والعلامات حتى 9 ابريل 2019

Holy_bible_1

اكرر هدفي فقط من هذه الخدمة أن نذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد أي حياة اليقظة الروحية. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء المسيح بل ايضا قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه او من منا سيسلم وديعته في أي وقت . بمعنى نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيق اقتربت جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذاري انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه سابقا .

أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترت فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترت لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشر اشاعات او اخيف البعض

ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لأنه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم يأتي

المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما

انتقلوا

المسيح قال بعض العلامات مثل

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

السماء

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

أولا لكيلا نرتاع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

ثانيا لنؤمن

انجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَأَن تُوْمِنُونَ.

ثالثا لننتبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَانْتَصِبُوا وَارْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ.»

SOLAR MINIMUM IS A TERRIBLE TIME TO BLOW UP A SATELLITE: Note to space powers: If you're going to blow a satellite to bits, solar minimum is a terrible time to do it. India is grappling with this important truth today as debris from their March 27th anti-satellite weapons test spreads through space. As many as 6,500 pieces of the Microsat-R Earth observation satellite are now circling Earth, according to a simulation created by Analytical Graphics Inc.:

During solar minimum—happening now!—Earth's upper atmosphere cools and contracts, sharply reducing aerodynamic drag that causes satellites to decay. Indeed, in 2019 the temperature of the thermosphere is close to a Space Age record low. This could double or triple the time required for fragments of the shattered satellite to sink into the atmosphere and disintegrate. Small fragments in high orbits may remain aloft for years, circling the planet like tiny bullets traveling 17,000 mph.

This event brings to mind a Chinese ASAT test in 2007, which also occurred near solar minimum and created a significant debris field of more than 35,000 pieces. That test occurred at an altitude of 865 km, with particles ultimately spreading between 200 km and 4000 km. At least one Russian satellite was unintentionally damaged by the debris.

SOLAR PROMINENCES: If you have a safe solar telescope, take a look at the sun today. Prominences are leaping up from the edge of the sun, some of them taller than Earth itself. Philippe Tosi photographed the action on April 4th from Nîmes, France:

"I used a 204 mm F/10 H-alpha refractor," he explains. "A picture of Earth was added for scale. These are pretty big."

Prominences are plumes of glowing-hot plasma held above the surface of the sun by powerful magnetic fields. Sometimes they become unstable and collapse, dumping their load of plasma onto the solar surface below. This can cause an explosion—a type of solar flare called a Hyder flare.

The prominences Tosi photographed do not, however, appear to be unstable. That means they are still there, waiting for astronomers to photograph. Submit your images here.

China, Arab states eye closer cooperation on satellite navigation to build "Space Silk Road"

by Staff Writers
Tunis, Tunisia Beijing (XNA) Apr 03, 2019

Chinese and Arab officials and experts on Monday envisioned building a "Space Silk Road" through closer cooperation on wider application of China's indigenously made BeiDou Navigation Satellite System (BDS) in the Middle East.

Speaking at the second China-Arab States BDS Cooperation Forum held in the Tunisian capital Tunis, the officials and experts agreed that increased application of the BDS in the region could elevate the China-Arab strategic cooperation to a higher level to benefit both sides.

"The BDS cooperation is the best example for the strategic cooperation between China and Arab states, as satellite navigation integrates many hi-tech areas, including telecommunication and space technologies," Slim Khalbous, Tunisian minister of higher education and scientific research, told the

More than 330 people reported seeing a meteor streak across the sky in southeastern United States early Thursday, according to the American Meteor Society.

Most of the sightings occurred shortly before 7 a.m. EST Thursday, and witnesses describe a tail of blue and green trailed behind it.

"It appears there was a meteor around 6:50 a.m. this morning, it passed near the North Carolina and South Carolina border east of Charlotte," AccuWeather Senior Meteorologist Dave Samuhel said.

Yet Another Large, Fiery Meteor Just Spectacularly Exploded Over Siberia

MICHELLE STARR · 8 APR 2019

It looks like another space rock has exploded over Russia. At around 7 pm local time on April 6, a meteor turned into a fireball over the industrial town of Krasnoyarsk in Siberia, according to The Siberian Times.

Residents caught the event on dashcams as the meteor streaked across the sky - an orange fireball with a bright tail, with a sound locals said was similar to a plane.

It exploded high in the sky over the Irkutsk region, to the East of Krasnoyarsk.

