والعلامات حتى 25 نوفمبر 2014

Holy_bible_1

اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأیضا أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن ايضا علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. ونذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء

المسيح بل ايضا قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر

هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان

عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيق اقتربت

جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقتررب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقتررب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشرب اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم يأتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا بعض الاحداث التي قال عنها الرب يسوع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب انظروا لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

مت 24: 7 لأنه تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة وتكون مجاعات واوبئة وزلازل في اماكن

مت 24: 8 ولكن هذه كلها مبتدأ الازعاج

مت 24: 9 حينئذ يسلمونكم الى ضيق ويقتلونكم وتكونون مبغضين من جميع الامم لأجل اسمي

مت 24: 10 وحينئذ يعثر كثيرون ويسلمون بعضهم بعضا ويبغضون بعضهم بعضا

مت 24: 11 ويقوم انبياء كذبة كثيرون ويضلون كثيرين

مت 24: 12 ولكثرة الاثم تبرد محبة الكثيرين

مت 24: 13 ولكن الذي يصبر الى المنتهى فهذا يخلص

مت 24: 14 ويكرز ببشارة الملكوت هذه في كل المسكونة شهادة لجميع الامم ثم يأتي المنتهى

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

السماء

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

المسيح لا يتنبأ ولا يتوقع بل يعرف

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَانَ تُؤْمِنُونَ.

وايضا لنتنبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَانْتَصِبُوا وَارْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ».

علامات في السماء

في البداية ما يقال عن ديسمبر 21 و 22 و 23 2014 هو كذب ولا أصل له من الصحة بان

ناسا قالت انه سيكون ثلاث أيام ظلام دامس هذا خبر كاذب وناسا لم تقل شيء من هذا.

Dry & Cold Into The Weekend, But Is It Record Breaking?

David Epstein
@GrowingWisdom
Boston.com Correspondent
NOVEMBER 18, 2014 8:06 AM

Cold, bitter, frigid, arctic blast and of course polar vortex are words we are all hearing a lot of this week. You might be wondering, is this really THAT cold? The answer is maybe, but it depends where you are and how you look at the statistics.

First, the coverage of the cold air over so much of the country is notable. Often in November one section of the United States sees arctic air, but it's unusual for two-thirds of the lower 48 to see this type of widespread outbreak of cold.

Over the past 7 days if we look at the entire country there have been a lot of cold records being set. The chart below shows for example, 1360 daily low maximum records. This means those places had cold high temperatures which were records. Simply put, those cities and towns saw their coldest daily highs ever recorded. These records are for a particular date, not all-time.

We're only midway through November, and winter weather records in Boise are falling left and right.

Temperatures at the Boise Airport bottomed out at 6 degrees Monday morning, breaking a 134-year-old record of 7 degrees set on Nov. 17, 1880.

Sunday was a record-breaker, too. The 4-degree low broke the previous record for that date of 5 degrees, set in 1955.

Tuesday morning also could set another record by breaking the 7-degree low set in 1985. As of 8 p.m. Monday, however, the forecast called for an overnight low of 8 degrees.

An inversion has set up in the Treasure Valley, trapping cold air near the ground. That created foggy conditions Monday morning in the west Treasure Valley and likely will cause fog

5.2-magnitude quakes rattle central Greece

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Two magnitude 5.2 earthquakes rattled central Greece early Tuesday, but there were no immediate reports of any injury or serious damage.

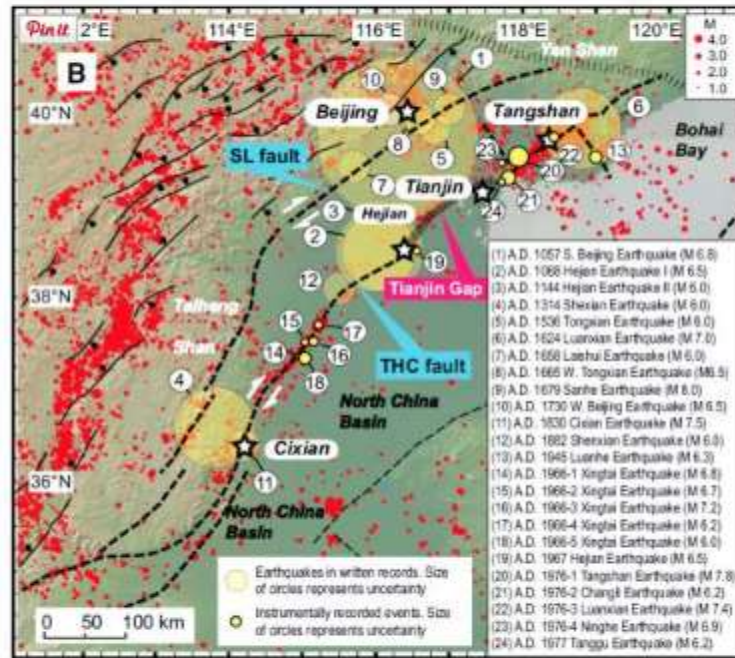

The Geodynamic Institute in Athens said the quakes of the same magnitude occurred at 1:05 and 1:09 a.m. (1105 and 1109 GMT Monday) in the Gulf of Evia, about 100 kilometers (62 miles) north of Athens.

The state-run Civil Protection Agency said there were no immediate reports of damage from the undersea quake that was felt strongly in Athens.

Pavlof volcano in Alaska.

In November 2014, Alaska's most active volcano rumbled back to life. The Alaska Volcano Observatory first reported increased seismic activity and minor ash eruptions at Pavlof on November 12, 2014. In the following days, lava fountains gushed from a vent north of the summit, and volcanic debris tumbled down the glacier-covered stratovolcano's north flank.

By November 15, Pavlof was lofting ash plumes to an altitude of 30,000 feet (9 kilometers), high enough to disrupt commercial airline flights. Seismic activity and ash eruptions diminished abruptly on the evening of November 16, but the Alaska Volcano Observatory cautioned that pauses of days to weeks are common during Pavlof's eruptions. The volcano could spew ash again with little warning.

