronal mass ejections, which are huge bursts of solar wind and magnetic fields, PBS reported.

Special: These 7 Things Activate Alzheimer's in Your Brain

The sun is comprised of plasma gas. Sunspots are comparatively cooler areas on the sun — about 7,500 degrees Fahrenheit. As the sun spins, its magnetic field releases ionized gas.

"It's kind of like having a rubber band that you twist and twist, and it starts to knot up," said C. Alex Young of NASA Goddard's Heliophysics Science Division. "The same sort of thing is happening with magnetic fields. They become more twisted, they get more concentrated, and eventually you have to get rid of that energy," PBS reported.

This release can come in the form of a solar flare or a coronal mass ejection (CME).

SPECIAL: Steve Forbes Slams the Fed in This Exclusive Interview

Instead of producing CMEs, this sunspot is holding on to its plasma. It's producing many really big solar flares, equivalent to billions of Hiroshima-sized nuclear weapons, though hardly any mass plasma ejections, according to PBS.

While CMEs send energy into space, flares are shorter in duration and their energy is accelerated back into the sun.

Heavy Wind Rips Off Part of Fukushima Protective Cover's Roof: Reports

Decommissioning of the damaged Fukushima reactor is expected to take around 40 years.

TOKYO, October 28 (RIA Novosti) – The Fukushima nuclear plant operator TEPCO suspended works on removing the protective cover installed at the station's first power generating unit after heavy wind ripped off a part of the dome, Kyodo news reported Tuesday.

The incident took place when TEPCO staff has been inserting a special substance, which is to prevent radioactive dust and debris from getting outside the dome, into the Fukushima protective cover. The wind torn off a part of the dome's roof about three to six feet. According to Kyodo, the level of radiation in the area remained unchanged.

TEPCO started the preparations for dismantling the Fukushima protective cover last week. Decommissioning of the damaged reactor is expected to take around 40 years.

NOV 03 After rapidly intensifying, Super Typhoon Nuri may be planet's strongest storm of 2014

The northwest Pacific Ocean basin, home to some of the strongest typhoons on the planet, has done it again. Barely one month after Super Typhoon Vongfong peaked at an intensity that was among the top 30 most intense such storms on record, Super Typhoon Nuri rapidly intensified on Sunday to rival or beat that milestone. The storm is located over the open ocean, hundreds of miles to the south of Japan, and is forecast to swerve to the northeast, moving out to sea before hitting land. Based on satellite estimates, it now has maximum sustained winds of 180 miles per hour, which is about equal to or stronger than Vongfong was. More

Costa Rica on alert after Turrialba volcano spews ash

This is Turrialba's largest eruption in more than a century, reports Mark Sedgwick

Costa Rica has issued an emergency alert after ash from an erupting volcano reached the capital and beyond.

Turrialba volcano, some 50km (30 miles) east of San Jose, began rumbling and producing seismic activity on Wednesday night.

The authorities said they were evacuating nearby residents to temporary shelters as a precaution.

Eyewitnesses reported fiery explosions and ash falling like snow over parts of central Costa Rica.

This is Turrialba's largest eruption in more than a century.

69: Costa Rica's Turrialba Volcano – shaken by violent eruption

Posted on November 4, 2014

November 2014 – COSTA RICA - Among the observations by volcanologists conducting weekend inspections in the area around Costa Rica's Turrialba Volcano were craters in the earth measuring up to one meter in diameter – the result of rocks shooting out from the volcano. Experts from the National Seismological Network (RSN) and the Volcanological and Seismological Observatory of Costa Rica (OVSI-CORI) conducted the inspections in light of significant activity at the volcano that started last week. RSN volcanologist Gino González Ilama said the areas of impact are located on the south side of the volcano and cover 80 percent of the slope up to 400 meters from the volcano's crater. "We observed the impact of volcanic rock that had caused several craters on the ground. We believe the rocks were shot out of the volcano at speeds greater than 100 kilometers per hour, and this proves there is strong activity inside," González said.

Expelled ash again reached several areas north of San José, located 60 kilometers southwest of the volcano, and several areas in the provinces of Alajuela, Heredia and Limón. According to the RSN, it was the first time ash had appeared in Limón, falling on the city of Guápiles. "The Turrialba Volcano is very active," González

Montelimar (Drôme): 500 kilos of fish decimated by pollution Roubion

Hundreds of dead fish have been found since Wednesday on the shores of Roubion Montelimar. A disaster for the Federation fishing Drome had invested specifically in the repopulation of the river. Pollution of unknown origin.

