اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأيضاً أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد حدثت مثل ابن الهلاك وحرب هرمجدون وظهور

الشاهدين وحزقيال 38 وغيره ولا نعرف متى ولكن أشعر انها اقتربت.

ولكن ايضا علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير وفي الجيل الأخير

بدأت تحدث بوضوح ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. فلا نعرف هل المسيح سيأتي في سنة ام سبع سنين ام

سبعين سنة أم أكثر فكرر لا احدد مواعيد ولكن نذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد

ليس فقط قبل مجيء المسيح بل ايضا قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في

مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من

الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نشمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا

لان الظلمة والضيقة اقتربت جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة
لان وقتها تجميع زيت سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك
زيت الا ما جمعته سابقا. فأكرر لا نحدد المواعيد ولكن أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان
لأنه اقرب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقرب لكيلا
يقال عني كاذب وانشر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. فيجب علينا ان نذكر الكل بالاستعداد
والتوبة من الان حتى لو كان سيتأخر

Lyrid Meteor Shower Peaks Tonight: How To Watch Live

By by Miriam Kramer, Staff Writer
April 21, 2014 11:59 AM

The Lyrid meteor shower peaks tonight (April 21) and if Mother Nature spoils your "shooting stars" display with bad weather, you can watch the celestial light show live online with two webcasts.

The annual Lyrid meteor shower occurs every year when Earth passes through debris left behind by Comet Thatcher, which makes a full orbit of the sun once every 415 years. At its peak this year — which is expected to happen in the pre-dawn hours Tuesday (April 22) — the Lyrid shower should produce about 20 meteors per hour. You can watch the Lyrid meteor shower webcasts on Space.com via the online Slooh community telescope and NASA.

The Slooh webcast will begin at 8 p.m. EDT (0000 April 22 GMT). You can also watch it directly on www.slooh.com. NASA's webcast will begin at 8:30 p.m. EDT (0030 April 22 GMT) and last through the night. You can follow NASA's live webcast directly at:

"Best viewing will be midnight until dawn on the morning of April 22, provided you have clear, dark skies away from city lights," NASA officials wrote in a skywatching advisory. "Northern Hemisphere observers will have a better show than those in the Southern Hemisphere."

The sun erupted with a massive solar flare late Thursday (April 24), triggering a temporary communications blackout on some parts of Earth.

The powerful flare peaked at 8:27 p.m. EDT Thursday (0027 April 25 GMT), and ranked as an X1.3-class solar storm, one of the strongest types of flares the sun can experience, according to a report from the U.S. Space Weather Prediction Center. NASA's sun-watching Solar Dynamics Observatory captured video of the intense solar flare in several different wavelengths.

The solar flare erupted from an active sunspot region known as Region 2035 located on the far western side (or limb) of the sun as seen from Earth. Because of its position, the flare sparked a high-frequency radio blackout for about an hour on the daytime side of Earth, most likely over the Pacific

Massive Volcanic Eruptions Wreaking Havoc On The World

As the world seems to hurdle from one crisis to another, today a 43-year market veteran warned King World News that massive volcanic eruptions are now wreaking havoc on the world. Jeffrey Saut, Chief Investment Strategist at Raymond James, also warned this trend is going to continue for many years, even though no one in the mainstream media is talking about this.

Eric King: "Jeffrey, we've seen skyrocketing food prices."

Saut: "This has a lot to do with the weather. You've had a drought in Brazil, so the price of Brazilian coffee is up over 80% year-to-date. I know a farmer in California who used to produce a bunch of alfalfa. He's about to lose his entire crop because he can't get water...."

Yogyakarta: Volcanic activity at Mount Merapi, on the border of Central Java and Yogyakarta, dispersed ash within a 15-kilometer radius of the southeast, south and southwest of the volcano, on Sunday.

"Tremors were recorded for around 20 minutes at 4:21 a.m. local time on Sunday, and our observers began to hear rumbling at 4:26 a.m.," said Sri Sumarti, head of the Mt. Merapi division at the Geological Disaster Technology Research and Development Center (BPPTKG) in Yogyakarta on Sunday, as quoted by Antara news agency.

It was reported that embers were also seen. Sri asserted that, however, there was no lava flow.

"The same thing happened after Mt. Merapi erupted in 2010. The smoke this morning was an isolated occurrence and was not followed by more seismic activity," she said.

Sri further said a 5.6 Richter scale earthquake with an epicenter some 151 km southwest of Gunung Kidul occurred on Friday.

FIELD OF FIRE: Icelandic eruption could cause devastation [GETTY]

Ministers are on red alert that the Icelandic monster could erupt in future creating a doomsday explosion.

Experts say toxic plumes of smoke would quickly fill the skies over the UK and northern Europe, creating climate chaos and killing millions.

The last time it happened, in 1783, crops were wiped out and an estimated 23,000 Brits were killed by breathing air filled with poisonous sulphur dioxide.

The giant ash cloud led to a series of roasting- hot summers and freezing winters.

