والعلامات حتى 23 ديسمبر 2014

Holy_bible_1

وأیضا أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 10 وحينئذ يعثر كثيرون ويسلمون بعضهم بعضا ويبغضون بعضهم بعضا

مت 24: 11 ويقوم انبياء كذبة كثيرون ويضلون كثيرين

مت 24: 12 ولكثرة الاثم تبرد محبة الكثيرين

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

المسيح لا يتنبأ ولا يتوقع بل يعرف

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

NASA Voyager: 'Tsunami wave' still flies through interstellar space

Date: December 15, 2014

Source: NASA/Jet Propulsion Laboratory

Summary: The Voyager 1 spacecraft has experienced three shock waves. The most recent shock wave, first observed in February 2014, still appears to be going on. One wave, previously reported, helped researchers determine that Voyager 1 had entered interstellar space.

The sun fired off a massive solar flare late Friday (Dec. 19), after days of intense storms from our nearest star.

The huge solar flare registered as an X1.8-class event, one of the most powerful types of flares possible, and was captured on camera by NASA's powerful Solar Dynamics Observatory. The flare triggered a strong radio blackout for parts of Earth as it peaked Friday at 7:28 p.m. EST (0028 Dec. 20 GMT), according to an alert from the U.S. Space Weather Prediction Center overseen by NOAA.

(Reuters) - A 5.9 magnitude earthquake hit Japan's Honshu island on Saturday, the U.S. Geological Survey said, shaking Fukushima where crippled nuclear power plants are located, but local media said there was no tsunami warning.

USGS said the quake's epicenter was located 42 miles (68 km) east-northeast of Iwaki on Honshu. It was measured at a depth of 22.9 miles (37 km).

A spokesman for Tokyo Electric Power, which owns the nuclear plants, said no irregularities have been found at its Fukushima Daiichi or Daini plants.

The national broadcaster NHK said there was no tsunami warning, and there were no immediate reports of casualties or serious damage.

The quake also jolted Fukushima's neighboring areas on Japan's pacific coast.

Indonesia volcano erupts leaving 4 injured

Published December 19, 2014 • Associated Press

TERNATE, Indonesia – A volcano in eastern Indonesia erupted Friday, spewing towering clouds of hot ash into the air and sending a group of hikers to scramble to safety, leaving nine injured and one missing, an official said.

Mount Gamalama on Ternate island in North Maluku province shot thick gray smoke up to 6,560 feet into the sky just before midnight Thursday, said Sutopo Purwo Nugroho, the spokesman for Indonesia's Disaster Mitigation Agency.

He said nine panicked hikers fell while fleeing to safety and suffered severe injuries. Four of them were hospitalized and rescuers were searching for the tenth.

Slow-moving red lava was visible at the peak of the eruption Friday and villages were blanketed with thick ash, but no evacuation orders have been issued, Nugroho said.

An airport in Ternate, the provincial capital about 30 kilometers (20 miles) from the volcano, was forced to close Friday as did schools and offices.

Mount Gamalama is one of about 129 active volcanoes in Indonesia. Its last major eruption was in 2012. No deaths were reported then.

ROSEVILLE, Ohio — Five families will move into new homes on donated land after sinkholes forced them to flee their rural Muskingum County property.

They might not be in their new mobile homes in Perry County in time for Christmas. But they count their blessings and say thanks for all the help they have received after authorities ordered them to evacuate in July.

Since then, they have been living in temporary rental housing paid for by the Salvation Army and state grant money distributed through Muskingum County Job and Family Services while local and state officials discussed what to do.

Now, with additional help from government grants and private donations, the families are poised to move into five mobile homes on 12 donated acres in Clayton Township in Perry County.

Experts Investigate Massive Fish Death in Bolivian River

La Paz, Dec 16 (Prensa Latina) A technical committee today investigates the strange death of thousands of fish in a major river in the department of Santa Cruz, in eastern Bolivia, during the weekend.

According to Eber Menscho, departmental director of Natural Resources, the team is deployed to the Rio Grande, and will seek the causes of the incident on suspicion of water pollution.

However, residents of communities located close to the river also ensure that the animals possibly suffocated by the high volume of mud, dragged after torrential rains in recent days.

This is the second case of dead fish reported in Bolivia in less than a week.

