اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأيضاً أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن أيضاً علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. ونذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء

المسيح بل أيضاً قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر

هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان

عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيق اقتربت

جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشتر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم ياتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَأَن تُوْمِنُونَ.

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَاَنْتَصِبُوا وَاَرْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ».

Asteroid a MILE wide due to skim past Earth THIS WEEK - as experts warn of MASS EXTINCTION

A COLOSSAL asteroid hurtling through space is feared to be one of the biggest EVER to threaten a collision with Earth.

Asteroid 1999 FN53 will skim past Earth on May 14

The gigantic missile thought to measure almost a mile across will brush closer than previous monsters which have sparked a global panic.

Worried astronomers warned 1999 FN53, which is an eighth of the size of Mount Everest, will skim the Earth in THREE DAYS.

A collision would be nothing short of catastrophic triggering mass destruction, earthquakes and global extinction.

The monster is more than TEN TIMES bigger than other meteorites currently visible on NASA's Near Earth Object radar.

Peak of Eta Aquarid Meteor shower to illuminate Southeast skies May 5th and 6th

Posted on May 5, 2015

May 2015 – SPACE – The peak of the Eta Aquarid meteor shower is set for this week and favorable viewing conditions are in store for parts of the Southeast and Southwestern US. The shower's peak lasts from the evening hours of Tuesday, May 5, into the predawn hours of Wednesday, May 6, but meteors can still be seen several days before and after the peak, according to Slooh, a community observatory that has connected telescopes to the Internet for public use. The Eta Aquarids take their name from the star Eta Aquarii in the constellation Aquarius. Due to the fact Aquarius sits south of the celestial equator, those in the southern hemisphere will be able to view as many as 30-60 meteors per hour, according to Slooh. For northern stargazers, about half as many meteors will be seen near the peak, Slooh said.

Astronomy fans who will encounter inclement weather or cloudy skies can view Slooh's live broadcast of the meteor shower on the night of May 5. Slooh frequently airs live astronomy events by using its large network of community observatories from all around the world. After the event concludes, Slooh will show a replay of the event. While many in the Southeast and Southwest will have optimal viewing weather, others throughout the U.S. will not be as fortunate. Across the center of the nation, a slow-moving storm system that will first bring a flood threat and some severe thunderstorms to the southern High Plains later Monday into Tuesday, will prevent observers from getting a clear view, according to AccuWeather.com Senior Meteorologist Kristina Pydynowski.

Solar awakening: Sun unleashes X-2 class solar-flare

Posted on May 6, 2015

May 2015 – SPACE – STORM WARNING: NOAA forecasters estimate a 45% chance of polar geomagnetic storms on May 6th when a CME is expected to hit Earth's magnetic field. The CME was propelled in our direction on May 2nd by an erupting filament of magnetism in the sun's southern hemisphere. High-latitude sky watchers should be alert for auroras.

X-FLARE: The sun is no longer quiet. Emerging sunspot AR2339 unleashed an intense X2-class solar flare on May 5th at 22:11 UT. NASA's Solar Dynamics Observatory captured the extreme ultraviolet flash: A pulse of UV radiation and X-rays from the flare caused a strong radio blackout over the Pacific side of Earth. This map shows the extent of the blackout, which affected frequencies below 20 MHz. Mariners, aviators, and ham radio operators are the type of people who might have noticed the disturbance. The explosion also hurled a CME into space traveling faster than 1100 km/s (2.5 million mph), the expanding cloud does not appear to be heading for Earth. –Space Weather

Multiple Tornadoes Spotted, More Severe Ahead
 Watch this roof fly into the air after a tornado touched down briefly in Kansas. Meteorologist Danielle Banks shows who is still at risk for severe weather tonight.

A tornado outbreak is in progress in the Plains right now. At least 20 tornadoes have been reported in at least three states: Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma. Damage reports are coming in from across the region, particularly in communities southwest of Oklahoma City.

Here are the latest details on this breaking weather situation:

5/09/2015 – SNOW-NADO (COLD TORNADO) FORMS OVER COLORADO SPRINGS, CO

🕒 MAY 9, 2015 📍 MICHAEL JANITCH 💬 LEAVE A COMMENT

A rare "cold" tornado has formed, and the National Weather Service has issued a tornado warning for the area due East of Colorado Springs, CO.

As a former resident of the Colorado front range, I know the area around Colorado Springs quite well. The cold mountain air (below freezing) is mixing with the warm moist air of the plains (Kansas / Oklahoma).

The downdrafts from the upper slopes of the Rocky Mountains is usually quite strong, however the prevailing winds of the low pressure systems which press storms TOWARDS the mountains from the plains due to the counter-clockwise rotation of these large storms.

RED dust covered much of northwestern Victoria and the west of New South Wales yesterday, making its way into the border city of Mildura, Victoria, shortly after noon as gale force westerly winds culminated with a dust storm.

A cold front moved rapidly through western and central Victoria on Tuesday morning before weakening in the east in the afternoon.

The Bureau of Meteorology issued a severe weather warning for numerous districts, including the Mallee, late on Tuesday as damaging winds swept across the state.

Mildura weather station recorded a peak gust of 69 kilometres an hour about 11.41am. Gusts of up to 67km/h were still being felt as the thick dust moved in.

Strong quake rocks Papua New Guinea, tsunami threat lifted

By Kristen Gelineau | AP May 7 at 5:10 AM

SYDNEY — A powerful earthquake rattled Papua New Guinea on Thursday, the fourth strong quake to hit the South Pacific island nation in a week. The temblor prompted officials to issue a local tsunami warning, but it was lifted shortly afterward with no reports of damage.

The 7.1-magnitude quake struck about 150 kilometers (94 miles) southwest of the town of Panguna on Bougainville Island at a depth of 23 kilometers (14 miles), the U.S. Geological Survey reported.

The Pacific Tsunami Warning Center said tsunami waves of up to 1 meter (3 feet) were possible within 300 kilometers (186 miles) of the epicenter on the coast of Papua New Guinea. The agency lifted the warning about an hour later.

There were no reports of damage, said Chris McKee, assistant director of the Geophysical Observatory in the capital, Port

Mt. Fuji is located only about 25 kilometers from Mt. Hakone. While Mt. Fuji is also an active volcano, will the increased volcanic activity of Mt. Hakone have any effects on Mt. Fuji?