University of Washington launches effort to prepare Northwest region for 9.0 magnitude quake

Posted on April 26, 2014

April 2014 – SEATTLE — Scientists fully expect that the coast of Washington, Oregon, British Columbia and part of northern California to see a magnitude nine subduction zone earthquake again. It's been 314 years since the last one in January of the year 1700. Scientists know of this quake because of written reports from Japan that recorded a tsunami. The reports of a giant wave also correlate with rings in old trees killed when marsh land along the Washington coast dropped several feet, allowing sea water to envelope their roots. This week, scientists with the University of Washington gathered 55 experts from around the region. Their goal: to step up efforts to prepare for the next magnitude nine earthquake in the Northwest and the ensuing recovery. "That's the critical part. To be prepared and then to bounce back," said John Vidale, Washington state's seismologist and head of the Pacific Northwest Seismic Network. Vidale moderated the event. The project is called M9, as in magnitude 9. But the lessons learned from it could be applied to any major natural disaster in Washington, a state that's currently recovering from the landslide near Oso on March 22 that killed at least 41 people.

Spike in Earthquakes? An 'Illusion' Raises New Questions

BY MIGUEL LLANOS

Does it seem as if there have been more earthquakes in recent weeks? Some scientists thought so.

Some of the best minds in earthquake science have been counting quakes and analyzing seismic waves to see if the largest in a string of recent quakes — the magnitude-8.2 tremor in Chile on April 1 — might have triggered others far, far away.

Ross Stein, a senior U.S. Geological Survey geophysicist who studies how quakes interact, got so excited that on April 12 he fired off an email to colleagues that started with this: "Guys, seems like a lot of big quakes have been popping off around the globe over the past week."

Experts for years have known that the seismic waves from one quake can trigger a quake somewhere else — a process known as "dynamic triggering."

Stein himself co-authored a study tying a magnitude-8.7 Indian Ocean quake in 2012 to a spike in quakes globally in the days after. That increase lasted about a week, and a few days after the spike, the rate for larger quakes fell to below average.

"It's as if the Indian Ocean quake had shaken the tree, causing the apples ready to fall out to do so," said Thorne Lay, a seismology professor at the University of California at Santa Cruz.

KOLHAPUR: Green activists from the city are divided over the cause of the death of fish at a couple of places along the Panchaganga River. Fish were found dead near the Shirol Bridge and at Bawada Bridge on Friday.

Following complaints from local residents and activists on Friday, officials of the Maharashtra Pollution Control Board (MPCB) had surveyed the river stretch from Dudhali nullah to Shirol Bridge and collected river water samples on Saturday. Officials have sent the dead fish to the Pune-based forensic laboratory to clarify the actual reason of death.

A large number of fish were found dead at these two spots, leaving green activists worried about the intensity of pollution in the river water. A possible reason for the fish dying, activists debated, could be the sewage water released over the past three days from the Jayanthi nullah by the Kolhapur Municipal Corporation.

"A significant amount of sewage is entering the river over the last three days, which has led to the decrease in the dissolved oxygen in the water, causing the death of the fish in large numbers. Also, the waste water from the distilleries located along the river has contributed to the death of the fish," said Burhan Naikawadi, secretary, Prajasattak Samaj Seva Sanstha.

20 000 to 30 000 new pets (NAC) died in the warehouse fire Savannah Reptiles Planet Sunday at Saint Sulpice-la-Pointe. Thousands of dead reptiles reptiles, boas and pythons have also been reduced to ashes in the disaster that ravaged the 4000 m2 this property. Iguanas, chameleons, lizards, rabbits, mice, rats, salamanders, insects, crickets there remained at dawn, no survivors. Only 8 turtles, 60 to 100 pounds, which shells were cooled with water hoses by firefighters, survived the blaze. Disaster evaluated according to initial estimates between 4 to 5 million. It is 2 hours 30 minutes Sunday that the fire broke out. Upon arrival of firefighters, the whole metal structure was already in flames. "I saw the fire Montastruc, more than 20 kilometers away," explained a volunteer firefighter. 38 men fought tirelessly fire and yesterday evening, a thick white smoke rose into the sky. "For us it may be the end," said Julian Roman, CEO of the company established in 1999.

20 employees, including six apprentices will be unemployed this morning. "I can not imagine that it is a voluntary act," he says. Gendarmes and technicians criminal investigation were spot on. "All hypotheses are open," said an investigator. Warehouse, there was last night as sheets charred and twisted metal beams from the intense heat. Firefighters from across the state, exhausted by the intervention of more than 15 hours, and finally returned to their barracks, leaving behind a ridiculous pile of scrap metal. Savannah reptiles planet is a major player in the market for new pets. It thus provides 600 stores and pet shops lizards, snakes, turtles and amphibians of all kinds. A controversy over the housing conditions of the animals is the buzz on the internet last fall. Video and photos taken by a former employee had been circulating on the web, sparking the ire of animal rights advocates. The leader of Savannah Reptiles Planet denounced coarse assembly which was intended only to harm the future of his company.

1,000 fish found dead in Oona river in County Tyrone

One of the fish killed in the incident.

About 1,000 fish, mostly trout, have been found dead in the Oona River near Dungannon, County Tyrone.

The Northern Ireland Environment Agency (NIEA) said pollution in the water is being classified as "high severity".

Investigating officers have identified a potential source of the discharge. Samples have been taken by the NIEA.

"We got a call on Easter Sunday at around four o'clock from a member of public to say they saw dead fish," Brian Luke from the NIEA said.

Harsh winter blamed for mass fish death at Island Lake

Orangeville Banner

By Bill Tremblay

Unusually thick ice is taking the blame for an above average winterkill of fish at Island Lake.

As the manmade body of water continues to melt, numerous visitors to the conservation area have reported spotting large amounts of dead fish surfacing on the lake.

