اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا

بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأيضاً أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد حدثت مثل ابن

الهلاك وحرب هرمجدون وظهور الشاهدين وحزقيال 38

وغيره ولا نعرف متى ولكن أشعر انها اقتربت.

ولكن ايضا علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها

في الزمان الاخير وفي الجيل الأخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. فلا نعرف هل المسيح سيأتي في

سنة ام سبع سنين ام سبعين سنة أم أكثر فكرر لا احدد

مواعيد وارفض من يحددون ولكن نذكر بعضنا باننا

نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء

المسيح بل ايضا قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون

عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر هذه الظلمة

وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من
الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نشمر
بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة
والضيقة اقتربت جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من
الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت
سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى
انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعته سابقا. فأكرر لا
نحدد المواعيد ولكن أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا
الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان
سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني
كاذب وانشر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد

اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم

ياتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن

كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

فيجب علينا ان نذكر الكل بالاستعداد والتوبة من الان

حتى لو كان سيتأخر فقد نسلم وديعتنا في اي وقت

بعض الاحداث التي قال عنها الرب يسوع

انجيل لوقا 21

MEXICO CITY - An intense hail storm rained on Mexico City causing floods.

The storm began late Sunday with heavy rain and quickly turned into a massive hail storm.

Residents scrambled to get indoors as the rocks pummeled to the ground.

The hail reportedly reached almost two feet high at one point, blocking many city tunnels and thoroughways.

VIDEO: 'Day of fear' as five tornadoes hit Italy

The Local | 20 Aug 2014, 09:41

A series of five tornadoes swept through northern Italy on Tuesday, prompting flights to be diverted and causing millions of euros worth of damage.

The tornadoes hit around the port city of Genoa, with some eyewitnesses stating they came close to hitting the wreck of the Costa Concordia cruise ship.

Flights to the city's airport were diverted and those leaving delayed, while trains were also interrupted and roads closed, La Repubblica reported.

Damage is said to amount to millions of euros, with roofs ripped off buildings in the Prà neighbourhood and the seafront strewn with sun loungers hit by the stormy weather.

In Genoa's Pegli neighbourhood 100mm of rain fell in just an hour, while footage shot by witnesses shows raging streams.

Locals can be heard responding to the "day of fear", as described by YouReporter, as they watch the tornadoes from afar. "It's incredible" one person can be heard saying, while others remark on the huge size of one of the tornadoes and another on its impressive nature.

California drought: 17 communities could run out of water within 60 to 120 days, state says

This is an archived story from January 2014. For updates on the California drought, see our recent coverage or the blog CADrought.com.

As California's drought deepens, 17 communities across the state are in danger of running out of water within 60 to 120 days, state officials said Tuesday.

In some communities, wells are running dry. In others, reservoirs are nearly empty. Some have long-running problems that predate the drought.

The water systems, all in rural areas, serve from 39 to 11,000 residents. They range from the tiny Lompico County Water District in Santa Cruz County to districts that serve the cities of Healdsburg and Cloverdale in Sonoma County.

And it could get a lot worse.

"As the drought goes on, there will be more that probably show up on the list," said

The record-setting drought in the western United States is not just leaving lawns, fields and wildlife parched, but the deficit of about 63 trillion gallons of water is actually causing the earth's crust to rise upward.

Birds gather on an unplanted field on August 21, 2014 in Firebaugh, California. As the severe California drought continues for a third straight year, Central California farming communities are struggling to survive with an unemployment rate nearing 40 percent in the towns of Mendota and Firebaugh. With limited supplies of water available to water crops, farmers are leaving acres of farmland unplanted and are having to lay off or reduce the

Hundreds of Methane Plumes Erupting Along East Coast

Japan matches severity level of Fukushima nuclear accident with Chernobyl disaster

MOSCOW, August 23 (RIA Novosti) - The three molten cores at Fukushima plant, each weighing a hundred tons, are so radioactive, that no one can approach them, including robots, which melt down immediately, Dr. Helen Caldicott, the 1985 Nobel Peace Prize nominee, physician and anti-nuclear advocate, states in an interview to Radio VR:

"And no one ever will, and the contamination will go on for hundreds of years," Ms. Caldicott cites top physicists as saying.