"The magma chambers located beneath Mt. Hakone and Mt. Fuji are not connected, so there is no effect on Mt. Fuji," said Toshitsugu Fujii, who chairs the Japan Meteorological Agency's Coordinating Committee for Prediction of Volcanic Eruptions.

5/10/2015 — NEW SWARM OF EARTHQUAKES NEAR JAPAN — MAJOR UNREST SHOWING SIGNS OFF SHORE

🕒 MAY 10, 2015 👤 MICHAEL JANITCH 💬 LEAVE A COMMENT

Last week a 5.7 magnitude earthquake struck off the shores of Japan, and produced a small tsunami wave.

Today (May 10 2015), another 5.7 magnitude earthquake has struck off the shores of Japan, this time accompanied by a noteworthy (large) swarm of earthquakes to follow the event.

It is troubling to see any noteworthy earthquake swarms along this particular trench / ridge, due to the location of the 9.0M mega-earthquake from 2011 being due North of this new swarm spot.

Above: May 10, 2015 earthquake swarm location along the Izu trench formation extending Southwards from Japan along the volcanic chain of islands, and underwater volcanoes. Nishinoshima to the South being a location of new island formation, and the 800 year silent volcano now coming to life along the North part of the Izu formation. This means the Izu chain is moving heavily, which is producing rapid new island growth, large earthquakes with uplift causing tsunamis, and dormant volcanoes showing movement to the North part of the ridge.

The Most Powerful Volcano in Kamchatka Releases Steam and Ash

Moscow, May 4 (Prensa Latina) The Kliuchevskoi, the most powerful existing chain giants in the Russian peninsula of Kamchatka volcano, today launched clouds of gas-steam and ash to a height of seven thousand five hundred meters above the level the sea.

Emissions were captured by the observatory of geophysics and volcanology, a subsidiary of the Academy of Science of Russia in the Far East.

The wind spread the ash cloud at a distance of 40 kilometers to the northeast, toward the Gulf of Ozernovskiy, and does not represent a danger for the populations, the regional Emergency Situations Ministry, in a report televised on federal channels said.

However, civil defense declared code yellow -alert averagely for aviation security and recommended to travelers refrain from organizing tourist expeditions in the area of the volcano, active since 1 January.

Kliuchevskoi ranks as the largest and most powerful active basaltic volcano in Eurasia, with four thousand 850 meters.

Actually it gives its name to a group of giants (Kliuchevskaya) located near the east coast of the peninsula as Ploski Tolbachik, Shiveluch and Kizimen responsible for the intense seismic activity in the region since late 2012.

The Kamchatka Peninsula in the Russian Far East, is part of the zone of high seismic activity on the planet, the Ring of Fire.

Volcanic earthquakes surge near Japan's Hakone Volcano – volcano hasn't erupted in 800 years.

Posted on May 6, 2015

May 2015 – JAPAN – The number of volcanic earthquakes recorded in Hakone, Kanagawa Prefecture, surged Tuesday, with 98 recorded before 3 p.m. compared with 34 for all of Monday, the Meteorological Agency said. The agency said it still believes the possibility that the Hakone volcano will erupt is low, and it is maintaining the alert level at 1 on the scale of 5. Level 1 means “normal.” However, hot steam could suddenly be expelled from the ground in or near the popular Owakudani Valley, the agency warned, urging people not to enter areas designated as off-limits. “Shallow hot-water activity in parts of the Owakudani Valley has become unstable,” the agency said in an advisory. “There is a possibility that a minor ejection (of hot steam) may suddenly occur,” it said. “Please do not enter danger zones.”

The warning, which comes in the middle of the Golden Week spring holidays, is expected to affect tourism there as some 20 million people, including many foreign tourists, visit the scenic area on an annual basis. It is one of the country's most famous hot-spring resorts. Of the quakes Tuesday, two that shook the area between 6 a.m. and 7 a.m. were strong enough to be felt. They registered level 1, or the lowest, on the Japanese intensity scale of 7, the agency said. The focus of both was about 10 km underground. Local officials have barred visitors from entering recreational trails and hiking courses in the valley. The number of volcanic Costa Rica's Turrialba volcano belched a column of gas and ash upwards of 6,000ft into the air on Monday (4 May).

An explosion on Monday afternoon lasting 28 minutes emanated from the volcano in central Costa Rica and ash reached parts of the capital San Jose some 30 miles away.

As Costa Rica's Turrialba Volcano erupts again, scientists warn of increased health risks, economic damage

Posted on May 11, 2015

May 2015 – COSTA RICA – At 4:55 a.m. Sunday, ash spilled from the crater of Costa Rica's Turrialba Volcano for nearly an hour. Though the ash barely left the crater, located about 67 kilometer northeast of the capital San José, the wind carried it into the Central Valley — for the umpteenth time in recent months. The eruption comes less than a week after the volcano shot a tower of ash 2.5 kilometers into the air, shutting down Juan Santamaria International Airport for the third time since March. Since Turrialba Volcano re-awoke last October, volcanic ash has dirtied homes, damaged crops and mucked up travel plans. With its frequent eruptions, the volcano has gone from an interesting diversion to a nuisance for nearby residents and visitors. And experts say the worst is yet to come. Future eruptions, they say, could jeopardize the health of humans and the environment. They could also cause serious economic damage.

"There is a very high possibility that [the volcano] will reach a higher level of activity," said Lidier Esquivel, the chief investigator of risk management for the National Emergency Commission (CNE). Scientists with both the Volcanological and Seismological Observatory of Costa Rica (OVSICORI) and the National Seismological Network (RSN) expect Turrialba's eruptions to gradually increase over the next few months until the volcano is erupting on a near weekly basis. Scientists have also confirmed that lava has reached the surface. "The volcano is already throwing lava, it is fragmented lava that is creating the ash," Guillermo Alvarado, coordinator for volcanic and seismic threats and monitoring for the Costa Rican Electricity Institute, said during a volcano roundtable event last week.