The ash cloud rose five kilometers (three miles) above the volcano in the state of Colima, but it did not pose an immediate threat to the population, the interior ministry said in a statement.

The volcano spewed hot, dry rock and gases two kilometers from the crater.

The ash cloud traveled a distance of 25 kilometers, and a "light ash fall" was reported in the town of Queseria, Colima, and the towns of Tonila and Zapotitlic in the neighboring state of Jalisco, the statement said.

Hundreds of dead fish cleared from Kukkarahalli Lake

Mysuru, Nov 17, 2014, DHNS:

UoM VC blames MCC's 'delay' in diverting sewage for the fish kill

Varsity authorities on Monday, continued to fish out hundreds of dead fish, which have been accumulating near the banks of Kukkarahalli Lake. The dead fish are being spotted on the banks of the Lake since Saturday.

While the number of dead fish found at the banks were relatively less on Saturday, their numbers grew on Sunday and Monday. According to varsity authorities, around 500-1,000 medium sized fish were found dead since Saturday.

K M Jayaramaiah of Kukkarahalli Lake Protection Committee, said the death of the fish was due to microcystin, chemicals produced by blue-green algae, which are toxic to the fish. "Increase in microcystin levels reduces the dissolved oxygen content in the water, causing the death of fish," he said.

Blaming the continuous flow of sewage into the iconic Lake for the fish kill, he said that more than one MLD (Million Litres per Day) of sewage was being discharged from Paduvarahalli side, into the lake. "This discharge is rich in phosphate, a chemical which increases the production of microcystin in the Lake," he said.

Even though birds avoid spots where dissolved oxygen levels are lower, especially at the banks, they too are at risk due to these toxins. Bird numbers generally increase during the months of November and December at the Lake, he added.

Mujavar S K, Assistant Horticulture Officer of the varsity, said that they have been removing dead fish from the past few days and attributed the kill to a "depletion in

Dutch to cull 150,000 chickens after detection of bird flu

Authorities in the Netherlands have banned the transport of all poultry throughout the country after bird flu was detected on a farm south of Amsterdam. Officials say this particular strain can be transmitted to humans.

The Netherlands' Ministry for Economic Affairs said on Sunday that while testing was still being conducted to determine the exact strain, it was already clear that this was a form of the virus that could

Fears over AGD

A leading veterinarian fears that Amoebic Gill Disease (AGD) has become a permanent problem in parts of Norway.

Bl den første blant dine venner til å like dette.

ADG has spread from the Stavanger area along the coast to the Sognefjord.

"Lots of fish have died," Sven Jørgen Strømme, of K. Strømme Lakseoppdrett AS, told NRK. "And we have already lost more than 10 million NOK."

In Ryfylke, near Stavanger, AGD has caused mass deaths this year, according to FSA's veterinarian in Rogaland, Erling Bleie.

"This autumn we have had outbreaks in many sites. I work in Rogaland County and in our area around a third of all the sites had to treat the fish. Around 50 per cent of the salmon have been shown to have AGD," he said. "We fear that this has become established as a permanent disease for the fish farming industry with the loss of fish and high costs of monitoring and treatment."

Bird flu found at second Dutch farm

43,000 chickens are being slaughtered after discovery at poultry farm in Ter Aar, 15 miles from location of first case

A case of bird flu has been confirmed at a chicken farm in the Netherlands, the second infection identified in the country this week.

The latest case was at a farm in the village of Ter Aar, in South Holland province, 15 miles from a farm where thousands of chickens were slaughtered this week following a bird flu infection.

Tests are being conducted to establish the exact strain of bird flu in the Ter Aar case. The earlier case and another this week at a duck farm in England were confirmed as H5N8, which British officials said posed a very low public health risk.

All 43,000 chickens at the farm in Ter Aar are being slaughtered and the government has banned the transport of poultry and eggs nationwide.

Dutch authorities say they will slaughter poultry at a cluster of three farms after new cases of bird flu were found in the town of Kamperveen, in the third outbreak in the Netherlands this week.

A new infection was detected Friday morning (local time) at a chicken farm in Kamperveen, roughly a hundred kilometres away from the previous infections, the Economic Affairs Ministry said. During a check of nearby farms, one farm was found with birds showing signs of illness.

At least 25,000 chickens and ducks are being slaughtered on the farms and the ministry said it has also ordered birds slaughtered at a third farm as a precaution, given its location within a kilometre radius of the first two.

The ministry said tests to determine the exact strain of the virus are being conducted. The earlier Dutch cases and another this week at a duck farm in England were confirmed as H5N8, which British officials said poses a very low public health risk.

The government has banned the transport of poultry and eggs nationwide.

Although damages have been limited so far, the chairman of the country's Poultry Farmers' Union said the outbreak in the new location is worrying, given there are 34 more poultry farms within a 10 kilometre radius.

In 2003 a major outbreak of bird flu in the Netherlands caused an estimated 300 million euros in damages.

David Schuit, a beekeeper in Elmwood, reportedly lost 600 hives containing some 37 million bees, the direct result, say scientists, of neonicotinoid pesticides that damage bees' immune systems and navigation abilities, resulting in mass die-offs.

According to Ontario's The Post, the bees died just days after GM corn seeds were planted in the vicinity. The crops were sprayed with so-called "neonics" produced by Bayer CropScience Inc. that have already

What's in the water that is making it blood red? Find out here

By Joseph Demers

Published: November 11, 2014, 6:29 pm | Updated: November 11, 2014, 10:47 pm

Terre Haute, Ind. (WTHI) – Feast your eyes on this Water. It's a tint that looks more like the blood that runs through your body.

And it might have your heart pumping, but Biologist Peter Coppinger says there is a science behind this crimson color.

It's an algae that turns red, it's called Haematococcus, if you translate that from Greek, it means blood sphere," explained Peter Coppinger, PhD, Associate Professor of Biology at Rose-Hulman

However, Coppinger says this algae is actually not red, "ironically this is a green algae."

Except they take a page out of human emotions, because when they get upset, then they change colors.

"When the cells become stressed out they form a cist, that forms little droplets of oil that form a red pigment," shared Coppinger.

But it's not easy to get the algae to bring out their true color.