Initially, TEPCO, the Japanese power provider wanted to erect an ice wall around the perimeter of the Fukushima complex, as ground water the underneath the reactor is absorbing radiation and then flowing into the ocean.

An ice wall is a silly idea given the circumstances, remarks the expert, as it would have to last at least a hundred years. Moreover, you would have to have electricity running all the time to keep the ground frozen, explains Ms. Caldicott.

Oklahoma Has 20 earthquakes in One Day

AUG 22, 2014 04:48 PM ET // BY PATRICK J. KIGER

Hydraulic fracturing, or fracking, to tap into oil and gas deposits may be causing an increase of earthquakes in Oklahoma, scientists say.

JOSHUA DOUBEK, VIA WIKIMEDIA COMMONS

Oklahoma has been a little shaky lately. On Aug. 19, the Sooner State was rattled by 20 earthquakes in one day, according to data from Oklahoma's Geology Survey. It's the latest manifestation of a significant increase in seismic activity in Oklahoma, which scientists believe is being caused by hydraulic fracturing, AKA fracking, to tap into oil and gas under the surface, and by the injection of wastewater from oil-gas wells into brine reservoirs underground.

While most of the quakes were so small — below a magnitude of 3 — that Oklahoma residents may barely have noticed them, the 10,000 inhabitants of Guthrie, Okla. definitely felt the 4.3 quake that rattled their small city at 7:45 a.m. The vibrations caused a local newscaster to raise her hands in the midst of a segment and shout, "earthquake!"

Britain could face a freezing winter if the Icelandic volcano erupts
[NORTH NEWS]

Depending on the force of the explosion, minute particles thrust beyond the earth's atmosphere can trigger DECADES of chaotic weather patterns.

Tiny pieces of debris act as billions of shields reflecting the sun's light away from earth meaning winter temperatures could plunge LOWER THAN EVER before while summer will be devoid of sunshine.

The first effect could be a bitterly cold winter to arrive in weeks with thermometers plunging into minus figures and not rising long before next summer.

100 FT wide Sinkhole opens up in County Durham, Bottom cannot be seen

A 100 ft -wide sinkhole that is so deep you can't see the bottom has opened up in County Durham. The gaping void, thought to be the result of mine workings deep beneath the surface, is just a stone's throw from a couple's farmhouse. It was three times smaller when it was first discovered on Thursday morning, at Cowshill, in the rural area of Weardale, by Durham University academic Sam Hillyard, but more earth has since collapsed. Sam, 39, had been out shooting rabbits with her black Labrador Jack and was returning to her home, Burtree Pastures, when she noticed the 30ft hole. Overnight, the hole sank further to reveal an abyss. And it is feared rain forecast for over the Bank Holiday may see it become larger still. More

Dead fish 'natural phenomenon'

by Joanne Clague

Fisheries experts say that dead fish washed up on a long stretch of the northern coastline were not killed by pollution (watch our report on MTTV).

Instead, it's a sign that fish stocks are flourishing.

The island's director of fisheries, Karen McHarg visited the scene on Saturday and spoke to a member of the public who had reported the incident.

She told us: 'It's very important to emphasise that this hasn't happened as a result of pollution and that people have nothing to worry about. It appears that a large shoal of juvenile herring has been driven onto the beach by a shoal of feeding mackerel. Bass do the same thing with herring sprats.

'This does happen occasionally at this time of year and has been reported in other places around the Island in previous years, for example in Peel.'

There appeared to be millions of dead fish on the beach between Ramsey and the Point of Ayre. However, the experts say this would have been only a small proportion of a huge shoal.

Ms McHarg said: 'This is a completely natural phenomenon and there are no implications for other marine life or fishermen, in fact it is a good sign of flourishing stocks of herring – only a small proportion of what was obviously a huge shoal will have been stranded.'