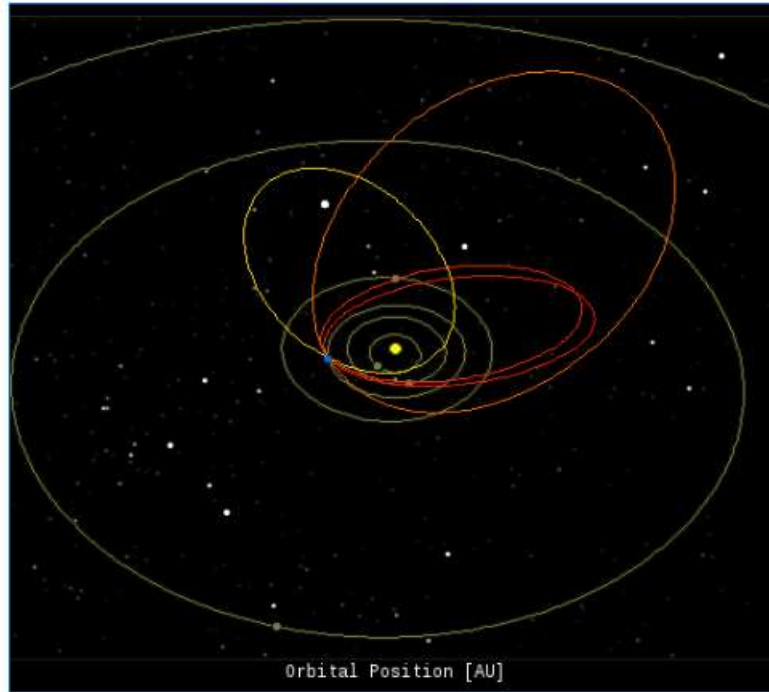

A meteor that explodes in mid-air before it hits the ground is known as a bolide. It's thought that the high-pressure air in front of the falling meteor seeps into cracks in the rock, increasing internal pressure and causing the rock to break apart.

Earthquakes on the rise; scientists warn of larger quake possibilities

OKLAHOMA CITY - While the actual quakes may be centered just north of Oklahoma City, the state capitol has been the epicenter lately.

This study held by Oklahoma lawmakers was looking into the connection between oil and gas activity and earthquakes.

"It looks like someone hit our county with a shotgun with as many holes that are being punched in payne county with hydraulic fracturing and injection wells," said one speaker.

It's been such a dramatic increase the state and seismologists like Austin Holland can barely keep up.

With 4,600 quakes this year alone so far, it averages to 14 quakes a day.

"It's pretty remarkable how many significant earthquakes we've had," Holland said.

A left sidebar contains a navigation menu with links: Overview, Myths & Misconceptions, Observational Studies, Hazard Estimation, Numerical Modeling, Publications, Earthquakes (highlighted), Hazards, and Data & Products. The main content area, titled 'Overview', contains the following text: 'The number of earthquakes in the central United has increased dramatically over the past decade. Between the years 1973–2008, there was an average of 25 earthquakes of magnitude three and larger in the central and eastern United States. Since 2009, the average number of M3 earthquakes has jumped to 362 per year. The rate peaked in 2015 with 1010 M3+ earthquakes. Since 2015 the earthquake rate has declined, with 690 and 364 M3+ earthquakes in 2016 and 2017, respectively. Nonetheless, this rate is far higher than the average of 25 earthquakes per year. Most of these earthquakes are in the magnitude 3–4 range—large enough to have been felt by many people—yet small enough to rarely cause damage. Damage has been caused by some of the larger events, including the M5.8 Pawnee and M5.0 Cushing Oklahoma earthquakes that occurred in 2016. This increase in earthquakes prompts two important questions: Are they natural, or man-made? What should be done in the future as we address the causes and consequences of these events to reduce associated risks?'

Large seismic event underway off North Island's east coast, triggering swarm of earthquakes

05/04/2019

Jamie Ensor

Janika ter Ellen

A swarm of earthquakes has been triggered off the North Island's east coast by a large seismic event similar to what preceded the 2011 Japanese quake and tsunami.

GNS Science has confirmed one of the largest "slow-slips" ever observed in New Zealand is currently underway off the coast of Gisborne in the Hikurangi subduction zone.

- **Massive earthquake, tsunami in New Zealand inevitable in our lifetime - experts**
- **Whakatane rattled by 4.9 magnitude quake**
- **'Heightened earthquake activity' near New Zealand sparks warning from GeoNet**

A slow-slip is essentially a slow, silent earthquake undetectable by humans and the seismograph network because it is the movement of faults over weeks or months, according to GNS Science geophysicist Laura Wallace.

That compares to typical quakes which happen over minutes or seconds.

Anglers concerned over dead fish in river

Sunshine Coast Daily 20 Mar 2019

FISHERS have been left stunned by the confronting sight of “thousands” of dead fish floating in the Caboolture River. Local angling guru Dave McInnes has been inundated with photos and comments about the issue since Sunday.

