والعلامات حتى 3 فبراير 2015

اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأيضاً أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن أيضاً علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. ونذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء

المسيح بل أيضاً قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر

هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان

عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيقه اقتربت

جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقه لان وقتها تجميع زيت

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشتر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم ياتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا بعض الاحداث التي قال عنها الرب يسوع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب انظروا لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

مت 24: 7 لأنه تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة وتكون مجاعات واوبئة وزلازل في اماكن

مت 24: 8 ولكن هذه كلها مبتدأ الازعاج

مت 24: 9 حينئذ يسلمونكم الى ضيق ويقتلونكم وتكونون مبغضين من جميع الامم لأجل اسمي

مت 24: 10 وحينئذ يعثر كثيرون ويسلمون بعضهم بعضا ويبغضون بعضهم بعضا

مت 24: 11 ويقوم انبياء كذبة كثيرون ويضلون كثيرين

مت 24: 12 ولكثرة الاثم تبرد محبة الكثيرين

مت 24: 13 ولكن الذي يصبر الى المنتهى فهذا يخلص

مت 24: 14 ويكرز ببشارة الملكوت هذه في كل المسكونة شهادة لجميع الامم ثم ياتي المنتهى

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

السماء

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

المسيح لا يتنبأ ولا يتوقع بل يعرف

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَانَ تُؤْمِنُونَ.

وايضا لنتنبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَانْتَصِبُوا وَارْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ.»

NEW YORK - Cities big and small along the Philadelphia-to-Boston corridor of more than 35 million people began shutting down and bundling up Tuesday against a powerful and potentially historic storm that could unload 1 to 3 feet of snow.

Officials urged residents to stay safe and prepare early as the region's transportation systems prepared to grind to a halt. Numerous utility companies warned that power could get knocked out to thousands due to high winds and

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For the first time in recorded weather history, San Francisco received no measurable rain in January.

The city's streets stayed dry, and the month ended on Saturday with sunshine and the temperature hitting 70 degrees.

The rest of the Bay Area was also dry. Meteorology consultant Jan Null tells the San Francisco Chronicle (<http://bit.ly/1yqjBbf>) that other cities, including San Jose, saw at most two one-hundredths of an inch of rain.

Mexico's Volcano of Fire erupts again

Dramatic video caught on webcam showed eruptions with clouds of smoke rising above the crater of the Volcan del Fuego (Volcano of Fire), set between the states of Colima and Jalisco.

Three separate bursts were seen on Wednesday (January 21), Sunday (January 25) with a nocturnal one yesterday. Webcams de Mexico.com captured the dramatic images.

The 9,939-feet above sea-level (3,025-meters) Volcan del Fuego, one of Mexico's most active, has frequent moderate explosions.

Activity at the volcano was also reported in January.

ويوم الجمعة منطقتة تضرب بزلزال 5.7 مما يزيد من قوة انفجاره

A magnitude 5.7 earthquake struck off the North Coast on Wednesday, according to the U.S. Geological Survey.

The quake was reported at 1:08 p.m. and was centered 25 miles southwest of Ferndale, off the coast of Humboldt County.

People reported feeling the shaker as far north as the Oregon border and as far east as Chico, but officials from the Humboldt County Sheriff's Office said that they had yet to receive any reports of damage or injuries.

No tsunami warning was issued, but officials warned that the likelihood of a magnitude 5 or greater aftershock in the next seven days was roughly 40 percent.

In March of 2014, a magnitude-6.9 earthquake struck about 40 miles off the coast of Eureka. That quake knocked some books off of shelves, but no major damage was reported.

Eruption & seismic crisis at Bárðarbunga volcano, Iceland news & updates

Eruption decreases
Update Wed 28 Jan 17:52
The visible intensity of the eruption continues to decrease gradually. The Icelandic Met office conducted air-borne measurements of the lava field last week, showing that it has significantly thickened (rather than expanded laterally) during the past weeks, and is now estimated to cover approx. 1.4 cubic kilometers of lava. Effusion rates, although decreasing, are still close to an impressive 100 m³ per second.

