والعلامات حتى 6 يناير 2015

Holy_bible_1

اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأیضا أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن ایضا علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. ونذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء

المسيح بل ایضا قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر

هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان

عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيقة اقتربت

جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم ياتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا بعض الاحداث التي قال عنها الرب يسوع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب انظروا لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

مت 24: 7 لأنه تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة وتكون مجاعات واوبئة وزلازل في اماكن

مت 24: 8 ولكن هذه كلها مبتدأ الازعاج

مت 24: 9 حينئذ يسلمونكم الى ضيق ويقتلونكم وتكونون مبغضين من جميع الامم لأجل اسمي

مت 24: 10 وحينئذ يعثر كثيرون ويسلمون بعضهم بعضا ويبغضون بعضهم بعضا

مت 24: 11 ويقوم انبياء كذبة كثيرون ويضلون كثيرين

مت 24: 12 ولكثرة الاثم تبرد محبة الكثيرين

مت 24: 13 ولكن الذي يصبر الى المنتهى فهذا يخلص

مت 24: 14 ويكرز ببشارة الملكوت هذه في كل المسكونة شهادة لجميع الامم ثم ياتي المنتهى

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

السماء

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

المسيح لا يتنبأ ولا يتوقع بل يعرف

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَانَ تُؤْمِنُونَ.

وايضا لنتنبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَانْتَصِبُوا وَارْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ.»

Scores of GIANT asteroids on course to hurtle past Earth within the month, NASA reveals

SCORES of giant asteroids are on course to hurtle close to Earth before the end of February, according to latest NASA space data.

By NATHAN RAO

Published: 16:46, Thu, January 1, 2015

The asteroids are around 100 metres wide

Some are more than 1km wide and threaten devastating consequences if they were to strike our planet.

Of almost 70 asteroids on the radar most are around 100 metres wide, the size of a double decker bus, and would be capable of causing significant damage.

Experts warn if one of these monsters, some of which travel at up to 70,000 miles an hour, were to hit Earth it could "alter life as we know it".

Plumes of debris thrown into the atmosphere would change the climate making the planet inhabitable for all life including humans.

An impact would still be catastrophic destroying cities and knocking out transport and communication networks.

Solar System Set For Eventual Collision With Stellar Orange Dwarf

+ Comment Now + Follow Comments

A local orange dwarf star has a 90 percent probability of passing within the orbit of our outer solar system's Oort Cloud between 240,000 and 470,000 years from now, says the author of a new study detailing the computer-modeled orbits of more than 50,000 nearby stars.

In a paper just accepted for publication in the journal Astronomy & Astrophysics, Coryn Bailer-Jones, an astrophysicist at Germany's Max Planck Institute for Astronomy in Heidelberg, and the paper's sole author, found that of 14 stars coming within 3 light years of Earth, the closest encounter is likely to be HIP 85605, which now lies some 16 light years away in the constellation of Hercules.

Like agitated bees circling a hive, we live in a dynamic sea of low-mass stars. More than a few buzz our own star on timescales of thousands to millions of years. But how many of these stellar interlopers perturb a fraction of the estimated few trillion comets that make up the Oort Cloud? That is, the grand reservoir of comets which circles our own solar system at a distance of nearly a light year. That's the crux of this new paper which, among other things, posits that these passing stars cause a significant number of the Oort Cloud's kilometer-sized cometary bodies to be injected into Earth-crossing orbits.

European astrophysicist Coryn Bailer-Jones who works at the Max Planck Institute for Astronomy in Heidelberg, Germany is predicting that around 14 stars might come within the next few million years. The astrophysicist came to this prediction after analysing the computer-simulated orbits of more than 50,000 stars that are nearby. The prediction also says that among the thousands of neighboring stars, there at least two that humanity should worry about, Forbes reports.

Bailer-Jones' study is set to appear in an upcoming issue of Astronomy & Astrophysics journal. According to the study, the possibility of the dwarf stars entering the boundaries of the solar system might potentially disturb the trillions of comets orbiting in the Oort cloud beyond the primary planets. This might send many comets into the inner solar system and has the potential to hit

Mystery at the sun's south pole: Nasa reveals huge 'coronal hole' on the solar surface where winds reach 500 miles per SECOND

There were no fireworks on the sun to welcome in the New Year - and in fact, scientists say the end of the year was relatively quiet on the solar surface. However, the sun has started 2015 with a mysterious event - a huge hole has appeared.

Known as a coronal hole, the phenomenon occurred near the south pole - and is seen as a dark area covered all of its base in these stunning images. Scroll down for video

Coronal holes are regions of the corona where the magnetic field reaches out into space rather than looping back down onto the surface - eject solar winds far faster than other parts of the sun.

The incredible image was captured on Jan. 1, 2015 by the Atmospheric Imaging Assembly (AIA) instrument on NASA's Solar Dynamics Observatory, shows the coronal hole as a dark region in the south.

Coronal holes are regions of the corona where the magnetic field reaches out into space rather than looping back down onto the surface.

Particles moving along those magnetic fields can leave the sun rather than being trapped near the surface. Those trapped particles can heat up and glow, giving us the lovely AIA images.

In the parts of the corona where the particles leave the sun, the glow is much dimmer and the coronal hole looks dark.

Coronal holes were first seen in images taken by astronauts on board NASA's Skylab space station in 1973 and 1974.