According to Credit Valley Conservation (CVC), thick ice cover on the lake deprived fish of oxygen leading to their death.

Ice acts as a barrier between water and the air. Fish and decaying plants will consume oxygen available in the water eventually leading to suffocation. Winterkill is common in shallow lakes and ponds.

The water in Island Lake is about four feet deep. This winter, ice on the lake exceeded two feet in depth.

"We had unusually high depths of ice," said Wayne White, chairman of the Friends of Island Lake. "It's just an act of nature. It has nothing to do with water quality or anything else."

Island Lake bass have suffered the brunt of the winterkill, according to White.

"The pike can survive on lower levels of oxygen," he said.

Dead fish will usually surface in concentrated numbers where ice first begins to melt. White said dead fish sightings in the lake are being reported near Bob's Bridges. However, the new boardwalk is not to blame for any aquatic casualties.

"It was quite a shock to people walking across Bob's Bridges and seeing the fish there," White said. "It was the first area for the ice to melt on the lake."

CVC has implemented voluntary trial harvest limits on fishing at the lake.

Bill Lidster, CVC's senior superintendent of conservation areas, said the limitation aims to allow the lake to replenish its own fish population.

What caused mass honey bee die-off in Oregon?

SHERWOOD, Ore. (AP) - The Oregon Department of Agriculture is investigating the die-off of thousands of honeybees in Sherwood.

KGW reports dead bees were found Sunday scattered along on Highway 99 at Sunset Boulevard.

State Insect Pest Prevention and Management specialist Pat Mitchell says there are many theories but the state won't know what happened until samples are completely tested.

There are agricultural fields nearby.

Last year, tens of thousands of bees were found dead in a Wilsonville shopping center. Two companies were fined for spraying pesticide that killed the bees.

Some 2 million fish are found dead in Tehran province's Fashafuyeh dam due to water pollution.

Reports suggest that the incident has happened because the Vavan housing complex's sewage system goes directly into the lake.

Mohsen Shokati, head of Rey City Environmental Protection Office, said that over 30 tons of fish have been killed in the past few days.

"Previously the housing complex's sewage system poured into the lake through a canal, but now it directly goes to the lake," he noted.

"Vavan housing complex needs a Water treatment facility. The construction work even started, but due to lack of budget the project was halted," Shokati said, adding that the facility is currently 60 per cent complete.

Burgessville beekeeper already reports massive bee kill at yard in Oxford County

By Tara Bowie, Woodstock Sentinel-Review
Thursday, April 24, 2014 12:20:39 EDT PM

Beekeeper John VanBlyderveen points to a frame he suspects is contaminated with neonicotinoid pesticide. He removed dozens of these frames from his hives in hopes he could stop his bees from being poisoned over the winter. TARA BOWIE / SENTINEL-REVIEW / QMI AGENCY

Planting season hasn't even started yet and at least one Ontario beekeeper is reporting a massive bee kill at one of his yards.

John VanBlyderveen, owner of Oxford Honey and Supplies, said Pest Management Regulatory Agency inspectors took dead bee samples from one of his yards in Newark, just west of Norwich, Tuesday.

Inspectors also took pollen samples from nearby bee-foraged plants for the first time since studies started on neonicotinoid poisoning.

"There were dead bees out front, partially paralyzed. It's typical neonicotinoid poisoning," he said. "Residual toxicity levels out there are killing the bees even before planting starts."

VanBlyderveen knows at least one other beekeeper planning to report a massive bee kill already this year. This beekeeper is located about three hours north of London.

Although winter losses are normally expected between the 10 to 20% range, VanBlyderveen said at least 43 % of his bees died over the winter, despite efforts that included removing frames from hives suspected of having honey contaminated with neonicotinoid residue.

Elmwood beekeeper experiencing die-offs already

By Rob Gowan, Sun Times, Owen Sound
Friday, April 25, 2014 6:28:25 EDT PM

A finger points to a honey bee, carrying sacks of yellow bee pollen which are used to feed the honeybees in the hive, which has died right at the entrance to one of Dave Schuit's beehives near Elmwood on Friday, April 25, 2014. All three bees in this photo have died inches from the hive entrance. Schuit a former organic farmer who owns Saugeen Country Honey is claiming that neonicotinoid pesticides are responsible for the die off. He believes that neonicotinoid pesticides have killed 65,000,000 of his honeybees in the last two years. (The Sun Times/JAMES MASTERS/QMI Agency).

The first pollen of the season has brought some frightening sights for a local beekeeper.

Dead and dying bees are already showing up at his bee yards and Dave Schuit of Saugeen Country Honey in Elmwood said Friday it is a clear sign the neonicotinoid pesticides used on crop seeds are in the soil, water and plants.

"We believe it is in the soil, it is in the water," Schuit said from a bee yard near Elmwood where he was gathering dead bees. "The pussy willows are starting to come out, they are drawing up water and the pesticide goes up with it."

Schuit said the yard he was at Friday was the second one this spring where dead bees were found in the hundreds and thousands.

In both instances Health Canada's Pest Management Regulatory Agency has been contacted to do tests on the insects. The bees had pollen on them and the wings were flared forward, a sign of acute pesticide poisoning, Schuit said.