By Philippe Bette | Published 10/25/2014 | 7:11 p.m., updated on 10/27/2014 | 24:18

Eight years of resettlement policy to naught ... fishermen who Drome habits on the banks of Roubion well have had to face the facts. Several hundred pounds of fish died due to pollution whose origin has not yet been formally established. The Federation of Fishing is devastated and she will complain: She had invested heavily in recent years reintroducing fine fish, zander, pike and carp in this stretch of water.

The prefect of the Drôme asked the Compagnie Nationale du Rhône to make a drop of water to reduce the pollution of the river. But fishing is obviously prohibited for the moment.

The National Aquatics Research Agency has commenced an investigation with regard to the sudden death of fish in the Sampur, Ralpalam and Kattankudy seas.

The agency stated that a team of officials have already been dispatched to the area to investigate the mysterious deaths. The mass deaths of fish at the Ralpalam sea started to occur on Friday.

The deaths have prompted the Fisheries Department to issue a temporary ban on fishing in these seas.

Meanwhile, according to our correspondent, death of fish has also been reported in the Puttalam and Kattankudy seas.

In Puebla, a weather phenomenon caused the death of thousands of fish in Lake Valsequillo.

"It is the water hovers and fish start to come, all are there in the bank and we believe that is a lack of oxygen," said Enrique Gomez settler.

"This is a cyclical phenomenon appeared I remember in October last year, is called thermocline and consisting of an abrupt warming of the water layers also makes a sharp reduction in the amounts of oxygen which kills fish," said Alberto Jimenez Merino Sagarpa delegate.

"There's the thick edge. If every year is, is temperature change, that is," said Ramon Aguilar, fisherman.

Shrimp exports are not expected to recover until next year's second quarter, as Thailand has yet to eliminate early mortality syndrome (EMS) from its shrimp farms.

"Overall shrimp exports remain in bad shape, with the conditions expected to be prolonged until next year," said Poj Aramwattananont, president of the Thai Frozen Foods Association.

"For this year, we expect the country's total production to reach only 200,000 tonnes, with export volume expected to fall by 25% from last year."

EMS first hit a shrimp farm in China in 2009, then moved through Vietnam before spreading to Thailand in mid-2012.

The outbreak has severely damaged the Thai shrimp industry and exports of related products.

Before the disease hit Asian farms, Thailand produced 500,000 to 600,000 tonnes of shrimp annually.

But that figure fell by 42% last year to 270,000 tonnes, while shrimp exports fell by 34% to 187,000 tonnes worth 60 billion baht.

Mr Poj said shrimp export value this year was expected to fall by 12% from last year.

"The Fisheries Department is raising baby shrimp available from imported foreign breeders and has started supplying them to farmers," he said.

"If the hatchery succeeds, we expect Thailand's shrimp farming will improve and exports recover accordingly, possibly in next year's second quarter."

Mr Poj said EMS would remain a threat to shrimp exports.

Other risks include lingering allegations of forced labour and human trafficking made by the US and EU and a possible termination of the Generalised System of Preferences (GSP) in European countries early next year.

If the GSP is cut, Thai processed shrimp will lose EU privileges next Jan 1, and import tariffs will rise to 12-20% from 7%.

In the first eight months of this year, Thailand shipped 89,462 tonnes of frozen shrimp, down 32% year-on-year. Value declined by 17% to US$1.16 billion.

The main market remains the US, which bought 35,000 tonnes, down by 23.9%, with a value of $454 million, down by 5.6%.

Shipments to the EU totalled 11,034 tonnes, down by 39.5%, with a value of $156 million, down 38.5%.

Exports to Japan reached 23,670 tonnes, down 38.2%, with a value of $283 million, down 30.5%.

A trip to the coast usually means you're going to see sea stars, but a mysterious disease is killing them along the West Coast. There had been a few reports of sick sea stars in Alaska, but recently in Sitka, the first mass die offs in the state were detected. Scientists in Sitka are tracking the progress.

Patty Dick lives on a boat in Thompson Harbor in Sitka. In the morning, when it's low tide and she has an extra moment, she goes out and checks on the sea stars living in the area.

Cases of Ebola in Sierra Leone are still rising quickly, campaigners have warned.

In rural parts of the country, the virus is spreading nine times faster than two months ago, a report from the Africa Governance Initiative (AGI) found.

AGI - an organisation set up by former UK Prime Minister Tony Blair - said rates are also increasing in the capital Freetown, where the virus is spreading six times faster than two months ago.