Last Tuesday, agricultural authorities of the department of Oruro found thousands of species dead on the shores of Lake Poopó, considered the second largest in the country after Titicaca.

That event will affect more than 780 thousand fishing families with low production in the coming years, as the fish were on procreation age.

German authorities have ordered the cull of thousands of turkeys and chickens days before Christmas after a new outbreak of bird flu at a poultry farm in Lower Saxony.

All 19,000 turkeys at the farm have already been culled, together with 12,000 more at an adjoining farm. The cull will also be extended to some 109,000 chickens at two nearby farms as a precautionary measure.

1,200 Turtles Have Washed Ashore In Cape Cod — And No One Knows Why

BUSINESS
INSIDER By Chelsea Harvey

Weak, immobile, and close to death, the turtles wash limply on to the sand. The wind and waves draw them up to the shore, where their cold bodies — incapacitated by the frigid, late-autumn ocean — will lie prone on the beach, unable to move or defend themselves.

An unknown creature washed up on a beach in Santa Barbara, California, last week following the storms that drenched the Golden State and now residents and tourists are left to wonder, "What is it?"

"I'd say it looks like a combination of a seal and a dog with fangs dried up, potentially," resident Michael Curtis told KEYT-TV.

"To me it looks reminiscent of a dinosaur...like an old dog, ancient," Josh Curtis added.

Whatever this brown, hairless beach creature is, it has claws and fangs and as the KEYT news anchors pointed out, it's not very big. It's not much larger than the broken branches lying next to it.

The mystery animal was found near a drain washout on the East Beach of Santa Barbara. No other similar animals have been spotted in the area, KEYT reported. However, the Daily Mail reported a similar creature was discovered in San Diego – about 200 miles from Santa Barbara – in June 2012.

(NaturalNews) Another mass extinction event may be on the way if humans don't stop killing off all the animals and destroying the environment. Several top experts in the field of evolutionary biology warn that most living species could soon meet their end unless immediate changes are made to avoid triggering a fallout rivaling that of the dinosaurs.

One such expert is Sean B. Carroll, Ph.D., from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, who worries about the growing number of animal species that are shrinking in population. Wild animals everywhere are disappearing, he says, with current trends suggesting that another large-scale extinction event may be on the horizon.

Ebola deaths reach 6,900 in West Africa; more than 1M could face food shortage by March

By Tom Howell Jr. - The Washington Times - Thursday, December 18, 2014

The number of Ebola-related deaths has reached an even 6,900 in the three most-affected countries in West Africa, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reported Thursday, the same day the U.N. Secretary General Ban Ki-moon and a U.S. senator kicked off tours of the devastated region.

Nearly half of the fatal cases hit Liberia, with 3,290, although the nation is seeing progress while the viral disease continues to rage in Sierra Leone, which has incurred 2,085 Ebola-related deaths.

Mr. Ban started his tour in Accra, Ghana, where the U.N.'s Ebola mission is headquartered. From there, he is set to visit the three hardest-hit countries and Mali, which saw a flare-up of cases in recent weeks but brought transmission under control.

"I want to see the response for myself, and show my solidarity with those affected and urge even greater global action," Mr. Ban said before he left New York, according to the U.N. daily Ebola mission report. "The Ebola response strategy is working, and we are beginning to see improvements. But now is not the time to ease up on our efforts. As long as there is one case of Ebola, the risk remains."

Sen. Chris Coons, Delaware Democrat who chairs a subcommittee on African affairs, announced late Thursday that he was flying to Liberia for a four-day visit with American troops who are battling Ebola in Liberia.

"There are more than 2,000 U.S. troops currently serving on the front lines of our fight against Ebola, building hospitals and field clinics, but no member of Congress has visited them yet," he said. "I think it's important to show them our support, especially during the holiday season while they're away from their loved ones."

The senator will not be interacting with infect patients, but will adhere to self-monitoring protocols for the virus when he returns Tuesday, his office said.

Also this week, the U.N. said border closings, crop losses and other fallout from the Ebola outbreak is creating a food emergency at its three-nation epicenter.

More than 1 million people could face shortages by March "unless access to food is drastically improved and measures are put in place to safeguard crop and livestock production," a pair of U.N. agencies warned.