55: Hundreds evacuated as Indonesia's Karangetang volcano violently erupts in N. Sulawesi

Posted on May 9, 2015

May 2015 – INDONESIA – At least 465 people were evacuated from their houses in Siau Tagulandang Biaro district in North Sulawesi province on Friday following eruption of Karangetang volcano, a senior official at Indonesia's National Disaster Mitigation Agency (BNPB) said here. Impact of the active volcano's eruption has flattened several houses in Kora village in the region, BNPB Spokesperson Sutopo Purwo Nugroho said, adding that in the afternoon the volcano was still erupting lava, rocks and hot materials as far as several kilometers from the crater of the volcano.

"No death toll was recorded from the eruption. 465 people were sheltered in three sites located around 5 kilometers from the crater," Sutopo told Xinhua by phone. Sutopo said that hot clouds were seen engulfing the eastern and southern side of the volcano slopes. He added that the displaced people did not bring any of their belongings as they have been getting used to Karangetang's volcanic activities in the last few years. "Today's eruption was different from the previous ones as the hot cloud emitted from the eruption was the largest one by far, which made people have to evacuate," Sutopo added.

Sutopo said that the regional disaster mitigation agency has provided necessities for the refugees in the camps comprising of respirators, food supplies, cloths, blankets, baby foods and sleeping mats. He said that the latest eruption did not change the volcano's eruption which initially stated at level III, or stage of alert.

Alert Level 1: Mount Bulusan spews 250-meter ash plume

By Jean Rose Geronga, for CNN Philippines

Updated 09:31 AM PHT Thu, May 7, 2015

Legazpi City (CNN Philippines) — Mount Bulusan, an active volcano in Sorsogon in the Bicol region, spewed a 250-meter-high ash cloud at 9:46 p.m. on Wednesday, according to resident volcanologist Ed Laguerta of the Philippine Institute of Volcanology and Seismology (Phivolcs).

In an eruption notification posted through its Facebook page, the Office of Civil Defense in Bicol said that the ash explosion was generated by an earthquake.

"The explosion event lasted 3.5 minutes based on the seismic records," Phivolcs reported on its bulletin posted at its website at 8:00 a.m. on Thursday.

Hundreds flee rumbling Philippines volcano and typhoon

Hundreds of people fled their homes on the slopes of a rumbling Philippine volcano on Friday as authorities warned of rain-driven mudflows from an approaching typhoon that could bury them alive. Around 500 residents of farming villages around Bulusan volcano, many of them children and elderly women, boarded army trucks clutching sleeping mats and bags of clothes as Typhoon Noul bore down on the area. "I have no choice but to evacuate. I may not be strong enough to outrun the mud flows," 66-year-old housewife Dolores Guela told AFP.

Nicaraguan volcano dusts towns in ash

Published: 6:16 pm, Monday, 11 May 2015

Nicaragua's Telica volcano, the country's most active, has spewed fiery rocks and gases, dusting nearby towns with ash.

The volcano has registered 30 small eruptions since it rumbled to life on Thursday, the strongest yet occurring on Sunday night, according to the Nicaraguan Geological Institute.

'It spat hot rocks, gas and ash, reaching a height of 400 metres,' the agency said in a statement.

Is Axial Seamount erupting? Seafloor off the coast of Oregon has dropped 8 FEET due to movement in the 'wired' underwater volcano

- Geologists previously predicted Axial Seamount would erupt this year
- For more than a week the region has experienced thousands of tiny quakes
- Seafloor has also reportedly dropped by almost 8ft (2.4 metres)
- Both are said to be a sign of magma moving from beneath the summit

An undersea volcano situated 300 miles (480 km) off the coast of Oregon is thought to be erupting after signs of magma were spotted near its deep sea vent.

Geologists predicted the volcano, called Axial Seamount, would erupt this year during a public lecture in September.

And for more than a week the region has experienced thousands of tiny earthquakes - a sign that magma is moving towards the surface.

A large number of Magellanic penguins (Magellanic Penguin) were found dead between February and April 2015 on the coast of Tres Arroyos. The penguins were found dead or dying and they were juveniles few months of life, with a clear picture of malnutrition.

While were observed throughout the coast were finally counted and for methodological reasons only appeared dead between the mouth of Arroyo Claromecó and mouth Reta Arroyito, in the vicinity of the camp Ambrosius. The transept studied, with an area of 13 km, was census on foot or from a vehicle fortnightly along the middle and upper beaches between February 15 and April 12, 2015, examining and marking each dead bird.

The total of dead penguins found during the two months was 152 copies, although the actual number of corpses had to be more to this beach segment, because during the study period occurred were temporary and incidence of scavengers such as gray foxes, often they dragged the carcasses of birds outside the area inspected. Therefore we talk of a minimum of 152 dead penguins, knowing that the actual number could be significantly higher.

Three more avian influenza outbreaks were reported Tuesday, including two turkey farms in Buena Vista County and an egg-laying facility in Sioux County.

That pushes to 28 the total number of outbreaks in Iowa, the state Department of Agriculture said. About 20 million infected birds are slated to be destroyed, given updated state data.

About 19.5 million of the birds are laying hens and about 500,000, turkeys.

Iowa is the largest egg-producing state in the nation, with about 60 million laying hens.

The state agriculture department was unable to provide an estimate on the number of turkeys infected in Buena Vista County. It said about 60,000 laying hens are believed infected in Sioux County.

Additional tests are pending for the flocks at the National Veterinary Services Laboratories in Ames.

Rose Acre Farms said Tuesday it's depopulating its Winterset egg-laying operation after the virus was discovered last week. An estimated 1.5 million birds will be destroyed "to combat the risk of spreading avian influenza to other locations," said Tony Wesner, Rose Acre Farms' chief operating officer.

The Indiana-based company said it's closely monitoring all its facilities, but no other operations have been infected.

State and federal health officials have stressed that they consider the risk to people from the virus to be low. No human infections with the virus have been detected and

Devastated Hunter farmers count the cost

“Beef, dairy and oyster farmers, poultry sheds, wineries, horse studs and fishing boats were hit”

Cattle caught in Hunter Valley floodwaters.

THE FULL toll of the Hunter area's agricultural losses will take months to work out as shell-shocked farmers count the cost of last week's floods.

Beef producers, dairy and oyster farmers, poultry sheds, wineries, horse studs and fishing boats were hit.

Not one primary industry was spared.

At least five fishing boats were lost in storms and many more damaged in the Port Stephens area.

