والعلامات حتى 23 يونية 2015

Holy_bible_1

اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأیضا أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن ایضا علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. ونذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء

المسيح بل ایضا قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر

هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان

عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيقة اقتربت

جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن
ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشتر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي
بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم ياتي المسيح في
زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

المسيح قال بعض العلامات مثل

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

السماء

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

أولا لكيلا نرتاع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَأَن تُوْمِنُونَ.

ثالثا لننتبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَاَنْتَصِبُوا وَاَرْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ».

Another massive rock that could wipe out mankind ‘flying past Earth tomorrow’

SIGNS IN THE HEAVENS – An asteroid that has been hurtling towards earth amid fears it could wipe out all life is due to fly past the planet TOMORROW. Many people around the globe have spent the last week preparing for the ‘asteroid apocalypse’, and this latest rock will reach us tomorrow – but speed right past. The massive space rock has been closely monitored by scientists at NASA as it has the potential to completely devastate the entire world. An internet channel, the Slooh telescope, is monitoring the rock’s movements tomorrow and is planning to show its journey live online.

The M3-class explosion caused a brief shortwave radio blackout over North America, and it hurled a CME into space. SOHO (the Solar and Heliospheric Observatory) recorded a movie of the expanding cloud:

The CME is not heading directly for Earth. Nevertheless, it is probably geoeffective. According to NOAA computer models, the CME should deliver a glancing blow to our planet's magnetic field during the late hours of June 21st. High-latitude sky watchers should be alert for solstice auroras. Aurora alerts: text, voice

Earth's Mysteriously Light Core Contains Brimstone

Biblical views of the center of the Earth as a hellish pit raging with fire and brimstone have some support from new research. Scientists have found that the vast majority of brimstone — reverently referred to in biblical times as "burning stone," but now known more commonly as sulfur — dwells deep in the Earth's core.

"In a way, we can also say that we have life imitating art," study lead author Paul Savage, a research scientist in the Department of Earth Sciences at Durham University in the United Kingdom,

Wildfires have destroyed more than 45,000 acres in the West this week. At least ten major fires are burning in Arizona, California, Oregon and Alaska.

One of the biggest is in the San Bernardino Mountains, east of Los Angeles. Helicopters are attacking the 11,000-acre fire from above, as hundreds of firefighters battle it on the ground. About 400 campers and residents were ordered to evacuate the heavily-wooded area.

Further north in California, a wildfire in the Sierra National Forest south of Yosemite National Park has grown to over 500 acres. For now, the fire threatens four buildings but it destroyed Roy

Mystery: a strange, remarkable earthquake hit Wyoming

Posted on June 15, 2015

June 2015 – GEOLOGY – An earthquake struck Wyoming two years ago that made little sense, scientifically speaking — but experts seem closer to solving the mystery, the BBC reports. Called the Wind River Earthquake, it hit with 4.7 magnitude in an area that rarely sees such seismic power. Hardly surprising, since the Wind River area has little tectonic-plate movement that would normally trigger such an earthquake. But a new study in Earth and Planetary Science Letters says the quake may not have originated with tectonic plates grinding against each other at all. The Wind River Earthquake may have started deeper, in what the BBC calls “the Earth’s hotter and more viscous mantle.” Such a quake might be caused by crust falling into the mantle, which lies between the Earth’s higher crust and deeper core.

These deeper quakes remain “a highly controversial topic,” the scientists write, but this one “occurred well within the mantle, and likely over 20 km [12.4 miles] deeper than the base of the crust.” If true, the finding makes the Wind River Earthquake one of the three deepest ever recorded in the area. Still, some things don’t fit: While such deep quakes can occur in volcanic regions, when fluid or magma flows in the Earth’s mantle, they usually affect a smaller area; the Wind River quake ruptured nearly 11 million square feet, notes Geology in Motion. And Wind River is noticeably far from the nearest volcanic region. So what’s up? Perhaps the mantle was so brittle that it failed and triggered the quake, say researchers, who admit that the causes remain debatable. —Newser

Strong quake strikes off E. Indonesia, no potential for tsunami

Posted on June 16, 2015

June 2015 – INDONESIA – An earthquake measuring 6.0 on the Richter scale jolted North Sulawesi province in the eastern part of Indonesia earlier Tuesday, but it was not potential for tsunami and left no casualties, an official said in Jakarta. The quake struck at 04:04 a.m. Jakarta time Tuesday with epicenter at 71 km northeast Sangihe Island of the province and with the depth at 71 km under seabed, an official of the Meteorology and Geophysics Agency told Xinhua over phone. "Tremors from the quake were moderately felt. It was not potential to trigger tsunami and did not cause damage. The condition of the people is normal," Sutopo Purwo Nugroho, spokesman of the national disaster management agency told Xinhua via phone after the quake.

Previously at 00:40 a.m. Jakarta time Tuesday another quake measuring 5.8 on the Richter scale struck off East Nusa Tenggara province in central part of Indonesia, the official of the meteorology and geophysics agency said. The quake was centered at 64 km southeast of the province and with the depth at 65 km under seabed, he said. Sutopo also confirmed that the quake did not cause any damage. Indonesia is prone to quake as it lies on a vulnerable quake-hit zone called "the Pacific Ring of Fire." –Global Times

Team finds 'unprecedented' earthquake evidence in Africa years ago

Lead researcher Hannah Hilbert-Wolf and supervisor Dr. Eric Roberts used innovative methods to examine the ground around Mbeya in Tanzania where a large earthquake occurred some 25,000 years ago.

They found evidence of fluidisation (where soil behaves like quicksand) and upward displacement of material unprecedented in a continental setting, raising questions of how resilient the rapidly growing cities of the region would be in a major shake.

"We can now use this to evaluate how the ground would deform in a modern earthquake," said Dr.

More than 10,000 villagers have fled a rumbling volcano in western Indonesia this month, most in recent days after a series of violent eruptions, an official said on Tuesday.

Authorities raised the alert status of Mount Sinabung, on Sumatra island, to the highest level at the start of June after detecting a sharp increase in activity.

The volcano, which came back to life two years ago after a period of inactivity, erupted violently at the weekend, spewing hot ash and rocks high into the air.

A Philippine volcano spewed plumes of ash Tuesday, but volcanologists say the steam-driven explosions do not indicate an imminent violent eruption.

