والعلامات حتى 20 يناير 2015

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقتررب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقتررب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشرب اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم يأتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا بعض الاحداث التي قال عنها الرب يسوع

مت 24: 14 ويكرز ببشارة الملكوت هذه في كل المسكونة شهادة لجميع الامم ثم يأتي المنتهى

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

المسيح لا يتنبأ ولا يتوقع بل يعرف

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَانْتَصِبُوا وَارْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ.»

SEATTLE —The giant black hole at the center of the Milky Way galaxy recently spit out the largest X-ray flare ever seen in that region, astronomers say.

The enormous eruption from the Milky Way's core was detected on Sept. 14, 2013, very close to the supermassive black hole known as Sagittarius A*. Pronounced "Sagittarius A star" and abbreviated as Sgr A*, the Milky Way's monster black hole has a mass that is about 4.5 million times that of the sun. Scientists unveiled the discovery of the record-breaking flare this month at the 225th meeting of the American Astronomical Society.

An Asteroid Will Be Making A Close Call Later This Month, And It Will Be Visible With Backyard Telescopes

OK, so asteroids are always heading this way. But this particular asteroid, lovingly named 2004 BL86 by people who get paid to come up with such names, is remarkable for two reasons. First, it's huge (as asteroids go); and second, it's coming rather close (again, as asteroids go).

According to IFLScience (NOTE: The name of the website actually contains a vulgarity that won't be printed in the Inquisitr), the asteroid in question is between 400-900 meters (1300-2900 feet) across. That's big; by comparison, the meteorite that exploded over Chelyabinsk, Russia, in 2013, damaging some 1,500 buildings and injuring some 500 people, is was estimated to be one-twentieth that size, according to Russia Today.

What should humanity do the next time a space rock threatens Earth? European officials recently spent two days figuring out possible ways to respond to such a scenario, with the aim of drawing up effective procedures before the danger actually materializes.

The first-of-its-kind simulation considered what to do if an asteroid similar to, or larger than, the one that exploded over Russia in February 2013 -- which was about 62 feet (19 meters) wide -- came close to Earth. Officials focused on

The sun is waking up: First notable flare of 2015 as dramatic 'mid-level' eruption takes place on the solar surface

- Nasa scientists in California detect sizeable flare on the sun
- The event occurred this morning at 4:24am GMT (11:24pm EST yesterday)
- This particular event was classified as an M5.6-class - a mid-level flare
- It is not thought to be any threat, but it is the first notable flare of 2015
- Solar flares occur when magnetic energy builds up and is released

The first notable solar flare of 2015 has been spotted on the sun, Nasa has said.

This particular flare is not thought to be any threat to Earth - but does that not stop the burst still looking mighty impressive.

SOLAR FLARE AND RADIO BLACKOUT (UPDATED): Sunspot AR2257 erupted on Jan. 13th, producing an M5-class solar flare at 04:24 UT. A pulse of extreme UV radiation from the flare ionized Earth's upper atmosphere over Australia and the Indian Ocean. Mariners and ham radio operators may have noticed a brief communications blackout at frequencies below about 10 MHz. This map from NOAA shows the affected region:

Incoming coronagraph data from the Solar and Heliospheric Observatory (SOHO) show no significant CME emerging from the blast site. This means there will be no Earth-CME collision, and no geomagnetic storms as a result of this event. The effects of the flare are therefore finished.

More flares could be in the offing. AR2257 has an unstable 'beta-gamma-delta' magnetic field that seems poised to explode again. NOAA forecasters estimate a 40% chance of M-class flares and a 10% chance of X-flares on Jan. 13th. Solar flare alerts: text, voice

Sea level rise quickens more than thought in threat to coasts

REUTERS

By Alister Doyle

By Alister Doyle

OSLO, Jan 14 (Reuters) - Sea level rise in the past two decades has accelerated faster than previously thought in a sign of climate change threatening coasts from Florida to Bangladesh, a study said on Wednesday.

The report, reassessing records from more than 600 tidal gauges, found that readings from 1901-90 had over-estimated the rise in sea levels. Based on revised figures for those years, the acceleration since then was greater than so far assumed.

A volcano in Russia's far-eastern Kamchatka region has begun spewing ash, posing a possible risk to air traffic in the area, a news report said Sunday.

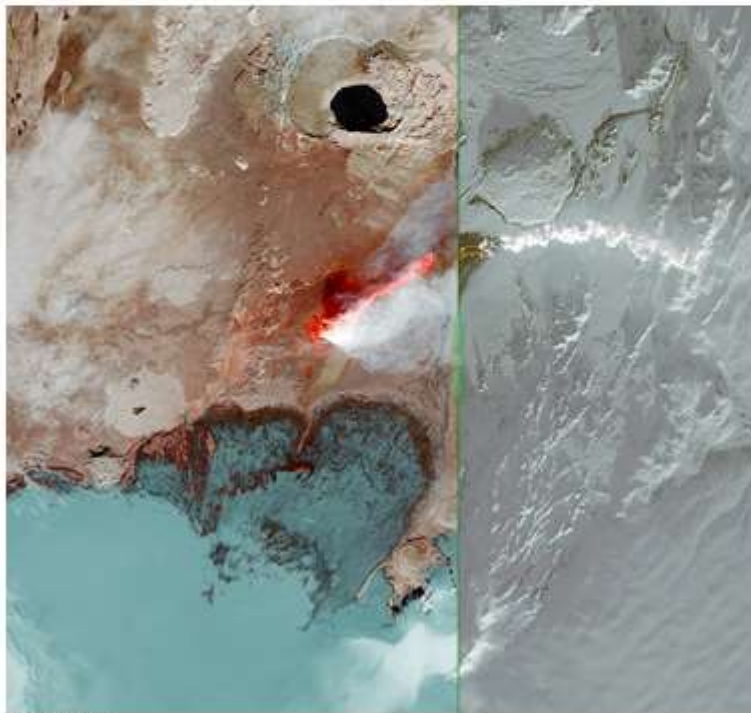

The Shiveluch Volcano has begun shooting ash some six kilometers into the air, prompting its threat level to be boosted to orange, meaning it could pose a threat to air traffic, Rossiiskaya Gazeta reported, citing the press service of the Emergency Situations Ministry.