According to Rony Zachariah, coordinator of operational research for MSF, the Ebola impact on Sierra Leone is in fact "under-reported," AFP quotes.

"The situation is catastrophic. There are several villages and communities that have been basically wiped out. In one of the villages I went to, there were 40 inhabitants and 39 died," Zachariah told the agency. "Whole communities have disappeared but many of them are not in the statistics. The situation on the ground is actually much worse."

The latest figures from the World Health Organization (WHO) put the total number of dead at 4,951 out of 13,567 recorded cases.

But the real total could be up to 20,000 people dead, Zachariah argues. "The WHO says there is a correction factor of 2.5, so maybe it is 2.5 times higher and maybe that is not far from the truth. It could be 10,000, 15,000 or 20,000."

Zachariah also highlighted the shortage of healthcare workers in the country.

"You have one nurse for 10,000 people and then you lose 10, 11, 12 nurses. How is the health system going to work?" he said.

Even at this point, the pace of dealing with Ebola is slow, he added. "We might get a vaccine and a treatment... but even now we need to go much faster because the clock is ticking... We want action now."

Meanwhile, the latest cases of Ebola in Spain and the US have sparked fears of an even bigger outbreak, prompting Canada to step up its border security so as to limit the risk of infection spreading into the country.

The federal government announced on Friday it is suspending the processing of visa applications for residents and nationals who have been in Guinea, Liberia, and Sierra Leone in the last three months. The same goes for permanent residence applications. ... Full article

A project to bring Western Canadian oil to Eastern Canada.

In an alarming development, an aggressive mosquito capable of transmitting the deadly dengue hemorrhagic fever and other serious diseases was reportedly found in San Diego, California, for the first time this week.

Many of the viruses the mosquito can spread are endemic to Central America and Mexico.

Known as yellow fever mosquitoes, or by its scientific name the Aedes aegypti, the insects were found in offices at San Diego's 32nd Street Naval Station, the Los Angeles Times reported.

The same kind of mosquitoes were found Oct. 7 and Oct. 8 in the Los

German jets scrambled to face Russian planes

The Local | 29 Oct 2014, 16:27

German Eurofighters were scrambled on Tuesday to intercept seven Russian planes flying over the Baltic Sea in international airspace.

The two Eurofighter jets from Germany's Luftwaffe intercepted a group of Russian planes, including fighter jets and their escort.

The German pilots spotted two MiG-31s, two Su-34s, one Su-27 and two Su-24 attack planes, Latvia's military said.

Germany's Eurofighters were scrambled from the Amari base in Estonia where they are stationed as part of a Nato mission, The Aviationist reported.

They stayed with the Russian formation for around 25 minutes after they were spotted at around 3pm.

MOSCOW, October 29 (RIA Novosti) - Russia has successfully test-fired a Bulava submarine-launched ballistic missile \(SLBM\) from the Borey-class Yury Dolgoruky nuclear-powered submarine, the Russian Defense Ministry said Wednesday.

The missile was launched from the submerged submarine at a location in the Barents Sea and hit a designated target at the Kura test range on Russia's Kamchatka peninsula, the ministry said in a statement.

According to the statement, it was the first operational test launch of Bulava in line with the program of combat training. All previous launches were part of development testing.

The three-stage Bulava SLBM carries up to 10 independent warheads and has a range of Photos of Chinese soldiers crossing over the Asa-Pila-Maya Army camps into Indian territory were recently taken by villagers in Taksing circle in the disputed Arunachal Pradesh region, according to the New-Dehli-based Deccan Chronicle, in an Oct. 27 report.

Sources from the Indo-Tibetan Border Police said the incursion came to their notice about a month ago. The PLA soldiers returned across the Chinese border after a brief stay. A meeting was held at Kibithu in Anjaw district last week between representatives from China and India but the incursion was not mentioned during the discussion. The movement of Chinese soldiers was noticed by locals living in the Upper Subansiri district of the Taksing region.

China to buy 5,000 Russian air-to-air missiles: Japanese report

Staff Reporter | 2014-10-29 | 11:14 (GMT+8)

China is likely to purchase 5,000 R-73 and R-77 air-to-air missiles from Russia, writes Toshiyuki Roku, retired commander of the Japan Air Self-Defense Force's Air Development and Test Command, in an article for the Tokyo-based Japan Military Review.

Since China's domestic air-to-air missiles such as the PL-12, the SD-10A and the PL-9C were designed based on technology from Ukraine and are still unable to compete against US counterparts, the People's Liberation Army realizes that it needs the more advanced Russian missiles to go head to head against the US and Japan in any potential future air combat, Roku wrote. He said China has already bought 1,500 R-77 missiles and 3,300 R-73 missiles from Russia.