Hundreds of fish found dead this weekend at the mouth of the river Serpis Gandia. Neighbors noticed Sunday morning that copies as smooth bass floating in the waters of Venice and Marenys Rafalcaid and also many other species had flooded the shores of these beaches south of the city.

The causes of this mortality is unknown at this time but it appears that the sewage was pouring some type of harmful bacteria to animals. On Monday there were only remnants of dead fish, so the green flag, that allows the bathroom was installed, which shows that there is no longer any danger.

Paullina, IA (ABC9 News)- It's being called one of the biggest fish kills in recent history. A massive kill which started in O'Brien County, caused by a manure spill from Summit Dairy, has impacted more than 20 miles of river, including Mill Creek. Now, it's the DNR's job to step in and investigate.

"We've been on a number of fish kills during my tenure with the department, this is probably one of the larger, lengthier fish kill investigations that I've been involved with," said Fishery Biologist Mike Hawkins.

As a huge portion of the fish population suffers, the fisheries bureau of the DNR has to get total death counts, by hand.

"We use some statistical methods to do that we obviously can't walk all of this stream in an efficient manner to be able to access it all and do a total enumeration of fish. So, what we have to do then is to take sample counts," Hawkins added.

But they're also counting how many of each fish species died, so the responsible party can potentially be charged fish

Northwest Alaska villagers concerned about dead salmon washing up along Kobuk River

Suzanna Caldwell | August 18, 2014

For the last week, from Shungnak all the way down to Kotzebue, people are reporting dead fish washed up on the banks of Northwest Alaska's Kobuk River in astonishing numbers. The fish appear to have been healthy and unspawned. Some have mysterious white welts dotting their backs.

Carolyn Ballot, mayor of Ambler, said when she first heard about the fish, she suspected bears were pulling salmon out of the water, which is nothing unusual. But the huge number of fish washing ashore quickly became concerning. She wondered whether warm weather in the region was causing the die-off.

"There is something going on," she said.

The explanation may be somewhat mundane, though: The Alaska Department of Fish and Game suspects the die-off is related to this year's extremely strong chum salmon run, to the point that the fish are practically clogging the waterway.

"It's one of the greatest runs of all of time," said Jim Menard, Alaska Department of Fish and Game area management commercial fisheries biologist for the Kotzebue and Norton Sound region.

Menard said with so many salmon choking the river there is "low dissolved oxygen" in the water, likely the cause of the die-off. Some fish are being pushed into the shallows, Menard said, where the water is warmer and less

A fish die-off leaves chum salmon carcasses along the shore of the Kobuk River on Sunday, August 17, 2014, about 10 miles above Kiana in northwest Alaska.

Fish kill in Baltimore's Herring Run Park

City investigating cause, as park users express dismay

August 21, 2014 | Tim Wheeler

City officials said Thursday they are investigating a fish kill in a Northeast Baltimore creek that flows through Herring Run Park, where users of the park and streamside trail expressed dismay.

"This is ridiculous," said Donald Cooper, who stopped while riding his bike to peer at the dead fish littering the stream bottom beneath the Harford Road overpass.

Cooper, 52, who lives nearby, said a couple days before, he'd brought his nephew to the park to see the fish, which he said then were "swimming all over the place...Now they're all dead."

David Flores, the Baltimore Harbor Waterkeeper, said a woman reported the fish kill to him late Thursday morning. When he got there around noon, Flores said he found "hundreds and hundreds" of minnow-sized fish and even some large foot-long suckers belly up.

"American eels are struggling to breathe, or basically beaching themselves on stream banks to get out of the water," he said when he contacted The Baltimore Sun.

Flores said he tracked dead and distressed fish up Tiffany Run, a tributary of Herring Run, until he came to a point where the stream is buried, emerging from a large outfall by Lake Montebello.

They say stranger things happen at sea, but it seems stranger things happen on beaches, too.

Billions of mysterious small creatures have been washed up on beaches along the west coast of the U.S, from Southern California to British Columbia.

Needless to say, locals have been extremely curious about the invaders.