Fire in the South Pacific: Hunga Ha'apai underwater volcano erupts to turn the sea blood red and the sky grey with ash

- Hunga Tonga-Hunga Ha'apai is 40 miles (65km) north of Tonga's capital
- Volcanic activity had been recorded for several weeks in the region
- Its ash has reached heights of more than 14,765ft (4,500 metres)
- The eruption has also disturbed algae in the region, causing a 'red tide'
- All international flights around the island have been cancelled
- But domestic flights were continuing as scheduled, according to Tonga Airports chief executive Viliami Ma'ake

An underwater volcano off the coast of Tonga is spewing ash high into the air - causing air travel chaos and turning the surrounding ocean the colour of blood.

Its ash plume has reached heights of more than 14,765ft (4,500 metres) and the eruption has disturbed algae in the region, causing what's known as a red tide.

A 15-foot sinkhole nearly swallows a SUV and the person inside it in Lafayette, Colorado. Matt Sampson has the details.

Stunning photos out of Colorado as a sinkhole opened up in a Boulder County neighborhood early Monday morning.

As reported in the Daily Camera, the sinkhole, measured at 15-feet-deep, opened around 5 a.m. and nearly devoured a white SUV in the process:

Large sinkhole appears on golf course

The sinkhole appeared following heavy rain

The 9ft (3m) deep, 22ft (7m) long hole was caused by heavy rain washing away a drain running under part of Traigh Golf Course, near Mallaig.

The club is now having to find money to help it pay the estimated £16,000 cost of the repairs needed.

The sinkhole has been fenced off and the nine-hole course remains open to members.

Mysterious Booms Rattle Homes, Scare Livestock in Oklahoma

NORMAN, Okla. — Jan 9, 2015, 4:13 PM ET

A spate of mysterious booms that has been shaking central Oklahoma returned for a second day Friday, again rattling houses and frightening livestock.

Oklahoma Geological Survey research seismologist Austin Holland said a series of booms, much like a sonic boom, rattled the Norman area starting at 11:19 a.m. Friday. Numerous others had been reported Thursday in the same area at about the same time.

Friday's booms weren't "quite as frequent" as Thursday's, Holland said. "It's quite interesting."

The windows of Anthony Young's home in the town that's the outskirts of Oklahoma City rattled. "We thought some nut was out here, you know, with explosives," Young told KOCO-TV. "It sounded like thunder, you could feel the ground shake, but it was nothing like an earthquake"

Both Holland and National Weather Service meteorologist Matthew Day didn't have an explanation for the booms.

No earthquakes have been recorded in the area, Holland said, noting that "we would have seen them on our seismic stations in the area." And it's unlikely that it's due to a drilling process known as fracking, he said, because the booms were heard and felt over a wide area including Norman, Edmond and Shawnee.

Holland's best guess: It must have been something just above the surface of the earth or in the atmosphere.

Day, who's based in Norman, said a phenomenon known as cryoseisms also isn't likely. Cryoseisms, or "frost quakes," occur when water quickly freezes in soil or rock, then expands and cracks.

"There are some stories going around that's what it was, but based on the research we've done here, it doesn't appear what people heard is related to the cryoseism phenomena," Day told The Norman Transcript. "There's not enough moisture, and the temperatures are not cold enough. That happens in areas where you have a lot of water flowing through a lot of rock," Day said.

'Exceptional Drought' conditions expand in California

Most of California will still be in drought in April even though conditions will probably improve across the southern part of the state, according to the latest forecast from the U.S. Climate Prediction Center. Seasonal rains and the potential for a weak El Nino forming in the equatorial Pacific have increased the chances for the drought to ease in southern California as it persists or gets worse in the central and northern areas, the center said in a three-month outlook, issued today. "But it must be emphasized that improvement is not elimination, and that most of the state will still be in drought to some degree by the end of April," David Miskus, a forecaster at the center in College Park, Maryland, said in an analysis accompanying the forecast. California has suffered three years of drought, and water in the nation's most productive agricultural region has been rationed. The state receives 75 percent of its rainfall from November to March and 50 percent from December to February, according to California's Water Resources Department. Early in the season, a series of storms brought rain across large parts of the state as well as some snow in the mountains, providing minor improvement there and elsewhere in the West, the center said. BIGGEST RESERVOIR FOR BRAZIL'S LARGEST CITY IS RUNNING DRY

BY STAN LEHMAN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAO PAULO (AP) -- Halfway through the rainy season, the key reservoir for the hemisphere's largest city holds just 6 percent of its capacity, and experts warned Friday that Sao Paulo authorities must take urgent steps to prevent the worst drought in more than 80 years from drying it out.

The system of reservoirs and rivers that provide water to millions in this city have received less rainfall than hoped during the first weeks of the wet season, raising fears they won't be replenished as hoped. Rainfall during the first two weeks of January totaled just 2.9 inches (7.1 centimeters), well below the historic average for the month of 10.7 inches (27.1 centimeters).

The biggest problem is in the Cantareira water system, which is the largest of six reservoirs that provide water to some 6 million of the 20 million people living in the metropolitan area of Sao Paulo city. Cantareira is now down to 6 percent of its capacity of 264 billion gallons (1 trillion liters), the water utility Sabesp said on its website.

Of the remaining five systems, Alto Tiete is at 11 percent of capacity, Rio Claro 25 percent, Alto Cotia 30 percent, Guarapiranga 40 percent and Rio Grande 70 percent.

Taiwanese authorities began culling around 120,000 chickens on Friday following the latest outbreak of a less virulent strain of bird flu, one of the island's biggest culls in recent years.

The move, to be completed on Saturday, came after some chickens at a farm in southern Pingtung county tested positive for the H5N2 strain of bird flu, according to the Bureau of Animal and Plant Health Inspection and Quarantine.

It said the affected farm will be thoroughly disinfected, while monitoring of other farms in the area will also be stepped up. Local media said the farm is one of the largest of its kind in Taiwan and produces around 100,000 eggs daily to supply nearly 100 schools in two southern cities and other establishments.

Thousands of fish killed by pollution in Leicestershire canal

CANAL AND RIVER TRUST

The Canal and River Trust said the fish killed by the pollution included pike, roach and perch

Attempts are being made to rescue thousands of fish from a Leicestershire canal after it became polluted.

Farm slurry was washed into the Grand Union Canal Leicester line last month, polluting a four mile stretch between Kilby and Foxton.