Iran: U.S. Is Still 'Number One Enemy'

Iran calls for 'the prosecution, trial and punishment of the White House'

The United States remains "the great Satan" and Iran's "number one enemy" Iranian military and defense officials said over the weekend in statements that also called for "the prosecution, trial, and punishment of the White House."

The inflammatory comments, released over the weekend by Iran's Defense Ministry and the Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC), come as nuclear negotiations between the United States and Iran reach a critical juncture.

Talks between Iran, the United States, and other

Western nations remain tense as the Nov. 24 deadline grows closer.

"The U.S. is still the great Satan and the number one enemy of the (Islamic) revolution and the Islamic Republic and the Iranian nation," the IRGC said in an organizational statement released Saturday to Iran's semi-official Fars News Agency, which has close ties to the group.

The IRGC called for economic sanctions on the country to be lifted, as well as for "the prosecution, trial and punishment of the White House leaders for their crimes against Iran in the nuclear talks over the past decades."

The Iranian Defense Ministry issued a similarly sharply worded statement on Sunday.

"In compliance with the will of the late Imam Khomeini and the wise guidelines of Supreme Leader of the Islamic Revolution (Ayatollah Seyed Ali Khamenei), the Iranian nation still sees the US as the number one enemy of the Islamic Revolution," the Defense Ministry statement reads.

The IRGC said that it would defend Iran against Western efforts to make the country more democratically oriented.

Raheel Raza, an intercultural and interfaith diversity consultant—and an award-winning Muslim journalist—is offering a strong warning to her Canadians. Raza wrote an open letter to Canadians that starts with these words: Canada is under attack.

"Since 9/11 and perhaps even before that, some of us Muslims have been insisting that Canada is not safe from terrorist attacks and that it's just a matter of time," she writes. "Yesterday we heard the shocking news that a Canadian soldier was run over in Quebec. Some people shrugged this off as the work of a mentally deranged person probably acting alone."

As she sees it, "We can either continue to believe in the handbook titled 'Radicalization for Dummies' and act vague and politically correct on clear indications of where the problem originates from, or we can take immediate action as Canadians."

The United Nations has warned that foreign jihadists are swarming into the twin conflicts in Iraq and Syria on "an unprecedented scale" and from countries that had not previously contributed combatants to global terrorism.

A report by the UN security council, obtained by the Guardian, finds that 15,000 people have travelled to Syria and Iraq to fight alongside the Islamic State (Isis) and similar extremist groups. They come from more than 80 countries, the report states, "including a tail of countries that have not previously faced challenges relating to al-Qaida".

The UN said it was uncertain whether al-Qaida would benefit from the surge. Ayman al-Zawahiri, the leader of al-Qaida who booted Isis out of Tribal leader Sheikh Naeem al-Ga'oud said that 75 members of his tribe were killed on Sunday while trying to escape the Islamic State (IS, formerly ISIS). They were gunned down and dumped near the town of Haditha.

"The number of people killed by Islamic State from Al-Bu Nimr tribe is 322. The bodies of 50 women and children have also been discovered dumped in a well," the country's Human Rights Ministry said on Sunday.

The Al-Bu Nimr tribe is a Sunni clan that has been fighting the Islamic State. The tribe held IS off in western Anbar province for weeks, before running out of fuel and ammunition. After the clan withdrew, IS rounded up the members and has been executing them since the beginning of last week.

Al-Ga'oud also told Reuters that IS fighters had killed 50 members of his tribe who were fleeing IS in Anbar province on Friday. They were on foot in a desert area of the province near Tharthar Lake when they were intercepted and killed by IS.

Al Qaeda Targets Oil Tankers, Sea Lanes

New call to wage economic jihad against U.S.

Al Qaeda is urging jihadists to conduct attacks on U.S. and foreign oil tankers and strategic sea lanes in a new global campaign of economic warfare against the United States, according to the terrorist group's latest English-language magazine.

"Even if a single supertanker (or even an ordinary westbound cargo-vessel) were to be attacked in one of the chokepoints or hijacked and scuttled in one of these narrow sea lanes, the consequences would be phenomenal," wrote al Qaeda member Hamza Khalid in the recently published, 117-page al Qaeda magazine "Resurgence."

The magazine is a key recruiting tool and propaganda organ for English speakers from the group once headed by Osama bin Laden, whose death is lamented in one article by current leader Ayman al Zawahiri. The magazine contains articles on al Qaeda's new drive in Southwest Asia, and recruiting women into its ranks, and makes vague references to al Qaeda's current feud with the rival Islamic State, that has seized parts of Syria and Iraq.