Almost 2 thousand penguins died on the North Coast in 2014

Some animals were found with plastic material in the stomach

In 2014, 1.8 thousand penguins were found dead on the coast
Credit: Ceclimar/Disclousure/CP

The number of penguins found dead in North Coast Gaucho comes scaring the researchers. From 2012, the Center for Coastal Studies, Limnological and marine (Ceclimar) systematically monitors the beach of Imbé until the city of Tavares to study the mortality patterns of these birds. According to Ceclimar, in 2012, 1.2 thousand penguins were found dead. In 2013, the number rose to 1.7 million and, since the beginning of this year, have already been located 1.8 thousand.

According to the biologist and Vice President of Ceclimar, Ignacio Moreno, the penguins receive ID to avoid the count doubled. He explains that there are two factors that may have enlarged the picture of deaths: natural selection and the elevation of the amount of plastics at sea, material found in the stomach of the penguins. In addition to these factors, the El Niño phenomenon alters ocean currents and the temperature of the oceans. According to Moreno, are also being found many penguins wrapped up in fishing lines.

The death of turtles is another concern of the researchers. As the biologist, 90% of the turtles are very thin and are found dead with trash in the stomach. The suggestion of research institutions is to reduce the consumption of plastics that end up going to the beach.

LONDON — As West African nations grappled with the worst-ever outbreak of the Ebola virus, the World Health Organization said on Tuesday that the death toll had exceeded 1,200 and announced increased efforts to forestall severe food shortages in areas isolated by quarantines.

Alarm over the disease spread to Germany when a 30-year-old woman at a state employment office was found to have a high fever, a possible symptom of Ebola, and emergency medical personnel ordered her isolated for tests.

Within hours, a statement from the Charité hospital said physicians were inclined to believe that the woman had not been infected with the Ebola virus. While she had returned from Africa 8 days ago, health authorities said, she was more likely suffering from an infectious illness of the stomach or intestine. But a blood test was being

Aug 20 (Reuters) - The death toll from the Ebola outbreak in West Africa has risen to 1,350, the World Health Organization said on Wednesday, with 106 new deaths reported between August 17-18 in three countries.

The U.N. health agency said that 221 new suspected, probable and confirmed cases of the deadly fever were reported across Guinea, Liberia and Sierra Leone over the two-day period.

August 2014 – AFRICA – The number of people dying in West Africa from the ongoing Ebola outbreak is poised to surpass the total number of people to ever have died from the virus in just 10 days, according to World Health Organization figures. Up until sometime in early 2014, the Ebola virus had killed 1,548 people since being discovered in 1976. As of Monday, Ebola had killed more than 1,350 people across West Africa in the five months since the outbreak was first declared there. Another 1,000 people could be dead by the end of October if the death rate continues at its current pace. Despite an influx of money, materials and personnel, an average of more than 25 people died each day this August in Guinea, Liberia, Sierra Leone and Nigeria, according to the latest WHO figures. That rate has nearly doubled since July, when 13 people on average died each day. Doctors Without Borders officials said it “can’t speculate on numbers and outbreak patterns,” but President Joanne Liu said last week her organization and others will need to remain in the region for at least “six months, and I’m being, I would say, very optimistic.” Even more troubling, the ongoing crisis might be underestimated by as much as 20 percent, because many deaths and infections go unreported, either out of

Fears Ebola has 'spread to Congo after 10 people die' with Ebola-like symptoms

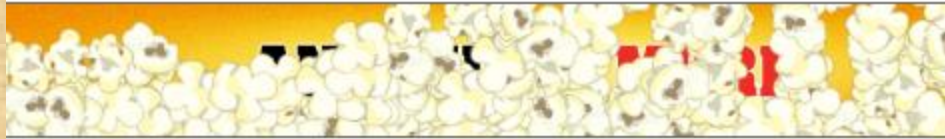

There are fears Ebola could have spread to the Democratic Republic of Congo after 10 people died from a disease with Ebola-like symptoms, local officials said. The deceased, which included four health workers, lived in a remote part of the northern Equateur province of Boende. Democratic Republic of Congo has sent its health minister and a team of experts to the remote northern Equateur to confirm if it is the deadly virus. If this is an Ebola outbreak, which is extremely likely, this would be the fifth country where the virus has appeared. Michel Wangi, a spokesman for the governor's office, said: "An illness is spreading in Boende but we don't know the origin." So far the disease has killed more than 1,200 people in Guinea, Liberia, Sierra Leone and Nigeria. Ironically, the first outbreak of the virus was reported here (then Zaire) on August 26, 1976 – almost exactly 38 years to the day. Extinction Protocol