Mr McInnes said fish of all sizes and species, ranging from dewfish and flathead to threadfin, were involved.

way senior principal scientist Dr Paul Maxwell said it was most likely related to the recent rainfall in the Caboolture region.

“These situations are more likely to happen in waterways... which contain weirs or artificial barriers that reduce the natural flow of freshwater,” he said.

Department of Environment and Science staff have collected water and dead fish for analysis and results are pending.

Kathmandu

Mar 18, 2019-

Bird flu has been detected in two poultry farms at Tarkeshwar Municipality in Kathmandu. The infectious disease, medically known as H5N1 influenza virus, was detected and confirmed in the chickens being reared in the farms belonging to Shyam Sundar Basnet of Basnet Tole in Tarkeshwor-7 and Shyam Kumar Basnet, chief of Department of Livestock Services Dr Jaya Prakash Raya said. According to him, as many as 28,000 chickens were being culled after they were tested positive for the infection. Dr Raya said the infection that causes severe respiratory diseases in birds was also seen in ducks and chickens last year and that they were destroyed to prevent further infection. The disinfectant was being sprayed in the empty poultry farms to kill the virus. (RSS)

 In this Tuesday, Aug. 23, 2016 photo, thousands of dead and decaying fish are washing ashore as they float up Waackaack Creek on the morning tide in Keansburg, N.J. State environmental officials say the scores of dead peanut bunker fish were likely chased into the Raritan Bay by other fish. Once there, they apparently were killed off by low levels of dissolved oxygen in the water. (Robert Sciarino/NJ Advance Media via AP) (The Associated Press)(Robert Sciarino/NJ Advance Media via AP)

Share:

(CNN) - Farmers in parts of Nebraska and Iowa had precious little time to move themselves from the floodwaters that rushed over their lands last week, so many left their livestock and the harvest behind of 2018.

Now, as they watch the new lakes that overtook their property slowly recede, some have a painfully long time to reflect: They lost so much, staying in business will be a mighty struggle.

Across parts of the Midwest, hundreds of livestock are drowned or stranded; valuable unsold, stored grain is ruined in submerged storage bins; and fields are like lakes, casting doubt on whether they can be planted in 2019.

US Planning Five Hypersonic Test Programs in Marshall Islands

by Staff Writers
Washington (Sputnik) Apr 04, 2019

The US armed forces are planning five test programs on hypersonic weapons systems in the Marshall Islands in the central Pacific Ocean, Army Space and Missile Command chief Lieutenant General James Dickinson said in congressional testimony on Wednesday.

"There are currently five active hypersonic test programs in various stages of planning at RTS [the Ronald Reagan Ballistic Missile Defence Test Site]," Dickinson told the House Armed Services Strategic Subcommittee.

The RTS is located at the US Army garrison on Kwajalein Atoll in the Marshall Islands.

"Because of the geographic remoteness and available complex sensor suite, RTS has seen a significant upswing in hypersonic systems test planning," he said.

RTS also provides critical testing support to both offensive and defensive missile testing requirements for programs such as Ground-Based Mid-course Defence GMD and US Air Force strategic ballistic missile systems, Dickinson said.

A military intervention to oust Venezuelan strongman Nicolás Maduro remains "a very serious option" for the United States, according to President Trump's national security team.

"Obviously, that's a result that no one would like to see but clearly one that is seriously considered as events unfold," a senior administration official, speaking on condition of anonymity, told reporters Friday evening.

President Trump's team has wielded that threat to deter any attack by Maduro loyalists on Juan Guaidó, the opposition lawmaker whom the U.S. and other Western democracies recognized as Venezuela's legitimate interim president in January. Maduro has defied that pressure by retaining control of the

Pentagon wants more resources to counter Russia, China threats

by Allen Cone
Washington (UPI) Apr 4, 2019

The U.S. Defense Department is developing technology, including submarine-launched nuclear-tipped cruise missiles, to counter increasing threats from Russia and China, Pentagon officials told a Senate subcommittee.

High-level officials appeared before the Senate Armed Services Committee's strategic forces subcommittee Wednesday to describe the importance of increased defense spending in the Pentagon's budget request for next year.

In March, the Defense Department requested $718.3 billion in a strategy that "fully recognizes that future wars will be waged not just in the air, on the land, and at sea, but also in space and cyberspace, increasing the complexity of warfare. It modernizes capabilities across all warfighting domains to enhance lethality."

Although the spending remains near a record low as a share of the U.S. economy, the spending handles threats posed by China and Russia "through maintaining our competitive advantage."

Philippines' Duterte warns China to back off disputed island

by Staff Writers
Manila (AFP) April 5, 2019

Philippine President Rodrigo Duterte has warned Beijing to back off from a disputed island in the South China Sea, warning of possible military action if China "touches" it amid rising tensions over the key waterway.