Several hundred pounds of dead fish found in Clery in Saint-Loup-de-Gonnois in the canton Courtenay.

Two months before the opening of the fishery and while many flocks of sheep and cattle graze on the banks of the river, the case could grow if the causes of pollution are not quickly clarified.

"I have recovered with a dip net"

It is the owner of the mill in the Hague, in Saint-Loup-de-Gonnois, which on Thursday gave the alert. "Tens of fish were plated, the belly with air, the grid that protects against a water turbine," says Lambert. "I have recovered with a dip net. There was everything from rainbow trout rainbow and brown trout, carp, tench, specimens, sometimes several kilos and 40 centimeters long. »

Immediately informed the mayor of the town, Alain Martinez, alerted the authorities before going to browse the banks of the Clery which, in turn, he observed dozens of dead fish. Since then, more than 300 kg of dead fish were recovered and buried by municipal officials.

Again, Hundreds Of Fish Dead In River Ngaso

January 27, 2015 - 21:00 pm> Read 201 times  Print | Comments

END OF STONE (RIAUPOS.CO) - Hundreds of fish in the river Ngaso, Monday (26/1) again found dead. The fish died allegedly due to contaminated waste from palm oil mill company (MCC), which is connected with the headwaters of the Rokan River.

Riau watchlist Post on Monday (26/1) afternoon at the river flow Ngaso, hundreds of dead fish appear and even there are still floundering. On the one hand, the color of the river water also looked visibly turbid water also black and pungent smell.

Riau Pos information summarized in the field, the fish began to die since the early dawn when people perform activities of bathing, washing and toilet (MCK).

'This morning when we were going to the river, we saw a lot of dead fish. When seen the condition of water colors, looks cloudy and foul smelling. And just last week, also fish in the river was found dead, 'said Anton, a resident of the village of East Ujungbatu District of Ujungbatu to Riau Pos.

According to Anton along with a number of residents who live on the banks of the River Ngaso, dead fish are thought to be caused by toxins or waste. 'Strong suspicion that we are invisible when fish die due to waste MCC. However we can not be sure where the origin of the waste, because there are two MCC that are in the river upstream Ngaso, 'he said.

DAGUPAN CITY, Philippines—Two bottlenose dolphins were found dead at the Tondaligan Beach here and on the shores of neighboring Binmaley town in Pangasinan province, in what has turned out to be a series of beaching in Lingayen Gulf since Monday.

Westly Rosario, chief of the National Integrated Fisheries Technology Development Center (NIFTDC) here, said one more dolphin was found dying at about 6 a.m. at the Lingayen beach in Lingayen town.

At 5:30 p.m. on Monday, Rosario said another dolphin beached just at the shoreline at the back of the NIFTDC.

Two more dolphins were found on the shores of the island village of Pugaro here at about 8 p.m. on the same day.

Rosario said Dagupan Mayor Belen Fernandez informed him on Tuesday that four dolphins have beached in Pugaro.

He said the dolphins had fresh wounds.

At 4:30 p.m. Monday, a dead dolphin was buried at the NIFTDC fish cemetery after Manuel Ugaban Jr., agriculturist of Aringay town in La Union province, brought it to the center.

That dolphin was one of six dolphins that beached on the shores of Barangay Alaska in Aringay at 2 p.m. on Monday.

Following death of 450 turkeys from bird flu last week

With the Indian Council of Agricultural Research's Bhopal-based High Security Animal Diseases Laboratory confirming that avian flu of the H5N1 strain caused the deaths of over 450 turkeys housed in a cage at the Government Turkey Farm here last week, more than 8,000 turkeys that remained at the farm were culled on Monday as a preventive measure.