The article on economic warfare includes maps showing strategic shipping lanes around the world and key oil chokepoints, like the Strait of Hormuz in the Persian Gulf, where up to 35 percent of the world's ship borne oil passes, and Southeast Asia's Strait of Malacca, the strategic passage for oil from the Middle East to Asia.

Jordan's government has threatened to revoke its 1994 peace treaty with Israel after the Temple Mount was temporarily closed to both Jews and Muslims on Thursday, in an attempt to calm tensions after an Arab terrorist shot Temple Mount activist Yehuda Glick.

Mohammed Al-Momani, Jordan's Minister of Media Affairs and Communications and spokesperson for the Jordanian government, said the peace treaty is "under threat" if Israel continues "breaching" the status of the Temple Mount, Arabic-language Sky News reported, as cited by Yedioth Aharonoth.

He also threatened that Jordan had put together a plan to oppose the Israeli "breaches" on the Temple Mount and eastern Jerusalem.

The Jordanian minister criticized how Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu folded to Jordanian pressure and said he would keep the discriminatory status quo of the Temple Mount, but nevertheless closed the site on Thursday.

Washington (CNN) -- President Barack Obama on Thursday made official the long-held but rarely stated U.S. support for a future Palestinian state based on borders that existed before the 1967 Middle East war.

In the past, the United States has unofficially backed a two-state solution to the Israel-Palestinian conflict based on the borders in place prior to the war 44 years ago in which Israel seized the West Bank, Gaza Strip, Golan Heights and Sinai Peninsula.

In a major speech Thursday, Obama became the first president to formally endorse the policy, but he also acknowledged the need for modifications through the negotiating process due to conditions on the ground.

New Russian Boldness Revives a Cold War Tradition: Testing the Other Side

WASHINGTON — When the White House discovered in recent weeks that its unclassified computer systems had been breached, intelligence officials examined the digital evidence and focused on a prime suspect: Russia, which they believe is using its highly sophisticated cyber capabilities to test American defenses. But its tracks were well covered, and officials say they may never know for sure.

They have no doubt, however, about what happened this week on the edges of NATO territory in Europe. More than two dozen Russian aircraft, including four Tu-95 strategic bombers, flew through the Baltic and Black Seas, along the coast of Norway and all the way to Portugal, staying over international waters but prompting NATO forces to send up intercepting aircraft.

Taken together, they represent the old and the updated techniques of Cold War signal-sending. In the Soviet era, both sides probed each other's defenses, hoping to learn something from the reaction those tests of will created. In 2014, cyber is the new weapon, one that can be used with less restraint, and because its creators believe they cannot be traced and can create a bit of havoc without prompting a response.

Time to establish a new world order, says Putin

October 29, 2014 Nikolai Litovkin, Nikolay Surkov, RBTH

Russian President Vladimir Putin has called on the international community to establish a new world order with the aim of preventing future conflicts. Speaking at an international discussion forum in Sochi, Putin affirmed the immutability of Russia's position and called on the West to enter into a dialogue to solve today's problems.

Russian President Vladimir Putin has accused the United States of precipitating the collapse of the international security system and abusing its role as global hegemon

Speaking on Oct. 24 in Sochi during a meeting of the Valdai International Discussion Club, an annual forum which brings together experts from dozens of countries to debate the role of Russia in the world, Putin called for priority to be placed on building a new system of relations that would prevent global and interstate conflicts.

He laid the majority of the responsibility for today's problems on the United States, whose policies he said have led to the collapse of the global security system and a series of crises in the Middle East and Ukraine.

MOSCOW, October 30 (RIA Novosti) - The first Moscow's Buddhist temple, symbolizing Russia's religious diversity and promoting friendly interconfessional and interethnic relations, will be built in Russia's capital by 2017, Izvestia.ru reported Thursday.

"We need to be tolerant of people having various religious beliefs," said Renat Laishev, member of the Moscow City Duma Commission. "There are mosques, synagogues, Orthodox and Catholic churches in Moscow; the emergence of a Buddhist religious center is unlikely to cause much surprise."

The temple's construction will commence in spring 2015, in Moscow's Otradnoe region, the newspaper reports. The three-storey religious center will contain a meditation hall, library and cinema as well as a five-meter Buddha statue. The temple will offer its visitors Tibetan medicine, as well as acupuncture treatment. During special celebration days, parishioners will also be able to try Vietnamese, Tuvian, Buryat and Mongolian cuisine free of charge.