ALERT: Worst Severe Storms, Tornadoes of Season So Far to Span Dallas to Kansas City

A multiple-day outbreak of severe thunderstorms, including tornadoes, is set to begin this weekend. The outbreak is likely to be the worst of the season so far and may end up being one of the top severe weather events for the season. While the 2014 severe weather season has gotten off to a rather quiet start, a strong surge in severe weather is forecast to begin this weekend. People will need to keep a close eye on the weather, watch for rapidly changing weather conditions and pay careful attention to severe weather and tornado warnings as they are issued. More

ARKANSANS RUSH FOR COVER AGAINST TWISTER; 15 DIE

BY JIM SALTER AND ANDREW DEMILLO
ASSOCIATED PRESS

VILONIA, Ark. (AP) — The sky turned black as the funnel cloud closed in, and Maggie Caro rushed with her husband and two children to a community shelter at a Vilonia school, where they were among the last to get inside the fortified gym before the doors were shut.

"They were screaming, 'Run! Run! It's coming!'" Caro recalled.

And then all hell broke loose.

The half-mile-wide tornado carved an 80-mile path of destruction through the Little Rock suburbs Sunday evening, killing at least 15 people, flattening rows of homes, shredding cars along a highway and demolishing a brand-new school before it even had a chance to open.

Officials said the death toll could have been worse if residents hadn't piled into underground storm shelters and fortified safe rooms after listening to forecasts on TV and radio, getting cellphone alerts or calls or texts from loved ones, and hearing sirens blare through their neighborhoods.

By now, most of North America has thawed out from a brutal winter that introduced unhappy phrases such as "polar vortex" into the lexicon.

But some effects of the long-lasting, subfreezing temperatures are only now becoming apparent. One surprise was the discovery that starving rats in New York City had attacked the trees in urban parks for sustenance.

"With the deep snow and the cold winter, probably they didn't have access to the normal food supply and it was a lot colder this winter," Rich Hallett, a research ecologist with the U.S. Forest Service, told WNYC. "So they went after the trees." [6 Invasive Pests Threatened by Cold Weather]

(NaturalNews) Russia may be the current target of the American corporate media for its alleged role in provoking Ukraine to war, but the former Soviet stronghold has become a world leader in protecting its food sovereignty and kicking the multinational biopirates to the curb. New reports indicate that Russian prime minister Dmitry Medvedev has announced the country's rejection of all imports of genetically modified organisms (GMOs), upholding Russia's growing stance against the cultivation and sale of GMOs within its borders.

The announcement comes just months after Medvedev ordered the country's health ministry, agriculture ministry and other relevant agencies to investigate GMO safety and come up with proposals for better protecting the integrity of the country's food supply. According to RT.com, their consensus is that Russia has no need for GMOs and will instead remain committed to traditional agricultural practices that have a proven track record of safety.

"If the Americans like to eat GMO products, let them eat it then," stated Medvedev before a congress of deputies from various rural settlements at a recent meeting. "We don't need to do that; we have enough space and opportunities to produce organic food."

Russia hints at armed 'response' if Ukraine interests attacked

By Bertrand De Saeset with Stuart Williams in Moscow
3 hours ago

Slavyansk (Ukraine) (AFP) - Russia said on Wednesday that it will strike back if its "legitimate interests" in Ukraine are attacked, raising the stakes in the Cold War-like duel with the United States over the former Soviet republic's future.

NATO responded by cautioning against "veiled threats", saying they violated the spirit of an agreement reached in Geneva last week to try to pull the crisis-hit country back from the brink of civil war.

Moscow is insisting that Kiev withdraw forces sent to eastern Ukraine on an "anti-terrorist" mission to dislodge pro-Russian rebels, who have occupied government buildings there.

Russia warns of Europe gas delivery cut over Ukraine debt

Russia says Ukraine's failure to pay its growing gas debt may impact gas delivery to European countries.

Russia's Energy Minister Alexander Novak said on Saturday that Moscow may be forced to cut off natural gas supplies to Europe over Ukraine's mounting unpaid gas debt.

According to Novak, Ukraine currently owes Russia over USD 2.230 billion in unpaid gas bills and the debt is to rise, as the figure does not include 1.3 billion for deliveries made in April.

The Russian Energy Ministry also said Ukraine's debt could lead to a situation where not enough gas would be pumped into Ukrainian underground storage facilities, which could then result in an undersupply of gas to Southeastern Europe.

Russia provides about half of Ukraine's gas and 30 percent of Europe's total gas demand with major pipelines on the Ukrainian territory.

The Russian Energy Minister's comments came after Novak together with Russia's Gazprom CEO Alexei Miller and other

A third NATO ship is expected in the Black Sea late this week, after two US ships arrived last week and this week. The French frigate Duplex, now stationed in Cyprus, should arrive in the Black Sea on Saturday or Sunday.

However, USS Donald Cook will return to the Mediterranean Sea, according to diplomatic sources quoted by the Russia agency Itar-Tass. The French ship should have already arrived in the Black Sea on April 14. The US ship USS Donald Cook, currently stationed in the Western part of the Black Sea, would leave today, and the French ship Dupuy de Lome, which patrols the center of the Black Sea, would leave next Thursday, on April 30.

WASHINGTON – Russian President Vladimir Putin intends to respond to Western sanctions triggered by his country's participation in the Ukrainian crisis by dramatically expanding bilateral trade with China, particularly in providing energy to fuel China's fast-growing economy, according to Joseph Farah's G2 Bulletin.

Moscow and Beijing have developed closer bilateral ties as relations between Russia and the European Union worsen. Russian Prime Minister Dmitry Medvedev has said cooperation with Beijing is a top priority for Moscow.