Mount Bulusan ejected ash up to a kilometer (0.6 mile) high for about 10 minutes and a smaller explosion hours later lasted a minute, Philippine Institute of Volcanology and Seismology director Renato Solidum said. There were no indications that the activity involved magma rising from below, he said.

The institute reminded local government units and the public that entering the 4-kilometer (2.5 mile) radius permanent danger zone is strictly prohibited. Pilots were advised to avoid flying close to the summit due to possible sudden ash explosions.

Bulusan, one of 23 active volcanoes in the Philippines, is about 390 kilometers (240 miles) southeast of Manila.

Solidum said he is not recommending further residential evacuations because most of the ash would fall on the upper slopes of the volcano. Settlements beyond the 4-kilometer radius may receive trace amounts of ash and residents should cover their mouths with handkerchiefs or masks, he added.

Bulusan has not had a violent eruption since 1918. A 2011 explosion shot up an ash plume and prompted about 1,200 villagers to flee to shelters.

The country is in the Pacific "Ring of Fire," where volcanic activity and earthquakes are common. In 1991, Mount Pinatubo in the northern Philippines exploded in one of the biggest eruptions in the 20th century.

Japan's Mount Shindake volcano erupts a second time in 20 days

Posted on June 18, 2015

June 2015 – JAPAN – Mount Shindake rumbled back to life Thursday as a second eruption rocked Kuchinoerabu Island off Kagoshima Prefecture shortly past noon, the Meteorological Agency said. The scale of the volcano's first eruption in 20 days was smaller than its May 29 blast but apparently took from 12:17 p.m. to around 12:47 p.m. to complete, the weather agency said. Initially, the agency had difficulty confirming the eruption because of bad weather, but a Japan Coast Guard vessel reportedly confirmed seeing small rocks falling while on patrol about 9 km east of the volcano.

The eruption follows the volcano's mighty blast in May, which forced the sparsely populated island's residents to flee to neighboring Yakushima Island. Although the agency had said volcanic activity on Kuchinoerabu had halted since last month's blast, earthquakes started rattling the area earlier this week, with 10 on Tuesday, 31 on Wednesday and seven by 9 a.m. Thursday, the agency said. Kuchinoerabu's eruption alert remains at 5, the highest level, and residents in the area have been warned to remain alert for further eruptions. –Japan Times

White alert for Ecuadorian Volcano Cotopaxi

Posted on June 18, 2015

June 2015 – ECUADOR – National Secretary for Risk Management Maria del Pilar Cornejo confirmed today that continues the white alert for the Ecuadorian volcano Cotopaxi, in order to keep people ready in case of eruptions. Though a sudden eruption is discarded, the state of alert will stay in the surroundings of the five thousand 943 meters Colossus, located 45 kilometers to the southeast of Quito, said the Secretary. Cornejo reiterated that it is necessary to stay informed about the volcano activity, which is monitored with lahar-detection system, seismographs, GPS, electronic inclinometers, video cameras and satellites to detect hot spots. Cotopaxi is one of the world's highest active volcanoes and it is the second highest summit in the country, after the Chimborazo volcano, with six thousand 268 meters above the sea level.

During the past weeks, the Colossus increased seismic activity, and gas and sulphur dioxide emissions, according to the Geophysical Institute, which, despite the volcano's history, ruled out an imminent eruption. The mountain is considered one of the most dangerous in the world due to the frequency of emissions, glacier coverage and number of population potentially exposed to the volcano's threat. Since the beginning of the Spanish conquest, the Cotopaxi had five large explosive periods: 1532-1534, 1742-1744, 1766-1768, 1853-1854 and 1877-1880. The Cotopaxi's outbursts can cause lahars, which could run through densely populated areas, such as Latacunga, Mulalo and Valle de los Chillos. Specialists estimate that more than 300 thousand people of Ecuador live in areas threatened by lahars, as occurred in earlier centuries. The ash expelled during the eruption Cotopaxi volcano could affect a significant part of the mountains and coastal area of Ecuador.

Alaska's Cleveland volcano is restless again

Laurel Andrews | June 17, 2015

Email

Alaska's remote Cleveland volcano is growing restless again, according to the Alaska Volcano Observatory.

Satellite images have detected elevated surface temperatures on Cleveland's summit for the past week, and a light dusting of ash was visible in an image taken Sunday, the agency wrote on its website.

"The volcano has entered a renewed period of unrest," AVO reported, prompting the agency to raise its alert level to advisory and its aviation code to yellow.

The increased temperatures are "consistent with renewed growth of the small lava dome within the summit crater," and "the possibility of sudden explosions has increased," AVO said.

Roughly 940 miles southwest of Anchorage, the volcano forms the west part of uninhabited Chuginadak Island in the east-central Aleutian chain.

Cleveland is one of Alaska's most active volcanoes and has been in a near-constant state of eruption since 2006, AVO geologist Tina Neal told Alaska Dispatch News in September.

A webcam showed an overcast day Wednesday on Chuginadak Island, with Cleveland escaping view.

Sinkholes forming after recent heavy rains

LENEXA, KS (KCTV) - There is a new kind of golf hazard on a Lenexa course, and this one isn't man-made - a massive sinkhole.

And it's not the only one in Kansas City that has sprung up due to the heavy rains.

Doug North and Tim Hickert came out to Canyon Farms Golf Club on Monday to play a round of golf with friends. What they didn't expect, was to be greeted by KCTV5 News in the parking lot and shown a picture of the 13th fairway.

"Oh my!" North said.

Chopper5 flew over the golf course located at 18145 W. 87th St Pkwy. after the fairway collapsed Friday.

According to the company's website, part of the course runs through what was once an open pit quarry, which StormTrack5 meteorologist Gary Amble says could be the reason for the collapse.

"We had a cave and the roof essentially over the top of the cave became so burdened with moisture and so heavy, that it just collapsed in on itself," Amble said.

As the Peconic River teems with thousands of dead fish after another bunker kill, town and county officials are struggling to find solutions to deal with the clean-up – and the stench.

"It's totally disgusting," said Joanne Tyte, who lives on Howell Lane on the Peconic River. "The smell is so bad that we can't even go outside."

Last month's major fish kill washed up tens of thousands of dead bunker on shores from the Peconic River to the Peconic Bay after algal blooms starved the water – and its bunker fish – of oxygen. And last weekend, oxygen levels in the Peconic River once again dropped very low due to another algal bloom, triggering yet another fish kill.