Local Land Services (LLS) said there could be more than 500 cattle dead from the floods.

Early estimates of the costs run into the millions.

A major issue for beef and dairy cattle is the lack of pasture after floodwaters wiped out established and just-sown forage crops.

Farmers do not expect to have feed until October at the earliest and are contemplating a winter of hand feeding.

Hunter LLS general manager Brett Miners said the focus had now shifted to long-term pasture losses.

No fewer than 160 poultry farms were quarantined and 400,000 birds culled, since the outbreak of avian influenza (bird flu) in Plateau four months ago. Mr John Dasar, the Chairman, Poultry Farmers Association of Nigeria (PAN) in the state, announced this at a sensitisation workshop on bio-security on Thursday in Jos. The workshop, aimed at behavioural change on bio-security, was organised for poultry farmers by the Federal Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Development in collaboration with the Nigerian Institute of Animal Science (NIAS)

Dasar said that with the prevalence of the disease in Plateau, no amount of awareness on its preventive measures would be enough.

"This workshop is timely, because poultry farmers in Plateau have suffered a lot of setback lately.

"Between January and now, more than 160 farms were affected by this dreaded disease and were quarantined, with 153 of them completely shot down.

"Similarly, no fewer than 400,000 birds were culled. Poultry business has sustained many families in Plateau.

"Now, if this ugly situation continues, do we think life will be as usual?" Dasar asked.

The chairman, however, accused some farmers of carelessness in handling the situation, thus resulting in further spread of bird flu in the state.

"The attitude of some farmers was not good, as many of them took measures that were not friendly, and so helping to spread the disease to farms of even close friends," he said.

Dasar appealed to the state government to look into the plights of poultry farmers by helping to proffer workable solution to the menace.

He also advised the government not to allow the poultry industry to collapse, saying "this may spell doom for the nation's Growth Domestic products (GDP)."

100,000 dead fish found in Nagoya canal

NATIONAL MAY. 08, 2015 - 07:00AM JST (7) Recommend 26

NAGOYA — Nagoya government officials said Thursday that around 100,000 dead fish had been found in a canal between May 3 and May 6.

The Nagoya Port Association said dead gizzard shad and gobies were found in an 8-kilometer-long stretch of canal between Nakagawa and Minato wards, Fuji TV reported.

A similar incident occurred two years ago, killing 230,000 fish.

Experts suggested one reason the fish may have died is because sludge at the bottom of the canal depleted the amount of oxygen in the water.

Residents complained Thursday about the smell of dead fish. The cleanup is expected to take another day.

Dozens of dead birds found along Tonawanda shoreline

By Callan Gray, News 4 Reporter

Published: May 8, 2015, 7:16 pm | Updated: May 8, 2015, 8:08 pm

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (WIVB) – At least two dozen birds have been found dead on the waterfront in the Town of Tonawanda.

"I've lived here my entire life, I've never seen something like this," said Katie Tatro, who alerted News 4 of the problem.

Tatro visited Aqua Lane Park earlier this week and told us she couldn't believe what she saw.

"The first thing I noticed was actually the smell," said Tatro. "You could smell it from very far away and as I got closer, it looked like these circular rocks and I saw it was over 20 dead ducks."

The property belongs to the DuPont Boat Club. They told News 4 they routinely clean the grounds and will get the birds off the rocks. On Friday, further down the shoreline, Town of Tonawanda employees picked up debris.

"I found a few dead birds that appear to be cormorants," said Dan Hudson, a crew chief with the Department of Parks and Recreation. "I found about six or seven, I bagged them up and I'm getting rid of them."

Bird Flu losses mount! 600,000 birds destroyed so far.

Posted by The Reporter Newspaper on May 8, 2015 at 8:06 am

By Benjamin Flowers
Staff Reporter

While poultry farmers continue to suffer massive losses due to an outbreak of bird flu, the Belize Poultry Association says it is resisting the temptation to increase prices. But losses are mounting and Ministry of Health officials estimate that more than 600,000 birds have had to be destroyed.

BPA spokesman Orlando Habet told The Reporter this week that the full extent of the loss has yet to be determined because the Ministry of Agriculture continues to seize and destroy birds found to be infected.

"We are hoping for increased production from the communities in the north such as Blue Creek, Ship Yard, and Little Belize, to make up for the shortfall in production from the west," Habet said. "Only if absolutely necessary will we be looking at putting in place some kind of temporary increase."

"Like every other commodity, poultry is subject to the laws of supply and demand, and the BPA cannot control any price increase that results from a shortage of poultry products, Habet said in an interview last month. He estimated that poultry farmers collectively stand to lose some $8 million by the time the crisis is over.

In January health officials discovered that birds from several farms in the Spanish Lookout area had tested positive for bird flu. Further testing revealed that the birds had contracted the H5N2 strain of the virus.

The costly effects of a virulent H5 strain of avian influenza keeps getting worse. Layoffs have begun in the poultry industry as thousands more birds are being slaughtered.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has now confirmed 122 cases of the disease, which can kill a bird in 48 hours (Tweet This). So far, nearly 24 million chickens and turkeys from more than a dozen states have been affected since December. The mounting numbers top the previous record outbreak from the 1980s, which hit 17 million birds.

An egg-laying operation in southern Minnesota with 1.1 million hens has been hit by the bird flu, the largest single incident in the state since the lethal virus surfaced two months ago.

The big hen flock in Nicollet County is one of eight more Minnesota farms with presumptive positive tests for the H5N2 virus, bringing the total to 80, the Minnesota Board of Animal Health announced Monday. The Nicollet County farm — one of the state's largest — is

U.S. bird flu outbreak may mean no turkey for Thanksgiving

The largest-ever U.S. outbreak of avian influenza, which has devastated Midwestern poultry and egg producers in recent weeks, could be felt at Thanksgiving tables across the nation come November, farmers and some trade groups say.

The virulent H5N2 strain has already spread to 14 states and led to the deaths or scheduled euthanizations of more than 21 million birds, including 3.3 million turkeys in Minnesota, the nation's top turkey producer.

VIDEO

Video: Millions of hens euthanized in midwest bird flu outbreak

And now, with Thanksgiving just seven months away, farmers say they may be running out of time to raise enough turkeys – the traditional centerpiece of holiday feasts – to meet the demand.