They can be seen for a long time, although the exact shape changes all the time.

The polar coronal hole can remain visible for five years or longer.

(NaturalNews) Recent storms dropped torrential rains across much of California, causing flooding and mudslides across many areas, leaving some residents homeless and killing at least two people. There was even a tornado in Los Angeles. Despite record rainfall on December 10 of between 1.54 inches at Long Beach Airport and 2.36 inches in Oxnard, the amount of rain that fell was a mere drop in the bucket for this drought-stricken state. A milder storm December 12 added to the rainfall total.

These early-winter storms left behind a combined 166 billion gallons of water, which seems like an enormous amount of water,

03 4.9 Magnitude Earthquake Strikes Idaho Triggering Rock Slides

The earthquake, confirmed by the U.S. Geological Survey, comes roughly two weeks after a 3.7-magnitude quake in the same area. Saturday's quake was recorded at 10:44 a.m., about four miles east of Challis. It was felt at least as far away as the Treasure Valley, about 120 miles southwest, and possibly in western Montana according to reports on social media. Penny Shinderling, an employee at Lamb's Foodtown in Challis, told the Statesman that a couple of things fell off shelves in the store but otherwise the quake "just gave us a good shake." "There is no damage or injury here in Challis. My pharmacy had a few things knocked onto the floor," Troy Westerberg wrote in an email to the Statesman. "The shaking was severe. It is definitely the talk of the town." More

Idaho suffers millions in property damage following earthquake

Big News Network.com Saturday 3rd January, 2015

CHALLIS, Idaho - A moderate earthquake shook a large area of Idaho early Saturday, causing millions in property damage and cutting off power to residents near its epicenter in Challis.

The city has experienced hundreds of slight to moderate temblors over the past 10 months, authorities said, but Saturday's tremor was the strongest since 1983.

The quake measured at a magnitude of 4.9 and was located about 6.5-kilometres from Challis in the state's central mountains. The tremor was felt as far away as Boise, however, 305-kilometres to the southwest, the US Geological Survey said.

Ash Emissions from the New SE Crater and Strombolian Activity at the Voragine Crater

Update Sat 03 Jan 22:37

Yesterday a dense pulsating ash column was emitted by deep-seated strombolian activity at the New SE Crater. The emissions produced a plume bended over by wind towards the SW and forcing the closure of Catania's airport.

This morning ash emissions from the New SE Crater ended. With the return of good weather it has been possible to observe two eruptive fissures opened during last paroxysm: one on the southern side of the New SE Crater and one on its eastern flank. The fissure on the southern side produced a lava flow that descended directed toward the western side of mount Frumento Supino splitting into 2 branches and reaching an altitude of about 1900 metres above sea level. The fissure on the eastern side produced a lava flow that reached the base of the Valle del Bove. They are not active now.

During the last days, glow was observed above the Voragine crater and now this strombolian activity is increasing with pyroclastic material ejected over the crater.

Thousands of fish floated up dead this week in Turkey Creek, alongside several other dead animals, fouling the air and flustering residents.

"I'm seeing somewhat of an oil slick on top of the water," Ken Abruzzini, who lives along the creek, said Tuesday.

Reports to a state fish-kill hotline included dead hardhead catfish, armored catfish and an alligator.

Abruzzini's seen dead fish before in his eight years living along the creek, never this many at once.

"There were thousands of dead catfish in the water," he said of his boat ride down the creek earlier this week, "to the point where we couldn't go any farther because we we're losing our breaths."

Abruzzini said he also saw a dead turtle, three dead racoons and a dead armadillo.

Hundreds of vultures swooped in to feast on all the remains.

Biologists with the Fish and Wildlife Research Institute's lab in Melbourne responded to the scene Tuesday to gather samples of the fish and sheen-covered water.

"It doesn't look like gasoline, but it does look like some contaminant," said John Mongioi, who lives along Turkey Creek and has fought for more than a decade to protect the creek.

Many visitors to Oregon's coast over the holidays were greeted with the disturbing sight of dead seabirds.

On Dec. 21, on the beach at Seaside, more than 50 dead birds washed ashore, most of them Cassin's auklets.

On Dec. 26, Robert Ollikainen, of Tillamook, found 132 dead birds on the beach there, including 126 Cassin's auklets.

"It was pretty dramatic," Ollikainen said.

On Dec. 27, Dave Miller counted 15 dead Cassin's auklets on the beach near William Tugman State park. The next day, he found more at Beverly Beach.

"I estimate there were probably 30 to 50 per mile," said Miller, who grew up in Newport and now lives in Camas, Wash. "I've never seen that many before."

It's normal for some seabirds to die during harsh winter conditions, especially during big storms like the one that occurred Dec. 21, said Julia Burco, wildlife veterinarian for the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife.

But a mass die-off of Cassin's auklets — a "wreck" in birding lingo — has been going on along the entire West Coast since October, and no one knows exactly why.

Mass die-offs of the small, white-bellied gray birds have been reported from British Columbia to San Luis Obispo, Calif.

But Oregon's north coast seems to be the epicenter, said Phillip Johnson, executive director of the Oregon Shores Conservation Coalition.

Fukushima radiation: US West Coast will likely see peak by end of 2015

Although scientists recently discovered radioactive water off the coast of Canada, Alaska has apparently so far been spared any radiation from the Fukushima disaster.