Further Avian Flu Outbreaks in Taiwan

15 June 2015

TAIWAN - Three more outbreaks of highly pathogenic avian influenza have been confirmed in Taiwan.

The outbreaks were of the H5N2 serotype and occurred in the western county of Yunlin.

There were 8894 cases in a susceptible population of 23528 birds, including two geese farms and one chicken farm. All the affected birds died, and the remaining susceptible birds were destroyed as a precaution.

These farms have been put under movement restriction, and thorough cleaning and disinfection have been conducted after the stamping out operation. Surrounding poultry farms within 3 km radius of the infected farms are under intensified surveillance for 3 months.

Giant purple sea slugs wash ashore in Alameda

ALAMEDA, Calif. (KRON) — An invasion of giant purple slugs are washing ashore in the East Bay, populating beaches and waterways.

Experts say the high volume of these slugs may be caused by warmer temperatures near coastal waters.

The slugs themselves are harmless herbivores, but their enormous size and slimy abundance is disturbing beach-goers.

"We are getting calls from the public asking what the heck is this big weird purple blob," said Carolyn Jones, a spokeswoman for the East Bay Regional Park District. "It's native to our area. It's not endangered, but they are rarely seen other than an occasional one here or there."

While the quantity of washed-up slugs hasn't been enumerated, dozens at a time have been seen on the shores. The slugs were also spotted last month in an inlet leading to Lake Merritt.

Iowa reports an egg farm with bird flu after a 6-day break

Home / Headlines List / Article

DES MOINES After a six-day break with no new bird flu cases, the Iowa Department of Agriculture says another egg-laying chicken farm has tested positive.

A farm in Wright County with 1 million chickens has experienced increased deaths among the flock and a preliminary test indicates the presence of the bird flu virus.

The frequency of new cases has slowed dramatically with no new cases in Minnesota in 11 days. Iowa's last reported case was June 9. The bird flu has cost Minnesota, the leading turkey producer, 9 million birds. Egg farms in Iowa, the nation's leading producer, have lost over 25 million laying hens.

State officials say all 76 previously affected farms have removed the 32 million birds that already died or were euthanized. Disposal of the dead birds continues.

A disturbing, sad scene and at the same time, shocking. The images are on the internet and show the large amount of dead fish thrown on land near the Castanhão dam in the municipality of Jaguaribara in Jaguaribe Valley Region.

With the drop in the reservoir water level, lack oxygen and the fish begin to die. The phenomenon is repeated in the weir Castanhão and represents losses for breeders. According to them, the estimated loss could reach R $ 300 thousand.

The creators say the fall of the reservoir water level is not due to the short rainy season that hit the state of Ceará, for them, the incident occurred due to a maneuver of increased reservoir water release by the Management Company of Water Resources (COGERH). The company denies this relationship.

9 endangered whales found dead in Alaska waters in recent weeks

Yereth Rosen | Alaska Dispatch News | June 18, 2015

Email

At least nine fin whales have been found dead in recent weeks in southern Alaska waters, and researchers with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and University of Alaska Fairbanks are attempting to find out what killed them.

"We rarely see more than one fin whale carcass every couple of years," said Kate Wynne, a UAF professor and Alaska Sea Grant marine mammal specialist, and the recent rash of dead whale discoveries is "mysterious."

According to a release from UAF, the first of the whales was reportedly spotted on May 23 by crew members aboard the state ferry Kennicott, which travels between Bellingham, Washington, and ports in Southeast and Southcentral Alaska.

Over the next two weeks, boaters, fishermen and pilots reported other dead whales in the floating in the area, the UAF release said. Those reports, and the photos submitted with them, led Wynne and her NOAA colleagues to conclude that "at least nine fin whales died in a relatively small area," the release said.

For now, the "go-to answer" to questions about the deaths is a harmful algal bloom, said Bree Witteveen, a UAF Sea Grant marine mammal specialist working with Wynne on the investigation.

"It's definitely a suspect," she said in a telephone interview. But pinpointing cause of death for the marine mammals could be difficult, "even if we have evidence of a harmful algal bloom," she said.

"We honestly don't know," she said. "We probably won't ever get a definitive answer."

The first of several dead fin whales, later named FW01, floats outside Marmot Bay near Kodiak Island on May 23.

Ifugao records fish kill due to extreme heat

LAGAWE, Ifugao – Extreme heat is killing fish in the province.

Provincial Agriculturist Avelino Lunag Jr. said heat in the province has affected 200 hectares of commercial fishponds in lowland areas of the province where fish are known to thrive.

Lunag said the areas of LagaWE, Lamut, Alfonso Lista, Aguinaldo and Mayaoyao are 100 percent affected by the fishkill signifying a 40 percent loss to date.

"This is the first time we had a fishkill here," he reported.

Lunag said the extreme heat has penetrated the fishponds, leading to the death of fully-grown and fingerling fishes and losses to farmers.

Ifugao is Cordillera's number one producer of fish, specifically, tilapia, which are propagated in various fishponds across the province.

Among the major economic sectors, the primary sector, particularly agriculture, fisheries and livestock absorbed 70 percent of the total employed persons.

Warm river temperatures in Oregon trigger die threatened salmon

PORTLAND, ORE. | BY COURTNEY SHERWOOD

Hundreds of spring Chinook salmon have been found dead in Oregon rivers over the past week, in a sign that abnormally high water temperatures are taking a toll on the threatened species, wildlife officials said on Friday.

Low snowpack linked to a historic drought has prevented icy-cold runoff from entering rivers as normal this year, according to federal hydrologists.

Temperatures in the Willamette River, a tributary of the Columbia River, have risen from 70 degrees Fahrenheit (21 Celsius) to 75 degrees Fahrenheit (24 Celsius) over the past week, about 12 degrees F (6.5 Celsius) higher than it was the year prior, Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife spokesman Rick Swart said.

"Anything above 70 degrees, the fish are really stressed," Swart said.

Overall, Swart said it would take several more years of warm rivers to create a significant long-term setback for Chinook salmon populations, which have been returning to the Willamette River at levels not seen for decades.

As of June 14, Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife officials had counted more than 51,000 Chinook passing through a fish-counting station on the river, far above the 50-year average of 41,000.

A majority of the fish found dead so far also were hatchery raised, rather than the wild fish

Bird flu: 3600 birds destroyed at Denu and Keta

Two poultry farms with a total of 3600 birds at Denu and Keta in the Volta Region have been destroyed due to infection of the farms with avian flu.