Sunday on Fox News Channel's "Media Buzz," investigative journalist Sharyl Attkisson said the CDC is not putting out the current information on how many potential cases of Ebola they are currently tracking in the United States.

Attkisson said, "I called CDC not long ago and I said how many cases are being monitored in the United States and they said 1,400. I said, 'Where are these updates on your website?' They said they're not putting it on the web. This is public information we have a right to know and the media should not hype it, but should cover it."

Flu season is picking up steam just in time to ruin a lot of people's holidays. The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reports widespread flu activity in 29 states, primarily in the South and Midwest. That's twice as many states as the previous week.

Most of the patients who have been hospitalized with severe cases of the flu are either very young or the very old. In recent days flu outbreaks have forced schools in Ohio, Tennessee, Georgia and North Carolina to close.

So far this season, the virus has killed 11 children.

Thirteen states reported high levels of influenza-like illnesses, while another six states saw moderate activity.

As if unmindful of its financial woes that pile up by the day - the falling rouble, the plunging oil prices and the economic sanctions from the West - Russia has decided to uncloak a number of the secret weapons that likely will see action in case of a nuclear showdown with the United States.

Economists are wondering what Russian President Vladimir Putin will prioritise amidst the crises that he has to deal with: Guns or butter?

It is unclear if any of the two occupies the top spot on Putin's to-do list but projecting muscle is definitely not taking the back seat as far as the Kremlin top honcho is concerned.

Latest reports are suggesting that despite the pressures it is facing now, Moscow is not letting its guards down and is in fact ready to tussle with anyone at any time as the nation allowed glimpses on its top-secret military arsenal.

Russia is reviving its nuclear missile trains from the Soviet Era, receiving the latest developments in the missile industry. Enhancement will make the nuclear trains faster and its missile capabilities far ranging as compared to its predecessor during the Cold War. With its modernisation, the nuclear railway system will be serving Russia up until 2040 at the very least, Commander of Russia's Strategic Missile Force Colonel-General Sergey Karakayev announce on Dec 17.

A senior State Department official warned Russia on Wednesday against deploying nuclear weapons in Crimea, and said the United States and its allies would respond if Moscow opted to do so.

Victoria Nuland, assistant secretary of state for European and Eurasian affairs, said such a move by Russia would be "extremely dangerous," the Washington Free Beacon reported.

Nuland, speaking at the American Enterprise Institute, did not explain what form the U.S. response might take. Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov said Monday that "Russia has every reason to dispose of its nuclear arsenal" on the Crimean Peninsula, which it annexed in March.

In late February and early March, heavily armed pro-Moscow separatists occupied Crimea, which had been part of Ukraine since the 1950s. In mid-March, the separatists staged a referendum in which almost 97 percent of Crimea's residents purportedly voted to become part of Russia. Many international observers have condemned the vote as illegitimate.

Putin hits back at new sanctions: 'No one will succeed in intimidating us'

Hannah Peters/Getty Images

Russian President Vladimir Putin said new sanctions from the European Union and United States were put in place, "just for the mere fact that we exist."

"Obviously, no one will succeed in intimidating us, to deter, to isolate Russia," he added in remarks reported by Reuters.

The U.S. and EU both instated tighter sanctions against Crimean investments this week, and Canada has redoubled its own sanctions against Moscow. Russia's economy is on tenuous ground; plummeting global oil prices, combined with the sanctions, have caused the ruble to lose more than 40 percent of its year-to-date value. Experts anticipate a recession to grip the country by early 2015.

But the Kremlin did not back down in its most recent statements.

"It is sad that the countries which call themselves democratic resort to such methods in the 21st century," a ministry statement read on Saturday. "Meanwhile, we will work on retaliatory measures." --Sarah Eberspacher

China to deploy world's largest coast guard ship next year

Staff Reporter | 2014-12-16 | 14:50 (GMT+8)

A ship with a displacement of 10,000 tons is set to be deployed by the China Coast Guard next year, the largest coast guard vessel in the world, according to Shanghai-based New Outlook.

On Dec. 13 a Chinese netizen uploaded a picture of the ship at the Shanghai Jiangnan Shipyard, which shows that the country's first coast guard ship to break the 10,000 ton displacement mark is already in water and the paintwork is almost complete. The vessel, the Haijing 2901, is bigger than any of the Japan Coast Guard ships, making it the biggest coast guard ship in the world. The ship will be deployed in spring next year at the earliest, according to reports.