The Environment Agency said an estimated 2,000 fish had been killed and they were now working to contain the pollution and remove the dead fish.

"The sea gives and takes"

Storms have cost thousands of starfish in the range of Westerland life. From tighter spaces removed (such as mussel beds), the animals could have been washed up on a beach and have died there after a short time. The suspects Norbert Grimm of Sylt Office for the Environment, countryside and coastline.

The death of starfish in winter are not uncommon, according to experts. The number of carcasses, however, seems to be higher this winter than usual. "The sea gives and takes," says Grimm, stressing that the starfish population is in no way compromised. According to Christof Goetze of the Nature Conservation Society 'protection Wattenmeer' it could also be a disease. What do starfish sick, but you do not know. For the biologist, it is still unclear whether a connection with the outside St. Peter-Ording on the mainland, there is found dead starfish.

Cause of the starfish death remains a mystery

The spokesman for the National Park Service in the country for Coastal Defence, National Park and Conservation Schleswig-Holstein, Hendrik Brunnhorst suspects for the death of the starfish in consultation with experts to natural causes. "Nature is full of fluctuations". That "every few years in January or February" dead starfish are found, was normal. The exact amount of carcass you do not know, but it was probably a figure that was achieved 20 years ago, the last time - more than usual.

Since there have also been such deep water levels that starfish could dry up on mussel beds, the cause of the death of the animals remains unclear.

Gurgaon: As many as 45 birds have been found dead in the Sultanpur National Park, around 15 kms from the city, following which the sanctuary has been closed, a forest official said on Monday.

"The Sultanpur Sanctuary was closed on January 10 after the department found 45 birds dead. However, it is too early to comment whether the birds died due to avian influenza virus (H5N1)," District Forest Officer Kulwinder Singh said.

He, however, said no more dead birds have been found in the sanctuary or nearby areas in the last two days.

The carcasses of the birds have been sent to the National Institute of High Security Animal Diseases in Bhopal for avian flu tests, Singh said, adding that the report will come after 10 days.

He said the cause of death of the birds will be clear only after the report comes.

However, sources in the sanctuary claimed that the birds died as they had eaten pesticide-infested crops at a nearby field.

Of the 45 dead birds, 35 are Eurasian coots, eight are common moorhen, one spot-billed duck and one jungle babbler.

H5N1 Outbreak Hits Commercial Chicken Flock in Jiangxi

13 January 2015

CHINA - Highly pathogenic H5N1 avian flu has led to the death of more than 20,000 birds at a farm in the province in Jiangxi.

The veterinary authority has sent Follow Up Report no.1 dated 9 January to the World Organisation for Animal Health (OIE).

It outlines an outbreak of H5N1 highly pathogenic avian influenza at a farm at Jiangyi in the Gongqingcheng region of Jiangxi province in eastern China. Starting on 5 January, the virus killed 2,371 birds in the flock of 20,483; the rest have been destroyed.

The last report of H5N1 outbreaks from China was in October 2014, when there were 16 outbreaks.

A major outbreak of avian flu in Taiwan has spread to 19 more farms with a total of 160,000 birds slaughtered in the island's worst bout of the disease in a decade, authorities said Wednesday.

The number of poultry farms infected with the virus has almost doubled since Tuesday, jumping from 21 to 40. More than 10,000 geese have been killed since Tuesday afternoon.

"We have been adopting stringent measures so that we can limit the further spread of the outbreak as soon as possible," Chang Su-san, head of the Bureau of Animal and Plant Health Inspection and Quarantine, told reporters Wednesday.

The birds, called Cassin's auklets, are mostly gray in color and have blue feet. Media reports say they have been steadily washing ashore all along the Pacific Coast, from Northern California to the coast of the state of Washington, and that, naturally, is concerning wildlife and other experts because thus far they have yet to determine an exact cause for the massive deaths.

"To be this lengthy and geographically widespread, I think is kind of

Agency Brazil

Publication: 01/15/2015 21:42 Atualização:

Thousands of dead fish are taking the Long Island beaches, tourist town on the southern coast of São Paulo. The carnage occurring since last week, spans 18 kilometers of sand.

The city has collected eight tons of fish only on the beaches of the central region, as informed the press office. The stench bothers tourists seeking the quiet beaches.

The dead fish are examples of corvina, hake, swordfish and even shark pups. The presence of dogs and vultures attracted by the carnage bother residents.

Environmentalists relate the death of the fish to the heavy traffic of fishing boats near the coast. In trawling for catching shrimp, boats rule the fish of little commercial interest that are caught in the net.

Many specimens die and end up being taken to the beach by the tide. The Environmental Police said it would intensify fiscalização the fishing activity in the region.

ABSTRACT

The planetary boundaries framework defines a safe operating space for humanity based on the intrinsic biophysical processes that regulate the stability of the Earth System. Here, we revise and update the planetary boundaries framework, with a focus on the underpinning biophysical science, based on targeted input from expert research communities and on more general scientific advances over the past 5 years. Several of the boundaries now have a two-tier approach, reflecting the importance of cross-scale interactions and the regional-level heterogeneity of the processes that underpin the boundaries. Two core boundaries—climate change and biosphere integrity—have been identified, each of which has the potential on its own to drive the Earth System into a new state should they be substantially and persistently transgressed.

HPV vaccine controversy in Colombia continues

Monday, January 12, 2015 | 1 comments

Carmen de Bolívar, Colombia has become ground zero in the international debate over HPV vaccine safety, efficacy, and need. After the administration of the 2nd dose of Gardasil in local schools, beginning in March 2014, hundreds of young girls were admitted to the hospital with mysterious new medical conditions.

According to local sources, doctors who examined the girls and reported symptoms as possible adverse reactions to the HPV vaccine would often find manufacturer's representatives in their office the next day trying to convince them otherwise.

The National Ministry of Health (Minsalud) initially put forth several theories to explain the symptoms of over 700 girls including mass hysteria, illicit drug use, and even the excessive use of Ouija boards. They even went so far as to enlist the services of Nobel Prize nominee, Dr. Nubia Muñoz Calero, to help ease the tension. (read more here.) Her message was basically that it would be a mistake to halt the current school-based HPV vaccination programs in Colombia.