Once a farm has been infected, flocks must be culled, composted in barns, then disposed of. Buildings must then be thoroughly disinfected. The whole process can take up to three months before a new flock of turkey poults can be brought in, said Steve Olson, executive director of the Minnesota Turkey Growers Association.

After chicks are re-introduced to the barns, farmers say, it typically takes about four months to produce a full-sized hen – the type of turkey most Americans prefer for their holiday feasts.

If breeder farms that supply the young birds have also been infected – as some in Minnesota have – simply acquiring the chicks could prove challenging.

And in Minnesota, there's still no sign of an end to the outbreak, despite tight biosecurity measures and quarantines. Already, at least one turkey processing plant has cut back on workers' shifts because of a lack of birds to slaughter.

CANCEROUS FISH CAUGHT IN SUSQUEHANNA RIVER

"Testament to the realities of water pollution"

by AOL NEWS | MAY 7, 2015

This shocking catch is a testament to the realities of water pollution. A smallmouth bass was pulled from Pennsylvania's Susquehanna River with a massive tumor jutting out of its body.

Following the catch, the Pennsylvania Fish and Boat commission ordered lab testing to further investigate the state of the Susquehanna River. The lab found that the smallmouth bass' tumor was indeed cancerous, a clear indicator that water pollution was adversely effecting the river's inhabitants.

Not only is the water pollution a major environmental threat, it puts Pennsylvania's thriving fishing industry at risk as well.

"As we continue to study the river, we find young-of-year and now adult bass with sores, lesions and more recently a cancerous tumor, all of which continue to negatively impact population levels and recreational fishing," said John Arway, the executive director of the commission.

Three sets of military exercises kicked off in Europe on Monday, involving thousands of servicemen from a variety of NATO nations and their allies, amid a wave of similar action across the area.

Estonia is holding its largest-ever military drills. Named Siil-2015 (Hedgehog), the maneuvers involve about 13,000 personnel. The number includes about 7,000 reservists, along with members of the volunteer Estonian Defense League.

Siil-2015, scheduled to last until May 15, also involves forces from the US, the UK, Germany, Latvia, Lithuania, Belgium, Poland and the Netherlands. American troops, who are staying in Estonia as part of the massive training operation Atlantic Resolve, will bring four Abrams main battle tanks to the exercise. China's military plans to produce nearly 42,000 land-based and sea-based unmanned weapons and sensor platforms as part of its continuing, large-scale military buildup, the Pentagon's annual report on the People's Liberation Army (PLA) disclosed Friday.

China currently operates several armed and unarmed drone aircraft and is developing long-range range unmanned aerial vehicles (UAVs) for both intelligence gathering and bombing attacks.

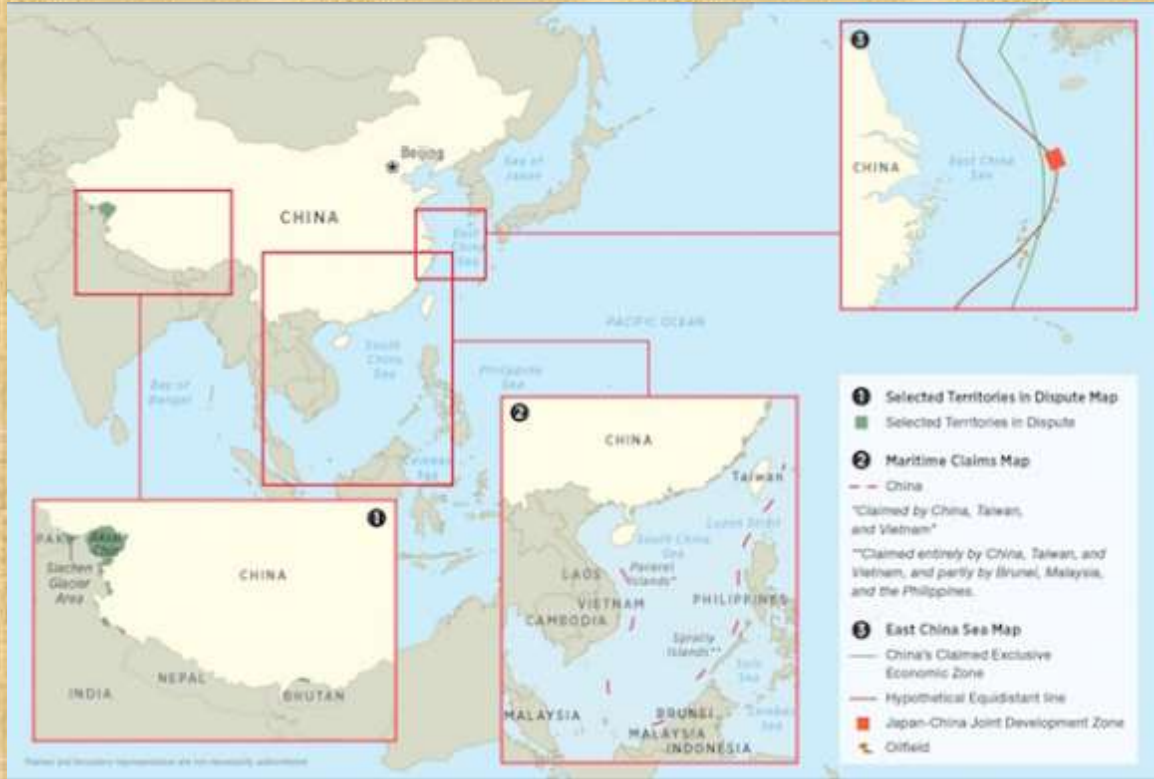

"The acquisition and development of longer-range UAVs will increase China's ability to conduct long-range reconnaissance and strike operations," the report said.

China's ability to use drones is increasing and the report said China "plans to produce upwards of 41,800 land- and sea-based unmanned systems, worth about $10.5 billion, between 2014 and 2023."

Four UAVs under development include the Xianglong, Yilong, Sky Saber, and Lijian, with the latter three drones configured to fire precision-strike weapons.

"The Lijian, which first flew on Nov. 21, 2013, is China's first stealthy flying wing UAV," the report said.

The drone buildup is part of what the Pentagon identified as a decades-long military buildup that last year produced new multi-warhead missiles and a large number of submarines and ships.