"It is the rise of the Eurasia century," one Asian source said. "Moscow and Beijing's interests are converging."

China is experiencing dramatic economic growth and has become the second largest economy in the world in the past two decades, growing faster than the combined economies of the United States and the entire European Union.

Economic experts predict China's economy will be the largest in the world by 2018.

Putin intends to meet with Chinese President Xi Jinping in May to conclude an energy agreement and possibly work on military and other business contracts, including a major Siberian timber deal, sources say.

The deal works for Beijing, since it knows Russia needs to offset the Western sanctions and thus will give it a reasonable price. At the same time, the deal works for Beijing, which wants to wean itself from the use of coal in industrialized cities where there are serious environmental issues stemming from burning coal.

China's foreign ministry on Monday restated its opposition to placing sanctions on Russia over the crisis in Ukraine, after leaders of the Group of Seven (G7) agreed to impose further punitive measures.

Ministry spokesman Qin Gang said China had "maintained communication" with all sides since the outset of the Ukraine crisis, including the G7 countries, and explained its position.

"On the issue of international relations, China has consistently opposed threatening or imposing sanctions. We believe that sanctions are not conducive to an issue's resolution, and may worsen tensions," he told a daily news briefing.

Russia condemns new U.S. sanctions, says U.S. back in Cold War

REUTERS 6 hours ago

MOSCOW (Reuters) - A senior Russian diplomat sharply criticized a new round of U.S. sanctions on Monday, saying the measures were illegitimate and uncivilized and that restrictions on high-tech exports from the United States marked a return to Cold War practices.

"We decisively condemn the series of measures that has been announced in an attempt to put sanctions pressure on Moscow," Deputy Foreign Minister Sergei Ryabkov said in comments posted on the ministry's website.

"Unilateral extraterritorial sanctions are by nature illegitimate. They do not just fail to correspond to the norms of civilized interaction between states ... they contradict the demands of international law," Ryabkov said.

He said the U.S. decision to impose sanctions was based on an "absolutely distorted" view of events occurring in Ukraine and "will not improve the chances for a constructive solution to the problems that have arisen."

Two Russian bombers which flew close to UK airspace have been chased away by an RAF jet fighter.

The aircraft, believed to be Tupolev 95s, were spotted off the coast of northeast Scotland.

They were turned away from Britain when an RAF Typhoon was scrambled from Leuchars airbase, near Dundee.

Crews stationed there are on standby to intercept unidentified aircraft at a moment's notice.

The incident comes amid heightened international tensions over the situation in Ukraine, following the annexation of Crimea by Russia last month.

A united system of naval bases for ships and next-generation submarines will be created in the Arctic to defend Russia's interests in the region, President Vladimir Putin said.

He urged the government to provide full state funding for the socio-economic development of the Russian Arctic through 2017-20.

Putin said that a separate state agency should be created to implement Russian policy in the Arctic and to improve the quality of governance and decision-making in this area.

"We do not need a bulky bureaucratic body, but a flexible operational structure, which will help better coordinate the activities of ministries and departments, regions and businesses," he said.

Obama Asia Tour Starts With Scathing Attack by China State Media

China's state media issued a scathing attack on the United States just hours before Barack Obama touched down for a week-long tour of Asia on Wednesday.

The Xinhua news agency published a commentary slamming the U.S. as a "myopic" superpower that was trying to "cage" its Asian counterpart.

Obama landed in Tokyo around 6 a.m. ET and will visit Japan, South Korea, Malaysia and the Philippines over the next five days. The trip is part of a wider attempt to "rebalance" and "pivot" toward Asia.

South Korea's Defense Ministry said Tuesday that North Korea has upped activities at its main nuclear test site, prompting South Korea and the United States to prepare for a new nuclear missile test by Pyongyang.

The announcement came ahead of President Obama's scheduled trip to Japan and South Korea later this week. The speculated test would also take place as most of the South Korean public's attention has been taken up by the Sewol ferry disaster, which has killed over a hundred people, with the final death toll expected to be around 300.

President Barack Obama warned North Korea on Saturday that the United States 'will not hesitate to use our military might' to defend allies, showcasing U.S. power in the region amid China's growing influence and Pyongyang's unpredictable nuclear threats.

Obama's visit to Seoul comes as North Korea has threatened to conduct its fourth nuclear test, leading Obama to raise the possibility of further sanctions.

'The commitment that the United States of America has made to the security of the Republic of Korea only grows stronger in the face of aggression,' Obama said in a speech to some of the 28,000 American service members stationed in South Korea to keep watch on its northern neighbor. 'Our alliance does not waiver with each bout of their attention seeking. It just gains the support of the rest of the world.'

A border dispute off the coasts of Lebanon and Israel threatens another violent conflict in the Middle East, as the two countries battle over a zone that has the potential to produce billions of dollars in energy revenue.

The dispute, which has defied U.S. efforts at mediation, is the result of Israeli and Lebanese claims over a potentially lucrative plot of territory in the Mediterranean Sea. The 850 square kilometers in the triangle-shaped area, which both countries consider to be their Exclusive Economic Zone, could be full of offshore natural gas and oil.

The Daily Star newspaper in Lebanon estimated the worth of the zone to be between $5 billion and $8 billion.

Lebanon has delayed its offshore activities because of political turbulence in the country. But the recent formation of a government will allow it to move ahead with decrees that signal the beginning of bidding for drilling rights.