The measles outbreak centered in California is rapidly expanding, with officials now confirming 51 cases of the illness — nearly double the number reported Tuesday — and warning that more people will probably fall sick with the highly contagious virus.

Officials said there was now evidence that the measles outbreak had spread beyond people who visited Disneyland between Dec. 17 and 20 and begun infecting people in the broader community.

Children as young as nine suffered side-effects after being used as unwitting human guinea pigs for a new multi-billion pound anti-cervical cancer drug, it has been claimed.

The new anti-cancer drug has just been approved for use in the United States and is due to be released in Britain this year.

But MailOnline has learned that several of the children used as 'guinea pigs' for the drug trial in India reported suffering problems including weight loss, fatigue, dizziness and menstrual problems.

TACOMA, WA — A state bureaucracy is threatening a mother with removal of an infant unless her entire family subjects themselves to flu shots.

This is the dilemma that foster parent Jamie Smith is currently facing. The Washington Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS) is giving the Tacoma family until February to comply with the mandated regimen of influenza vaccines — imposed on every member of the family — or else they will lose their youngest child, a 2-week-old foster infant that was born on Christmas.

Mrs. Smith is a dedicated foster mom, and has fostered seven babies. She currently raises five children, including an adopted 4-year-old daughter. Her objection to vaccines is based on safety concerns for her family, she revealed in an interview with KOMO News:

The United States is sending about 600 soldiers to Poland and the three Baltic states for infantry exercises, the Pentagon said, one of its highest-profile steps yet to reassure NATO allies after Russia's seizure of Crimea.

NATO's top military commander, General Philip Breedlove, said on Tuesday the defense alliance is looking at beefing up its exercises in the Baltic Sea region in response to a surge last month in Russian military maneuvers there.

"There will be several adaptations of our exercise program. The first series of changes will not be an increase in number but they will be to group

Throughout the Russia-Ukraine conflict, I've referred to the "Georgia precedent": the idea that Russia's invasion of Georgia in 2008 showed Vladimir Putin how much he could get away with in terms of violating the sovereignty of neighboring countries.

In truth, the Georgia precedent is about more than the invasion, which was, in Georgia's case, the culmination of about a decade of Russia's asymmetrical warfare and boosting separatist forces in South Ossetia and Abkhazia. Russia essentially followed the same playbook in Ukraine but took it one step further and actually annexed territory. Now Putin may be about to do the same in Georgia.

The arrival of Chinese pilots at a Russian Air Force training center to train to fly the Su-35 fighter indicates that Russia and China have reached a consensus about when the aircraft will be turned over to the PLA Air Force, reports the state-run Global Times.

Beijing and Moscow are likely to sign the final agreement regarding the sale of 24 Su-35 fighters to China on May. 19, according to a report from Zvezda, a television network run by the Russian military. Turning over possession of the Su-35 fighters will begin in 2016. In addition to the aircraft, the engines and missiles designed for the fighter will be provided to China under another deal. China requested Russia to begin the shipment of the engines and missiles ahead of the aircraft.

Smarting at criticism from some quarters that their security services dropped the ball over the Charlie Hebdo attacks, and failed to prevent them despite knowing about the authors beforehand, the French are stepping up security.

Some 10,000 troops are being deployed to train stations, shopping centres, and areas of high pedestrian density.

"The President of the Republic has asked the Army to participate in the security at the high-risk places around the country because of the magnitude of the threats that our country faces. This is a real interior operation. There are exterior operations that are ongoing but this one is an interior one that is going to mobilize 10,000 men, which means almost as many as are right now participating in operations abroad," said Defence Minister Jean-Yves le Drian.

"There are 1,400 individuals who are involved in the departures for jihad, for terrorism, in Syria and in Iraq," Valls told BFMTV.

"There are close to 70 French citizens or residents in France who have died in Syria and Iraq in the ranks of the terrorists," he added.

In December, French Interior Minister Bernard Cazeneuve told the nation's parliament that around 1,200 French citizens had left to fight alongside Islamists, and 390 were members of radical groups in the region.

"It is a massive jump in very little time; there were just about 30 cases when I became interior minister [in mid-2012], and 1,400 today," said Valls.

North Korea To Buy Russia's Su-35 To Invade South In A Lightning Assault?

Russian president Vladimir Putin has been laying the groundwork for World War 3. But there is another country secretly planning to invade its neighbor, and it has sought to purchase a fleet of the most advanced Russian fighter jets. North Korean leader Kim Jong-un has secretly requested Vladimir Putin to supply the highly-advanced Sukhoi Su-35 jets to North Korea. A senior South Korean military official told JoongAng Ilbo that Pyongyang had sent Choe Ryong-hae for a secret meeting with Putin to buy an unknown number of Su-35 jets. Choe Ryong-hae is the right-hand man to Kim Jong-un. Officials said that the advanced jets will allow North Korea to act on its plan to "invade South Korea in a lightning assault," reports The Inquisitr. Kim's plan to conquer South Korea was recently revealed by a top North Korea defector. Sukhoi Su-35 is known to NATO as the "Super Flanker." It has undergone multiple upgrades since the 1980s, and is considered one of the most powerful fighter jets in the world. If Kim Jong-un attacks South Korea, it could trigger World War 3. The United States will have to jump in to defend the South because it has a security pact with Seoul. Kim Jong-un's father and former North Korean ruler Kim Jong-il had attempted to acquire the Russian jets in 2011. More

US vows to cut NK off from int'l financial system

Listen

The United States will identify and impose sanctions on financial institutions doing business with North Korea so as to cut the communist nation off from the international financial system, a senior U.S. sanctions official said Tuesday.

Assistant Treasury Secretary for Terrorist Financing Daniel Glaser made the remark during a House committee briefing, saying the 2005 sanctions on the Banco Delta Asia (BDA), a bank in Macau, were so successful because it "created a chilling effect" throughout the international financial system.

"You said the goal is identify financial institutions outside of North Korea that provide these points of access (to the international financial system). That's exactly what we're trying to do," Glaser said in response to a question from Rep. Ed Royce (R-CA), chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Under the so-called "BDA sanctions" in 2005, the U.S. blacklisted the Macau bank, which not only froze North Korean money held in Banco Delta Asia (BDA) but also scared away other financial institutions from dealing with Pyongyang for fear they would also be blacklisted.