Contaminated fish and water samples from the 2011 nuclear disaster have previously been recorded 100 miles off the coast of California, but a recent study found that radioactive elements had also washed across the Pacific to Canada's shores. Still, Alaskan officials told KTVA that

NEW STUDY FINDS GMO SOY TOXIC TO KIDNEYS, LIVER AND REPRODUCTION

Rats given GM soy found to have deadly amounts of toxicity in kidneys, liver, testes, sperm, blood and even DNA

by CHRISTINA SARICH | INFOWARS.COM | JANUARY 2, 2015

In North America, approximately 75 to 89% of the soy beans grown are genetically modified (GM). One may not realize it, but this is concerning news – especially because recent research found that GM soy is toxic to the kidneys, liver, and more.

There isn't just one smoking gun anymore pointing at GMO toxicology. There is now an entire arsenal of scientific research proving that genetically modified organisms adversely affect the body. In yet another new study conducted by Egyptian researchers, rats given GM soy were found to have deadly amounts of toxicity in their kidneys, liver, testes, sperm, blood and even DNA.

Is there any question anymore about the true poisons that are biotech's squalid wares?

The histopathological assessments made by the researchers of the rat's bodily tissues leave no room for mistakes or misjudgments. You can't argue over the results as some GMO-supporters have tried to do with other studies (like Seralini's). Seralini's study is one of the most quoted papers on the Internet, yet Monsanto gave a lengthy refutation of its findings.

NEW 'MONSANTO LAW' IN AFRICA WOULD FORCE GMOS ON FARMERS

A way to sneak biotech crops into the market

Image Credits: Wiki Commons

by CHRISTINA SARICH | INFOWARS.COM | JANUARY 3, 2015

The front lines of the food sovereignty war in Ghana are swelling as the national parliament gives support to the Plant Breeders Bill.

This proposed legislation contains rules that would restrict farmers from ancient practices: freely saving, swapping, and breeding seeds. Under new laws protecting the intellectual property rights of biotech, farmers would be subject to hefty fines for growing anything that has been 'patented,' even if their crops were cross-pollinated.

The obviously biotech-infiltrated Ghanaian government states that the new laws would "incentivize the development of new seed varieties to ensure the marketability of crops," but farmers argue it gives rights straight to corporations like Monsanto, and not farmers who have been growing food in Ghana for centuries.

Many activists and trade groups there think that the new laws would simply give Monsanto a way to edge their biotech crops into the Ghanaian market. The bill has been dubbed the "Monsanto Law" for this reason.

Almost all the deaths and cases have been recorded in the three west African countries worst hit by the outbreak: Sierra Leone, Liberia and Guinea, WHO said yesterday.

GENEVA: The death toll from the Ebola outbreak in west Africa has risen to 7,890 out of 20,171 cases recorded, the WHO has said.

Since the previous toll published on Monday, the first confirmed case of Ebola has been diagnosed in Britain.

Almost all the deaths and cases have been recorded in the three west African countries worst hit by the outbreak: Sierra Leone, Liberia and Guinea, WHO said yesterday.

Those apart, six have died in Mali, one in the United States and eight in Nigeria, which was declared Ebola-free in October.

Spain and Senegal, which have both been declared free of Ebola, had one case each, but no deaths.

Sierra Leone, which has overtaken Liberia as the country with the most infections, counted 9,446 cases and 2,758 deaths on December 28.

Liberia, long the hardest-hit country, has seen a clear decrease in transmission over the past month.

As of December 28, the country had recorded 8,018 cases and 3,423 deaths.

Relentless spread of Ebola continues with Sierra Leone worst hit

02/01/14 23 CET

The New Year has seen no let-up in the spread of Ebola, especially in Sierra Leone, where President Ernest Bai Koroma is asking people to observe a week of fasting and prayer.

The statistics are staggering.

Known cases globally have now exceeded 20,000 according to the World Health Organisation (WHO).

The death toll has risen to 7,905, the WHO said, with 317 deaths recorded since it last issued figures on December 24. Since then, Sierra Leone has accounted for 337 of 476 new laboratory-confirmed cases.

Suffering in the country comes despite quarantine orders to halt the relentless rampage of the virus.

Ebola's impact on West Africa – where the outbreak has been mostly confined – is also economic.

"For years to come, the effects of the Ebola crisis will be felt," said Daniel Richards, senior Africa analyst at Business Monitor International.

THE WORLD HEALTH ORGANISATION IS INVESTIGATING REPORTS THAT ISIS MILITANTS HAVE BEEN SHOWING UP AT AN IRAQI HOSPITAL WITH EBOLA

According to three media outlets an undisclosed number of ISIS militants displaying signs of the disease attended a hospital in the ISIS-held city of Mosul, 250 miles north of Baghdad.

While the reports, from Kurdish and pro-Iraqi sources, remain unconfirmed, WHO spokesman Christy Feig said the group are trying to reach out to officials in ISIS-held areas to offer help.

Mosul has been under control of ISIS since June 2014 and over the past few weeks militants have reportedly executed more than a dozen doctors for refusing to treat injured fighters.

According to a report in Iraq's pro-government newspaper, al Sabaah, the disease was brought to Mosul by 'terrorists' arriving 'from several countries' and Africa.

The symptoms of Ebola, which include nausea and vomiting, diarrhea, bleeding and bruising, are similar to those of other diseases including malaria and yellow fever meaning it could easily have have been misdiagnosed.