N. Korea Submarine Missile Allows Covert Nuclear Strike on US

Regime tests nuclear-capable missile from underwater for first time, as officials blame Obama for allowing 'tragedy.'

In a worrying step showing North Korea's rapidly expanding nuclear strike capabilities, the Communist regime recently held a test of a new submarine-launched ballistic missile (SLBM), the first time it has launched a missile capable of carrying a nuclear warhead from underwater.

According to US defense officials cited by the Washington Free Beacon on Tuesday, the test took place on April 22 from an underwater test platform near the coastal city of Sinpo in the southeast of the country, and tested what the US is calling a KN-11 missile.

The test appears to have been successful, and is the third KN-11 test showing the high-priority of the nuclear missile program for North Korea. Previous tests in January and last October were from a sea-based platform not underwater and a land-based platform.

The KN-11 joins the KN-08 mobile intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) as being part of a varied North Korean missile arsenal on platforms that would be hard for the US to detect, and consequently allow a strike that would be difficult to shoot down.

North Korea says it has test-fired a new underwater ballistic missile, describing it as a "world level strategic weapon."

North Korean leader Kim Jong-un was at the site of the event and gave the order of the missile launch from an attack submarine, the country's official Korean Central News Agency (KCNA) reported early on Saturday.

According to the KCNA, the weapon was developed based on a plan proposed by Kim.

Describing the test as an "eye-opening success," Kim stressed that the North Korean army is capable of "striking and wiping out in any waters the hostile forces."

It is not still clear that the missile was the controversial KN-11, the North Korean submarine-launched ballistic missile reportedly under development.

Experts: Obama Helping Iran Become Nuclear Threshold State

Former State Department official: 'They'll be on the one-inch line for dozens of nuclear weapons, an arsenal'

BY: Daniel Wiser Follow @TheWiserChoice

Repeated concessions by the Obama administration during ongoing nuclear talks with Iran have all but guaranteed that the Islamic Republic will emerge as a nuclear threshold state that could build a weapon with little effort, according to arms control experts who testified before the House Foreign Affairs Committee on Wednesday.

Stephen Rademaker, national security adviser for the Bipartisan Policy Center and former assistant secretary of state for arms control, international security, and nonproliferation during the George W. Bush administration, said during the hearing that the recent preliminary deal "fundamentally signifies acceptance by the international community of Iran as a nuclear weapons threshold state."

President Barack Obama has touted the framework agreement completed at the end of March as a deal that would extend Iran's nuclear breakout time—the duration required to amass enough nuclear material for a weapon—to a year. But he also acknowledged earlier this month that at the end of a 10-to-15-year deal, Tehran's breakout time would be "almost down to zero."

"What we're agreeing to here is a pathway, a process, but at the end of that pathway, 10 to 15 years, the football will be on the one-inch line," Rademaker said. "That close to having a nuclear weapon. That fundamentally is what is being agreed to here."

He added that the framework deal is a "huge retreat" from previous U.S. negotiating positions and a "big victory for Iran."

Footage of a mocked-up version of a U.S. aircraft carrier being destroyed by an Iranian warship / AP

Update 5:04 P.M.: The Pentagon said Wednesday afternoon following publication of this article that it is aware of the Iranian reports, but that "no such interaction has occurred" as it was described.

An Iranian naval fleet chased a U.S. warship and military planes through the waters off the southern coast of Yemen late Monday in yet another provocative encounter between the two nations, according to Iranian state media reports.

A U.S. warship and several planes reportedly "changed their direction" on Monday after encountering an Iranian naval fleet during a patrol in the Gulf of Aden near Yemen, Iranian state media revealed.

The U.S. military assets fled "after they came close to an Iranian naval fleet and were warned to move away," Iran's state-controlled Fars News Agency reported. Iran also released video of the incident.

The run-in between the United States and Iranian militaries is just the latest in several tense confrontations between the countries near Yemen, where Iran is believed to be smuggling weapons to opposition forces.

The United States moved military assets in the region in a bid to stop Iran from moving weapons into Yemen. Iranian war fleets have been patrolling international waters around Yemen in recent weeks.

Iranian media now claims that the Islamic Republic's naval fleets chased after two U.S. reconnaissance planes and a Navy destroyer.

DEBKAfile reports exclusively from Washington: US President Barack Obama did not wait for Benjamin Netanyahu to finish building his new government coalition by its deadline at midnight Wednesday, May 6, before going into action to pay him back for forming a right-wing cabinet minus any moderate figure for resuming negotiations with the Palestinians.

Banking on Netanyahu's assertion while campaigning for re-election that there would be no Palestinian state during his term in office, Obama is reported exclusively by our sources to have given the hitherto withheld green light to European governments to file a UN Security Council motion proclaiming an independent Palestinian state. Although Netanyahu left the foreign affairs portfolio in his charge and available to be filled by a suitably moderate figure as per the White House's expectations did not satisfy the US President.

The White House is confident that, with the US voting in favor, the motion will be passed by an overwhelming majority and therefore be binding on the Israeli government.

To show the administration was in earnest, senior US officials sat down with their French counterparts in Paris last week to sketch out the general outline of this motion. According to our sources, they began addressing such questions as the area of the Palestinian state, its borders, security arrangements between Israel and the Palestinians and whether or not to set a hard-and-fast timeline for implementation, or phrase the resolution as a general declaration of intent.

Incorporating a target date in the language would expose Israel to Security Council sanctions for non-compliance.

It was indicated by the American side in Paris that the Obama administration would prefer to give Netanyahu a lengthy though predetermined time scale to reconsider his Palestinian policy or even possibly to broaden and diversify his coalition by introducing non-aligned factions or figures into such key posts as foreign affairs. At the same time, both American and French diplomats are already using the club they propose to hang over the Netanyahu government's head for gains in other spheres.

French President Francois Hollande, for instance, the first foreign leader ever to attend a Gulf Council of Cooperation summit, which opened in Riyadh Tuesday to discuss Iran and the Yemen war, used the opportunity to brief Gulf Arab rulers on Washington's turnaround on the Israeli-Palestinian issue.

And US Secretary of State John Kerry plans to present the Obama administration's new plans for Palestinian statehood to Saudi leaders during his visit to Riyadh Wednesday and Thursday, May 6-7. Kerry will use Washington's willingness to meet Palestinian aspirations as currency for procuring Saudi and Gulf support for a Yemen ceasefire and their acceptance of the nuclear deal shaping up with Iran.