OKLAHOMA CITY (Reuters) - A small Oklahoma school district has ordered all of its students to stay away from classes until December due to an outbreak of mononucleosis, officials said on Thursday.

Woodland Public Schools in Fairfax, about 100 miles northeast of Oklahoma City, said it made the decision so as not to put the nearly 200 students in the district at risk of the contagious disease.

150,000 chickens to be destroyed at egg-producing farm in central Netherlands after H5N8 strain detected

Dutch authorities said on Sunday they had found a highly contagious strain of bird flu at a poultry farm in the central Netherlands and set about destroying 150,000 chickens.

The strain, H5N8, has never been detected in humans, but an outbreak in South Korea meant millions of farm birds had to be slaughtered to contain the outbreak.

Cases have also been reported in China and Japan, although the strain was first reported in Europe, on a German farm, in early November.

The Netherlands imposed a 72-hour ban on transportation of poultry products, including birds, eggs, dung and used straw to and from poultry farms across the country, which is the world's leading egg exporter.

Putin Warns He Won't Let Ukraine Defeat Eastern Rebels

Russia's President Vladimir Putin looks over at the French president during their bilateral meeting on the sidelines of the G20 Summit in Brisbane on Nov. 15, 2014.

Russian President Vladimir Putin warned he won't allow rebels in eastern Ukraine to be defeated by government forces as European Union ministers met to consider imposing more sanctions on the separatists.

"You want the Ukrainian central authorities to annihilate everyone there, all of their political foes and opponents," Putin said in an interview yesterday with Germany's ARD television. "Is that what you want? We certainly don't. And we won't let it happen."

German Chancellor Angela Merkel said yesterday the EU will keep its economic sanctions on Russia "for as long as they are needed." EU foreign ministers convened today in Brussels to discuss adding to sanctions that have limited access to capital markets for some Russian banks and companies and blacklisted officials involved in the conflict. New measures will likely target pro-Russian separatist leaders, the EU said.

Waging Financial War

"Sanctions in themselves are not an objective, they can be an instrument if they come together with other measures," European Union foreign policy chief Federica Mogherini told reporters before the meeting. She said the EU's three-track strategy consists of sanctions, encouragement of reforms in Ukraine and dialogue with Russia.

Six Ukrainian soldiers were killed and nine were wounded in fighting over the past 24 hours, military spokesman Andriy Lyenko told reporters today in Kiev. He said government forces killed about 20 rebels and wounded 30 in one incident.

'Neo-Nazi State'

"We are very concerned about any possible ethnic cleansings and Ukraine ending up as a neo-Nazi state," Putin said according to an English translation of his remarks published by the Kremlin.

The ruble headed for a record low as oil traded near the weakest in four years. The currency fell 0.4 percent to 47.3400 per dollar at 3:36 p.m. in Moscow, retreating for a third day.

Putin was told by Group of 20 leaders to stop arming pro-Russian rebels at a two-day summit that ended yesterday in Brisbane, Australia. Russia rejects accusations that it's supplying manpower and weapons to support the insurgents who have carved out separatist-controlled zones in eastern Ukraine.

U.S.-Russia Nuclear Cooperation Drawing to a Close

FEATURE: Inside the effort to secure post-Soviet Russia's loose nukes

SHARE TWEET EMAIL

BY: Jack Caravelli

November 17, 2014 4:10 pm

An era of unprecedented nuclear cooperation between the Cold War rivals is drawing to a close. Early this month Sergey Kirienko, who runs Russia's state nuclear company, announced that in 2015 no new nuclear projects involving U.S. participation are "envisioned."

What transpired between the United States and Russia in the years between the end of the Cold War and the moment of this decision is the stuff of spy novels. In the aftermath of the 1991 breakup of the Soviet Union and the ensuing political chaos, the outgoing George H.W. Bush administration and incoming Clinton administration shared grave concerns about the security of Russia's nuclear weapons and fissile materials.

Their concerns were well placed. During that period I was serving at the Central Intelligence Agency, leading a group with responsibility for monitoring dire developments in Russian nuclear security. Security lapses we were able to document included gaping holes in perimeter fences around nuclear facilities, guards who refused to patrol due to lack of adequate winter clothing, and "trusted" insiders who sought to steal or divert nuclear materials for financial gain.

Several succeeded in smuggling small amounts of fissile material across Russian borders and into Europe.

Former Sens. Sam Nunn (D., Ga.) and Richard Lugar (R., Ind.), in a spirit of bipartisanship, sponsored landmark legislation that created what is often referred to as the Nunn Lugar program. This initiative resulted in the Department of Defense (DOD) and then the Department of Energy (DOE) establishing parallel programs to work with Russian counterparts in securing nuclear warheads and vast amounts of at-risk nuclear materials.

MOSCOW, Nov 19 (Reuters) - Russian President Vladimir Putin called on Wednesday for deeper ties with North Korea to improve regional security, a day after holding talks with a personal envoy of North Korean leader Kim Jong Un.

Senior North Korean officials visit Moscow infrequently but the isolated country is trying to counter a U.N. resolution urging Pyongyang's referral to the International Criminal Court for alleged crimes against humanity.

CNN on 12 November reported Obama administration is suddenly focused on removing Assad as the core of its anti-ISIS strategy, once again submitting to Turkey and Arab Gulf states that enabled ISIS to begin with, and are actually contributing very little to the anti-ISIS efforts to be dictating such orders to Washington.

Moreover, these demands are harmful to US security interests—redefining US anti-ISIS mission to one of anti-Assad mission—and thereby potentially drawing in Eurasian powers of China, Russia and China's nuclear forces are expanding and details about the nation's strategic weapons programs remain hidden by Beijing's secrecy, according to the annual report of the congressional U.S. China Economic and Security Review Commission.

New missiles, missile submarines and multiple-warhead systems will be deployed in the coming years, the report said.

"Despite the uncertainty surrounding China's stockpiles of nuclear missiles and nuclear warheads, it is clear China's nuclear forces over the next three to five years will expand considerably and become more lethal and survivable with the fielding of additional road-mobile nuclear missiles; as many as five JIN SSBNs, each of which can carry 12 JL-2 submarine-launched ballistic missiles; and intercontinental ballistic missiles armed with multiple independently targetable reentry vehicles (MIRVs)," the report said.