NEW YORK (MarketWatch) — All those fevers, headaches and achy muscles mean one thing: The flu is getting to more people and making them sicker than usual this winter.

Indeed, "this could be the most severe flu season since prior to 2009," said Michael Smith, chief medical editor for WebMD, referencing the year the company began tracking it. The flu season not only started earlier than normal this season but also is more aggressive than usual.

Keeping Russia's economy afloat proves to be challenging for Russian authorities may soon ask President Vladimir Putin to reduce military spending. With Russia's current expense on strengthening its military, officials fear that the government will have no choice but to raise taxes, raise the pension age or print new money to prevent further economic collapse.

According to Reuters, Russian authorities believe that the country can still make it through 2015 if the price of crude oil, Russia's main export driver, will remain near current levels. However, economists think that even at the current price of $80 per barrel, the oil price is only a little more than half of what Moscow needs to balance the budget. The Kremlin is quickly losing money.

Without drastic action, Russian officials are becoming less confident about the country's future in 2016-17 if global oil prices continue to drop towards $40. A senior government official told Reuters about the effects of an unchecked deficit on any of the country's two funds set up from previous oil revenues.

The unidentified official claimed that if no spending was cut, the deficit will grow to 4 trillion roubles. He said Russia's China could soon target the United States with sea-based nuclear weapons as it is reinforcing its submarines with long-range nuclear ballistic missiles, a US congressional report has found.

China's military is set to acquire a reliable, hard-to-destroy sea-based nuclear deterrent, with a dozen JL-2 missiles that are being mounted on its JIN class submarines, according to a report submitted to Congress by the US-China Economic and Security Review Commission.

The missiles have a strike range of around 7,350 km, meaning they can reach all 50 US states if they are launched from waters west or east of Hawaii.

Despite the uncertainty surrounding China's stockpiles of nuclear missiles and nuclear warheads, it is clear China's nuclear forces over the next three to five years will expand considerably and become more lethal and survivable with the fielding of additional road-mobile nuclear missiles; as many as five JIN SSBNs, each of which can carry 12 JL-2 submarine-launched ballistic missiles; and intercontinental ballistic missiles armed with multiple independently targetable reentry vehicles (MIRVs) (for an overview of China's nuclear ballistic missiles, deployment modes, and maximum ranges, see Table). At the same time, China likely will continue to improve its silo-based nuclear force; harden its nuclear storage facilities, launch sites, and transportation networks; and expand its already extensive network of underground facilities.

Slowly but surely Europe is figuring out that as a result of the western economic and financial blockade of Russia, it is Europe itself that is suffering the most. And while Germany was first to acknowledge this late in 2014 when its economy swooned and is now on the verge of a recession, now others are catching on. Case in point: the former head of the European Commission, and Italy's former Prime Minister, Romano Prodi who told Messaggero newspaper that the "weaker Russian economy is extremely unprofitable for Italy."

The other details from Prodi's statement:

Lowered prices in the international energy markets have positive aspects for the Italian consumers, who pay less for the fuel, but the effect will be only short-term. In the long-term however the weaker economic situation in countries producing energy resources, caused by lower oil and gas prices, mostly in Russia, is extremely unprofitable for Italy, he said.

"The lowering of the oil and gas prices in combination with the sanctions, pushed by the Ukrainian crisis, will drop the Russian GPD by five percent per annum, and thus it will cause cutting of the Italian export by about 50%," Prodi said.

"Setting aside the uselessness or imminence of the sanctions, one should highlight a clear skew: regardless of the rouble rate against dollar, which is lower by almost a half, the American export to Russia is growing, while the export from Europe is shrinking."

In other words, just as slowly, the world is starting to grasp the bottom line: it is not the financial exposure to Russia, or the threat of financial contagion should Russia suffer a major recession or worse: it is something far simpler that will lead to the biggest harm for Europe's countries. The lack of trade. Because while central banks can monetize everything, leading to an unprecedented asset bubble which if only for the time being boosts investor and consumer

Despite a lack of evidence, Obama has issued an executive order placing new sanctions on the North Korean regime.

Obama issues new sanctions on N. Korea

Specifically, the sanctions were put on ten individuals and three state agencies.

The executive order authorizes the Treasury Department to prevent the individuals and agencies from using the U.S. financial system and outlaws U.S. citizens from doing business with them.

"We take seriously North Korea's attack that aimed to create destructive financial effects on a U.S. company and to threaten artists and other individuals with the goal of restricting their right to free expression," White House press secretary Josh Earnest said. "Today's actions are the first aspect of our response."

Increasingly, the consensus is that North Korea was not behind the attack on Sony Pictures. It

It is thought to be the first time the US has moved to punish a country for a cyber-attack against a firm

North Korea has described new sanctions imposed in response to a major cyber-attack against Sony Pictures as part of a hostile and inflammatory US policy.

The US placed sanctions on three North Korean organisations and 10 individuals after the FBI blamed Pyongyang for the cyber-attack.

North Korea praised the attack on Sony but denied any involvement in it.

One of Congress' most prominent foreign policy voices has expressed alarm that Iran is moving towards becoming a military nuclear power like its longtime ally North Korea.

In an interview published Friday by the Israeli media outlet Israel Hayom, South Carolina Sen. Lindsey Graham said he does not object to Iran having a nuclear energy program, but is "very concerned" about Tehran's uranium enrichment efforts becoming a path to atomic weapons capability.