Netanyahu Told Kerry: Don't Visit Israel to Discuss 'Peace Process'

Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu turned down a proposed visit from US Secretary of State John Kerry following the Israeli elections, saying it would be better to visit after a government coalition is formed. The purpose of the visit may have been to revive the moribund Israeli-Palestinian peace process, pundits say. The deadline for Netanyahu to form a coalition is May 6 at 8 PM. The report came from Israel's Channel 2 news station. Correspondent Udi Segal suggested that Kerry was seeking reassurances that Israel was willing to move forward on negotiations with the Palestinian Authority. During his campaign, Netanyahu said that there would be no Palestinian state created on his watch. He later clarified that he meant that current conditions were not right for the creation of a Palestinian state.

JIMMY CARTER: UNLIKE NETANYAHU, THE LEADER OF HAMAS IS REALLY COMMITTED TO PEACE

"When thou comest nigh unto a city to fight against it, then proclaim peace unto it. And if it will make no peace with thee, but will make war against thee, then thou shalt besiege it:"

Deuteronomy 20:10,12 (KJV)

Former US president Jimmy Carter called Hamas leader Khaled Mashaal a strong proponent of the peace process Saturday, and said he wasn't meeting with Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu because it would be "a waste of time."

The president, who has been visiting Israel and the West Bank, met with Palestinian Authority President Mahmoud Abbas Saturday but didn't meet with Netanyahu or President Reuven Rivlin.

Days after a terrorist attack in Texas for which ISIS has claimed responsibility, the U.S. military has raised its alert level for bases in North America to its highest since the 10th anniversary of 9/11.

The move to level "Bravo" was not based on specific threats from ISIS but was "informed by recent events," a spokesman for U.S. Northern Command told Fox News.

"Bravo," the third of five levels of alert, requires increased security at military posts in the country.

FBI Director James Comey warned Thursday of domestic threat from ISIS sympathizers, saying hundreds and possibly thousands of people in America are following ISIS on social media and consuming their "poison."

Pentagon: Texas has nothing to fear from upcoming military exercise

BY JAMES ROSEN

McClatchy Washington Bureau May 4, 2015

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon has a message for Texas: chill.

Defense officials Monday dismissed as "wild speculation" an Internet-fueled claim that a massive summertime exercise called Jade Helm 15 for special operations commandos is a covert operation by President Barack Obama to take over Texas.

That claim was given legitimacy by Texas Gov. Gregg Abbott's order last week for the Texas State Guard to monitor the exercises.

"Operation Jade Helm poses no threat to any American's civil liberties," Army Col. Steve Warren, a Pentagon spokesman, said Monday. "Operation Jade Helm is being conducted by Americans — by, specifically, American special forces personnel."

Jade Helm 15 will be one of the biggest peacetime military exercises in six decades. Starting July 15 and lasting two months, thousands of Army Rangers, Green Berets, Navy SEALs and other special operations forces will simulate war missions in mainly Sperm cells have been grown in the laboratory for the first time, scientists have claimed, raising the prospect of a treatment for infertile men.

A company in France claims to have successfully turned scraps of genetic material into complete fully-functioning sperm - a world-first.

If the breakthrough can be verified, it may prove life-changing for the tens of thousands of men around the world who cannot produce their own sperm.

Top-secret documents from the archive of former NSA contractor Edward Snowden show the National Security Agency can now automatically recognize the content within phone calls by creating rough transcripts and phonetic representations that can be easily searched and stored.

The documents show NSA analysts celebrating the development of what they called "Google for Voice" nearly a decade ago.

Though perfect transcription of natural conversation apparently remains the Intelligence Community's "holy grail," the Snowden documents describe extensive use of keyword searching as well as computer programs designed to analyze and "extract" the content of voice conversations, and even use sophisticated algorithms to flag conversations of interest.

The documents include vivid examples of the use of speech recognition in war zones like Iraq and Afghanistan, as well as in Latin America. But they leave unclear exactly how widely

Surge in US 'brain-reading' patents

🕒 7 May 2015 | Technology

There has been a dramatic rise in the number of technology patents filed that relate to reading brainwaves.

Fewer than 400 so-called neuro-technology patents a year had been filed in 2000-09, research company SharpBrains said. But that had doubled to 800 in 2010. And 1,600 such patents had been lodged in the US in 2014.

Experts Are Warning That The 76 Trillion Dollar Global Bond Bubble Is About To Explode

Warren Buffett believes "that bonds are very overvalued", and a recent survey of fund managers found that 80 percent of them are convinced that bonds have become "badly overvalued". The most famous bond expert on the planet, Bill Gross, recently confessed that he has a sense that the 35 year bull market in bonds is "ending" and he admitted that he is feeling "great unrest". Nobel Prize-winning economist Robert Shiller has added a new chapter to his bestselling book in which he argues that bond prices are "irrationally high". The global bond bubble has ballooned to more than 76 trillion dollars, and interest rates have never been lower in modern history. In fact, 25 percent of all government bonds in Europe actually have a negative rate of return at this point. There is literally nowhere for the bond market to go except for the other direction, and when this bull market turns into a bear it will create chaos and financial devastation all over the planet.

In a recent piece entitled "A Sense Of Ending", bond guru Bill Gross admitted that the 35 year bull market in bonds that has made him and those that have invested with him so wealthy is now coming to an end...

Greece has revealed it is to introduce a surcharge for all cashpoint withdrawals and financial transactions in a desperate attempt to prevent citizens withdrawing their money from the country's beleaguered banks.

Ministers hope the controversial move could raise as much as €180 million, which the Athens government hopes will help the country avoid defaulting on debts owed to international creditors.

As the Greek economy teeters on the verge of bankruptcy, millions of panicking citizens have completely cleared their accounts - pulling more than €28 billion out of banks and pushing the total cash revenue held in the country's financial institutions to a 10-year low.

Americans Not In The Labor Force Rise To Record 93,194,000

In what was an "unambiguously" unpleasant April jobs payrolls report, with a March revision dragging that month's job gain to the lowest level since June of 2012, the fact that the number of Americans not in the labor force rose once again, this time to 93,194K from 93,175K, with the result being a participation rate of 69.45 or just above the lowest percentage since 1977, will merely catalyze even more upside to the so called "market" which continues to reflect nothing but central bank liquidity, and thus - the accelerating deterioration of the broader economy.