China's military also is expected to modernize its silo-based missile forces while hardening its nuclear storage facilities, launch sites and transportation networks against attack.

Additionally, the Chinese are also expanding the "already extensive network of underground facilities," the report said.

China has a large underground nuclear system of tunnels for storage and production of nuclear weapons and missiles that is estimated to be 3,000 miles in length. It has been referred to as the "Great Underground Wall."

China also is adding newer road-mobile missiles, including a DF-31B first disclosed by the Free Beacon.

President Obama has been unwavering and definitive in declaring he will not deploy U.S. ground troops into combat to fight ISIS militants. Period.

But for the first time since the start of then anti-ISIS offensive dubbed Operation Inherent Resolve, the president volunteered a scenario which he said would change his mind.

"If we discovered that [ISIS] had gotten possession of a nuclear weapon, and we had to run an operation to get it out of their hands, then, yes," the president told reporters at a news conference in Brisbane, Australia, on Sunday. "I would order it."

Iran: All Set To Dominate Middle East

The Middle East is currently the arena for a cross-border sectarian war. The weakening or collapse of repressive regimes has unleashed a fierce war for succession between rival populations, with Shia and Sunni Arabs the main protagonists. This process is playing itself not only in Iraq and Syria but in almost all the countries of the region. The regional rivalry between Shia Iran and Sunni Saudi Arabia is being intensified. The Iranians are the central pillar of the united and cohesive Shia-dominated bloc which includes the Assad regime in Syria, Hezbollah in Lebanon and its allies, the government of Iraq and the Shia militias in that country. The Saudis are now the main force seeking to stem the Iranian advance. The anti-western Turkey-Qatar-Muslim Brotherhood alliance is also an important element on the Sunni side. But now Iran is gaining the upper hand in the Sunni-Shia rift. Iran got another victory in spreading its influence in the region. The Iranian-backed Houthi militia in Yemen has made very significant gains in recent weeks, largely ignored by the western media. With this development Iran has reached to the gates of the Sunni powerhouse of Saudi Arabia.

After Iraq and Syria the events in Yemen ought to concern the west because they demonstrate once again the skill and determination of the Iranians in the game that matters most right now in the Middle East. The Houthi militia, which has been engaged in an insurgency against the government of Yemen since 2004, launched an offensive in September. The movement's fighters advanced rapidly entered the Yemeni capital, Sana'a. The Shia militia then announced an ultimatum to Yemeni President Abd-Rabbu Mansour Hadi, giving him 10 days to form a new government that would include representation for the Houthis or face unspecified other options. Now at this point in time Iran has considerable influence on four Arab capitals i.e. Damascus, Sana'a, Baghdad, and Beirut through the government of these states or through its proxies. This ability to develop and maintain proxy political-military forces has been an asset in Iranian hands since the birth of the Islamic Republic with the Lebanese Hezbollah the first fruit of it. Teheran appears currently to be repeating this process in Iraq, where brutal Shia militias are playing an ever more important role in the fight against the Islamic State. In Yemen, a similar dynamic is emerging and Syria since

A watchdog group believes Muslim activists have an ulterior motive for their involvement in protests over the police shooting of unarmed teen Michael Brown, left.

Muslim groups have stepped up efforts to co-opt protests over the fatal shooting of Michael Brown in Ferguson, Mo., with a drive to equate the teen's death to the death of a radical Islamist shot during an FBI raid in 2009, a Washington-based security watchdog group is warning.

STORY HIGHLIGHTS

- ISIS has taken over Derna, Libya, a city of 100,000 on the Mediterranean coast.
- "Derna today looks identical to Raqqa, the ISIS headquarters town in Syria" an analyst says
- Derna, marginalized during the Gadhafi era, has a long history of Islamist radicalism

(CNN) -- The black flag of ISIS flies over government buildings. Police cars carry the group's insignia. The local football stadium is used for public executions. A town in Syria or Iraq? No. A city on the coast of the Mediterranean, in Libya.

Fighters loyal to the Islamic State in Iraq and Syria are now in complete control of the city of Derna, population of about 100,000, not far from the Egyptian border and just about 200 miles from the southern shores of the European Union.

The fighters are taking advantage of political chaos to rapidly expand their presence westwards along the coast, Libyan sources tell CNN.

Police Seize Massive Weapons Shipment Headed for Jerusalem

Thousands of fireworks, swords, tasers and other weapons hidden among Christmas decorations likely destined for Arab rioters.

Israeli police seized a massive shipment of firecrackers, swords, tasers and other weapons at Ashdod port Thursday - a potentially deadly arsenal which was set to be delivered to Arab neighborhoods in Jerusalem.

Two containers intercepted by authorities at the southern port were packed with 18,000 fireworks, 5,200 commando knives, 5,500 tasers, 4,300 tasers concealed in flashlights, 1,000 swords and several thousand other "cold" weapons.

The lethal cargo was hidden under a layer of Christmas decorations, and had been shipped in all the way from China.

The weapons were in all likelihood destined to be used against police and Jewish residents of Jerusalem by Arab extremists, who have been rioting and carrying out a series of deadly attacks since the summer. Fireworks in particular have become a weapon of choice among Arab rioters, prompting a controversial decision to temporarily ban the importation of certain types of fireworks.

Several suspects, including a number of residents of northern Israel, have been arrested in connection with the shipment.

Police say it is the largest such seizure of weaponry in recent memory.

The freedom scores are based on polling data from 2013 indicating citizens' satisfaction with their nation's handling of civil liberties, freedom of choice, tolerance of ethnic minorities, and tolerance of immigrants. Polling data were provided by Gallup World Poll Service. The index is notable for the way it measures how free people feel, unlike other freedom indices that measure freedom by comparing government policies.

"This is not a good report for Obama," Legatum Institute spokeswoman Cristina Odone told the Washington Examiner.

In the 2010 report (which relied on data gathered in 2009), the U.S. was ranked ninth in personal freedom, but that ranking has since fallen to 21st, with several countries, including France, Germany and the United Kingdom passing the U.S.