Fifteen nations with nuclear power programs do not enrich uranium, Graham said.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Arab ambassadors on Monday endorsed Palestinian amendments to a U.N. resolution that would call for an end to Israel's occupation within three years, a proposal strongly opposed by Israel and the United States and virtually certain to be defeated.

The US State Department in 2014 condemned Israel as one of the most "unacceptable" countries in the world, just behind North Korea.

According to an article published last week by Foreign Policy, over the past year the Obama Administration State Department cited Israel for "unacceptable behavior" more times than Pakistan, Russia, Egypt, China, Afghanistan and Iraq. The article examined how many times a country's actions were condemned as "unacceptable," and Israel came in fourth, right after

Hackers Tried to Paralyze Nuclear Plants

Authorities investigating a hacking attack targeting Korea's nuclear power plants said Sunday that emails containing malware were sent to hundreds of workers at Korea Hydro and Nuclear Power Corporation. They were intended to destroy internal files and hard disks.

The emails were sent to KHNP workers between 5 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Dec. 9, while the malicious codes were designed to be activated at 11 a.m. on Dec. 10. The hackers emailed around 5,980 messages to one-third of KHNP's 9,500 staff.

"The hackers appear to have planned to wreak havoc in the operation of nuclear plants by immobilizing the computers," an investigator said. "It's terrifying to think what would have happened if 3,000 computers were disabled simultaneously."

KHNP discovered the malicious emails on Dec. 9 and deleted most of them, but four computers were apparently infected and their hard disks destroyed.

Investigators analyzed around 30 computers belonging to nuclear plant workers in Wolsong and Gori and another computer from a subcontractor. Investigators also obtained a search warrant to look at the email account of a retired KHNP worker whose ID was used to send the messages.

Another investigator said, "It's too early to conclude that the hacking attack is over, since we don't know the overall intentions of the attackers. We're conducting further investigations in conjunction with Chinese authorities."

Starbug, whose real name is Jan Krissler, told attendees of the Chaos Computer Club's (CCC) 31st annual congress in Hamburg, Germany, how he achieved the hack.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Gardeners at hundreds of spots around the country are sharing seeds as part of an increasing interest in locally grown food, but some agriculture officials say the well-meaning effort violates state laws.

In spots like Duluth, Minnesota, the conflict has surprised gardeners and library officials who never thought to examine the intricacies of state seed laws.

Agriculture officials say they weren't looking for a fight but must enforce laws that are intended to protect farmers by ensuring seeds are viable, will grow the intended plant and aren't mixed with unwanted seeds for weeds or plants.

China may have mastered the art of fabricating economic data to a level unmatched by anyone except the US Department of Labor, but its derivative countries have much to learn. And none other more so than one of China's favorite sources of commodities over the past decade: Brazil. It is here that things are going from worse to catastrophic, as disclosed in today's update of Brazil's fiscal picture.

Here are the disturbing facts showing that behind the world's propaganda growth facade, it is all hollow: Brazil's consolidated public sector primary fiscal balance, which posted a significantly worse than expected R$8.1bn primary deficit in November driven by the R$6.7bn deficit of the Central Government, dipped into negative territory: -0.18% of GDP, driven by the significant deterioration of the Central Government finances.

WHO IS BEHIND THE OIL WAR, AND HOW LOW WILL THE PRICE OF CRUDE GO IN 2015?

Who is to blame for the staggering collapse of the price of oil?

Image Credits: Eric Kounce, Wikimedia Commons

by MICHAEL SNYDER | JANUARY 1, 2015

Who is to blame for the staggering collapse of the price of oil? Is it the Saudis? Is it the United States? Are Saudi Arabia and the U.S. government working together to hurt Russia? And if this oil war continues, how far will the price of oil end up falling in 2015?

As you will see below, some analysts believe that it could ultimately go below 20 dollars a barrel. If we see anything even close to that, the U.S. economy could lose millions of good paying jobs, billions of dollars of energy bonds could default and we could see trillions of dollars of derivatives related to the energy industry implode. The global financial system is already extremely vulnerable, and purposely causing the price of oil to crash is one of the most deflationary things that you could possibly do. Whoever is behind this oil war is playing with fire, and by the end of this coming year the entire planet could be dealing with the consequences.

Ever since the price of oil started falling, people have been pointing fingers at the Saudis. And without a doubt, the Saudis have manipulated the price of oil before in order to achieve geopolitical goals. The following is an excerpt from a recent article by Andrew

The oil price drop that has dominated the headlines in recent weeks has been framed almost exclusively in terms of oil market economics, with most media outlets blaming Saudi Arabia, through its OPEC Trojan horse, for driving down the price, thus causing serious damage to the world's major oil exporters – most notably Russia.

While the market explanation is partially true, it is simplistic, and fails to address key geopolitical pressure points in the Middle East.

Oilprice.com looked beyond the headlines for the reason behind the oil price drop, and found that the explanation, while difficult to prove, may revolve around control of oil and gas in the Middle East and the weakening of Russia, Iran and Syria by flooding the market with cheap oil.

The oil weapon

We don't have to look too far back in history to see Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil exporter and producer, using the oil price to achieve its foreign policy objectives. In 1973, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat convinced Saudi King Faisal to cut production and raise prices, then to go as far as embargoing oil exports, all with the goal of punishing the United States for supporting Israel against the Arab states. It worked. The "oil price shock" quadrupled prices.