China Tests ICBM With Multiple Warheads

Clinton-era tech transfer aided multi-warhead program

BY: Bill Gertz Follow @BillGertz

December 18, 2014 5:00 am

China's newest ICBM, the DF-41

China carried out a long-range missile flight test on Saturday using multiple, independently targetable reentry vehicles, or MIRVs, according to U.S. defense officials.

The flight test Saturday of a new DF-41 missile, China's longest-range intercontinental ballistic missile, marks the first test of multiple warhead capabilities for China, officials told the Washington Free Beacon.

China has been known to be developing multiple-warhead technology, which it obtained from the United States illegally in the 1990s.

However, the Dec. 13 DF-41 flight test, using an unknown number of inert maneuvering warheads, is being viewed by U.S. intelligence agencies as a significant advance for China's strategic nuclear forces and part of a build-up that is likely to affect the strategic balance of forces.

China's nuclear arsenal is estimated to include around 240 very large warheads. That number is expected to increase sharply as the Chinese deploy new multiple-warhead missiles.

The current deployed U.S. strategic warhead arsenal includes 1,642 warheads. All 450 Minuteman III missiles have been modified to no longer carry MIRVs. However, Trident II submarine-launched missiles can carry up to 14 MIRVs per missile.

Additionally, the development of China's multiple warhead technology was assisted by illegal transfers of technology from U.S. companies during the Clinton administration, according to documents and officials familiar with the issue.

Details of the flight test and the number of dummy warheads used during it could not be learned.

However, the DF-41 has been assessed by the National Air and Space Intelligence Center (NASIC), the intelligence community's primary missile spy center, as capable of carrying up to 10 warheads.

Pentagon spokesman Lt. Col. Jeff Pool declined to comment on the DF-41 test. "We encourage greater PRC transparency regarding their defense investments and objectives to avoid miscalculation," Pool said in response to questions about the

North Korea to Possess 20 Nukes by 2016

North Korea would possess some 20 nuclear bombs by 2016, and it could conduct several rounds of detonation tests to miniaturize nuclear warheads, a renowned U.S. nuclear scientist said Wednesday. "North Korea is presumed to have the capability of producing some four nuclear bombs per year, and it appears that the North will possess some 20 nuclear bombs by 2016," Siegfried Hecker, a research professor at Stanford University who visited the North's Yongbyon nuclear complex in 2010, was quoted as saying by Rep. ## Reports of U.S. Ground Fighters Emerge as ISIS Gains in Iraq

By Riyadh Mohammed 8 hours ago

No matter how many bombs Americans drop on ISIS forces, Iraqi troops are losing ground. If al-Anbar is lost, the entire Iraqi front dynamic will shift to favor ISIS again, and months of the U.S.-led air campaign will have been wasted.

Maybe that's why we had reports from an Iraqi field commander on Tuesday that U.S. forces had their first ground clash with ISIS terrorists at midnight on Monday, Baghdad time. ISIS fighters were forced to withdraw after U.S. air force fighters bombed enemy positions.

The minor victory was well timed. After six weeks of defeats in Iraq, ISIS made its first gains in the western province of al-Anbar last week, threatening the remaining Iraqi government forces and its tribal Sunni allies who are defending the remaining cities and army camps there.

"We have ammunition to fight ISIS for five days only. After that, we will not be able to fight them with their advanced arms," said Sheikh Naeim al-Gaud, a tribal leader who suffered hundreds of

'JERUSALEM WILL BE UNDER ISLAMIC STATE CONTROL IN 8 YEARS'

Jews who convert to Islam will be able to stay in Israel, according to the group's leader in Israel

The "leader" of supposed Islamic State (IS) supporters in Israel said that the jihadist group will one day rule over the Jewish state and that Jews would be allowed to live in the Islamic Caliphate only if they agreed to convert to the Islam, according an interview aired by Israel's Channel 10 news on Thursday.

The leader, who identified himself by his nom-de-guerre "Abu Kassem," said that there are currently 400-500 Islamic State supporters in Israel and that IS would be in Jerusalem "within eight years."

"I don't think Israel can do anything (about it)," he said.