The nation's overall personal freedom score has declined by 17 percent since 2009, with a 22 percent drop in combined civil liberty and free choice contributing to that decline.

Of the eight categories in the index, personal freedom was America's second lowest performance relative to other countries. The U.S. had its lowest ranking when it came to safety and security (a broad measure of how threatened citizens feel in instances such as walking late at night, or expressing their opinions) — ranking 31st out of 142 countries.

3 Of The 10 Largest Economies In The World Have Already Fallen Into Recession – Is The U.S. Next?

g+ Share Tweet Pinterest Email ShareThis

Are you waiting for the next major wave of the global economic collapse to strike? Well, you might want to start paying attention again. Three of the ten largest economies on the planet have already fallen into recession, and there are very serious warning signs coming from several other global economic powerhouses. Things are already so bad that British Prime Minister David Cameron is comparing the current state of affairs to the horrific financial crisis of 2008. In an article for the Guardian that was published on Monday, he delivered the following sobering warning: "Six years on from the financial crash that brought the world to its knees, red warning lights are once again flashing on the dashboard of the global economy." For the leader of the nation with the 6th largest economy in the world to make such a statement is more than a little bit concerning.

So why is Cameron freaking out?

Well, just consider what is going on in Japan. The economy of Japan is the 3rd largest on the entire planet, and it is a total basket case at this point. Many believe that the Japanese will be on the leading edge of the next great global economic crisis, and that is why it is so alarming that Japan has just dipped into recession again for the fourth time in six years...

Like Japan, there is no easy way out for Italy. A rapidly aging population coupled with a debt to GDP ratio of more than 132 percent is a toxic combination. Italy needs to find a way to be productive once again, and that does not happen overnight.

Meanwhile, much of the rest of Europe is currently mired in depression-like conditions. The official unemployment numbers in some of the larger nations on the continent are absolutely eye-popping. The following list of unemployment figures comes from one of my previous articles...

(NaturalNews) The Land of Lincoln is sinkin', with fresh Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) data revealing a massive spike in food stamp enrollment with minimal job creation in the state of Illinois. According to the figures, only one new job is being created for every two new people who sign up for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), proving that economic recovery is still just a pipe dream.

Since 2008 Illinois' number of food stamp dependents has risen by a shocking 745,000

The Japanese yen just blasted through 118 against the US dollar.

Earlier on Wednesday, the yen briefly traded north of 118, but in evening trade, it definitively made its move lower against the dollar.

This is a seven-year low for the currency, which continues to tumble and has lost more than 30% of its value against the dollar since the start of 2012.

Here's the chart of Wednesday's move.

TOP NEWSAustralia, China deepen ties with landmark free trade deal

Mon, Nov 17 04:20 AM EST

By Matt Siegel

CANBERRA (Reuters) - China and Australia on Monday sealed a landmark free trade agreement more than a decade in the making, significantly expanding ties between the world's second largest economy and one of Washington's closest allies in Asia.

The deal, which Australia called the best ever between Beijing and a Western country, will open up Chinese markets to Australian farm exporters and the services sector while easing curbs on Chinese investment in resource-rich Australia.

Australian Prime Minister Tony Abbott and Chinese President Xi Jinping signed a memorandum of understanding clinching the agreement during a ceremony in parliament in Canberra.

"This has been a 10-year journey, but we have finally made it," Abbott said.

Xi praised the deal in an address to parliament, pledging to deepen cooperation with Australia while reaffirming China's willingness to resolve territorial disputes with its neighbors through diplomatic means.

"As long as we have our long-term and the larger interests in mind, increase positive factors and remove obstacles we will certainly forge a closer and more comprehensive strategic partnership between us," he said.

China is already Australia's top trading partner, with two-way trade of around A$150 billion ($130 billion) in 2013. On Monday they witnessed 14 commercial agreements between companies worth potentially more than A$20 billion ($17.56 billion).

The leaders also pledged to work jointly to combat climate change by sharing technology aimed at improving the efficiency of coal usage.

Australia needs China's help to transition from a reliance on exports of minerals such as coal and iron ore to expanding its food and agricultural exports to a growing Asian middle class, moving from a "mining boom" to a "dining boom".

"[The agreement] should help to support Australia's great rebalancing act, from mining investment led growth towards the non-mining sectors of the economy," HSBC economist Paul Bloxham said in a note.

Once the agreement is fully implemented, 95 percent of all its exports will enjoy duty free entry into China, Australia said.

European companies now have the opportunity to settle trading accounts in Chinese yuan. The Bank of China in Frankfurt has become the first to operate European yuan clearing. Trading costs will be cut as there will be no dollar exchange first.

More than 10 German regional and international banks including Deutsche Bank, Commerzbank, DZ Bank AG, and Landesbank Hessen-Thüringen Girozentrale, have opened accounts at Bank of China in Frankfurt.

In June the People's Bank of China chose Bank of China Ltd. to clear payments in the eurozone. The last five months were spent building the settlement infrastructure before the official start of clearing Monday.

The number of homeless children in the U.S. is surging and has reached an all-time high, according to a new report by the National Center on Family Homelessness.

The state-by-state report, titled "America's Youngest Outcasts," says one child in every 30 is homeless. It blames the problem on the lack of affordable housing and the impact of pervasive domestic violence.

The report calculates that nearly 2.5 million children in America were homeless at some point last year.

The number is based on the Department of Education's latest count of 1.3 million homeless children in public schools, supplemented by estimates of homeless pre-school children not counted by the DOE.

The problem is especially severe in California, which has one-eighth of the U.S. population but accounts for more than one-fifth of the homeless children - that's nearly 527,000 homeless kids.

Secular Group Seeks to Ban Biblical Creation from Public Schools in Scotland

EDINBURGH, Scotland – A secular organization is pressuring Scotland's Parliament to ban the teaching of biblical creation in all public schools, claiming that evolution is the only 'established science' that explains the history of life.

The Scottish Secular Society (SSS) is an organization in Scotland that seeks "to support and further the cause of secularism." The society was founded by secularist and homosexual activist Garry Otton, who says he has a deep hatred for religion.

"As a secularist, I hate religion and feel I have every right to," Otton wrote on the SSS website.