موقف البترول محير والسبب ان انخفاضه مضر لأمريكا فأمريكا تستخرج بترول من شمال دكودا بأسلوب التفتيت وهذا يكلف 80 دولار البرميل فعندما ارتفع سعر البرميل في العالم عن 80 دولار

هذا شجع هذا المجال في أمريكا ووفر فرص عمل ضخمة وحسن اقتصاد قطاع كبير انخفاضه عن 80 دولار هذا يسبب خسارة كبيرة لهذا القطاع وبالتالي أيضا يؤثر بالسلب على اقتصاد أمريكا والمستفيدة من انخفاض السعر الي اقل من 80 هي السعودية لان استخراج البترول عندها اسهل بكثير لأنه سائل وفي ابار بحجم ضخم فانخفاضه اقل من 80 دولار هذا يوقف أمريكا وأيضا كندا وغيرهم من الدول وتصبح السعودية تبيع اكثر وبالتالي تعوض فرق السعر ولكن منعت منافسين لها ولكن انخفاضه بهذه الطريقة يضر كل الدول السعودية أمريكا كندا روسيا وغيرهم ولا يفيد الا بعض الدول التي ليس لها تحكم في سعر البترول مثل الصين وغيرها فما هو الذي يحدث هل هو مؤامرة من دول او مجموعات ام مؤامرة من الشيطان لتحطيم الكل اقتصاديا والاعداد لابن الهلاك؟

ولكن وجدت الخبر التالي بعدها ان أمريكا في الخفاء بدون اعلان رفعت موانع عن تصدير البترول الأمريكي الذي اكتشفت الكثير منه حديثا وبالفعل مع انخفاض سعر البترول الشديد بدأت تصدر بترول في هدوء شديد فهل هذا هو ما كانت تسعى له من انخفاض سعر البترول وهو القضاء على السوق العربي وبداية عصر البترول الأمريكي؟

The most dramatic news in 2014 almost went unnoticed: The United States lifted the restrictions on American oil exports, and as of the first day of the new year it has begun exporting oil to the world.

- Follow Ynetnews on Facebook and Twitter

No one believed this would happen so fast, but the US is already the world's biggest oil manufacturer, bigger than Saudi Arabia, thanks to the oil shale technology which changed the world of energy.

Within a year, the US is expected to export about one million barrels of oil a day and produce 12 million barrels a day. Iran, for the same of comparison, manufactures about a million and a half barrels a day.

This means that oil prices will continue to drop, as the US is already competing against other manufacturers. As a result, Russia will be crushed, Saudi Arabia and the rest of the Gulf states will fall flat on their face, the cartel will collapse, and all the dictatorships which were mainly based on oil – like Iran – will face a gloomy future.

At the same time, democracies like Canada, Brazil, Mexico, Nigeria and even little Israel will enter the market.

(NaturalNews) As ugly as the current collapsing economy in Russia is already, it might be about to get a whole lot uglier -- and much more dangerous, both for average Russians and the world.

Up to this point, most of the world's and media's focus has been on the economics of the Russian currency collapse, which has been fed largely by a rapid decline in oil prices (fully half of Russia's GDP is dependent upon energy sales) and Western-led sanctions for Moscow's military aggression in Crimea and Ukraine. Also, many geopolitical analysts have been keeping an eye on Russian President Vladimir Putin, and have tried to predict what he might do.

The euro slumped to the lowest in four and a half-year against the dollar after the European Central Bank signaled it will embark on large-scale government-bond purchases as the Federal Reserve moves closer to raising interest rates.

The 19-nation common currency slid for a third week after ECB President Mario Draghi said he can't rule out deflation in the euro area. The yen also declined for a third week. The rouble plummeted 9.4 per cent to lead emerging-market peers lower. The dollar advanced gained against all of its 16 major peers before a report next week that may show the jobless rate fell to a six and a half-year low.

"The US labor market is performing well and the unemployment rate is falling further," Ralf Umlauf, head of research for Helaba Landesbank Hessen-Thuringen in Frankfurt, said by phone on Friday. "In the euro zone, it's a completely different picture. We have still very high (NaturalNews) Nearly two-thirds of American children now live in households receiving aid from at least one federal agency, according to a recent report from the Census Bureau.

This staggering figure is based on data compiled from interviews from the fall of 2011 that were conducted as part of the 2008 Survey of Income and Program Participation (SIPP).

The federal programs being accessed by these households include Medicaid, the National School Lunch Program, the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program, the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) and the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC).

It seems like it was only yesterday when we reported that, in yet another sleight of hand for the US Treasury and Social Security Administration, US debt rose by $32 billion on the last day of November sending total US debt above $18 trillion for the first time ever. As we further noted, it also meant "that total US debt has increased by 70% under Obama, from $10.625 trillion on January 21, 2009 to $18.005 trillion most recently."

Fast forward to today when we are happy to report that according to the US Treasury, America's debt-funded spending spree, while supposedly slowing down if looking at the declining monthly budget deficit report, never actually has.

The American People Are Utterly Clueless About What Is Going To Happen As We Enter 2015

By Michael Snyder, on December 29th, 2014

The American people are feeling really good right about now. For example, Gallup's economic confidence index has hit the highest level that we have seen since the last recession. In addition, nearly half of all Americans believe that 2015 will be a better year than 2014 was, and only about 10 percent believe that it will be a worse year. And a lot of people are generally feeling quite good about the people that have been leading our nation. According to Gallup, once again this year Hillary Clinton is the most admired woman in America and Barack Obama is the most admired man in America. I don't know what that says about our nation, but it can't be good. Unfortunately, when things seem to be going well common sense tends to go out the window. A couple days ago, the Guardian ran an article entitled "Goodbye to one of the best years in history", and a whole lot of people out there are feeling really optimistic these days. But should they be?