Russian President Vladimir Putin

TEL AVIV – Russia is preparing a contingency plan to prompt Hezbollah and possibly the regime of Syrian President Bashar al-Assad into a direct military conflict with Israel, according to a French official who has been apprised of the situation.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the contingency was meant to be used as a card against the West, particularly the U.S. and European Union, which has been engaged in efforts to isolate Moscow.

This past week, the U.S. and E.U. adapted tighter sanctions on the Russian economy, including restrictions on investments in the Crimea, with emphasis on Russian Black Sea oil and gas exploration and tourism.

Abed Rahim Khalil/Flash 90

Hamas, in both its military and governmental branches, has been temporarily removed from the European Union's list of proscribed terrorist groups as the result of a technical legal blunder.

After Hamas filed an appeal against its terrorist list standing, the European Court of Justice in Luxembourg published its decision on Wednesday, with Hamas being removed due to claims that the group's inclusion in the list was against EU procedures and without sufficient evidence.

The court said in a statement that Hamas's inclusion was based on "factual imputations derived from the press and the Internet" as opposed to sound legal judgments. But it stressed that Wednesday's decision to remove Hamas was based on technical grounds and does "not imply any substantive assessment of the question of the classification of Hamas as a terrorist group."

The lawyer for Hamas, Liliane Glock, told AFP she was "satisfied with the decision".

Many have noted the fault lies in the EU terror list rules requiring new information every six months to reevaluate. Apparently classified intelligence had not been used as proof due to fears of tipping off Hamas, and instead news reports were submitted.

MADONNA SINGS ABOUT ILLUMINATI, ALL SEEING EYE, NEW WORLD ORDER, OBAMA IN NEW LEAKED SONG

by STEVE WATSON | INFOWARS.COM | DECEMBER 19, 2014

In a song leaked online before its completion, pop artist Madonna sings about a "new world order" referring to a secret elite society as "the truth and the light".

The track, entitled "Illuminati", name checks dozens of celebrities and appears to suggest that they are not truly members of the secret society, which is considered by many to still exist and have a hand in major global events.

A recent trend has emerged among 'artists' such as Jay Z, Beyonce, Lady GaGa, and Rihanna to reference the illuminati and use symbolism and body language commonly associated with the shadowy group. This has culminated in speculation that the Illuminati is using pop culture to slowly acclimatize people to its existence, or simply as an underhanded way of showing the world they control the entertainment industry.

Madonna has herself previously adorned her live shows with Babylonian, Egyptian, and Sumerian symbolism, all co-opted and used by secret societies such as the Freemasons, the Rosicrucians and the Illuminati.

Thousands of Protesters Storm Mall of America.

On one of the busiest shopping days of the year, thousands of #BlackLivesMatter protesters packed the Mall of America outside Minneapolis on Saturday to call for police reform in the wake of the officer-involved deaths of Michael Brown and Eric Garner. "I'm getting my feelings out and I'm letting the world know that we're not going to take this anymore," Emma Eubanks, a 18-year-old protester told Fusion just before the event began. Upon hearing the news that two police officers had been killed in New York by a fugitive gunman, Eubanks (who is the subject of the video above), said she "didn't condone violence" and that her heart was with the families of the slain officers. She worried that the killings could "provoke a wave of anger and hate" against black activists and those pushing for police reforms. More

I feel no responsibility for rouble's collapse, says Putin

Russian president offers few solid solutions during annual press conference, but promises economy will overcome crises

Vladimir Putin: Russia will emerge stronger from rouble crisis

Vladimir Putin has promised that Russia will weather the rouble crisis, adding that he feels no responsibility for the currency's fall.

During his annual press conference on Thursday, the Russian president appeared to rule out drastic measures such as introducing capital controls or reshuffling the government. But he offered little in the way of solutions, instead suggesting it was inevitable that oil prices would recover soon, and with them the Russian economy.

The rouble, which fell to a record low of nearly 80 to the dollar on Tuesday before recovering on Wednesday, stayed reasonably stable at between 60 and 63 during the speech, suggesting the markets were neither horrified nor encouraged by Putin's words.

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian consumers flocked to the stores Wednesday, frantically buying a range of big-ticket items to pre-empt the price rises kicked off by the staggering fall in the value of the ruble in recent days.