The SSS is now seeking to ban the teaching of biblical creation in Scotland's public schools. In a petition filed on Sept. 4th, the secular organization urged the Scottish Parliament "to bar the presentation in Scottish publicly funded schools of separate creation and of Young Earth doctrines as viable alternatives to the established science of evolution, common descent, and deep time."

"Evolution, meaning the common descent of living things and their change over time, is, and has been for generations, the unifying concept of the life sciences," the petition claims. "The deep time necessary for this evolution had been recognised by Scottish geologists over a century earlier."

Other pro-evolution organizations, including the U.S.-based National Center for Science Education (NCSE), have expressed support for the anti-creation petition. Citing recent "creationist encroachments" on Scotland's schools, NCSE's executive director insisted that "the forthright and uncompromising presentation of evolution" is key to proper science education.

HRC has launched a campaign against Christians. (Facebook)

In light of an advertising campaign by the Human Rights Campaign (HRC) to push same-sex marriage on southern states, American Family Association President Tim Wildmon is speaking out.

"There is a war against the Bible in America and a war to marginalize the millions of Americans who believe the Bible," says Wildmon. "HRC is spending hundreds of thousands of dollars in outside monies to undermine what Scripture teaches and to insult, denigrate and target those who hold to Scripture. For an organization that claims tolerance, HRC employs deceptive tactics and outright lies to attack those who respectfully disagree with them. This is hardly tolerance."

The Human Rights Campaign, the nation's largest homosexual activist organization, has begun running television ads in Mississippi, Alabama and Arkansas. Named "Project One America," the ad campaign is out to change the minds of individuals regarding the nature of homosexuality.

"AFA will not be fooled by this campaign to normalize homosexuality in the southern states,"

Asia Carrera-Lemmon, a former porn star, got her driver's license photo taken with a colander on her head to represent her satirical "religion." (Facebook)

If a church's purpose is blatantly satirical, as admittedly is the case with the Church of the Flying Spaghetti Monster, is it entitled to the same First Amendment protections as "real churches"?

These are among the questions raised as a small group of people who whimsically call themselves Pastafarians—a silly play on the name of Jamaican Rastafarians—try to gain some measure of public respect. The movement, such as it is, was born in 2005 as a protest against teaching intelligent design as an alternative to evolution in Kansas schools.

Now a Utah woman has succeeded in getting her driver's license photo taken while wearing a colander or pasta strainer on her head as a religious statement, according to a report by The Associated Press.

Asia Lemmon, whose legal name appears on her driver's license as Jessica Steinhauser, said she encountered only brief resistance at the driver's license office when she showed up for her photo

A public university professor is being investigated following claims by atheist activists that he proselytizes and pushes his Christian and creationist views on students.

Dr. Tom McMullen, a history professor at Georgia Southern University in Statesboro, Georgia, is being accused by the Freedom From Religion Foundation and the Richard Dawkins Foundation for Reason and Science of First Amendment violations, according to the Statesboro Herald.

The atheist groups wrote a joint letter to university president Dr. Brooks Keel in October, alleging that McMullen "uses class time to proselytize students and advance his personal religion, Christianity."

In a joint announcement atheists asked the public university to investigate McMullen for reportedly "promoting creationism" and "crossing ethical and constitutional lines."

Parents Pull Son from Class After Learning Middle School Teaching 'Five Pillars of Islam'

LOS ANGELES — The parents of a middle school student in California are expressing concern after learning that their son was sent home with homework that required the student to outline key teachings of the Islamic religion.

The parents, who maintained their anonymity in a recent local television broadcast, showed reporters a copy of the papers their son had to complete for his homework assignment from Manhattan Beach Middle School. "What are the teachings of the Koran?" "What is the sunna?" and "What are the five pillars?"

"What I saw written in these bubbles was, 'The one true god, Allah,'" the father explained, noting what his son had written in the section asking about the teachings of the Koran. "In one of the other bubbles was 'All people must submit to Allah' ... Then, I turned the page over and I see the five pillars of Islam."

The parents state that while they don't mind students being taught the history behind world religions, they believe it goes too far to ask students to study the faiths in detail.

"Can you imagine the outcry all over this country if children were bringing home paperwork that asked them to write down John 3:16, or asked them to write down the 10 Commandments?" the father asked.

"And if it ended with the Declaration of the Faith, Jesus Christ is my Lord and Savior," the mother stated, pointing out that students were asked to write down the Muslim Declaration of the Faith. "That's what, the equivalent [of what they're doing]."

The parents told local television station KTLA that they met with the principal about the matter, but because no changes were made in the curriculum, they will be pulling their son out of class.

SAN FRANCISCO – A California couple has decided to shutter their photography business rather than be forced to shoot same-sex “wedding” ceremonies.

Nang and Chris Mai operate Unloved Photography –that is, until recently, when the couple announced that it was discontinuing its business due to harassment from homosexual advocates over making a referral rather than agreeing to shoot a same-sex ceremony.

“[W]e have come to a difficult decision that we will no longer be in the wedding photography business,” the Mai family writes on their website. “We are grateful for this experience as it has caused us to think about how our personal beliefs intersect with our business practices.”

According to the San Francisco Chronicle, earlier this month, San Francisco resident T.J. Kelsall posted a status on Facebook that informed friends that Unloved Photography had declined to photograph him and his partner, Thai Lam.

“Great shots, but this company denied me and my fiancé, a same-sex couple, from their services,” he wrote. “Stand up and say something about it.”

According to the Mai’s, the couple rather referred Kelsall to another photographer that they thought would be more suitable as they personally were not comfortable with agreeing to the request themselves.

But the couple also states that following Kelsall’s Facebook post, the company has been “flooded with hate calls, emails and accusations that inaccurately depict [their] business.”

The Thomas More Law Center (TMLC) today announced its representation of John Kevin Wood, and his wife, Melissa, in their battle with La Plata High School in Maryland over the Islamic indoctrination of their 11th-grade daughter in her World History class. Their daughter was required to complete assignments where she had to affirm that "There is no god but Allah" and the other Five Pillars of Islam.