The poultry farm at Keta started with 1,800 but before it came to the notice of veterinary officers 1,100 had died and 700 had also died at Denu within three days.

The Volta Regional Veterinary Officer, Dr Mark Kofi Tetey who disclosed this to Tim Dzamboe, Graphic Online's Volta Regional Correspondent, said the two farms had 1800 birds each.

He said all the birds have been destroyed together with eggs. The drinking and feeding troughs have accordingly been disinfected.

He said an intensive screening exercise had begun in the area and the entire Volta region to ensure that the disease was detected early enough to avoid further spread.

Dr Tetey said movement of livestock across markets has been banned as part of bio-security measures to hold the disease in check.

Toxic Algae Bloom on West Coast might be largest ever

A team of federal biologists set out from Oregon Monday to survey what could be the largest toxic algae bloom ever recorded off the West Coast. The effects stretch from Central California to British Columbia, and possibly as far north as Alaska. Dangerous levels of the natural toxin domoic acid have shut down recreational and commercial shellfish harvests in Washington, Oregon and California this spring, including the lucrative Dungeness crab fishery off Washington's southern coast and the state's popular razor-clam season.

Global seabird decline greater than expected

The global seabird population may have fallen by almost 70 per cent since 1950, a new study suggests. The study, published recently in PLOS ONE, analysed data on 162 species, representing 19 per cent of the global seabird population. They found the population of those species had declined overall by 69.7 per cent between 1950 and 2010. "It's an awful lot," says co-author ecologist Dr Edd Hammill of the University of Technology, Sydney. "The level of decline is considerably greater than what we were expecting."

A study by researchers in Fukushima prefecture found 57 minors in the prefecture have been diagnosed with thyroid cancer so far and another 46 are showing symptoms that suggest they may also have the disease.

Thyroid cancer can be caused by exposure to radiation, but it's unclear whether the number is linked to the Fukushima Daiichi nuclear accident in March 2011 because the

The Indiana State Department of Health said on Friday that the number of positive tuberculosis (TB) skin-tested individuals has increased from 54 to 85.

As of Friday, all of these patients have been tied to a student recently diagnosed with TB. The student is now quarantined and receiving treatment.

In addition, a second TB patient, who reported having TB symptoms, as well as abnormal chest X-rays, has been identified. A third person without symptoms, but with an abnormal chest X-ray, also has been identified.

The Indiana State Department of Health and the health departments in Floyd and Clark Counties have collaborated to conduct a thorough investigation.

"The Indiana State Department of Health continues to investigate this situation, and we want Hoosiers to know that we are offering testing to everyone who has been in close contact with the patient," State Health Commissioner Dr. Jerome Adams said. "We want to quickly identify anyone who may have been exposed so we can provide immediate, effective treatment to prevent infection.

"We want to ensure the best possible health for Hoosiers," Adams said. "Unfortunately, TB can affect anyone, and the best way to stop it is to quickly identify individuals with active infections and provide them with the medical care they need to treat their infections."

Seventh graders in New York State would be required to be vaccinated for meningitis, a deadly disease spread by saliva droplets, and could be excluded from school if they were not, under a bill passed this week by the State Legislature.

Beginning in September 2016, the bill would require students entering seventh grade to have received the meningitis vaccine, with a booster shot to be given in the 12th grade. The United States Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends meningitis vaccination around that time, so many doctors have provided it.

Assemblywoman Aileen M. Gunther, a Democrat from Sullivan County who was the bill's prime sponsor, said it had been passed after testimony from medical experts as well as from several people who had lost children to meningitis, or who had been afflicted with meningitis and suffered amputations as a result.

"It's a disaster," Ms. Gunther said of the disease. "The science tells us that we can do something."

The bill was opposed by some people who believe that vaccination can cause autism — a belief discredited by scientific studies. But Ms. Gunther, who is a registered nurse, said that in any case, this particular vaccine would be administered long after the period when autism typically develops and is diagnosed. RUSSIA TO ADD 40 NEW INTERCONTINENTAL MISSILES THIS YEAR

BY VLADIMIR ISACHENKOV

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia's military will add over 40 new intercontinental ballistic missiles this year alone that are capable of piercing any missile defenses, President Vladimir Putin said Tuesday in a blunt reminder of the nation's nuclear might amid tensions with the West over Ukraine.

Putin spoke at the opening of an arms show at a shooting range in Alabino just west of Moscow, a huge display intended to showcase Russia's resurgent military.

NATO Secretary-General Jens Stoltenberg accused the Russians of "nuclear saber-rattling," and said that was one of the reasons the western military alliance has been beefing up its ability to defend its members.

U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry, briefing reporters via teleconference from Boston, where he is recovering from surgery on a broken leg, called Putin's announcement concerning.

The Pentagon is quietly working to set up an elaborate network of defenses to protect American cities from a barrage of Russian cruise missiles.

The plan calls for buying radars that would enable National Guard F-16 fighter jets to spot and shoot down fast and low-flying missiles. Top generals want to network those radars with sensor-laden aerostat balloons hovering over U.S. cities and with coastal warships equipped with sensors and interceptor missiles of their own.

Make no mistake, Iran will acquire nuclear weapons. Soon.

June 13, 2015: Iran's President Hassan Rouhani waves to reporters at the conclusion of his press conference on the second anniversary of his election, in Tehran, Iran. It's obvious that chess was invented in Persia.

Iranian officials in negotiations with Secretary of State John Kerry's delegation over the disposition of Iran's nuclear program are executing a deception gambit worthy of any grandmaster, the inevitable result of which will be that Tehran will acquire nuclear weapons. Markell: Israel will react, God will protect

Tuesday, June 16, 2015 | Chad Groening (OneNewsNow.com)

A Messianic Jewish leader expects Israel may attempt to take out Iranian nuclear sites within the next year or so.

Tehran and world powers face a June 30 target date to finalize a comprehensive nuclear deal for curbing Iran's nuclear program in exchange for sanctions relief. But not everyone is on board with the plan. In fact, Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu recently told a prestigious Israeli conference that he isn't the only voice in the Middle East against the deal.

The Israeli leader said that though he is often "portrayed as the nuclear party pooper," he has talked to Israel's neighbors and that "nobody in this region believes this deal will block Iran's path to the bomb."