Most People Cannot Even Imagine That An Economic Collapse Is Coming

By Michael Snyder, on November 2nd, 2014

g+ Share Tweet Pinterest Email ShareThis

The idea that the United States is on the brink of a horrifying economic crash is absolutely inconceivable to most Americans. After all, the economy has been relatively stable for quite a few years and the stock market continues to surge to new heights. On Friday, the Dow and the S&P 500 both closed at brand new all-time record highs. For the year, the S&P 500 is now up 9 percent and the Nasdaq is now up close to 11 percent. And American consumers are getting ready to spend more than 600 billion dollars this Christmas season. That is an amount of money that is larger than the entire economy of Sweden. So how in the world can anyone be talking about economic collapse? Yes, many will concede, we had a few bumps in the road back in 2008 but things have pretty much gotten back to normal since then. Why be concerned about economic collapse when there is so much stability all around us?

Unfortunately, this brief period of stability that we have been enjoying is just an illusion.

The fundamental problems that caused the financial crisis of 2008 have not been fixed. In fact, most of our long-term economic problems have gotten even worse.

But most Americans have such short attention spans these days. In a world where we are accustomed to getting everything instantly, news cycles only last for 48 hours and 2008 might as well be an eternity ago.

Turner expected to make steeper cuts, 1,475 positions worldwide

Published: 18 hours ago

(VARIETY) — Layoff fever is spreading at Time Warner.

Weeks after the conglom went public with job cuts at its Warner Bros. and Turner Broadcasting divisions, the HBO unit is expected to trim its own staff as well, according to sources. Approximately 7% of its 2,400 employees face pink slips as early as this week.

A rep for HBO declined comment.

An internal email from HBO CEO Richard Plepler that was leaked to Variety made clear his division would not emerge unscathed. The message, which was circulated last week to HBO employees the day of the Time Warner presentation, discloses that a small layoff was in the offing before the start of November.

One of the world's leading investment banks says the benchmark price of North American oil is going to fall even further, to $70 US a barrel by next spring.

Investment bank Goldman Sachs slashed its forecast late Sunday night for both West Texas Intermediate (known as WTI) and Brent crude — the two most common types of oil used and sold in North America and Europe.

Goldman Sachs says WTI will go for $75 a barrel in the first three months of 2015. Brent, meanwhile, will change hands at $85 a barrel. Both forecasts are down $15 from what the bank was last expecting. And both are forecast to slip even lower in the second quarter — historically a seasonally low time for oil prices — before rebounding a little in the summer of 2015.

Federal Reserve ends quantitative easing bond-buying program

The Federal Reserve has officially announced an end to its quantitative easing bond-buying program, but economists are split over whether the central bank's decision will help or hinder post-recession recovery.

As expected, the Fed said Wednesday afternoon that its third and most recent round of quantitative easing, QE3, would come to an end.

From This Day Forward, We Will Watch How The Stock Market Performs Without The Fed's Monetary Heroin

By Michael Snyder, on October 29th, 2014

g+ Share Tweet Pinterest Email ShareThis

Mark this day on your calendars. The Dow is at 16974, the S&P 500 is at 1982 and the NASDAQ is at 4549. From this day forward, we will be looking to see how the stock market performs without the monetary heroin that the Federal Reserve has been providing to it. Since November 2008, the Fed has created about 3.5 trillion dollars and pumped it into the financial system. An excellent chart illustrating this in graphic format can be found right here. Pretty much everyone agrees that this has been a tremendous boon for the financial markets. As you will see below, even former Fed chairman Alan Greenspan says that quantitative easing was "a terrific success" as far as boosting stock prices. But he also says that QE has not been very helpful to the real economy at all. In essence, the entire quantitative easing program was a massive 3.5 trillion dollar gift to Wall Street. If that sounds unfair to you, that is because it is unfair.

So why is the Federal Reserve finally ending quantitative easing?

Well, officially the Fed says that it is because there has been so much improvement in the labor market...

The Fed's language, however, did suggest that they were getting more comfortable with the economy's improvement. It cited "solid job gains," citing a "substantial improvement in the outlook for the labor market," as well as pointing out that "underutilization" of labor resources is "gradually diminishing."

(CNSNews.com) – A new report by the Center for Immigration Studies (CIS) shows that the state with senators who both voted for the "Gang of Eight" immigration bill, which cleared the Senate in June, has 71 percent of its job growth going to foreign-born workers, including legal and illegal immigrants.