As the Russian authorities announced a series of measures to ease the pressure on the ruble, which slid 15 percent in the previous two days and raised fears of a bank run, many Russians were buying cars and home appliances — in some cases in record numbers — before prices for these imported goods shoot higher.

The Swedish furniture giant IKEA already warned Russian consumers that its prices will rise Thursday, which resulted in weekend-like crowds at a Moscow store on a Wednesday afternoon.

RUSSIA'S SINKING ECONOMY BECOMING A GLOBAL THREAT

BY JOSH BOAK
AP ECONOMICS WRITER

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Russia's suddenly escalating financial crisis risks spilling beyond its borders and endangering parts of the global economy.

With economies in Europe, Japan, China and Latin America already ailing, fresh threats have emerged from Russia's shriveled currency, its move to dramatically boost interest rates, the damage from plummeting oil prices and Western sanctions over Russia's action in Ukraine.

The alarming 10 percent drop in the ruble over the past two days has amplified the economic turmoil in Russia. Investors fear that Russia may default on its foreign debt obligations - a move that would inflict hundreds of billions in losses on lenders abroad.

(CNSNews.com) - The number of beneficiaries who receive compensation from the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), otherwise known as food stamps, has topped 46,000,000 for 37 straight months, according to data released by the Department of Agriculture (USDA). In September 2014, which is the latest data from the USDA, there were 46,459,998 Americans who received assistance from the SNAP program. The number of beneficiaries has exceeded 46 million since September 2011, a total of 37 months, or more than three years.

In September, the number of beneficiaries was down from the 46,476,410 beneficiaries there were in August, a decline of 16,412. During that same time frame, the number of families receiving SNAP benefits increased from 22,724,624 in August to 22,750,019 in September, an increase of 25,395.

Households on food stamps in September got an average of $252.69 during the month, and the program benefits cost taxpayers $5,748,809,023.

The Census Bureau reported in a study released this week that 65 percent of American children lived in households taking aid from one or more federal program as of the fall of 2011.

"Almost two-thirds (65 percent) of children," said the Census Bureau, "lived in households that participated in at least one or more of the following government aid programs: Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF), the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC), Medicaid, and the National School Lunch Program."

The percentage of children living in households participating in TANF, food stamps, WIC, Medicaid or the National School Lunch Program has been on the rise.

The American Petroleum Institute said last week the U.S. oil and natural gas sector was an engine driving job growth. Eight percent of the U.S. economy is supported by the energy sector, the industry’s lobbying group said, up from the 7.7 percent recorded the last time the API examined the issue. The employment assessment came as the Energy Department said oil and gas production continued to make gains across the board. With the right energy policies in place, API said the economy could grow even more. But with oil and gas production already at record levels, the narrative over the jobs prospects may be failing on its own accord.... The API’s report said each of the direct jobs in the oil and natural gas industry translated to 2.8 jobs in other sectors of the U.S. economy. That in turn translates to a total impact on U.S. gross domestic product of $1.2 trillion, the study found.

City officials in an Atlanta suburb voted on Monday night to allow Muslim residents to open a mosque in a local shopping center, reversing, under threat of a lawsuit, a decision made two weeks earlier.

The City Council of Kennesaw, a community of 30,000 residents 30 miles northwest of Atlanta, voted unanimously to allow the prayer center, city clerk Pam Davis said.

On Dec. 1, the council voted 4-1 to deny an application for the mosque, saying that zoning regulations did not allow a place of worship in that particular shopping center.

An attorney for Muslim residents of Kennesaw called that decision an attack on his clients' rights to freedom of religion under the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution and said he had recommended they file a lawsuit.

A professor at Marquette University in Milwaukee has been suspended after he publicly chastised a teaching assistant on his blog for discouraging a discussion in her classroom regarding gay rights, the school said on Wednesday.

Political science professor John McAdams was suspended with pay from his faculty and teaching duties at the Catholic university and barred from being on campus during the school's investigation, according to university spokesman Brian Dorrington.

The controversy began on Nov. 9 when McAdams criticized philosophy class instructor Cheryl Abbate on his blog.

According to McAdams, the instructor challenged a student's opposition to gay rights and told the student "homophobic comments" would not be allowed in the class. She also suggested the student drop the

Jingle bells. Mistletoe and holly. Christmas carols. It's that time of year! No, not the celebration of Christ's birth but the launch of the American Atheists' annual campaign to mock Christmas.