Since the culled birds were buried inside the farm complex, the farm will have to be kept closed for at least four months after being fumigated. Farm authorities said the fumigation was being carried out using a sodium hypochlorite solution. The complex was also being sprayed with lime-based disinfectants.

The farm has been hit by bird flu at a time when it had stocked the highest number of turkeys since its inception. It also had the reputation of being the biggest turkey farm in south Asia.

Rs.20-lakh loss

The farm will remain banned for visitors for four months. The loss to the farm as per preliminary estimates is Rs.20 lakh.

On Tuesday, poultry numbering over 700 in individual houses in an area of 1 sq km around the farm was also culled. The poultry comprised chicken, ducks, and turkey. There was resistance from the owners when Animal Husbandry Department personnel, along with officials of the Health Department, arrived at the houses with police protection to carry out the culling.

Compensation paid

The people said no incidents of bird flu had been reported outside the farm. They insisted that all their birds were healthy. The officials had a hard time convincing them about the threat in the wake of bird flu confirmation at the farm in their neighbourhood.

The poultry owners were paid a compensation of Rs.200 for each bird above two months of age and Rs.100 for each bird below two months. All the culled birds were brought to the farm and buried.

"There were hundreds of dead black birds, I do not know many. There were a few meters from their carcass 1-2 km section," said Gunnar Oli Hákonarson, farmer Sandi Aðaldalur. He went along with William Jónasson on Síla-læk yearly winter bird counts at year-end. They went to the sands of the sea bottom Skjálfandi. Dead birds were just east of us Skjálfandafjót.

"The backbone of this was little auk, there was a considerable number of guillemots. There was a party, a lot of owl and svartbak come to this and rebbi was also arrived," said Gunnar Oli. Dead birds were nothing but skin and bones and famine had probably worn them too strong. He believed that the most likely explanation would be prima facie. Gunnar Oli drove along the coast just east of the river Laxá but did not see as many dead birds there.

"You ever sees any of the dead birds, but I've never seen anything like this. I've also never thought so much of the owl in this area in the winter bird counts now. They were sixteen but usually one sees not any one or two." Gunnar Oli said in December had been very persistent and west norðvestanrok region and birds probably do not have any food.

Böðvar Þórisson, executive director of the Natural History Centre, said the announcement had been auk death in Ísa-fjörður Fjords earlier this month. He said that a lot had been auk in the fjords of late, both guillemot and little auk. Cliffs Death now appeared, however, be small in comparison to the falls which was nearly ten years.

(NaturalNews) Marine biologists and other researchers are voicing serious concerns regarding the high mortality rate among orcas (killer whales) observed over the past couple of years.

No one has yet proven that there is a direct link between the 100 percent mortality rate seen among orca infants and the effects of the radiation contamination of the Pacific Ocean from the Fukushima reactor leak in Japan, but it certainly can't be ruled out as a possibility.

It is rather interesting that the incidence of orca deaths – not just of infants, but full-

EU changes rules on GM crop cultivation

David Shukman reports on how the changes will affect GM crop-growing

The EU has given governments more power to decide whether to plant genetically modified (GM) crops, which are highly restricted in Europe.

The European Parliament has passed a new law giving states more flexibility by a big majority.

A type of maize - MON 810 - is the only GM crop grown commercially in the EU.

Although Euro MPs and ministers have agreed to give states more flexibility, EU scientists will still play a key role in authorisations.

GM crops are used widely in the US and Asia, but many Europeans are wary of their impact on health and wildlife.

Mercury levels in Hawaiian yellowfin tuna increasing

5 hours ago

Mercury concentrations in Hawaiian yellowfin tuna are increasing at a rate of 3.8 percent or more per year, according to a new University of Michigan-led study that suggests rising atmospheric levels of the toxin are to blame.