Sens. Jeanne Shaheen (D-N.H.) and Kelly Ayotte (R-N.H.) both voted for Senate Bill 744, which CIS calculated would have roughly doubled the number of new foreign workers allowed into the country and would have given legal status to millions of illegal aliens already in the country had the legislation been passed by the House and become law.

OCT 30 Obama Quietly Prepares 'Surge' of Millions of New Immigrant IDs

Despite no official action from the president ahead of the election, the Obama administration has quietly begun preparing to issue millions of work authorization permits, suggesting the implementation of a large-scale executive amnesty may have already begun. Unnoticed until now, a draft solicitation for bids issued by U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Oct. 6 says potential vendors must be capable of handling a "surge" scenario of 9 million id cards in one year "to support possible future immigration reform initiative requirements." The request for proposals says the agency will need a minimum of four million cards per year. In the "surge," scenario in 2016, the agency would need an additional five million cards – more than double the baseline annual amount for a total of 9 million. "The guaranteed minimum for each ordering period is 4,000,000 cards. The estimated maximum for the entire contract is 34,000,000 cards," the document says. More

Mississippi Court Rejects Request for Injunction Against Police Harassment of Christians

JACKSON, Miss. – A federal judge in Mississippi has denied a request for a preliminary injunction against a local police department accused of harassing and intimidating Christians who conduct pro-life outreach outside of the state’s last remaining abortion facility.

“[Our] request that pro-life advocates receive injunctive relief from harassment by the City of Jackson, Mississippi Police Department was denied by the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi Jackson Division,” wrote Tom Ciesielka of the Life Legal Defense Foundation in an update yesterday. “Despite hours of supportive testimony and a long and well documented history of police misconduct, Judge Carlton Reeves denied a preliminary injunction prohibiting the city police from further persecution of peaceful pro-life protesters.”

As previously reported, the Foundation filed suit in July against the Jackson Police Department on behalf of the organization Pro-Life Mississippi and eight Christians for what has been described as a “blatant and ongoing violation of free speech rights of pro-life advocates.”

The civil rights action “challenges specific police misconduct as well as policies, customs and practices of the City of Jackson, whereby it continually infringed, and continues to infringe, upon the free speech rights of citizens by unlawfully arresting, citing and threatening to arrest such citizens for conduct that is protected by the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution, as well as the Constitution of the State of Mississippi.”

“The Jackson Police Department has routinely harassed pro-life citizens, who have been peacefully exercising their legal right to oppose abortion in the public square and offer information about life-affirming alternatives to women seeking abortion,” stated foundation President Dana Cody.

The case centers on threats and arrests over the past year at Jackson Women’s Health Organization, the last remaining abortion facility in the state. Obamacare has been the subject of litigation since it was launched, and there have been numerous accusations – that it is unconstitutional, that it violates religious rights, that it invades privacy, that it goes beyond government authority by ordering consumers to purchase a product, and more.

Now a new lawsuit has been filed arguing that the Obama administration is using the law to attack groups of faith that do not support the White House agenda of contraception and abortion for all.

"On information and belief, plaintiffs allege that the purpose of the Final Mandate, including the restrictively narrow scope of the religious employers exemption, is to discriminate against religious organizations that oppose contraception and abortion," challenges a new lawsuit filed by attorneys with the Alliance Defending Freedom.

(CNSNews.com) - In its most recent assault on religion in the public sphere, the Freedom From Religion Foundation, an atheist group, has issued a complaint against Russellville High School in Russellville, Ala., after the school's head football coach allowed two students and an adult to be baptized on the team's practice field one afternoon after football practice.

Mark Heaton, the football team's head coach and the school's athletic director, told the Franklin County Times that several students on the football team had asked to be baptized after one of the team's captains, Austin Kitterman, had suffered life-threatening injuries in a four-wheeler accident only a few days before.

"This was something that the students came to me and told me they wanted to do," Heaton said, according to the report.

Christians who oppose the Houston mayor's attempt to censor what pastors say about her gay-rights agenda have sent hundreds of Bibles to her office at the request of a prominent conservative commentator.

Mayor Annise Parker, who is open about her lesbianism, acknowledged this week that her office had received Bibles from across the country following a protest campaign launched by former Arkansas Gov. and Republican presidential candidate Mike Huckabee, who is now a news analyst on FOX News.

"I would like to ask every pastor in America, send her your sermons," Huckabee said on his FOX News show on Oct. 20. "Everybody watching the show ought to send her a Bible."

A spokesperson with the mayor's office said that between 500 and 1,000 Bibles had arrived at the mayor's office so far.