Jan Markell, founder and director of Olive Tree Ministries, believes Israel may eventually take matters into its own hands.

Markell

"I still believe we're going to wake up one of these mornings with big headlines – either in 2015 or 2016 – and read that Israel has taken out most or all of those nuclear reactors," she shares. "Israel has no choice but to do that, and she'll probably do it alone. I guarantee you America won't be by her side under this current administration."

A former CIA director says the Obama administration hasn't done nearly enough to protect the nation from attacks to America's information and critical infrastructure systems.

"The president has to put this first on his list because we are very vulnerable, and we will stay vulnerable until some key things get fixed. So far, I have not seen anywhere near enough commitment from the White House or any place else in getting this done," said R. The concern is rising again after reports last week that as many as 14 million current and former federal employees had their personal data compromised. That news follows numerous reports of alleged Chinese and Russian infiltration into various government networks.

Study: Anti-Semitism Skyrockets in Canada

Highest level of anti-Semitic incidents 'ever recorded'

BY: Adam Kredo Follow @Kredo0

Anti-Semitic incidents in Canada skyrocketed over the last year and have now hit the highest levels "ever recorded" by human rights groups tracking the number of anti-Jewish episodes, according to a new study.

Canadians across the country reported experiencing more anti-Semitism than in the past four years, with anti-Semitic incidents having risen a total of 28 percent from 2013 to 2014, according to the global Jewish advocacy group B'nai B'rith International (BBI).

This made 2014 the "worst year" for anti-Semitism since advocacy groups began tracking incidents in 1982.

The majority of those who reported an instance of anti-Semitism faced harassment, while others faced forms of violence and vandalism as a result of being Jewish, according to the report.

The rise coincides with a global surge in anti-Semitism, including a rash of terrorist attacks against Jewish communities in countries such as France.

In Canada alone, there were 1,627 anti-Jewish incidents in 2014, a nearly 30 percent rise since the previous year. Such cases "can vary from slurs, name calling, and graffiti, to assault, arson, and bomb threats," the report states.

"The year 2014 saw the highest number of anti-Semitic incidents ever recorded by B'nai B'rith and the League for Human Rights. The year saw a 28 percent increase over 2013. This is consistent with data gathered by other human rights organizations around the world, such as the Anti-Defamation League, who reported a 21

UK consumers want to use biometric authentication security for banking and are willing to share DNA data with institutions for identification purposes.

Two-thirds of UK consumers regard biometric technology as more secure than usernames and passwords for banking, and a quarter are ready to share data about their DNA for identification purposes.

Biometric authentication could change the perception that making things easier to use makes them less secure and financial services companies need to invest in the technology or risk losing customers, according to a report from communications supplier Telstra.

As more people use mobile banking apps with the promise of instant services at your fingerprints, they don't want to constantly type in usernames and passwords. Small touchscreens can make it

Caribbean states developing biometric travel card

18 June 2015 15:05 GMT

The Organisation of Eastern Caribbean States (OECS) is developing a biometric travel card which citizens can simply “swipe” to travel between the nations, according to local officials.

Director-General of the OECS Commission, Dr Didacus Jules, said the initiative was part of regional integration plans, reported St Lucia Online.

“We have already designed a single biometric ID card that contains all the information that is required so that in the near future, with the issuance of these cards, people from the OECS will not even have to fill out immigration cards to move – you just swipe and you move.”

The OECS has seven member states including St Lucia, Dominica, Saint Lucia and Saint Kitts and Nevis.

Last December, officials from the Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa (COMESA) revealed plan to introduce an ID card that can be used by delegates for official travel within the region.

The COMESA machine-readable travel document (MRTD) is hoped to help ease official travel by COMESA staff in the region and beyond.

'Last attempt' debt negotiations fail as Greece rejects more austerity

Crucial negotiations between Greece and its creditors ended in deadlock after less than an hour of talks, paving the way for a potential default and even a possible Grexit, unless a "significant gap" is somehow bridged before the June 30 deadline.

"While some progress was made, the talks did not succeed as there remains a significant gap," the commission said after the meeting. "On this basis, further discussion will now have to take place in the Eurogroup," which will take up the matter in Luxembourg next Thursday.

Athens is pressed for time to pay 1.6 billion euros in interest to the International Monetary Fund (IMF) by the end of this month. If an agreement is not reached by June 30, Greece will forfeit access to rescue loans needed to make regular debt payments, and avoid a default that could force Greece out of the euro.

ALEXIS TSIPRAS REMAINS EERILY DETACHED AS GREECE PLUMMETS TOWARDS FINANCIAL RUIN

Geoffrey Grider | June 15, 2015 | 9 Comments

GERMANY'S EU COMMISSIONER SAID ON MONDAY IT WAS TIME TO PREPARE FOR A "STATE OF EMERGENCY" AFTER TALKS COLLAPSED AT THE WEEKEND TO RESCUE GREECE FROM DEFAULT AND EJECTION FROM THE EURO.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Alexis Tsipras, the man who met with Pope Francis to discuss dividing Israel for the Palestinians, is oddly calm as his country slides ever further down into financial ruin. When you lift the cover off his activities, he is deeply connected with George Soros and Vladimir Putin. This just gets weirder by the day, where will it all end?

Prime Minister Alexis Tsipras ignored a litany of pleas from European leaders to act fast and instead blamed creditors for the collapse in aid-for-austerity talks, the biggest setback yet in long-running talks to secure more aid for Greece.

Athens now has just two weeks to find a way out of the impasse before it faces a 1.6 billion euro bill due to the International Monetary Fund, potentially leaving it out of cash, unable to borrow and cast out of the single currency.

EU Preparing for 'State of Emergency'

Prime Minister Alexis Tsipras ignored pleas from European leaders to act fast. Instead he blamed creditors for the collapse of the cash-for-reform talks on Sunday, the biggest setback in long-running negotiations to secure more aid for Greece.

Greece heading for state of emergency and exit from the euro, warn officials after collapse of talks about bailout deal

- Europe must be prepared to step in to avoid crisis in Greece, warn officials
- Without emergency 7.2billion euro installment, Greece faces bankruptcy
- But talks over bailout deal have collapsed prompting fears country is heading for an exit from the euro

Greece is heading for a state of emergency and an exit from the euro following the collapse of talks to agree a bailout deal, senior EU officials warned last night.