The man, who is thought to have been living in Dublin, had recently returned from Sierra Leone.

Locals, who named the man as Dessie Quinn, may have been getting treatment for suspected malaria, although it is not thought that he was an inpatient at any medical facility.

It is believed that the father-of-one, who was between 43 and 45 years old, was originally from Doorin, outside the Mountcharles area, near Donegal town.

He is thought to have been visiting relatives in Co Donegal when he was taken ill.

EBOLA KILLS NIGERIAN DOCTOR

Tuesday, August 19, 2014 NewsZimbabwe

Dr. Ameyo Stella Adedavoh, the doctor who was the first to attend to Liberian-American Patrick Sawyer, has died.

Adedavoh becomes the fifth Nigerian to die from the virus, excluding Sawyer. She had been discharged from the Centre for Infectious Disease Control at Yaba Lagos after recovering from the disease.

The Minister of Health, Professor Onyebuchi Chukwu, confirmed the death but avoided mentioning her name. His Special Assistant on Media and Communication, Dan Nwomeh, released a statement on his behalf, saying the death of "one of the primary contacts of the index Ebola Virus Disease case, the most senior doctor who participated in the management of the patient, a female consultant physician," occurred this evening.

The statement added: "With this unfortunate development, the total number of Ebola Virus-related deaths in Nigeria now stands at five. The other two patients currently under treatment in the isolation wards are stable and are being taken care of."

Nigeria reports 5th Ebola death: A senior doctor who treated Nigeria's first Ebola patient has died, taking the death toll in Africa's most populous country to five, Health Minister Onyebuchi Chukwu said on Tuesday. Chukwu said the doctor was "the most senior who participated in the management of the (first Ebola) patient" in the country. Liberian-American Patrick Sawyer, 40, died in a Lagos hospital on July 25, five days after arriving at the city's airport visibly unwell on a flight from the Liberian capital, Monrovia. "With this unfortunate development, the total number of Ebola virus-related deaths in Nigeria now stands at five," Chukwu added. -Yahoo News

There is much about the Ebola virus that we don't know. Ebola is a virulent level-4 pathogen with a near 90% mortality rate. The virus didn't acquire its pernicious ranking by being predictable. It's an insidious, mysterious killer that is subject to further evolutionary development or mutations just like any other virus that replicates. I warned in my radio address that the virus may also have latent triggers that could trick the infected patient into thinking they have recovered when, in fact, he or she may be just a stumble or two away from death, and is only further aiding in the transmission of the virus. We may be in for more nasty surprises

A woman was rushed to hospital and hundreds of people were quarantined today after she showed symptoms of Ebola virus infection in a jobcentre in Germany.

As many as 600 visitors and staff at the employment office building in Berlin were also stopped from leaving for several hours as emergency services sealed off part of the street.

The mass-circulation daily Bild said the woman had fainted, that she hailed from Nigeria and that she said later that she had recently been in contact with people infected with Ebola.

Ebola test ordered on British-Nigerian woman found dead in her apartment in Austria

Posted on August 19, 2014

August 2014 – AUSTRIA - A 48-year-old British Nigerian woman is feared to have died of the deadly Ebola virus in Austria. The woman's body was found at her apartment in Vomp, in the Tyrol, at the weekend after she returned from a trip to Nigeria. Blood, hair and urine samples have been sent to a tropical disease centre in Hamburg for urgent tests. The woman, who has a British passport, had travelled from Nigeria to Germany where she then flew back to her home in Vomp. Her body was discovered in her flat on Saturday. Austrian officials confirmed today they implemented emergency measures following the suggestion that she might have died from the Ebola virus. Results from the Centre for Tropical Diseases in the northern Germany city of Hamburg are expected sometime today.