"I consider being gay among the greatest gifts God has given me.", Apple CEO comes out of Closet

Apple CEO Tim Cook came out as gay in a powerful essay for Bloomberg Businessweek. In the essay, published Thursday, Cook said that he has never denied being gay, but has not publicly discussed his sexuality until now. "So let me be clear: I'm proud to be gay, and I consider being gay among the greatest gifts God has given me." He described how his sexuality has given him an acute social perspective. Being gay has given me a deeper understanding of what it means to be in the minority and provided a window into the challenges that people in other minority groups deal with every day. It's made me more empathetic, which has led to a richer life. It's been tough and uncomfortable at times, but it has given me the confidence to be myself, to follow my own path, and to rise above adversity and bigotry. It's also given me the skin of a rhinoceros, which comes in handy when you're the CEO of Apple. The revelation comes just days after Cook advocated on behalf of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender rights in his home state of Alabama. More

'Drag Race' Girls Star In First Starbucks LGBT Commercial

The Huffington Post | By James Nichols

Posted: 10/30/2014 1:13 pm EDT | Updated: 10/30/2014 1:59 pm EDT

Well here's one place we certainly didn't think we'd see the "RuPaul's Drag Race Girls" pop up.

Starbucks released what is reportedly its very first lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT)-themed commercial this week starring the top two contestants from "Drag Race" season six: Adore Delano and Bianca Del Rio. The commercial is cheeky, fun and a little bit silly, but it's nice to see these two gaining some more mainstream traction.

Starbucks has long been an ally to the queer community. Not only did the organization raise a Pride flag over its Seattle headquarters earlier this year, but the company's CEO famously told an anti-gay shareholder that he was free to "sell [his] shares of Starbucks and buy shares in another company" if he had a problem with the company's pro-gay values.

New York's Highest Court Unanimously Rules in Favor of Incest 'Marriage' Between Uncle and Niece

NEW YORK – New York's highest court, the Court of Appeals, has ruled that a marriage between a half-uncle and a half-niece is legal in a unanimous court decision.

According to the ruling, while "parent-child and brother-sister marriages . . . are grounded in the almost universal horror with which such marriages are viewed . . . there is no comparably strong objection to uncle-niece marriages."

The case revolved around a 34 year old Vietnamese citizen Huyen Nguyen, 34, who appealed to a ruling by an immigration judge declaring that her marriage in 2000 in Rochester was invalid. This ruling would have resulted to her deportation from the United States. Her husband, Vu Truong, 38, was her mother's half-brother. According to the couple's lawyer, Michael Marscalkowski, the case was not done for immigration purposes. The couple has stayed together for more than 14 years and husband Vu Truong works as a truck driver. They have no children together.

"This really was an all-or-nothing issue for them," Marscalkowski commented. "If this would have been denied, she would have been deported and sent back to Vietnam."

Marscalkowski said he won the case by focusing on the statutory provisions of the state's domestic-relations law.

The statute provided that "a marriage is incestuous and void whether the relatives are legitimate or illegitimate between either: 1. An ancestor and a descendant; 2. A brother and sister of either the whole or half-blood; 3. An uncle and niece or an aunt and nephew."

Incest is a crime punishable by a $50 to $100 fine and up to six months in jail.

Connect with Christian News

541k

On the matter of consanguinity or blood relations, Marscalkowski argued during court proceedings, that half-uncles and nieces share the same level of genetic ties as first cousins. This would only result to only one-eighth of the DNA.

الثاني لا نخاف

بطرس الأولى 3: 14

وَلَكِنْ وَإِنْ تَأَلَّمْتُمْ مِنْ أَجْلِ الْبِرِّ، فَطُوبَاكُمْ. وَأَمَّا خَوْفُهُمْ فَلَا تَخَافُوهُ وَلَا تَضْطَرُّوْا،

بل نفرح

رسالة بولس الرسول إلى أهل فيلبي 4: 4

افرحوا في الربِّ كلِّ حينٍ، وأقولُ أيضًا: افرحوا.

افرحوا لان عريسنا قد اقترب مجيؤه. وانتبهوا الشيطان يريد أن نفقد سلامنا ولا ننال أكاليل.

وأيضاً استعدوا فقد تسلموا وديعتكم في أي وقت فهناك 150 ألف شخص يموتوا في اليوم الواحد

انت لا تعرف متى ستكون منهم

المسيح اقترب فاصنعوا ثمار تليق بالتوبة واستعدوا لاستقبال العريس.

والمجد لله دائماً