"Lebanon intends to open the bidding round in the coming weeks once the decrees have been issued," said Karen Ayat, an energy analyst for Natural Gas Europe, though she cautioned that an ongoing Lebanese presidential election and the Syrian conflict next door could lead to a delay.

Tensions run deep: The countries are technically still at a state of war. Lebanon has expressed fear that Israel could "siphon" off oil and gas through a pipeline, and Israel views Lebanese tenders for drilling as a challenge to its sovereignty.

Demolition teams began destroying parts of a Chinese church that has become a symbol of resistance to the Communist Party's draconian clutch on religion, activists and witnesses said on Monday.

Sanjiang church in Wenzhou, a wealthy coastal city known as the "Jerusalem of the East", made headlines earlier this month when thousands of Christians formed a human shield around its entrance after plans for its demolition were announced.

Combating the National Day of Prayer, Atheists Launch 'Day of Reason'

Gov. Lincoln Chafee of Rhode Island has declared May 1 as a 'Day of Reason' in his state. (CBN)

Gov. Lincoln Chafee of Rhode Island has declared May 1 as a "Day of Reason" in his state.

The secular celebration is being held on the same day as the National Day of Prayer.

Atheists and secularists oppose a national day of prayer, saying it's part of a "persistent threat" to the separation of church and state. They think a "Day of Reason" will help them fight back.

The Humanists of Rhode Island and the Secular Coalition for Rhode Island requested the event.

Chafee's proclamation says reason has "proven to offer hope for human survival upon Earth by cultivating intelligent, moral, and ethical interaction among people."

Meanwhile, millions of Christians are expected to participate in the National Day of Prayer.

This year's theme, "One Voice, United in Prayer," emphasizes the need for individuals, both personally and corporately, to place their faith in the "unfailing character of their Creator, who is sovereign over all governments, authorities, and men."

The theme Scripture for this year's event is Romans 15:6: "So that with one mind and one voice you may glorify the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ."

A Washington, D.C.-based secular organization has filed a lawsuit against the words "under God" in the Pledge of Allegiance.

The American Humanist Association announced Monday that a New Jersey school district will be the latest entity sued over the two words.

David Niose, attorney for the American Humanist Association's Appignani Humanist Legal Center, said in a statement that he believes the pledge's words are religiously coercive.

"Public schools should not engage in an exercise that tells students that patriotism is tied to a belief in God," said Niose.

"Such a daily exercise portrays atheist and humanist children as second-class citizens, and certainly contributes to anti-atheist prejudices."

The lawsuit is being brought on behalf of an anonymous Monmouth County family that claims the words under God are discriminatory against non-theists.

In Nigeria, Christians in the Muslim-majority North have been the targets of relentless deadly attacks by Islamic extremists.

More than 200 pastors in the Northeastern Borno state have either fled, closed their churches, or have been murdered by the militant Islamic group Boko Haram.

Christian leaders who remain have committed to fasting and praying for the region one week each month.

"We have to stay and uphold the name of Christ in this state," one pastor named James told the international ministry Open Doors.

"We are willing to pay the price for our calling. We don't only share the Gospel when things are rosy," he continued. "It is to be done in every situation. Hunger and want will never discourage us. Swords and guns, even the roar of the devil, will only encourage us to stand first for Christ."

"If we die, our blood will speak about Christ to our killers," he said.

"We are seeking the face of God in this situation," Rev. Pons, whose full name we cannot reveal for security purposes, told Open Doors. "Brethren are being killed all over the state. Thousands of homes have been destroyed. Our churches have not been spared. We are being struck from every direction. Only Christ can deliver us from this trial."

(CNSNews.com) – Visiting Malaysia's National Mosque on Sunday, President Obama was asked by the institution's imam to end oppression against Muslims worldwide, Malaysia's national press agency Bernama reported.

"Pray for me," Obama replied, according to Grand Imam Ismail Muhammad, who took him on a 25-minute tour of the mosque, called Masjid Negara in Malay, in Kuala Lumpur.

"Obama also said that every day when he wakes up he always does his best to put an end to oppression and conflicts affecting communities," Bernama quoted Ismail as saying.

The 70 year-old cleric said Obama had frequently replied with InsyAllah (Malay for "Allah willing") and terima kasih ("thank you") during the tour.

Christians have criticized an event in San Francisco, Ca. that invited contestants to enter a "Hunky Jesus" competition, calling it distasteful and offensive.

There were at least a thousand people in attendance for the controversial annual contest in San Francisco - the 2014 "Hunky Jesus" Competition, which saw a number of people dressed in costumes and carrying props that mocked Jesus, while others dressed as Mary, nuns, or other figures of the Christian faith.

Billionaire GOP donor aims to convince party to push homosexual 'rights'

BY DUSTIN SIGGINS

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 22, 2014 (LifeSiteNews.com) -- Billionaire Republican donor Paul Singer, long known for opposing legislation that increases the regulatory burden on American businesses, has brought together a bipartisan coalition that aims to move the GOP to push homosexual "rights."

Singer, who backs same-sex "marriage" and the Employment Non-Discrimination Act (ENDA), helped form two organizations in the last year that have donated to Republicans that share their support for comprehensive immigration reform, same-sex "marriage," and Israel.

Working with groups like the ACLU, SEIU, and Human Rights Campaign, Singer has donated $10 million over the last several years to pro-same-sex "marriage" efforts in New Hampshire, New York, and Maryland. He has been inspired by his openly homosexual son, according to media reports.