Iranian military leaders admitted this week to building and operating missile-manufacturing plants in Syria, where it was also revealed that Tehran is helping to build a secret nuclear facility.

An Iranian Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC) commander stated in a recent interview that the country's Supreme Leader ordered forces to build and operate missile plants in Syria, where Iran continues to fight on behalf of embattled leader Bashar al-Assad, according to regional media reports.

IRGC Aerospace Commander Haji Zadeh touted Iran's capabilities and bragged that Iran has gone from importing most of its military hardware to producing it domestically, as well as for regional partners such as Assad.

"A country such as Syria which used to sell us arms, was later on to buy our missiles," Zadeh was quoted as saying earlier this week by the Young Journalists Club. "Right now the missile manufacturing firms in Syria are built by Iran."

It has long been suspected that Iranian forces operating in Syria are providing weaponry to Assad's forces. Zadeh's remarks confirm that Tehran is committed to a long fight in Syria and hopes to turn the country into an Iranian proxy state.

Iran's military actions in Syria could constitute a gross violation of sanctions on the regime enacted by the United Nations and Western powers.

Zadeh also bragged about Tehran's ability to build missiles capable of travelling at least 2,000 kilometers, far enough to reach into Israel and other Middle Eastern countries, according to the report.

Iranian Supreme Leader Ayatollah Khamenei has made it a priority for Tehran to produce advanced missiles, Zadeh said.

"The Supreme Leader wanted us to make the missiles prices, something which he had noted earlier than that," he was quoted as saying.

Meanwhile, Germany's Der Spiegel reported over the weekend, based on leaked intelligence and other sources, that Iran has been helping to build a secret nuclear facility in Syria.

Western sources fear that Tehran is attempting to continue its controversial and clandestine nuclear work in Syria, where it does not have to battle against international nuclear inspectors and Western powers seeking to curb Iran's nuclear ambitions.

Obama administration officials have sought to downplay the developments and said that they will not raise the issue with Iran during an upcoming round of talks over its program.

"Will you discuss this issue with the Iranians in the upcoming talks?" a reporter asked State Department spokeswoman Marie Harf on Monday.

"No," Harf replied. "The upcoming talks are about the Iranian nuclear program."

(FREE BEACON) Iran is permitted to build new nuclear reactors under the existing conditions of an interim deal with the United States meant to curb Tehran's nuclear ambitions, a State Department official told the Washington Free Beacon less than a day after Iran announced the construction of two new nuclear plants.

The construction of these new nuclear plants is not prohibited under existing United Nations restrictions or under the terms of the current interim nuclear agreement inked in 2013 with the United States, according to the State Department official.

Iranian President Hassan Rouhani announced on Wednesday that Iran has begun construction on two new light water reactor nuclear plants in the southern Bushehr region. The announcement came as senior U.S. officials meet with their Iranian counterparts in Geneva for another round of talks.

About 3,000 people have been linked to Islamic State militants in Turkey, says a police report. The data has prompted a red alert over possible attacks, including in NATO and the West, by the so-called "sleeper cells" of the jihadist group.

A Turkish police intelligence report has urged surveillance of about 3,000 people to observe their connections with the jihadists, sources told the Turkish Hurriyet Daily News.

"There are around 500-700 Turkish citizens who have joined the ranks of [Islamic State]," Turkish Foreign Minister Mevlut Cavusoglu said earlier this week.

Those 3,000 "possible links" to jihadists are additional to the group of about 700 Turkish fighters who are already fighting alongside Islamic State.

The criminal records of foreign fighters who joined the IS militants via Turkey were absent, said the report, adding that it had created problems with security sources.

"A common concern about the foreign fighters is: What will happen when they return to their homeland? We have this concern too."

A major Islamist terror attack in France was only a matter of time. For several decades, the country has invited immigrants from the Middle East and North Africa en masse – first to bolster the labor force in the rebuilding years that followed World War II, then out of multicultural impulses that prevailed over prudential considerations. That radical Islam was transplanted to France, grew in strength and extent, and bore this week's hideous fruit was not difficult to predict. The same is not unlikely in Sweden, Belgium, Germany, and elsewhere.

Earlier on, dozens of Pakistani lawmakers marched near the country's parliament in Islamabad, calling for "death to blasphemers."

"All political parties are with us... All Muslim countries should condemn these blasphemous cartoons," Pakistani Religious Affairs Minister Sardar Yousaf said, NBC reported.

Retailers use new tech to track you in stores -- and in dressing rooms

Smart shelves know what products you touch, shopping carts come loaded with tablets, and dressing room mirrors track what you try on and ask for your phone number. The National Retail Federation's annual trade show reveals how tech changes the way we shop.

Why does a dressing room want your digits?

Retailers are incorporating new sensors and screens into stores to better track customers. Sometimes, that means having a smart fitting-room mirror use RFID to know which outfits you tried on and save it to your profile with a phone number.

It's not just the dressing room that's getting a high-tech makeover. Shopping carts come with tablets to keep track of your spending and show ads for products in your aisle. And shelves are watching which products you pick up.

At the National Retail Federation's annual trade show in New York, we get a taste of new tech coming to a store near you:

Apple is considering storing customers' biometric data in the cloud to enable next-generation payment methods, according to new patent application found by Apple Insider.

The application relates to "finger biometric sensor data synchronisation via a cloud computing device and related methods," with one potential implementation being to authorise a "financial transaction."

COLUMBIA, Mo. (CBS St. Louis) — A new study finds that people separated from their iPhones could suffer serious psychological and physiological effects.

A study done by researchers from the University of Missouri found that users who were unable to answer their ringing iPhones while solving simple word search puzzles saw increases in their heart rates and blood pressure, while dealing with anxiety and unpleasantness. Researchers also found that the subjects' performance decreased compared to those who had their iPhones in possession with them while completing similar word search puzzles.

China to force social media users to declare their real names

Mainland regulators say people will be able to have nicknames - they will just have to register them with website administrators first

UPDATED : Wednesday, 14 January, 2015, 9:13am

Mainland internet regulators have warned that they will punish anybody who violates the real-name registration system for online activities. The system will be expanded this year. Photo: Reuters

Online real-name registration will be ramped up on the mainland this year to cover instant messaging services, Twitter-like microblogs, online forums and other websites as the Communist Party continues to tighten its grip on cyberspace.