The case gained national attention when the school banned John Wood from entering school property after he objected to the religion of Islam being taught in his daughter's history class and demanded that she be given an alternative assignment. The school refused.

Statements by the dean of the National Cathedral as it hosted Muslim prayers on the 100th anniversary of the last Caliph's call for Jihad against nonbelievers have led to a closer look at the ideology of the Episcopal Church in the United States.

As Breitbart News' National Security Editor Dr. Sebastian Gorka reported, co-organizers of the Muslim prayer event at the Episcopal National Cathedral in Washington, D.C., included the Council on Islamic-American Relations (CAIR), the Islamic Society of North America (ISNA), the Muslim Public Affairs Council (MPAC), and the All-Dulles Area Muslims Society (ADAMS) Center – all of which have ties to the Muslim Brotherhood.

Christian Teen Claims He Paid a Major Price for Preaching His Faith and Handing Out Tracts in School — and Now He's Heading to Court

A Christian teenager in Washington state is suing his school district in federal court amid claims that he was suspended on three separate occasions for passing out Bible verses and preaching aloud at school-sponsored events.

Michael Leal, a student at Cascade High School in Everett, Washington, has admitted to passing out Bible-based literature and to sharing his Christian views, though he defends his right to do so, according to UPI.

But while Leal — who reportedly faces expulsion if he refuses to stop — is arguing in a lawsuit that his rights were violated with unfair punishments, the school claims that he has continued to pose a "substantial disruption," which is what official say led to the three infractions.

"At no time was Mr. Leal told that his distribution of material or his statements were inappropriate at school because of their religious content," school attorney Michael Patterson said in an October 27 letter to Leal's attorney. "Rather, he was informed of District policy ... and told that he needed to comply with it. He was also informed that he could not create a substantial disruption at school or school events."

Many Christians are upset that the Internal Revenue Service would send agents undercover agents posing as clergy to try to catch tax cheats. (CharismaNews file)

A New York Times front-page story shared that IRS rules allow that "an undercover employee or cooperating private individual may pose as an attorney, physician, clergyman or member of the news media."

The New York Times also goes on to state that the IRS allows much more "latitude" than other federal agencies in gathering information.

Rev. Patrick J. Mahoney, Director of the Christian Defense Coalition, states:

"It is troubling and an outrage that members of the IRS can pose as members of the clergy to gather information for the government. The First Amendment and the foundational principles of religious freedom that have long been embraced and honored by our nation are being trampled by these rules.

"The church and faith community are now being faced with the reality that the government is sending IRS agents pretending to be members of the clergy into Christian meetings, gatherings and services for the distinct purpose of the government "spying" on them. Also, American citizens must confront the fact that when they share their concerns with a member of the clergy, they may be talking to an IRS agent.

"This is clearly a trampling of the First Amendment which affords to every American the right to freely worship according to the dictates of their conscience without government interference and harassment.

An atheist activist group is urging the Internal Revenue Service to investigate two nonprofit organizations that are involved in the building of a new theme park based on Noah's ark and the Bible.

The Freedom From Religion Foundation fired off a letter to the Internal Revenue Service's Exempt Organizations Office Tuesday, taking aim at the way in which Answers in Genesis and its subsidiary Crosswater Canyon, Inc., are fundraising for Ark Encounter, a park scheduled to open in 2016.

Answers in Genesis, which owns the Creation Museum Petersburg, Kentucky, and is run by Ken Ham, is a nonprofit that can offer tax deductible donations, but the Freedom From Religion Foundation notes that the Ark Encounter — the new outfit responsible for the theme park — is a for-profit company.

Does the First Amendment Demand Equal Time for Satanists?

The Orange County School Board has banned literature from the Satanic Temple and Christians. (Facebook)

The Orange County School Board in Florida is getting ready to ban God.

The board had allowed an evangelical group to passively distribute Bibles on its campuses. Passive distribution means simply that nobody is handing them out. They are placed on a table and students can come by and pick one up if they want. If they don't want one, they don't have to go get one.

But once members of the Satanic Temple publicly declared their intentions to distribute material on the "philosophy and practice of Satanism," the board re-evaluated its stand and decided not only to ban Satan from its campuses but God too. No longer will Bible distribution be allowed on its campuses.

This incident serves as a prime example of how the gross distortion of the First Amendment is destroying religious liberty and turning Christian literature into the educational equivalent of pornography, something that is considered so toxic it must be kept from the eyes of inquisitive students.

Critics say it is wrong to replace a mural depicting heroes such as Mother Teresa with mere celebrities, such as Oprah Winfrey. (FOX News)

For years, boys and girls at South Arbor Charter Academy have been inspired by Heroes Hall – a corridor featuring murals that honored the Space Shuttle Columbia astronauts, Mother Teresa, Betsy Ross and Albert Einstein.

But many parents are furious after the principal had the murals replaced with paintings.

"This is no longer a hall of heroes," parent Craig Bergman told me. "Now we have a hall of celebrities."

The original mural had been a part of the Michigan charter school for years. It included a diverse group of national and global "heroes" – from Gandhi to the astronauts who were killed when the Space Shuttle Columbia exploded over Texas.

Those images were replaced with President Obama, Oprah, Maya Angelou, "Harry Potter" author J.K. Rowling and Walt Disney.

Parent Todd Holliday told me the new mural sends the wrong message to children in the K-8 school.

"My biggest concern is my kid seeing these murals for the next four years – thinking they represent what a hero is," Holliday told me. "They might be successful business people but they aren't really heroes."

Israel to issue gay-friendly ID cards for children of same-sex couples

New ID cards of same-sex couples' children will include gender appropriate titles for the parents, with 'Father's name' or 'Mother's name' appearing twice.

Israel is set to launch new ID cards for the children of same-sex couples. The cards will permit both fathers or mothers to be registered as the child's parents – regardless of whether they are the biological parent or not.

Ynet has learned that the Population, Immigration and Border Authority (PIBA) will mint the new ID cards by the end of the month and they will have gender appropriate titles for both parents, with 'Father's name' or 'Mother's name' appearing twice instead of once each. Until now, in the case of same-sex parents, both could be registered on the child's ID, as either a 'mother' or 'father'.