Europe must be prepared to step in otherwise Greek society would face an unprecedented crisis with power blackouts, medicine shortages and no money to pay for police, they said.

Greece must reach an agreement with its creditors before a meeting of eurozone finance ministers on Thursday to get the final 7.2billion euros of its 240billion euro bailout fund.

Greek banks on brink of collapse as savers panic

Greek banks are facing collapse and the country is "dangerously close" to exiting the euro, officials warned after talks to prevent Greece defaulting on its debts ended in failure last night. In secret negotiations, and with panicking savers withdrawing cash, the European Central Bank (ECB) said that Greek banks might be forced to remain closed on Monday. Some euros 2 billion (pounds 1.4 billion) in deposits have already been taken out of the country in the first three days of this week.

Washington Fears Losing Greece To Moscow

BREAKING NEWS – Major developments are transpiring tonight as we are receiving reports that throughout the prolonged showdown between Greece and its creditors, the Obama administration has largely sat on the sidelines, issuing the occasional warning about the potential economic impact of a default. But with Greece now on the verge of bankruptcy, the US is also beginning to worry about the political fallout from a deeper crisis and the potential for Russia to gain increased influence over a Nato member.

On Friday, Congress disrupted President Obama's plan for a sweeping transfer of U.S. sovereignty to an unaccountable group of foreign busybodies. Hurray for the stalwart Americans who resisted the demands of Obama, the Republican leadership and the big-donor clique – but Speaker Boehner plans to give Congress another chance this week to make this dangerous mistake.

The Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) would turn over to globalists the power to issue regulations about U.S. trade, immigration, the environment, labor and commerce. It's called a "living agreement," which means the globalists can amend and change the text of the so-called agreement after it has gone into effect.

Banks are beginning to demand that customers account for every deposit and withdrawal in their account before they can obtain a mortgage, another illustration of how capital controls imposed on the middle class are intensifying.

"My sister just bought a house and to get the mortgage she had to explain every deposit and cash withdrawal in her account going back five years. My mother had simply written her a check for $400 to reimburse her for picking up some medicine. They wanted her to explain why my mother gave her $400," writes economist Martin Armstrong, adding that his sister was also grilled on the $2,000 she withdrew over few months to pay for incidental purchases.

Another of Armstrong's friends who shared an apartment with his girlfriend was also forced to account for five and a half years worth of rent checks he had written her before they could get a mortgage together.

Signs Of Financial Turmoil In Europe, China And The United States

By Michael Snyder, on June 19th, 2015

As we move toward the second half of 2015, signs of financial turmoil are appearing all over the globe. In Greece, a full blown bank run is happening right now. Approximately 2 billion euros were pulled out of Greek banks in just the past three days, Bardays says that capital controls are "imminent" unless a debt deal is struck, and there are reports that preparations are being made for a "bank holiday" in Greece. Meanwhile, Chinese stocks are absolutely crashing. The Shanghai Composite Index was down more than 13 percent this week alone. That was the largest one week decline since the collapse of Lehman Brothers. In the U.S., stocks aren't crashing yet, but we just witnessed one of the largest one week outflows of capital from the bond markets that we have ever witnessed. Slowly but surely, we are starting to see the smart money head for the exits. As one Swedish fund manager put it recently, everyone wants "to avoid being caught on the wrong side of markets once the herd realizes stocks are over-valued".

I don't think that most people understand how serious things have gotten already. In Greece, so much money has been pulled out of the banks that the European Central Bank admits that Greek banks may not be able to open on Monday...

THOUSANDS MARCH IN CENTRAL LONDON TO PROTEST AUSTERITY

BY DANICA KIRKA
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON (AP) -- Thousands marched in central London Saturday to protest against British government austerity programs and spending cuts in a massive show of force meant to win attention to the plight of the poor.

The march began with a festive mood. Red flares exploded as the rally got underway at the Bank of England, sending plumes of scarlet smoke through the financial district's narrow and winding streets. Brass musicians offered a tune as demonstrators waved placards, balloons and banners on the way to Parliament Square.

The event is intended to vent outrage, albeit peacefully, over the Conservative government's plan to slash millions of pounds in public spending to address the deficit, which ballooned after the nation rescued its troubled banks during the 2008 financial crisis.

Social activists, union leaders and campaign groups joined forces to protest cuts in public services, welfare and education that are expected when the government unveils its budget next month. Demonstrators argue the public is being punished for a crisis it did not cause.

"I am fed up with all the main parties saying they are going to promote austerity," Lindsey German, a senior official of the Stop The War Coalition.

DYLANN ROOF IS THE 21ST AMERICAN MASS SHOOTING KILLER SINCE OBAMA BECAME PRESIDENT

OBAMA USING TRAGEDY AS EXCUSE FOR ENACTING GUN CONTROL

When you add up the numbers, a very disturbing picture of Obama's presidency begins to unfold. He was elected as the "racial uniter", the Nobel Peace Prize president who was going to "stop the rise of the oceans" and "heal our planet."

Yet his 6 and one half years of occupying the desk at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue hide a sinister statistic – America has had 20 mass shootings since he became president, and yesterday's mass killing in Charleston now brings that total to 21. And since this is a list of shootings only, it does not include the Boston Bombing Massacre that Obama used to roll out martial law for a 24-hour period in Boston. How do you explain that?

June 17, 2015 — Charleston, SC — 9 dead. Dylann Roof allegedly opened fire inside a historically Black church in Charleston, S.C., killing 9. The next morning, Obama spoke from the White House about the shooting. "I've had to make statements like this too many times. Communities like this have had to endure tragedies like this too many times. We don't have all the facts, but we do know that, once again, innocent people were killed in part because someone who wanted to inflict harm had no trouble getting their hands on a gun. Now is the time for mourning and for healing," he said.

Traditional Christian teaching could effectively be "criminalized" in some settings in Britain under David Cameron's plans for new anti-extremist banning orders, a top Anglican theologian and former Parliamentary draftsman has warned.

The Rev. Dr. Mike Ovey, a former lawyer and now principal of Oak Hill Theological College in London, a training school for Church of England clergy, said proposals for new "Extremism Disruption Orders" could be a "disaster area" for people from all the mainstream religions and none.

Mr. Cameron and Theresa May have signalled that the new orders, planned as part of the Government's Counter-Extremism Bill, would not curb the activities of radical Islamist clerics but the promotion of other views deemed to go against "British values" even if it is nonviolent and legal.