The Cyberspace Administration did not give details on how the plan would be carried out, but administration official Xu Feng said yesterday the agency would "comprehensively" implement the rule and "beef up" oversight to punish violators.

Schoolbook authors have been told not to write about sausages or pigs for fear of causing offence. Guidance from leading educational publisher the Oxford University Press prohibits authors from including anything that could be perceived as pork-related in their books.

The bizarre clampdown, apparently aimed at avoiding offence among Jews and Muslims, emerged yesterday during a discussion about free speech on Radio 4's Today programme.

It was immediately branded 'nonsensical political correctness'.

It is a new week, and crude oil is making new lows.

Near 2:45 pm ET on Monday, West Texas Intermediate crude prices were moving back towards their lows hit earlier this morning.

On Monday afternoon, WTI prices were down almost 5% on Monday to as low as $45.96 a barrel. Earlier on Monday, WTI broke $47 and was making new lows before busting through another milestone price.

Brent crude prices, the international benchmark, were taking an even bigger hit on a percentage basis on Monday, falling more than 5% to as low as $48.51 a barrel.

MOSCOW, Jan. 12 (UPI) – Russian Prime Minister Dmitry Medvedev said Monday all government hands were called upon to help an economy damaged by low oil prices and sanctions.

The Russian currency, the ruble, was trading near historic lows Monday at 61 per U.S. dollar. Dual strains from Western sanctions imposed in response to the Kremlin's policies in Ukraine and the low price of oil is pushing the Russian economy toward recession.

Back in November, before most grasped just how serious the collapse in crude was (and would become, as well as its massive implications), we wrote "How The Petrodollar Quietly Died, And Nobody Noticed", because for the first time in almost two decades, energy-exporting countries would pull their "petrodollars" out of world markets in 2015.

This empirical death of Petrodollar followed years of windfalls for oil exporters such as Russia, Angola, Saudi Arabia and Nigeria. Much of that money found its way into financial markets, helping to boost asset prices and keep the cost of borrowing down, through so-called petrodollar recycling.

We added that in 2014 "the oil producers will effectively import capital amounting to $7.6 billion. By comparison, they exported $60 billion in 2013 and $248 billion in 2012, according to the following graphic based on BNP Paribas calculations."

Europe plunged into energy crisis as Russia cuts off gas supply via Ukraine

By ROBERT LEA

View comments

- Gas prices rise in London
- Bulgaria reaches 'crisis' point

Russia cut gas exports to Europe by 80 per cent today, plunging the continent into an energy crisis 'within hours' as a dispute with Ukraine escalated.

This morning, gas companies in Ukraine said that Russia had completely cut off their supply.

Six countries reported a complete shut-off of Russian gas shipped via Ukraine today, in a sharp escalation of a struggle over energy that threatens Europe as winter sets in.

Bulgaria, Greece, Macedonia, Romania, Croatia and Turkey all reported a halt in gas shipments from Russia through Ukraine.

Croatia said it was temporarily reducing supplies to industrial customers while Bulgaria said it had enough gas for only 'for a few days' and was in a 'crisis situation'.

The Islamic kingdom is now going after Russia, a main backer of the kingdom's sectarian opponent, Shiite Iran, by targeting its oil production clout to adversely impact the Russian economy.

Sources say the United States might even be colluding with Saudi Arabia to cause a dramatic drop in the international oil price in an effort to punish Russia not only for its support of rebels in Ukraine but for its backing of embattled Syrian President Bashar al-Assad as well as Iran.

The Saudi strategy is to flood the international market to harm the economies of Russia and Iran, both of which need the international price to be above $100 a barrel to break even. The price of oil today is less than $50 a barrel.

The new Universal Credit Rating Group (UCRG) is being set up to rival the existing agencies Moody's, S&P and Fitch, and its first rating will be issued this year.

TagsEconomy, Investment, Russia

The setting up of UCRG is in its final stages, ready to challenge the 'Big Three' that currently dominate the industry, the Managing Director of RusRating Aleksandr Ovchinnikov told Sputnik News Agency on Tuesday.

"In our opinion, the first ratings [will] appear ... during the current year," Ovchinnikov said, adding that accreditation with the local regulator is already underway.

The news comes on the heels of Fitch's decision to follow S&P in downgrading Russia's sovereign credit rating to BBB-, a step above junk level and on par with India and Turkey.

World Bank calls for quantitative easing to stop eurozone stagnation

Bank suggests structural defects could be behind lasting failure to recover to pre-recession growth as US and UK pull away

The World Bank has warned of the risk of the eurozone sliding into permanent stagnation and urged the European Central Bank to embark on a money-creation programme to boost growth.

In its half-yearly health check on the global economy, the bank said there was a growing gulf in the west between the strong growth posted by the US and the UK and the weakness of the eurozone and Japan.

The bank said the problems of the eurozone and Japan had forced it to revise down its global growth forecasts for 2014 and 2015. It stressed that ingrained structural defects could be the reason for the continued failure to recover to pre-recession growth rates.

Canadian banks are stress-testing their energy loan portfolios to see how they would weather the price of oil falling as low as US$35 per barrel.

At a conference in Toronto on Wednesday, the chief executives of Canada's largest banks said they don't expect to sustain large losses from clients in the sector, even if there is a sustained downturn extending over the next couple of years. But the fallout could reach beyond the oil

TARGET to shut 133 Canada stores to stem massive losses.

Target is giving up on its money-losing foray into Canada after just two years, closing 133 stores and cutting loose more than 17,000 employees. Target said it didn't see how it could stop losing money before at least 2021 on its first international expansion. The closing links Target with a series of other retailers who have learned the hard way that the northern border is tough to cross. During a call with investors Thursday, CEO Brian Cornell described the decision as "very tough." What went wrong? Cracking the Canadian retail market, about one-tenth the size of the U.S. and right next door, looks simple. Target's difficulties show it's not. There are costly regulations. In addition, most Canadians live near the U.S. border, compare prices religiously and are willing to shop in the U.S. to save money. More

RadioShack may file for bankruptcy next month

Struggling electronics retailer RadioShack may file for bankruptcy as early as next month, according to The Wall Street Journal. RadioShack had warned in November that it may need to file for Chapter 11 as it is strapped for cash. Citing people familiar with the matter, the Journal reports RadioShack is discussing a deal with a private-equity firm to "buy its assets out of bankruptcy." If that doesn't work, the company could go to bankruptcy court, instead. Potential lenders who could fund operations during the bankruptcy proceedings are also in the mix, the Journal states, adding that much is in flux.