Sadly, what we are experiencing right now is so similar to what we witnessed in 2007 and early 2008. The stock market had been on a great run, people were flipping houses like crazy and most people were convinced that the party would never end.

But then it did end – very painfully.

The signs of trouble were there, but most people chose to ignore them.

Sadly, the exact same thing is happening again.

On Monday, the price of oil hit a brand new five year low. As I write this, U.S. oil is sitting at a price of $53.76 a barrel, which is nearly a 50 percent decline from the peak earlier this year.

Ukraine in 'full-blown financial crisis' – National Bank head

Ukraine's GDP shrank by 7.5 percent from January till November 2014, as foreign exchange reserves fell to their lowest level since 2009, and inflation jumped to 21 percent by November, admits the head of the Ukraine's National Bank, Valeriya Gontareva.

The country's foreign exchange reserves shrank to $9.9 billion, as Kiev gave Naftogaz an estimated $8.6 billion to buy gas and settle state guaranteed Eurobonds. $3.1 billion went to settle the debt with Russia's Gazprom, Gontareva explained.

The conflict over Russia's reunification with Crimea has killed more than 4,700 people has also killed the economy.

"There is a full-blown financial crisis," Gontareva told reporters Tuesday. "We can only overcome it if we implement quick and even extreme reforms."

DUBAI — Growth in passenger traffic through Dubai International Airport, one of the world's busiest, slowed in November because of the geopolitical and economic instability hitting Russia, the airport's operator said on Tuesday.

Dubai is a popular tourist destination for Russians and a convenient place for them to park some of their savings abroad. Western economic sanctions against Moscow since the pro-Russian uprising in Ukraine, and the slide of the Russian ruble, appear to have reduced Russian visitors in recent months.

China's economy is likely to miss Beijing's growth target for the first time since the Asian financial crisis at the end of the last century, after official figures showed the country's seismic manufacturing sector barely grew in December.

A housing market slump and attempts to rebalance China's heavily investment-dependent economy have held back growth this year, and data on Tuesday showed factory output expanding at its slowest rate for 18 months.

MUSLIMS WAGING BIOLOGICAL JIHAD IN GERMANY

Like England, Germany is struggling to deal with its own dire Islam problem. Muslims continue to flood into Germany at record rates, bringing with them Sharia Law and the ever-present threat of Islamic submission. The government vowed to provide land for a new Christian church for Syriac community. Turkish Prime Minister Ahmet Davutoglu said on Friday in Istanbul at the meeting with representatives of non-Muslim communities.

The church will be erected in Yesilkoy, Istanbul suburb, on the shore of the Marmara Sea. The place already has temples for other Christian minorities - Greek Orthodox, Armenian and Catholic churches.

"It is the first since the creation of the republic," a government official told AFP. "Churches have been restored and reopened to the public, but no new church has been built until now."

However, the government will not pay for construction. It will be paid by the Syriac group itself.

Syriacs are ethnic and religious minority whose number is less than 20,000 mostly live the southeast of the country and tend to be attending either Orthodox or Catholic churches. Their population has grown in the past years due to numerous Syriac refugees from Iraq and Syria.

Only about one percent of Turkish population of over 75 million people is not Muslim and since 1923 no new churches were built.

UN SEEKS TO CRIMINALIZE FREE SPEECH, CITING "HUMAN RIGHTS"

The dictator-dominated global body is waging a full-blown assault on free-speech rights

Under the guise of advancing what the United Nations refers to as "human rights," the dictator-dominated global body is waging a full-blown assault on free-speech rights by pressuring governments to criminalize so-called "hate speech."

Indeed, working alongside radical government-funded activist groups and anti-liberty politicians around the world, the UN and other totalitarian-minded forces have now reached the point where they openly claim that what they call "international law" actually requires governments to ban speech and organizations they disapprove of. Critics, though, are fighting back in an effort to protect freedom of speech — among the most fundamental of all real rights.

While Americans' God-given right to speak freely is firmly enshrined in the U.S. Constitution's First Amendment, the UN and its hordes of "human rights" bureaucrats are currently terrorizing and bullying the people of Japan — among others — in an effort to drastically curtail speech rights. Pointing to a tiny group of anti-Korean activists holding demonstrations in Japan, politicians and self-styled promoters of "human rights" have also joined the UN in its Soviet-inspired crusade to ban free expression. The Japanese Constitution, however, like the American one, includes strong protections for freedom of speech. Still, that has not stopped the UN from seeking to impose its radical speech restrictions on Japan anyway.

Judge: Clerks Have Duty to Issue Same-Sex Marriage Licenses

MIAMI — Jan 1, 2015, 7:10 PM ET

A federal judge says that Florida's county court clerks have a legal duty to issue marriage licenses to same-sex couples, but he has stopped short of ordering them to do so.

U.S. District Judge Robert Hinkle issued a ruling Thursday in Tallahassee federal court responding to requests to clarify his previous order that Florida's same-sex marriage ban was unconstitutional. He stayed that order, but the stay is scheduled to expire at the end of the day Monday.