Duterte, aiming to attract trade and investment from the Asian superpower, has mostly withheld his early criticism of Beijing's expansive claims to the sea -- a point of regional contention because trillions of dollars of goods pass through it.

But as the Philippine military warned this week that hundreds of Chinese coast guard and fishing vessels had "swarmed" the Manila-held Pag-asa island, also known as Thitu, the Philippine president spoke out late Thursday.

"I will not plead or beg, but I am just telling you that lay off the Pag-asa because I have soldiers there," Duterte said in speech to prosecutors.

"If you touch it, that's another story. Then I will tell my soldiers 'prepare for suicide missions'", he added.

Erdogan says Russia missile deal to go ahead after US suspension

by Staff Writers
Ankara (AFP) April 5, 2019

President Recep Tayyip Erdogan on Friday vowed to go ahead with a deal to purchase Russian missiles despite Washington's suspension of Turkey's participation in a US jet programme because of security concerns over Russian deal.

Turkey's agreement to buy the Russian S-400 system has further tested its relations with Washington, stoking US concern about Erdogan's burgeoning relationship with Russian leader Vladimir Putin.

United States officials have repeatedly warned of the risks the Russian system would pose to Western defences and the lack of interoperability with NATO hardware.

Relations between NATO allies US and Turkey were already on shaky ground over issues including US support to a Syrian Kurdish militia viewed by Ankara as terrorists.

The US said on Monday it was halting all deliveries and joint work with Turkey on the F-35 fighter jet programme if

Creepy AI will reportedly spot shoplifters before they steal

A Japanese company has developed software that can detect whether someone will steal before they actually do it. Japanese startup Vaak has developed a new AI system that can analyze security footage in order to 'read' a person's body language to detect fidgeting, restlessness and other cues in order to spot and stop potential thieves before they commit a crime.

EUROPEAN TECH INSIGHTS 2019

This survey explores how citizens of eight European countries (France, Germany, Ireland, Italy, Spain, The Netherlands, and the United Kingdom) feel about the technological transformations that are unfolding in their cities and workplaces and how they think their governments should deal with them. Its findings confirm a shared intuition among researchers: the fourth industrial revolution is producing a growing sense of insecurity and uncertainty among our fellow citizens. Over two thirds of Europeans of all ages believe that, if not appropriately controlled, new technologies will cause more harm than good to society in the coming decade. This belief is, in turn, leading to a growing resistance to innovation and to a general demand for more regulation. The vast majority of Europeans surveyed expect their governments to set new laws and taxes to limit automation and prevent job displacement, even if that means stopping technological progress. These results are consistent across countries, age groups, genders and ideological tendencies. Perhaps unexpectedly, Europeans are not only worried about the challenges they will face on the job market, but also about what this will mean for their social lives: over two thirds of Europeans find it concerning that people will spend more time socializing online than in person in the future.

Most people likely consider artificial intelligence as relatively harmless—maybe "creepy" at worst and, at best, perhaps helpful in medical and technological advances.

But how many would connect the dots between AI and the arrival of the Antichrist?

Pastor Mark Biltz, author of the new book, *Decoding the Antichrist and the End Times: What the Bible Says and What the Future Holds*, says AI is something that should be considered in the overall picture of the end times.

For the first time, the remains of a Jewish settlement of the Second Temple period have been discovered in Beer Sheva. The archaeological excavation carried out to facilitate a new neighborhood near the northern entrance to Beer Sheva has revealed evidence of Jewish day-to-day life there, including part of an oil lamp decorated with a nine-branched menorah – one of the earliest yet discovered by researchers – as well as limestone vessels used by Jews for reasons of ritual purity, a watchtower and more. The site, dated from the 1st century CE until the Bar-Kokhba Revolt in 135 CE, also appears to contain underground hidden passageways used by the Jewish rebels.

Chinese Authorities Offer Substantial Reward to Snitch on Christians as Church Grows Like Wildfire

Those who report underground churches to authorities in China are going to be financially rewarded, according to Marcus Jones of London's Premier Radio.

It's reported authorities in the city of Guangzhou will give up to one thousand pounds for information. It's part of a crackdown on illegal worship.

Elaine Pang, a British Chinese Christian attending church in London expressed her sadness on Premier's News Hour.

"To be honest, I'm not very surprised," she said. "There's a massive underground church network in China, as most Christians might know. I think it just shows how desperate the government are to crack down on religion in China."

Persecution of Christians may have started some 2,000 year ago, but it doesn't seem to be letting up here in the 21st century.

A major city in China has initiated a new tactic to curb Christian faith in the communist nation, offering citizens $1,500 for information leading to the arrest of foreign clerics.

The South China Morning Post in Hong Kong reported Guangzhou officials have proposed a variety of rewards for information that helps the government control Christianity.