Following disappointing results from JPM and Wells Fargo yesterday, it was Bank of America's turn to "surprise" investors with its disclosure just how bad its quarter was. And with the bank reporting a 50% collapse in its sales and trading from Q3, down $600 million from a year ago to just $1.7 billion in Q4, it should come as no surprise that the bank just reported Net Income, before the usual spate of amusing addbacks, of $0.25 well below the $0.31 expected. And while one may argue whether or not BofA's EPS deserve non-GAAP addbacks, it was the Revenue of $18.96 billion, which missed expectations of $21.03 billion by over $2 billion (!) and down $2.7 billion from a year ago, that was truly a showstopper and shows that without the Fed's visible hand manipulating markets every day, banks are a ticking time bomb just waiting to blow.

Venezuela supermarket lines swell as shoppers scramble to buy basics

National Guards control access as people line up outside a state-run Bicentenario supermarket in Caracas. Business leaders have assured Venezuelans the situation will improve in the coming days as distributors return from the often extended Christmas holidays, though many consumers blamed the socialist economic policies of President Nicolas Maduro.

Lines are swelling at Venezuelan supermarkets, with some shoppers showing up before dawn in search of products ranging from chicken to laundry detergent, as a holiday slowdown in deliveries sharpened the nation's nagging product shortages.

Queues snaked around the block at grocery stores and pharmacies around the country on Friday, with consumers in some cases gathering before dawn under the gaze of National Guard troops posted to maintain order.

Masked youths are once again blocking streets and burning tires in the Venezuelan city of San Cristobal, the epicenter of last year's massive anti-government protests. The groups are small and the unrest contained, but dissent is rising in this volatile Andean city, a barometer of frustration with nationwide shortages that are putting pressure on the socialist government of Nicolas Maduro. Students, who also accuse the government of corruption and repression but whom Maduro labels "coupsters," are threatening to unleash larger demonstrations again. More

As the world's number one energy consumer China is enjoying the low prices while they last. Never one to settle however, China is finding still more ways to take advantage of the dire straits gripping several oil producers.

China's slowdown is real – preliminary data suggests 2014 will mark the weakest GDP growth in 24 years – but the country still has plenty of money to play with that is taking it places the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund (IMF) wouldn't dare. Their reward? More oil of course. With tough conditions and greater access to raw commodities, China looks to turn the high risk into equal or greater returns.

In Russia, much has been made of the deepening energy ties with its neighbor to the south. With western financing no closer to a return and a hesitancy to dig deeper into its foreign exchange reserves, Russia turned to China for a bailout. China has obliged, agreeing to finance state-owned Rosneft's debt in addition to opening a $24 billion currency swap program, which could expand further. For its part, China gains access to Russia's tightly held upstream sector – in the form of the giant Vankor field – and fulfills its needs downstream with favorable long-term oil and gas deals. Further loans and infrastructure investments are likely moving forward – one of China's biggest debt-rating agencies Dagong believes Russian debt is a safer investment than US government debt.

(Reuters) - The Swiss franc shock reverberated through currency trading firms around the world on Friday, wiping out many small-scale investors and the brokerages that cater to them and forcing regulators to take a closer look at the sector.

Some major banks also lost out when the Swiss National Bank scrapped its three-year-old cap on the franc against the euro EURCHF=EBS without warning on Thursday, including Britain's

Atheists from 'Better News Club' Launch Program to Counter Christian 'Good News Club'

January 12, 2015 | Filed under: Education, Life & Society, Top Stories | By: Heather Clark

CHURCHVILLE, N.Y. – In response to a Christian Good News Club held after school at an elementary school in New York, professing atheists from the “Better News Club” have launched a similar program to counter the gospel offering.

The Good News Club, affiliated with Child Evangelism Fellowship (CEF), is offered as an after school program at Fairbanks Elementary School in Churchville. Parents grant permission for their children to attend the club, which teaches lessons from the Bible using music, games and other activities.

“Our ministry is dedicated to helping children in 150 countries around the world to know God and learn from the Bible,” a permission slip from the organization reads.

However, when local atheists found out about the program, they decided to launch an after school group of their own for children. The Better News Club is now offering the program Young Skeptics to elementary school students, likewise with the permission of parents.

“The organization was created first as an alternative to the Good News Club, a Christian evangelical group who enters public schools to proselytize to children and, according to their own materials, declares them all sinners in need of salvation,” the website for the group outlines.

The Better News Club states that they see the Good News Club as “a form of psychological abuse, akin to telling small children they’re flawed or evil, and must subscribe to a dogma in order to avoid eternal punishment.”

“We felt it was harmful to children and we wanted to do something about it,” Kevin Davis of the Atheist Community of Rochester told the Democrat and Chronicle.

Less than half of U.S. children under the age of 18 live at home with two married, heterosexual parents in their first marriage, new research has revealed.

The figures reveal the ever-changing make-up of the family structure. In the 1960's, 73 per cent of children had what is considered a traditional family structure but by 1980 that figure had dropped to 61 per cent.

The figures were compiled by the Pew Research Center who analysed recently-released American Community Survey and Decennial Census data.

Nation of Islam minister selected to serve on Syracuse school board

A minister with the Nation of Islam — the radical group headed by Louis Farrakhan — was chosen by Syracuse Mayor Stephanie Miner to serve on the city's school board. Mark Muhammad, 54, will serve until the end of member Bill Bullen's term in November, the Post-Standard reported. Mr. Bullen announced Jan. 5 he was resigning and moving to Boston. "Mark is a positive influence on our community and has been for many years," the Democratic mayor said, the Post-Standard reported. "I am confident he will go on to do good work for the children and families of the school district." Mr. Muhammad also serves as a adjunct professor at Syracuse University and as an assistant communications professor at Onondaga Community College in Syracuse. More

For Bill O'Reilly's screen adaptation of Killing Jesus, a man who was raised as a Muslim takes the lead role.

Haaz Sleiman is cast as Christ in the National Geographic adaptation, set to premiere later this year.

For both the book and the film, "you get a much deeper perspective about Jesus," Sleiman says. "And you relate to Him at a level you've never been able to relate to him before—a human level."