The doctor who attended the scene where the body was found gave the cause of death as a viral infection.

Second plague? WHO says 70 died from hemorrhagic illness in DRC; denies outbreak is Ebola

Posted on August 23, 2014

August 2014 – AFRICA - At least 70 people have died in northern Democratic Republic of Congo from an outbreak of hemorrhagic gastroenteritis, the World Health Organization said on Thursday, denying that the illness was Ebola. A WHO report issued Thursday and seen by Reuters said that 592 people contracted the disease and 70 of them have died. Five health care workers, including one doctor, are among the dead. "This is not Ebola," a WHO spokesman said in an email to Reuters on Thursday. A local priest who asked not to be named said that the illness affected several villages and estimated that the death toll was over 100 people. Kinshasa sent its health minister, Felix Kabange Numbi, and a team of experts to the region on Wednesday after reports of several deaths. The outbreak began in the remote jungle province of Equateur, where the first case of Ebola was reported in 1976, prompting speculation that it was the same illness that has killed more than 1,350 people in West Africa and continues to spread.

U.S. Sends Second Carrier to Asia Amid Tensions with China

The Navy is sending a second aircraft carrier strike group to the Asia Pacific region amid new tensions with China over a dangerous aerial encounter between a Chinese interceptor and Navy P-8 surveillance craft. The strike group led by the USS Carl Vinson departed San Diego for the Pacific on Friday, the Navy said in an announcement of what it terms a "planned" deployment. China's military on Saturday, meanwhile, demanded an end to all U.S. monitoring flights and called U.S. criticism of dangerous Chinese jet maneuvers false. Chinese Defense Ministry spokesman Yang Yujun said in a statement that a Chinese fighter jet made a "regular identification and verification" of the Navy P-8 anti-submarine warfare jet during an encounter in an area 135 miles east of Hainan Island. Yang called Pentagon criticism of the incident "totally groundless" and insisted the Chinese pilot operated professionally and kept a safe distance. The Chinese spokesman's account, published in the state-run Xinhua news agency, is at odds with Pentagon officials who called the encounter both dangerous and aggressive. A White House official also said the dangerous intercept was a Chinese "provocation." More

N.Korea Moves Tanks, Armored Vehicles to Chinese Border

North Korea has moved scores of tanks and armored vehicles to an Army corps near the border with China in Ryanggang Province. The 12th Corps, which was established in 2010, is tasked with responding to movements of Chinese troops in an emergency.

A source on Monday said about 80 tanks have been deployed in Ryanggang Province, where there had not been a single one before. The corps has been "turned into an attack force after it has been reinforced" with an armored infantry unit, a unit of multiple rocket launchers, and a special warfare and sharpshooter brigade.

Executioner 'with a British accent' beheads US journalist in the name of ISIS: Mother of slaughtered American calls on Islamist group to cease killing and pays tribute to her 'extraordinary son'

- Photojournalist James Wright Foley has been beheaded by ISIS forces
- He went missing in Syria in 2012 while working for GlobalPost news agency
- ISIS posted extremely graphic video 'A Message to America' to social media
- Foley speaks to camera before his death and labels the U.S. his killers
- Apparently coerced by his captors into speaking against his country
- Masked and robed executioner speaks English in apparent London accent
- Video also shows man identified as missing journalist Steven Joel Sotloff
- Militant warns he will be killed next if U.S airstrikes in Iraq do not cease
- British Foreign Secretary today said 'appalling' video appeared to be genuine

The executioner, who speaks directly to the camera in what appears to be a London accent, then warns that a second captured American journalist will be killed if the U.S. doesn't halt the airstrikes. Speaking after the video emerged, Foley's mother Diane issued a statement saying that she and her husband John have 'never been prouder' of their son, who they say gave his life to expose the suffering of the Syrian people.