GEORGIA HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL FIRED FOR HOLDING VOLUNTARY BIBLE STUDY

A GEORGIA HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL SAYS HE WAS FIRED AFTER HE READ THE BIBLE AND PRAYED WITH A GROUP OF STUDENTS DURING A VOLUNTEER CHRISTIAN GROUP MEETING.

"Then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you: and ye shall be hated of all nations for my name's sake." Matthew 24:9 (KJV)

EDITOR'S NOTE: Since Obama has been president, the rise of persecution against Bible believing Christians is off the charts. From bakers and florists who have been bankrupted for not servicing LGBT weddings, to school teachers being fired for reading the Bible, the climate in America has changed. Soon it will be illegal to hold a bible study, even in your own home. This is what the future looks like in Obama's America.*

Manchester High School principal Dr. Michael Lehr reportedly was just filling in for the leader of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes organization during a meeting.

First Church of Cannabis? Government Grants Tax-Exempt Status to Pot-Smoking ‘Congregation’

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — A group of pot smokers have found a way to skirt tax laws and do illegal drugs by establishing themselves as a “church.”

Indiana’s First Church of Cannabis was founded in March by 59-year-old Bill Levin, whose supporters are known as “cannibiterians.” Levin reportedly has over 700 followers to date.

While marijuana use for both recreational and medicinal purposes is still illegal in Indiana, on July 1, the state’s Religious Freedom Restoration Act (RFRA) is set to take effect, which prohibits the government from “substantially burdening” one’s free exercise of religion. Levin plans on holding his first service on this date.

The leader, who speaks of the “power of weed” has already applied for recognition as a church with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), and was granted the status last month. This means that the group will be tax-free, and that gifts to the organization will be tax-deductible.

“The First Church of Cannabis” will also be eligible for a property tax deduction once it moves into its “house of worship” next month. Reports state that Levin’s group plans to gather at the former Strait Gate Christian Church, and has already raised over $11,000 in donations for doing so.

“God loves us and we’re gonna celebrate God,” he told reporters. “We spark up and we light up and we all pray to happiness, compassion and love, and we all dance in the seats and we have a good time and the band will play and everybody will feel beautiful.”

But what there won’t be, Levin said, is any use of Scriptures or Christian teaching.

A controversial Belfast preacher faces prosecution for describing Islam as "heathen" and "satanic".

Rev James McConnell made the comments in a sermon streamed live from his Whitewell Metropolitan Tabernacle church after he read of the imprisonment in Sudan of Meriam Ibrahim, who was forced to give birth in chains after being accused of apostasy from Islam.

He said then: "Islam is heathen, Islam is satanic, Islam is a doctrine spawned in hell."

The Public Prosecution Service said that he had been offered an "informed warning" of an offence under the Communications Act 2003. "That offence was one of sending, or causing to be sent, by means of a public electronic communications network, a message or other matter that was grossly offensive," a spokesperson said.

Rev James McConnell is facing prosecution for his comments about Islam.

An informed warning is not a conviction, but remains on a criminal record for 12 months. McConnell, 78, refused to accept the warning and will be prosecuted instead.

He told the Belfast Telegraph that the police were "trying to shut me up". "I'm not taking it lying down. I am not going to be gagged."

He added: "The police tried to shut me up and tell me what to preach. It's ridiculous. I believe in freedom of speech. I'm going to keep on preaching the Gospel.

"I have nothing against Muslims, I have never hated Muslims, I have never hated anyone. But I am against what Muslims believe. They have the right to say what they believe in and I have a right to say what I believe."

Menonite Couple Who Stopped Hosting Weddings Due to Homosexual Lawsuit Now Shuttering Business

GRIMES, Iowa — A Mennonite couple that decided to discontinue hosting all weddings at their church-turned-art gallery after they became the subject of a discrimination lawsuit two years ago has now announced that they are closing their doors due to lack of sufficient income.

As previously reported, Dick and Betty Odgaard operate The Gortz Haus Gallery, a bistro, floral and arts shop, and wedding facility in Grimes, Iowa. The location formerly served as a Lutheran church for over 60 years, and has been a popular location for couples to tie the knot.

According to reports, Lee Stafford and his partner Jared visited the The Gortz Haus Gallery in 2013 to obtain information about using the facility for their upcoming ceremony. However, when Dick Odgaard realized that the men were seeking to use the premises to host a homosexual "wedding," he informed them that the venue does not host same-sex ceremonies. His wife Betty explained to local television station KCCI that the company policy reflects their Christian faith.