Georgia Town to Remove Christian Flag Flying Over City Hall

COCHRAN, Ga. — May 4, 2015, 6:01 PM ET

 58  35  0  156 Comments

Leaders of a central Georgia city say they'll remove a Christian flag flying over City Hall.

The Atlanta Journal-Constitution reported Monday (<http://bit.ly/1OURSgi>) that Cochran city officials voted, against the advice of the city attorney, to fly a Christian flag over City Hall.

The move prompted a response by the Washington-based Americans United for Separation of Church and State. The group sent letters to city and county officials saying flying the flag violated the First Amendment. The group's Executive Director Rev. Barry W. Lynn said in a statement that flying the flag gives the impression that city officials favor one religion over others.

Cochran city officials said in a statement that they got a second opinion from a constitutional law attorney and voted 4-1 to remove the flag Friday.

Federal Judge Rules North Carolina Commissioners Can't Present Prayers Only in Jesus' Name

ROWAN COUNTY, Md. — A federal judge in North Carolina has ruled that commissioners in one local county can't present prayers only in Jesus' name even if they all are Christians because doing so isn't "nondiscriminatory" toward other religions and elevates Christianity in government.

As previously reported, the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) and ACLU of North Carolina Legal Foundation (ACLU-NCLF) had filed suit against the Rowan County commissioners in March 2013, complaining that their invocations have asserted that "there is only one way to salvation, and that is Jesus Christ," and thank the Lord for the "virgin birth," the "cross at Calvary" and "the resurrection."

"I want my local government to be open and welcoming to people of all beliefs," Nan Lund, a local resident who is among three plaintiffs named in the suit, stated in a news release announcing the legal challenge. "But when officials begin a public meeting with prayers that are specific to only one religious viewpoint, I feel unwelcome and excluded."

In July 2013, federal Judge James A. Beaty Jr., nominated to the bench by then-President Bill Clinton, sided with the ACLU and the three complainants, ordering the commissioners to end their Christian prayer practice while the case moves forward in court.

"Defendant Rowan County, North Carolina is hereby enjoined from knowingly and/or intentionally delivering or allowing to be delivered sectarian prayers at meetings of the Rowan County Board of Commissioners during the pendency of this suit," he wrote in his order.

On Monday, Beaty issued his final decision, declaring the prayers predominantly in Jesus' name to be unconstitutional.

"The practice fails to be nondiscriminatory, entangles government with religion, and over time, establishes a pattern of prayers that tends to advance the Christian faith of the elected commissioners at the expense of any religious affiliation unrepresented by the majority," he wrote.

FBI director says Islamic State influence growing in U.S.

WASHINGTON — In a dramatic assessment of the domestic threat posed by the Islamic State, FBI Director James Comey said Thursday there are "hundreds, maybe thousands" of people across the country who are receiving recruitment overtures from the terrorist group or directives to attack the U.S.

Comey said the Islamic State, also known as ISIL, is leveraging social media in unprecedented ways through Twitter and other platforms, directing messages to the smartphones of "disturbed people" who could be pushed to launch assaults on U.S. targets.

"It's like the devil sitting on their shoulders, saying 'kill, kill, kill,'" Comey said in a meeting with reporters.

The FBI director's comments come in the midst of a federal investigation into a foiled attack in Garland, Texas, involving two ISIL sympathizers, one of whom, Elton Simpson, was long known to federal authorities.

Comey said Thursday that hours before the attempted Garland attack, FBI agents sent a bulletin to local authorities indicating that Simpson may have been interested in traveling there from Phoenix to attend the conference featuring controversial cartoon depictions of the prophet Mohammed. At the time, Comey said, agents did not have specific information that Simpson had targeted the meeting.

The 30-year-old Simpson and associate Nadir Soofi, 34, were fatally shot by a police officer Sunday night after the pair launched a bungled attack on the conference.

The largest school district in Virginia is expanding its non-discrimination policy to include gender identity over the loud objections of parents, and the Obama administration intends to impose the change on every public school district in the country.

On Thursday, the Fairfax County School Board voted overwhelmingly to expand it's non-discrimination policy to accommodate transgender teachers and students. The vote came after the second of two boisterous hearings, at which parents overwhelmingly opposed the change.

فالاضطهاد يزيـد والاضطراب يزيـد والزلازل والابوءة والفساد الأخلاقي يزيـد والاحاد يزيـد

الأول نصلي ونستعد ونعد زيت لمصاييحنا لاستقبال العريس بالصلاة والصوم وخدمة أبناء الله
وتنقية القلب والاستعداد بلبس العرس.

رسالة بولس الرسول الي أهل رومية 13

13: 11 هذا وأنكم عارفون الوقت انها الان ساعة لنستيقظ من النوم فان خلاصنا الان أقرب مما كان حين امنا

13: 12 قد تنهى الليل وتقارب النهار فلنخلع اعمال الظلمة ونلبس اسلحة النور

13: 13 لنسلك بلباقة كما في النهار لا بالبطر والسكر لا بالمضاجع والعهر لا بالخصام والحسد

13: 14 بل البسوا الرب يسوع المسيح ولا تصنعوا تدبيرا للجسد لأجل الشهوات

احترس ان لم تتمسك بالمسيح من الان قد لا تستطيع في المستقبل القريب بسبب الظلام.

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

بطرس الأولى 3: 14

وَلَكِنْ وَإِنْ تَأَلَّمْتُمْ مِنْ أَجْلِ الْبِرِّ، فَطُوبَاكُمْ. وَأَمَّا خَوْفُهُمْ فَلَا تَخَافُوهُ وَلَا تَضْطَرُّوْا،

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَانَ تُؤْمِنُونَ.

ثالثا لنتنبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَاَنْتَصِبُوا وَارْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ.»

وأیضا استعدوا فقد تسلموا وديعتكم في أي وقت فهناك 150 ألف شخص يموتوا في اليوم الواحد

انت لا تعرف متى ستكون منهم

المسيح اقترب فاصنعوا ثمار تليق بالتوبة واستعدوا لاستقبال العريس.