The association representing county clerks said the ruling applies only to Washington County, where a lawsuit filed by two men became a key basis for Hinkle's order. Gay rights groups said Hinkle's order applies statewide.

Hinkle warned Thursday that clerks who don't start issuing the licenses when the stay expires could face future lawsuits or other legal consequences.

"History records no shortage of instances when state officials defied federal court orders on issues of federal constitutional law. Happily, there are many more instances when responsible officials followed the law, like it or not. Reasonable people can debate whether the ruling in this case was correct and who it binds. There should be no debate, however, on the question whether a clerk of court may follow the ruling, even for marriage-license applicants who are not parties to this case," Hinkle wrote.

Hinkle said while his order doesn't require a clerk to issue marriage licenses to same-sex couples, "the Constitution requires the clerk to issue such licenses."

The National Center for Lesbian Rights and American Civil Liberties Union in Florida cheered Hinkle's ruling Thursday.

"We expect all clerks to respect the ruling. But if not, we are committed to ensuring marriage equality in all 67 counties in Florida and we would like to hear from any couples that are wrongfully denied a license after the stay expires," said Daniel Tilley, an attorney on LGBT rights for the ACLU of Florida.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. – The Supreme Court of Rhode Island has unanimously ruled that the religious rights of two firefighters were not violated when they were forced to participate in a “gay pride parade” a decade ago despite their objections.

Theodore Fabrizio and Stephen Denimmo were assigned by city officials to drive a fire truck in the 2001 parade, but when the men asked if they could be reassigned as they do not agree with the homosexual lifestyle, they were refused. The men then carried out their assignment against their will, but state that they experienced sexual harassment, including sexual propositions and “at least 60 profanity-laced anonymous phone calls,” from parade attendees and their co-workers both during and after the event.

They filed suit against then-Mayor Buddy Cianci and Fire Chief James Rattigan in 2004 after their complaints to the city remained unresolved. During the legal battle, Mayor Cianci asserted that the assignment was just like any other as the city regularly sends fire trucks to a variety of parades.

“Our policy was to send a fire truck to any parade that made the request, if one was available and the truck’s participation did not compromise public safety,” he contended. “Why should the gay-pride parade be any different than the St. Patrick’s Day Parade, the Purim Parade, or any parade in Providence? It shouldn’t, and it wasn’t.”

But Fabrizio and Denimmo asserted that their constitutional rights—namely their rights to freedom of religion and freedom of speech—had been violated by being forced to participate in an event that conflicted with their convictions.

The litigation dragged out over the past decade, and the battle eventually made it to the state supreme court, which was to rule on whether the two city officials had immunity from being sued.

But on Friday, the court threw out the firefighters’ lawsuit altogether, unanimously ruling that the city did not violate the men’s constitutional

Figures from the national statistics office for 2013 show that the rest of the country lags far behind Paris in the same sex marriage stakes, at just 3 percent of the total.

The best way to transfer money overseas

فالاضطهاد يزيد والاضطراب يزيد والزلازل والابوثة والفساد الأخلاقي يزيد والاحاد يزيد

فلهذا أقول المسيح اقترب ميعاد مجيؤه لا احدد مواعيد بل ارفض من يحدد مواعيد ولكن اطلب

شيئين

الأول نصلي ونستعد ونعد زيت لمصابيحنا لاستقبال العريس بالصلاة والصوم وخدمة أبناء الله
وتنقية القلب والاستعداد بلبس العرس.

أفسس 6: 15

وَحَادِيثَ أَرْجُلِكُمْ بِاسْتِعْدَادِ إِجِيلِ السَّلَامِ .

رسالة بولس الرسول الي أهل رومية 13

13: 11 هذا وأنكم عارفون الوقت انها الان ساعة لنستيقظ من النوم فان خلاصنا الان أقرب مما

كان حين امنا

13: 12 قد تناهى الليل وتقارب النهار فلنخلع اعمال الظلمة ونلبس اسلحة النور

13: 13 لنسلك بلياقة كما في النهار لا بالبطر والسكر لا بالمضاجع والعهر لا بالخصام والحسد

13: 14 بل البسوا الرب يسوع المسيح ولا تصنعوا تدبيرا للجسد لأجل الشهوات

احترس ان لم تتمسك بالمسيح من الان قد لا تستطيع في المستقبل القريب بسبب الظلام.

الثاني لا نخاف

بطرس الأولى 3: 14

وَلَكِنْ وَإِنْ تَأَلَّمْتُمْ مِنْ أَجْلِ الْبِرِّ، فَطُوبَىٰ لَكُمْ. وَأَمَّا خَوْفُهُمْ فَلَا تَخَافُوهُ وَلَا تَضْطَرُّوهُ،

بل نفرح

رسالة بولس الرسول إلى أهل فيلبي 4: 4

إَفْرَحُوا فِي الرَّبِّ كُلَّ حِينٍ، وَأَقُولُ أَيْضًا: افْرَحُوا.

افرحوا لان عريسنا قد اقترب مجيؤه. وانتبهوا الشيطان يريد أن نفقد سلامنا ولا ننال أكاليل.

وأيضاً استعدوا فقد تسلموا وديعتكم في أي وقت فهناك 150 ألف شخص يموتوا في اليوم الواحد

انت لا تعرف متى ستكون منهم

المسيح اقترب فاصنعوا ثمار تليق بالتوبة واستعدوا لاستقبال العريس.

والمجد لله دائماً