Since 2006, in wake of a High Court ruling, the Interior Ministry has allowed the non-registered same-sex parent to adopt their partner's child, but fell short of issuing ID cards which take into account the gender of the adoptive parent.

The decision was taken in wake of a petition filed by the four children of same-sex female couples.

"Each and one of these children were born to a lesbian family being headed by two mothers. Each one of the kids was adopted by the non-biological mother, and were then registered as a child with two mothers," said the request, filed by Michal Eden and Ira Hadar, the lawyers of the four children who petitioned PIBA.

According to Eden, though a mere formality, the move is a serious win in same-sex couples' fight for equality.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — Two homosexual men in North Carolina have filed a complaint against their United Methodist minister for refusing to "marry" them, stating that he has failed "to perform the work of the ministry."

Scott Chappell and Kenneth Barner, who attend Green Street United Methodist Church in Winston-Salem, filed the complaint with the Western North Carolina Office of the United Methodist Church late last month, charging their leader, Kelly Carpenter (male), with discrimination.

"On October 26, 2014, we asked Carpenter to officiate at our wedding and he has refused to do so, citing church rules from the United Methodist Book of Discipline that forbids pastors from celebrating homosexual unions or performing same-sex wedding ceremonies," the complaint reads. "Carpenter's refusal to perform our wedding violates our rights as members of his church and my fiancé and I wish to charge him for this offense."

It further outlines that Chappell and Barner are "active members" of the congregation, and that Barner is "the current chair of the Leadership Council and often leads the praise and worship portion of the service." The two became "engaged" during a Sunday service before the congregation.

"My fiancé and I are members of this church, having pledged to uphold the work of the church through our prayers, presence, gifts and service," the complaint continues. "Carpenter has accepted the call to be our pastor, accepted the call to be in ministry to all people, and accepted our membership in the church but is refusing to 'perform the work of the ministry.'"

Chappell and Barner also state that because the United Methodist Book of Discipline prohibits "racial or gender discrimination," Carpenter is violating the rules as they allege that he is discriminating against the men because they are both males. They contend that the denomination's stance is therefore contradictory as it decries discrimination but prohibits ministers from marrying those of the same sex.

A decorated fighter pilot is being drummed out of the military because he had the audacity to complain about 2 lesbian officers showing excessive affection on the dance floor. (Facebook)

The U.S. Army is moving to discharge a decorated combat pilot who was concerned and intervened when two lesbian officers were showing excessive affection at a military ball.

Lt. Col. Christopher Downey was attempting to prevent a soldier from filming the lesbian couple, who was kissing and disrobing on the dance floor during the April 2012 event, as Downey was concerned the photos would end up on social media sites. The couple was violating Army regulations regarding public displays of affection.

Yet, Downey was ultimately administratively convicted of assaulting the camera-wielding soldier and of violating the regulation that ended the ban on gays openly serving in the military.

"Tragically, here we see a decorated military officer being targeted for upholding military regulations, just because those violating them were a lesbian couple," said American Family Association President Tim

Atheists Have a Message That Offers a Different Take on Thanksgiving

Atheists looking to deliver Thanksgiving grace devoid of any mention of the Almighty are in luck this holiday season, as the American Humanist Association, a nontheistic nonprofit, has released a series of secular invocations for nonbelievers.

While many faithful view Thanksgiving as a holiday on which they pause to thank God for life's blessings, others see it as a more secular day during which they can reflect on and appreciate their lives.

"Thanksgiving is a uniquely secular holiday, as gratitude is a universal human emotion," American Humanist Association executive director Roy Speckhardt said in a statement. "This special day of the year is a chance for humanists and other nontheists to express gratitude to their friends and loved ones."

فمن سيشكرون؟ الطبيعة الغبية؟

فالاضطهاد يزيد والاضطراب يزيد والزلازل والابوة والفساد الأخلاقي يزيد والاحاد يزيد

فلهذا أقول المسيح اقترب ميعاد مجيؤه لا احدد مواعيد بل ارفض من يحدد مواعيد ولكن اطلب
شيئين

الأول نصلي ونستعد ونعد زيت لمصابيحنا لاستقبال العريس بالصلاة والصوم وخدمة أبناء الله
وتنقية القلب والاستعداد بلبس العرس.

أفسس 6: 15

وَحَازِينَ أَرْجُلَكُمْ بِاسْتِعْدَادٍ إِنِّجِيلِ السَّلَامِ .

رسالة بولس الرسول الي أهل رومية 13

13: 11 هذا وأنكم عارفون الوقت انها الان ساعة لنستيقظ من النوم فان خلاصنا الان أقرب مما

كان حين امنا

13: 12 قد تناهى الليل وتقارب النهار فلنخلع اعمال الظلمة ونلبس اسلحة النور

13: 13 لنسلك بلباقة كما في النهار لا بالبطر والسكر لا بالمضاجع والعهر لا بالخصام والحسد

13: 14 بل البسوا الرب يسوع المسيح ولا تصنعوا تدبيرا للجسد لأجل الشهوات

احترس ان لم تتمسك بالمسيح من الان قد لا تستطيع في المستقبل القريب بسبب الظلام.

الثاني لا نخاف

بطرس الأولى 3: 14

وَلَكِنْ وَإِنْ تَأَلَّمْتُمْ مِنْ أَجْلِ الْبِرِّ، فَطُوبَاكُمْ. وَأَمَّا خَوْفُهُمْ فَلَا تَخَافُوهُ وَلَا تَضْطَرُّوْا،

بل نفرح

رسالة بولس الرسول إلى أهل فيلبي 4: 4

إَفْرَحُوا فِي الرَّبِّ كُلَّ حِينٍ، وَأَقُولُ أَيْضًا: افْرَحُوا.

افرحوا لان عريسنا قد اقترب مجيؤه. وانتبهوا الشيطان يريد أن نفقد سلامنا ولا ننال أكاليل.

وأيضاً استعدوا فقد تسلموا وديعتكم في أي وقت فهناك 150 ألف شخص يموتوا في اليوم الواحد

انت لا تعرف متى ستكون منهم

المسيح اقترب فاصنعوا ثمار تليق بالتوبة واستعدوا لاستقبال العريس.