DUKE UNIVERSITY STARTS FORCED AMPLIFIED BROADCASTS OF THE MUSLIM CALL TO PRAYER FROM BELL TOWER

NTER News Desk | January 14, 2015 | 125 Comments

A WEEKLY CALL TO PRAYER FOR MUSLIMS WILL BE HEARD AT DUKE UNIVERSITY STARTING FRIDAY, SCHOOL OFFICIALS SAID

"The sweetest sound I know is the Muslim call to prayer" - Barack Obama

The Islamization of America continues, as it has since Obama was elected in 2008, at a frightening pace. Public amplified broadcasts of the Muslim call to prayer exists in Muslim majority countries, and is a symbol that they have taken that nation over. If I had a child attending Duke University they would pulled out so fast it would make your head spin.

Islam is not compatible with any free society, it is an religious ideology of forced, violent submission. Every nation where it is dominant is in chaos. Islam is against all American values and ideals, and has no place in a free society.

The azan is the Devil's call to prayer, don't answer it.

DURHAM, N.C. — Members of the Duke Muslim Students Association will chant the call, known as adhan or azan, from the Duke Chapel bell tower each Friday at 1 p.m. The call to prayer will last about three minutes and be "moderately amplified," officials said in a statement Tuesday.

ORANGE COUNTY, Fla. — In about a week, students in Orange County high schools could have been picking up Bibles or pamphlets about atheism on nationally recognized Religious Freedom Day, but it's all on hold for now because of concerns fueled by a coloring book from the Satanic Temple.

"It seems like the momentum right now is to a policy that would exclude all religious materials, which is unnecessary," said attorney Roger Gannam.

Gannam is one of the attorneys representing the Christian group that left Bibles in schools the last few years.

Former Atlanta Fire Chief Kelvin Cochran (Facebook)

Apparently, The New York Times is in favor of faith in the public square—if the purpose is to mock it. Editors at the Times poured gasoline on the fire of Atlanta's latest controversy with an editorial that should shock even their most liberal readers. Just when you thought the media couldn't sink any lower, the Times takes on the same First Amendment that gives it the freedom to print these vicious attacks on Christians.

In a stunning column on Jan. 13, the newspaper argues that men and women of faith have no place in public management of any kind. The piece, which shows a remarkable disinterest in the facts, claims that Atlanta Fire Chief Kelvin Cochran didn't have permission to publish his book on biblical morality. Not only did Cochran have permission from the city's ethics office to publish his book, but he only distributed it in his personal capacity at church—where a handful of his coworkers attend.

But the shoddy journalism didn't end there. Editors insisted that Cochran's book was full of "virulent anti-gay views"—when in fact, the 162 page book only mentioned homosexuality twice. And both times, the conversation merely echoed the Bible's teachings on the subject. For that—privately espousing a faith

Eric Stonestreet and Jesse Tyler Ferguson in "Modern Family" (YouTube)

Recently my long time friend, Lee Grady, highlighted in print the deaths of notable Christians. Ann B. Davis, beloved actress, was one of them.

Yet at the same time in a publication on newsstands is the headline that she was really a lesbian!

I don't believe it.

In theaters across America right now is a movie called "Foxcatcher" dealing with the true story of multimillionaire John DuPont's killing of Olympic wrestler Dave Schultz.

The movie also implies a homosexual relationship between John and Dave's brother Mark. The latter categorically denies any such involvement.

NFL castaway, Michael Sam, who unashamedly kissed his "lover" on national TV, was interviewed recently by Oprah Winfrey and celebrated the fact that many NFL players call him and admit they're gay but just haven't come out yet.

New law requires gender-neutral single-stall bathrooms in California city

Businesses in West Hollywood have 60 days to comply with a new law requiring all single-stall restrooms to be gender-neutral and not restrict usage to a single sex.

The Los Angeles Times reported Wednesday that the law takes effect on Thursday with the aim of accommodating transgender and gender non-conforming people.

"I hope we can encourage other cities to adopt this," Abbe Land, a councilwoman who initiated the law, reportedly said at a meeting last month. "It's really so easy when you think about it, and I'm glad that we're one of the cities that is moving forward on that."

The Los Angeles suburb, which has a sizable gay and transgender population, passed the ordinance in June. It doesn't apply to multiple-stall restrooms.

"Gender-specific restrooms can be unwelcoming and potentially unsafe for many people whose gender identity falls outside of traditional gender norms," said a city statement released this week.

The city said the law also will prove beneficial to "people with disabilities or with personal attendants, people with children of a different gender, and to the many people who have waited in line for a gender-specific restroom" when stalls for the opposite sex are empty.

A similar law was passed in 2006 in Washington, D.C. Philadelphia passed a measure in 2013 that requires new or renovated city-owned buildings to include gender-neutral bathrooms.

The Colorado Civil Rights Commission's order to a baker to use his artistry to celebrate homosexual unions in violation of his Christian beliefs is under challenge, in part, because a commissioner likened Christians to slavers and Nazis.

"The commission's impartiality is in serious question," said a brief filed by a legal team with the Alliance Defending Freedom on behalf of Jack Phillips of Masterpiece Cakeshop.

Phillips appealed the commission's decision to uphold an administrative law judge's ruling against him. He was ordered to retrain himself and his staff to comply with the wishes of same-sex duos and report on his progress to the state.

"In its public deliberations, its members virtually ignored Phillips's constitution defenses. And at a later hearing on Phillips's motion to stay its order, one committee member candidly explained why," the brief explains.

Woman plans to marry her father after two years of dating

A teenager has revealed in an interview that she plans to marry her father and have children after dating for two years.

The unnamed 18-year-old revealed in an interview with New York Magazine her romantic relationship of almost two years with her biological father after being estranged from him for 12 years.

In the interview, the girl also said the two also plan on having children.

The teenager said her father reached out to her on Facebook when she was in high school and soon after, she went to stay with him for a week.

After the week together, the 18-year-old said they had sex and then started dating.

"Everyone on my mom's side of the family sees us as father and daughter," she told the magazine. "Those who know that he's my dad, and that we are engaged, include my father's parents (they can see we are happy together and they can't wait for us to have babies — they treat us just like any other couple), the woman we live with, and my best friend."

After the wedding, the woman says they plan to move to New Jersey where adult incest is legal.