Islamic State says another U.S. journalist's fate depends on Obama

13 hours ago

BAGHDAD (Reuters) - Islamic State militants claimed in a video on Tuesday to be holding U.S. journalist Steven Sotloff and said his life depended on U.S. President Barack Obama's next move.

"The life of this American citizen, Obama, depends on your next decision," said a masked man in

A sign that read "ISIS here" was spotted Monday night behind a CNN host during live coverage of the unrest which has gripped a Missouri suburb following the shooting of an unarmed black man.

Images of the sign behind CNN's Jake Tapper made their way on to Twitter, showing an unidentified individual displaying the message during protests in Ferguson, Missouri.

(CNSNews.com) – The world’s two most dangerous Islamic terror groups appear to be joining forces. A statement purportedly by al-Qaeda’s Yemen-based branch -- al-Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula -- expresses support for the Islamic State in Iraq and the Levant (ISIS/ISIL), the Yemen Times reported on Tuesday.

“We announce solidarity with our Muslim brothers in Iraq against the crusade. Their blood and injuries are ours and we will surely support them,” the newspaper quoted the AQAP statement as saying.

WASHINGTON -- The Islamic State poses a greater threat to the United States than al Qaeda did leading up to September 11, 2001, top brass at the Pentagon acknowledged on Thursday, discussing the crisis fast unfolding in eastern Syria and northern Iraq.

"This is beyond anything that we've seen," Secretary of Defense Chuck Hagel said, speaking to journalists with Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Martin Dempsey. "We must prepare for everything."

Hagel said that the "military prowess" of the Islamic State, coupled with its deep sources of financing, poses an unprecedented threat to the United States. The secretary was

ISIS captures key Syrian Tabqa air base. Hundreds killed in battle

BREAKING NEWS: Two weeks of fierce fighting ended Sunday with an Islamist siege force breaking through into the strategic Tabqa airbase southwest of their northern stronghold of Raqqa. Hundreds of the 1,000 Syrian soldiers trapped there were killed. This is IS's second major victory after conquering Iraq's second city of Mosul in early July. DEBKA

US attacks on the Sunni Islamic State in Iraq and its cooperation and arming of the ruling Shi'ite government there, is the latest signal that the West is moving towards an arrangement with the Shi'ite Iranian axis, which includes Hezbollah, Iraq, and Syria.

Such an alignment has been feared by the Sunni world and Israel for some time.

For example, the Obama administration has allowed Iran to drag out negotiations over the country's nuclear program and reportedly indirectly shared intelligence with Hezbollah to

The Parchin base lies at the centre of allegations of past Iranian research into sophisticated explosives [AFP]

Iran will not give UN nuclear inspectors access to a military base that they have been seeking to visit since 2005, Iranian Defence Minister Hossein Dehgan has said.

Dehgan's comments came just two days before a deadline for Iran to give its response to the IAEA, the UN's nuclear agency, over allegations of a military dimension to its nuclear research.

"The agency carried out several visits to Parchin [before 2005], took samples and found nothing untoward," Dehgan told the Iran's ISNA news agency.

"There is therefore no reason for new access to Parchin as nothing new has come up since the last inspections."

A heavy barrage of rockets was fired at Israel at around 10:40pm Tuesday night. Loud explosions were heard in the Tel Aviv metropolitan area, while Code Red sirens blared throughout southern and central Israel.

Among them, two hit open areas in the Sha'ar HaNegev Regional Council, four more in open areas in the Eshkol Regional Council, and five hit open areas in the Be'er Sheva area.

Hamas also claimed responsibility for firing an M-75 rocket at Jerusalem just before 11pm.

At least one rocket was intercepted over central Israel and another fell in an open area. Two more were intercepted over Sderot, two intercepted over Be'er Sheva, two shot down over Kiryat Malachi, three were intercepted over Ashkelon.

Several more Code Red sirens were heard as the night continued and Iron Dome marked a few more interceptions including two over Ashkelon, three over the Ashdod area and two over Hof Ashkelon.

Boko Haram's leader said a town in the north east of Nigeria seized by the insurgents earlier this month has been placed under an Islamic caliphate, in a video obtained by AFP on Sunday.