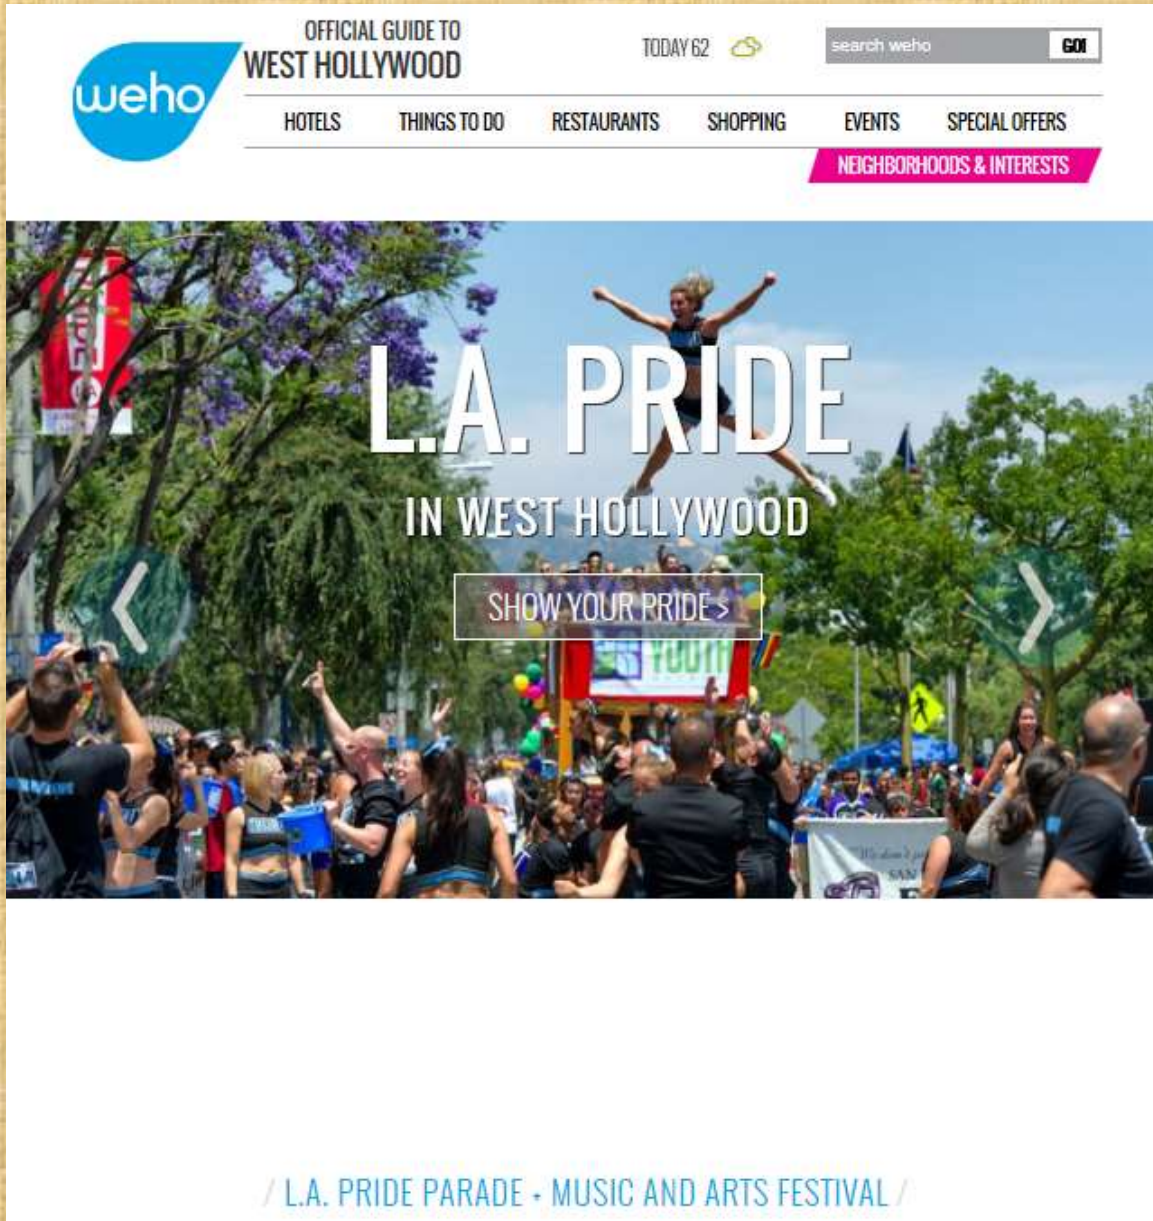

"That decision is based on our religious beliefs," she stated. "And we want to honor that. We want people to know that is our stand, [which] comes from our faith and convictions, and I think we should stand by those [convictions] no matter what."

Betty also told reporters that she advised the men that she and her husband would be willing to provide other services, such as offering flowers or cake, but that Stafford and his partner could not exchange vows on the premises.

Wells Fargo has come out as a supporter of the LGBT lifestyle. (Reuters)

Wells Fargo already lost a multi-million-dollar customer last week. Now, the bank can expect to lose a few more.

American Family Association (AFA) has sent an Action Alert to its hundreds of thousands of friends and supporters, urging Christians to close their Wells Fargo accounts, as the financial institution becomes an even more staunch supporter of the LGBT lifestyle.

"For years, Wells Fargo has supported a lifestyle that is not in line with biblical standards, so now it's time for Christians to pull their business from the bank," said AFA President Tim Wildmon. "Franklin Graham said it best. Banks should focus on interest rates and charges, rather than moral and social issues. AFA wholeheartedly agrees, and is calling on Christians to stand for God's truth with action."

In its alert, AFA reminded readers that in 2003, AFA warned that Wells Fargo was beginning to show public support for homosexuality—one of the first companies in America to do so. Then in 2005, Dr. James Dobson and Focus on the Family announced it was withdrawing funds from Wells Fargo after the Gay and lesbian couples are featured prominently in Tylenol's new #HowWeFamily campaign, which aims to change the face of the American family.

A same-sex prom couple and two gay dads with a baby are among those featured in the campaign's first TV ad. A voiceover declares, "Family isn't defined by who you love, but how."

Tylenol is glorifying all modern family types by stating a family is based on love not traditional marriage, and then showing gay couples with their children. One Million Moms believes family is based on love, but this does not justify normalizing sin. 1MM does not agree with the need for Tylenol to support same-sex marriages or couples.

Plus, Tylenol recently used a lesbian couple shown nose to nose in a printed magazine ad. It was included in Good Housekeeping's June 2015 issue on page 21, to name one example. At the bottom of the ad it states that Tylenol is a national corporate partner with the Human Rights Campaign.

13: 12 قد تناهى الليل وتقارب النهار فلنخلع اعمال الظلمة ونلبس اسلحة النور

13: 13 لنسلك بلياقة كما في النهار لا بالبطر والسكر لا بالمضاجع والعهر لا بالخصام والحسد

13: 14 بل البسوا الرب يسوع المسيح ولا تصنعوا تدبيرا للجسد لأجل الشهوات

احترس ان لم تتمسك بالمسيح من الان قد لا تستطيع في المستقبل القريب بسبب الظلام.

الثاني لا نخاف

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

بطرس الأولى 3: 14

وَلَكِنْ وَإِنْ تَأَلَّمْتُمْ مِنْ أَجْلِ الْبِرِّ، فَطُوبَاكُمْ. وَأَمَّا خَوْفُهُمْ فَلَا تَخَافُوهُ وَلَا تَضْطَرُّوْا،

بل نؤمن

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَانَ تُؤْمِنُونَ.

ثالثًا لنتنبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَأَنْتَصِبُوا وَارْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ.»

افرحوا لان عريسنا قد اقترب مجيؤه. وانتبهوا الشيطان يريد أن نفقد سلامنا ولا ننال أكاليل.

وأيضا استعدوا فقد تسلموا وديعتكم في أي وقت فهناك 150 ألف شخص يموتوا في اليوم الواحد

انت لا تعرف متى ستكون منهم

المسيح اقترب فاصنعوا ثمار تليق بالتوبة واستعدوا لاستقبال العريس.

والمجد لله دائما