Singer has donated $375,000 to help pass ENDA in Congress, telling USA TODAY, "America is a place where the freedom to be who you are shouldn't be a barrier to your ability to get a job and provide for your family." ENDA would prevent so-called "workplace discrimination" against employees for their sexuality.

Billionaire GOP donor Paul Singer

In February, Politico reported that Singer and several other billionaire donors had formed the American Opportunity Alliance, which aims to move the GOP into supporting Israel, but also less conservative policies such as amnesty for illegal immigrants and support for same-sex "marriage." House Speaker John Boehner, R-OH, was expected at a meeting in late February with these donors, as was New Hampshire's Republican Senator Kelly Ayotte.

According to Thomas More Society president Tom Brejcha, "Big donors have influence with party leadership, there's no doubt about it. Sometimes, there is a principled coincidence, between donors and Members. This is true on the right and left, and nothing is inappropriate with that."

(CNSNews.com) - In the budget proposal he presented to Congress last month, President Barack Obama called for what would be the highest level of sustained taxation ever imposed on the American people, according to the analysis published last week by the Congressional Budget Office.

Under Obama's proposal, taxes would rise from 17.6 percent of Gross Domestic Product in 2014 to 19.2 percent in 2024. During the ten years from 2015 to 2024, federal taxation would average 18.7 percent GDP.

America has never been subjected to a ten-year stretch of taxation at that level.

American Middle Class Is No Longer the World's Best

The American middle class, long the most affluent in the world, has lost that distinction.

While the wealthiest Americans are outpacing many of their global peers, a New York Times analysis shows that across the lower- and middle-income tiers, citizens of other advanced countries have received considerably larger raises over the last three decades.

After-tax middle-class incomes in Canada — substantially behind in 2000 — now appear to be higher than in the United States. The poor in much of Europe earn more than poor Americans.

The American middle class, long the most affluent in the world, has lost that honor, and many Americans are dissatisfied with the state of the country. "Things are pretty flat," said Kathy Washburn of Mount Vernon, Iowa. "You have mostly lower level and high and not a lot in between." Nicole Bengiveno/The New York Times Spending cuts in Greece have caused some 500 male suicides since their implementation, according to a new study. The research found a positive correlation between austerity and suicide rates after other possible links proved to be unrelated.

The 30-page study, titled 'The Impact of Fiscal Austerity on Suicide: On the Empirics of a Modern Greek Tragedy' and published in the Social Science and Medicine journal was authored by Nikolaos Antonakakis and Alan Collins from Portsmouth University.

"Suicide rates in Greece (and other European countries) have been on a remarkable upward trend following the global recession of 2008 and the European sovereign debt crisis of 2009," states the study's abstract.

Each 1 percent decrease in government spending resulted in a 0.43 percent rise in suicides among men, according to the study. Between 2009 and 2010, there were 551 deaths which occurred "solely because of fiscal austerity," it stated.

Exactly Like 7 Years Ago? 2014 Is Turning Out To Be Eerily Similar To 2007

The similarities between 2007 and 2014 continue to pile up. As you are about to see, U.S. home sales fell dramatically throughout 2007 even as the mainstream media, our politicians and Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke promised us that everything was going to be just fine and that we definitely were not going to experience a recession. Of course we remember precisely what followed. It was the worst economic crisis since the days of the Great Depression. And you know what they say – if we do not learn from history we are doomed to repeat it. Just like seven years ago, the stock market has soared to all-time high after all-time high. Just like seven years ago, the authorities are telling us that there is nothing to worry about. Unfortunately, just like seven years ago, a housing bubble is imploding and another great economic crisis is rapidly approaching. More

Until now, the terrible trail of dead bankers has been only among US and European financial executives. However, as Caixin reports, the increasing pressures on the Chinese banking system appear to have take their first toll. Li Jianhua, director of China's Banking Regulatory Commission (CBRC), died this morning due to a "sudden heart attack" - he was less than 49 years old. Li was among the main drafters on new "caveat emptor" market-based rules on China's shadowy banking system and recently said in an interview that "now is not only a time to control risk, but to transform the trust industry.. if it's too loose, it's a big problem." Li was found by his wife.

Army recognizes 'Humanism' as a religious preference

The Army has taken a step toward officially acknowledging "humanists" among other faiths and belief systems, ending years of resistance to the idea, advocates say. The faith code for Humanism — a secular belief system — was officially approved by the service alongside Muslim, Hindu, Wiccan, Jewish, Buddhist and various Christian denominations. The religious "preference code," which troops can select to denote their preference, became effective for humanists on April 12. Army Maj. Ray Bradley, in a blog post, said for years he and others had to choose between "atheist" or "no religious preference," which inaccurately described his beliefs. "The ability to accurately identify myself in my official Army records as a humanist is not only a matter of personal integrity and dignity, but it also has important implications for my military service," said Bradley, who is stationed at Fort Bragg, N.C. STORRS, Conn. — A University of Connecticut professor asserted that he came from an ape on Tuesday as he went wild during a campus gospel presentation that included discussion on evolution.

James Boster, Professor of Anthropology at University of Connecticut, spent over two hours attempting to draw students away from several evangelists that were open-air preaching and distributing gospel literature on campus.

Evangelist Don Karns of Hampton, Virginia told Christian News Network that Boster approached him as he was holding a sign about evolution and became condescending and confrontational.

"He asked me if I had accepted Darwin as my lord and savior," Karns stated. "He was very agitated, very demonstrative. ... It was very unbecoming of a professor."