As predictable as the seasons, this year's billboard campaign depicts a young girl writing a letter to Santa Claus. Her request: "Dear Santa, All I want for Christmas is to skip church! I'm too old for fairy tales."

But religion and culture expert Dr. Alex McFarland says this year's campaign not only shows the desperation of the atheists' efforts to debunk the historically substantiated reality of Jesus' life but also presents a deceptive portrayal of churchgoers.

"What my atheist friends are doing is resorting to sarcasm in lieu of facts," McFarland said. "It's well-proven that the life of Christ ranks among the most historically documented facts of the ancient world."

'Every Religious Organization Should Be Worried': Kentucky Wants Ark Encounter to Hire Non-Christians

PETERSBURG, Ky. — Ken Ham, the founder and president of the Kentucky-based ministry Answers in Genesis (AIG), is expressing concern over new demands that the state is requiring of its proposed Ark Encounter, namely its requirement that the ministry not engage in "religious preference" in its hiring—meaning that it can't refuse applicants simply because they are non-Christians.

"AIG as religious organization has the legal right to hire people who believe in our Christian faith—which is a right for any religious organization, whether Christian or not," he said in the four-minute video posted to Facebook on Saturday.

Ham said that the matter became an issue when the state asked his ministry to resubmit its application for a sales tax refund, since the scope for the theme park had changed, and will open its various attractions incrementally instead of simultaneously.

"As we reapplied for the incentive, the state surprised us with two conditions not found anywhere in the law," he said. "That is, one, we can't show religious preference in our hiring, and two, we couldn't share our faith at the ark."

But Ham found this requirement to be problematic and said that the ministry had been upfront with the state since the beginning that the Ark Encounter is a Christian endeavor.

"I should point out that the state has known all along that our ark project was based on the Bible—it's always been a religious attraction," he stated. "Furthermore, when our attorneys met with the state officials earlier this year, we clearly explained the change in ownership structure and the need to preserve our rights as a religious organization, including the importance of not giving up our right to hire employees at the Ark Encounter who share our faith—as allowed by law."

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia – Recent reports state that officials in the Islamic country of Saudi Arabia have passed a law that may impose the death penalty on Bible smugglers and any others distributing religious materials that are not of the Muslim religion.

“[T]he new law extends to the importing of all illegal drugs and ‘all publications that have a prejudice to any other religious beliefs other than Islam,’” Paul Washer’s HeartCry Missionary Society outlines in a post on their website. “In other words, anyone who attempts to bring Bibles or gospel literature into the country will have all materials confiscated and be imprisoned and sentenced to death.”

It points to an article on the Copts Today website, which notes that “indecent materials and publications” are also included in the customs prohibition.

Reporters have attempted to obtain confirmation of the report from Saudi Arabia’s U.S. Embassy press officer in Washington, but the information has neither been confirmed or denied.

“Sometimes they don’t want to say anything (to the media),” a representative named Cecelia told WND.

The United Nations has also declined to comment on whether or not the report is accurate.

As the HeartCry Missionary Society notes in pointing to a video on PrayerCast, Saudi Arabia has a long history of hostility toward Christians, as it is illegal to convert to Christianity in the country, a crime considered to be apostasy against Islam and punishable by death.

Atheists Unveil a Radically Different Set of Ten Commandments

Atheists who reject the Ten Commandments as detailed in the Bible and revered in Judeo-Christian tradition have unveiled their own secular version of life's dos and don'ts.

Lex Bayer and John Figdor, authors of the book "Atheist Mind, Human Heart," recently organized a crowdsourcing contest to determine the 10 best atheist commandments and to modernize Old Testament ideals, creating an inclusive value set that they say is applicable in the modern era.

Bayer and Figdor's book, which is said to guide "readers through their process for establishing and testing principles for living a reasonable, ethical, and happy life without God," was the basis for the quest to find an alternative set of regulations; they released these ideals on Friday morning.

"There is often a misconception that nonbelievers don't share strong ethical values," Figdor, who is a humanist chaplain at Stanford University, said in a statement. "In reading through the thousands of submissions in the contest it's very clear that is not the case."