"Thanks be to Allah who gave victory to our brethren in (the town of) Gwoza and made it part of the Islamic caliphate," Abubakar Shekau said in the 52-minute video.

The military however rejected the claim, saying in a statement the "sovereignty and territorial integrity of the Nigerian state is still intact".

In a July video, Shekau voiced support for the leader of the Islamic State and the largest (self-)proclaimed militant group, Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi, who in late June Obamacare Now Covers Gender Reassignment Surgeries, will cost U.S. taxpayers $2.6 trillion.

Transgender Americans seeking gender reassignment surgeries are finding relief through Obamacare, The Daily Beast reported on Monday.

Federal laws banning health insurance discrimination against transgender people, combined with Obamacare's ban on denying coverage for those with pre-existing conditions, have paved a path for transgender patients who wish to make the transition from one gender to another.

"The federal anti-discrimination regulations have yet to be written, but California insurance regulators have said that companies must treat transgender patients the same as other patients," reports The Daily Beast. "For example, if plans cover hormones for post-menopausal women, they must also cover them for transgender women. Medicare, the program for the elderly and disabled, lifted its ban on covering sex reassignment surgery earlier this year." What gets covered varies from Obamacare policy to policy. But Transgender Law Center program administrator Anand Kalra says, "The law and policy are on a transgender person's side for the first time." Nationally, Obamacare is more unpopular than ever. The latest Kaiser Health poll finds that an all-time low of just 37% of Americans now support President Barack Obama's signature legislative achievement. Over the next ten years, Obamacare will cost U.S. taxpayers $2.6 trillion. Breitbart

Richard Dawkins, the atheist writer, has claimed it is "immoral" to allow unborn babies with Down's syndrome to live.

The professor posted a message on Twitter saying would-be parents who learn their child has the condition have an ethical responsibility to "abort it and try again".

His comments were dismissed by charities and prompted fury online from opponents but he insisted his stance was "very civilised" because foetuses do not have "human feelings".

فلهذا أقول المسيح اقترب ميعاد مجيؤه لا احدد مواعيد

بل ارفض من يحدد مواعيد ولكن اطلب شيئين

الأول نصلي ونستعد ونعد زيت لمصابيحنا لاستقبال

العريس بالصلاة والصوم وخدمة أبناء الله وتنقية القلب

والاستعداد بلبس العرس.

أفسس 6: 15 وَحَازِنَ أَرْجُلَكُمْ بِاسْتِعْدَادِ إِنْجِيلِ السَّلَامِ .

رسالة بولس الرسول الي أهل رومية 13

لنستيقظ من النوم فان خلاصنا الان أقرب مما كان حين

امنا

13: 12 قد تناهى الليل وتقارب النهار فلنخلع اعمال

الظلمة ونلبس اسلحة النور

13: 13 لنسلك بلياقة كما في النهار لا بالبطر والسكر

لا بالمضاجع والعهر لا بالخصام والحسد

13: 14 بل البسوا الرب يسوع المسيح ولا تصنعوا تدبيراً

للجسد لأجل الشهوات

احتسب ان لم تتمسك بالمسيح من الان قد لا تستطيع
في المستقبل القريب بسبب الظلام.

الثاني لا نخاف

بطرس الأولى 3: 14

وَلَكِنْ وَإِنْ تَأَلَّمْتُمْ مِنْ أَجْلِ الْبِرِّ، فَطُوبَاكُمْ. وَأَمَّا خَوْفُهُمْ فَلَا

بل نفرح

رسالة بولس الرسول إلى أهل فيلبي 4: 4

إَفْرَحُوا فِي الرَّبِّ كُلَّ حِينٍ، وَأَقُولُ أَيْضًا: اَفْرَحُوا.

افرحوا لان عريسنا قد اقترب مجيؤه. وانتبهوا الشيطان

يريد أن نفقد سلامنا ولا ننال أكاليل.

وأيضاً استعدوا فقد تسلموا وديعتكم في أي وقت فهناك