Minutes later, Boster also began to heckle campus tour coordinator Scott Smith of Schoolmaster Ministries of Raleigh, North Carolina as he preached.

"As I was pointing to Christ—I was talking about the sin nature—I said, 'There's probably some people out there—maybe even professors—who think they descended from monkeys,'" Smith recalled. "[Boster] jumped off the ground and came running over and basically started screaming, 'I did not come from a monkey! I came from an ape!'"

"He got about two inches from my nose," he noted. "You could tell he was going to pop."

Karns states that Boster then confronted him a second time, using profanity and likewise coming closely to his face. Andrew Rappaport of Striving for Eternity Ministries in Jackson, New Jersey witnessed Boster as he began presenting a speech in an attempt to stir up the students.

The Reason

"He started to address the students as 'My brothers and sisters of Darwin,'" he recalled.

الايام الاخيرة

العالم يأخذ الشكل الذي قاله الكتاب عن أيام مجيء ابن الانسان

أنجيل لوقا 17

26 وَكَمَا كَانَ فِي أَيَّامِ نُوحٍ كَذَلِكَ يَكُونُ أَيْضًا فِي أَيَّامِ ابْنِ الْإِنْسَانِ:

27 كَانُوا يَأْكُلُونَ وَيَشْرَبُونَ، وَيُزَوِّجُونَ وَيَتَزَوَّجُونَ، إِلَى الْيَوْمِ الَّذِي فِيهِ دَخَلَ نُوحُ الْفُلْكَ، وَجَاءَ الطُّوفَانُ وَأَهْلَكَ الْجَمِيعَ.

28 كَذَلِكَ أَيْضًا كَمَا كَانَ فِي أَيَّامِ لُوطٍ: كَانُوا يَأْكُلُونَ وَيَشْرَبُونَ، وَيَشْتَرُونَ وَيَبِيعُونَ، وَيَغْرَسُونَ وَيَبْنُونَ.

29 وَلَكِنَّ الْيَوْمَ الَّذِي فِيهِ خَرَجَ لُوطٌ مِنْ سَدُومَ، أَمْطَرَ نَارًا وَكِبْرِيَاءَ مِنَ السَّمَاءِ فَأَهْلَكَ الْجَمِيعَ.

30 هَكَذَا يَكُونُ فِي الْيَوْمِ الَّذِي فِيهِ يُظْهَرُ ابْنُ الْإِنْسَانِ.

31 فِي ذَلِكَ الْيَوْمِ مَنْ كَانَ عَلَى السَّطْحِ وَامْتَعَتْهُ فِي الْبَيْتِ فَلَا يَنْزِلْ لِيَأْخُذَهَا، وَالَّذِي فِي الْحَقْلِ

كَذَلِكَ لَا يَرْجِعْ إِلَى الْوَرَاءِ.

32 اذْكُرُوا امْرَأَةً لُوطًا!

33 مَنْ طَلَبَ أَنْ يَخْلَصَ نَفْسَهُ يَهْلِكُهَا، وَمَنْ أَهْلَكَهَا يُخَيِّبُهَا.

فلهذا أقول المسيح اقترب ميعاد مجيؤه لا احدد مواعيد بل ارفض من يحدد مواعيد ولكن اطلب

الأول نصلي ونستعد ونعد زيت لمصابيحنا لاستقبال العريس بالصلاة والصوم وخدمة أبناء الله وتنقية القلب والاستعداد بلبس العرس.

أفسس 6: 15 وَحَازِيْنَ أَرْجُلَكُمْ بِاسْتِعْدَادٍ إِنِّجِيلِ السَّلَامِ .

رسالة بولس الرسول الي أهل رومية 13

13: 11 هذا وأنكم عارفون الوقت انها الان ساعة لنستيقظ من النوم فان خلاصنا الان أقرب مما

كان حين امنا

13: 12 قد تناهى الليل وتقارب النهار فلنخلع اعمال الظلمة ونلبس اسلحة النور

13: 13 لنسلك بلباقة كما في النهار لا بالبطر والسكر لا بالمضاجع والعهر لا بالخصام والحسد

13: 14 بل البسوا الرب يسوع المسيح ولا تصنعوا تدبيرا للجسد لأجل الشهوات

احترس ان لم تتمسك بالمسيح من الان قد لا تستطيع في المستقبل القريب بسبب الظلام.

الثاني لا نخاف

بطرس الأولى 3: 14

وَلَكِنْ وَإِنْ تَأَلَّمْتُمْ مِنْ أَجْلِ الْبِرِّ، فَطُوبَاكُمْ. وَأَمَّا خَوْفُهُمْ فَلَا تَخَافُوهُ وَلَا تَضْطَرُّوْا،

بل نفرح

رسالة بولس الرسول إلى أهل فيلبي 4: 4

افْرَحُوا فِي الرَّبِّ كُلَّ حِينٍ، وَأَقُولُ أَيْضًا: افْرَحُوا.

افرحوا لان عريسنا قد اقترب مجيؤه. وانتبهوا الشيطان يريد أن نفقد سلامنا ولا ننال أكاليل.

وأيضا استعدوا فقد تسلموا وديعتكم في أي وقت فهناك 150 ألف شخص يموتوا في اليوم الواحد

انت لا تعرف متى ستكون منهم

المسيح اقترب فاصنعوا ثمار تليق بالتوبة واستعدوا لاستقبال العريس.