Pro-Homosexual Bakeries Refuse Christian's Cake Order for 'Traditional Marriage Celebration'

Over a dozen pro-homosexual bakeries refused to fulfill a Christian's order for a cake bearing the message "Gay Marriage Is Wrong" in an experiment meant to see if such bakeries would accept orders against their beliefs just as they expect of Christians.

As previously reported, in May of this year, Ashers Baking Company in Newtonabbey, North Ireland—founded by Christians and named after Genesis 49:20—was approached by a same-sex "marriage" supporter to bake a cake bearing the phrase "Support Gay Marriage," which also was to feature the logo for the homosexual advocacy group QueerSpace.

When the bakery declined, the customer reported Ashers Baking Company to the Equality

Commission of Northern Ireland, which in turn sent a warning to McArthur, stating that he and his bakery had discriminated against Lee. The bakery was ordered to either pay or face legal action.

In light of the incident, and other similar situations that have been reported across America, Theodore Shoebat of Shoebat.com decided to call 13 homosexual-owned or pro-homosexual bakeries to ask if they would make a cake for a "traditional marriage celebration" that bore the message "Gay Marriage Is Wrong." Not one of them agreed to make the cake.

"We're a gay cookie shop, so I don't think that's going to work," one replied.

"I apologize but we don't support that," another said, "because half of our staff is gay."

"We don't really support that or agree with that, so I'm going to have to say no," a third stated.

A majority of the Kirk's presbyteries have now voted in favour of change.

The final decision will be taken at next year's General Assembly.

The issue has been a consistently controversial one for the church.

Church ministers to sign covenant against gay ordination

Thursday 18 December 2014

Brian Donnelly
Senior News Reporter

EVANGELICALS opposed to gay ordination are forming a protest movement against greater acceptance of homosexual and lesbian ministers in the Church of Scotland.

The group, to be launched in Glasgow today and to be called the Covenant Fellowship, will push for a traditionalist stance from within the Kirk, rather than leaving the main body of the Church.

It comes as the Kirk's presbyteries this week returned a majority backing in the penultimate stage of acceptance of gay ordination, with local churches expected to be able to opt to appoint a gay minister in a same sex relationship.

The issue must still reach a vote at the General Assembly in May when same sex marriage among clergy is also expected to be raised.

The Kirk's struggle with gay ordination has led to members leaving.

New figures show 18 out of 795 ministers have left the Church over the possibility of the Church eventually agreeing to allow individual congregations to choose a gay minister.

Rev Professor Andrew McGowan, minister of Inverness East Church of Scotland and one of those involved in the fellowship, said: "The Church of Scotland is in the midst of a severe crisis.

"If approved, this (overture) will extend even further the disruption of the Church of Scotland.

"Many well-known congregations (individual ministers and groups of worshippers) in Glasgow, Aberdeen, Edinburgh, Stornoway and elsewhere have already left the Church, or been split in two.

The Church of England is poised to announce the appointment of its first female bishop marking the end of centuries of all-male leadership.

The Telegraph understands that a female priest has been chosen as the new Bishop of Stockport which has been vacant since May when the previous holder, the Rt Rev Robert Atwell, was made Bishop of Exeter.

UK proposes rules for embryos made from 3 people

LONDON (AP) — New rules proposed in Britain would make it the first country to allow embryos to be made from the DNA of three people in order to prevent mothers from passing on potentially fatal genetic diseases to their babies.

In a statement issued on Wednesday, the department of health said it had taken "extensive advice" on the safety and efficacy of the proposed techniques from the scientific community.

"(This) will give women who carry severe mitochondrial disease the opportunity to have children without passing on devastating genetic disorders," Dr. Sally Davies, the U.K.'s chief medical officer, said in a statement.

Experts say that if approved by parliament, these new methods would likely be used in about a dozen British women every year who are known to have faulty mitochondria — the energy-producing structures outside a cell's nucleus. Defects in the mitochondria's genetic code can result in diseases such as muscular dystrophy, heart problems and mental retardation.

The techniques involve removing the nucleus DNA from the egg of a prospective mother and inserting it into a donor egg, where the nucleus DNA has been removed. That can be done either before or after fertilization.

The resulting embryo would end up with the nucleus DNA from its parents but the mitochondrial DNA from the donor. Scientists say the DNA from the donor egg amounts to less than 1 percent of the