How to Remove Dark Spots

Watch Shocking Presentation

Mercury is a potent toxin that can accumulate to high concentrations in fish, posing a health risk to people who eat large, predatory marine fish such as swordfish and tuna. In the open ocean, the principal source of mercury is atmospheric deposition from human activities, especially emissions from coal-fired power plants and artisanal gold mining.

For decades, scientists have expected to see mercury levels in open-ocean fish increase in response to rising atmospheric concentrations, but evidence for that hypothesis has been hard to find. In fact, some studies have suggested that there has been no change in mercury

concentration in ocean fish.

By compiling and re-analyzing three previously published reports on yellowfin tuna caught near Hawaii, U-M's Paul Drevnick and two colleagues found that the concentration of mercury in that species increased at least 3.8 percent per year from 1998 to 2008.

A paper about the study is scheduled for online publication in the journal Environmental Toxicology and Chemistry on Feb. 2. The other authors are Carl Lamborg of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, now at the University of California at Santa Cruz, and Martin Horgan.

"The take-home message is that mercury in tuna appears to be increasing in lockstep with data and model predictions for mercury concentrations in water in the North Pacific," said Drevnick, an assistant research scientist at the U-M School of Natural Resources and Environment and at the U-M Biological Station. "This study confirms that mercury levels in open ocean fish are responsive to mercury emissions."

The entirely preventable California measles outbreak has now sickened more than 70 people. With perhaps hundreds more exposed, the outbreak will likely continue.

As the disease spreads, experts will debate how we respond and what to do about the anti-vaccine movement that's partly to blame for this mess. Likely, all we'll agree on is better outreach to parents.

That's not enough. Parents who do not vaccinate their children should go to jail.

Today, however, because of ignorant "anti-vaxxers," the disease is staging a comeback.

TACOMA, WA — A state bureaucracy is threatening a mother with removal of an infant unless her entire family subjects themselves to flu shots.

This is the dilemma that foster parent Jamie Smith is currently facing. The Washington Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS) is giving the Tacoma family until February to comply with the mandated regimen of influenza vaccines — imposed on every member of the family — or else they will lose their youngest child, a 2-week-old foster infant that was born on Christmas.

SOME DOCTORS WON'T SEE PATIENTS WITH ANTI-VACCINE VIEWS

BY ALICIA CHANG
AP SCIENCE WRITER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With California gripped by a measles outbreak, Dr. Charles Goodman posted a clear notice in his waiting room and on Facebook: His practice will no longer see children whose parents won't get them vaccinated.

"Parents who choose not to give measles shots, they're not just putting their kids at risk, but they're also putting other kids at risk - especially kids in my waiting room," the Los Angeles pediatrician said.

It's a sentiment echoed by a small number of doctors who in recent years have "fired" patients who continue to believe debunked research linking vaccines to autism. They hope the strategy will lead parents to change their minds; if that fails, they hope it will at least reduce the risk to other children in the office.

The tough-love approach - which comes amid the nation's second-biggest measles outbreak in at least 15 years, with at least 98 cases reported since last month - raises questions about doctors' ethical responsibilities. Most of the measles cases have been traced directly or indirectly to Disneyland in Southern California.

US still considering military option against Russia: Analyst

The United States is still considering the military option against Russia over Ukraine, according to an analyst in Belgrade, Serbia.

Joaquin Flores, geostrategist and director at Center for Syncretic Studies, made the remarks in a phone interview with Press TV on Sunday while commenting on US President Barack Obama's claim that Washington is not seeking a military confrontation with Russia over the Ukraine crisis.

"I've been very clear that it would not be effective to engage in a military conflict with Russia on this issue," Obama said during his visit to India on Sunday.

Flores said, "At first this might sound like a positive development."

But "it must be understood in context," he added. "Peeling back the layers of doublespeak and hypocrisy, we find that since the coup that the US launched in Ukraine about a year ago, it has been the US that has spearheaded the present military conflict there today."

Further financial sanctions by the United States against Russia would lead Moscow and Washington to the "brink of war," the head of a leading Russian bank has warned.

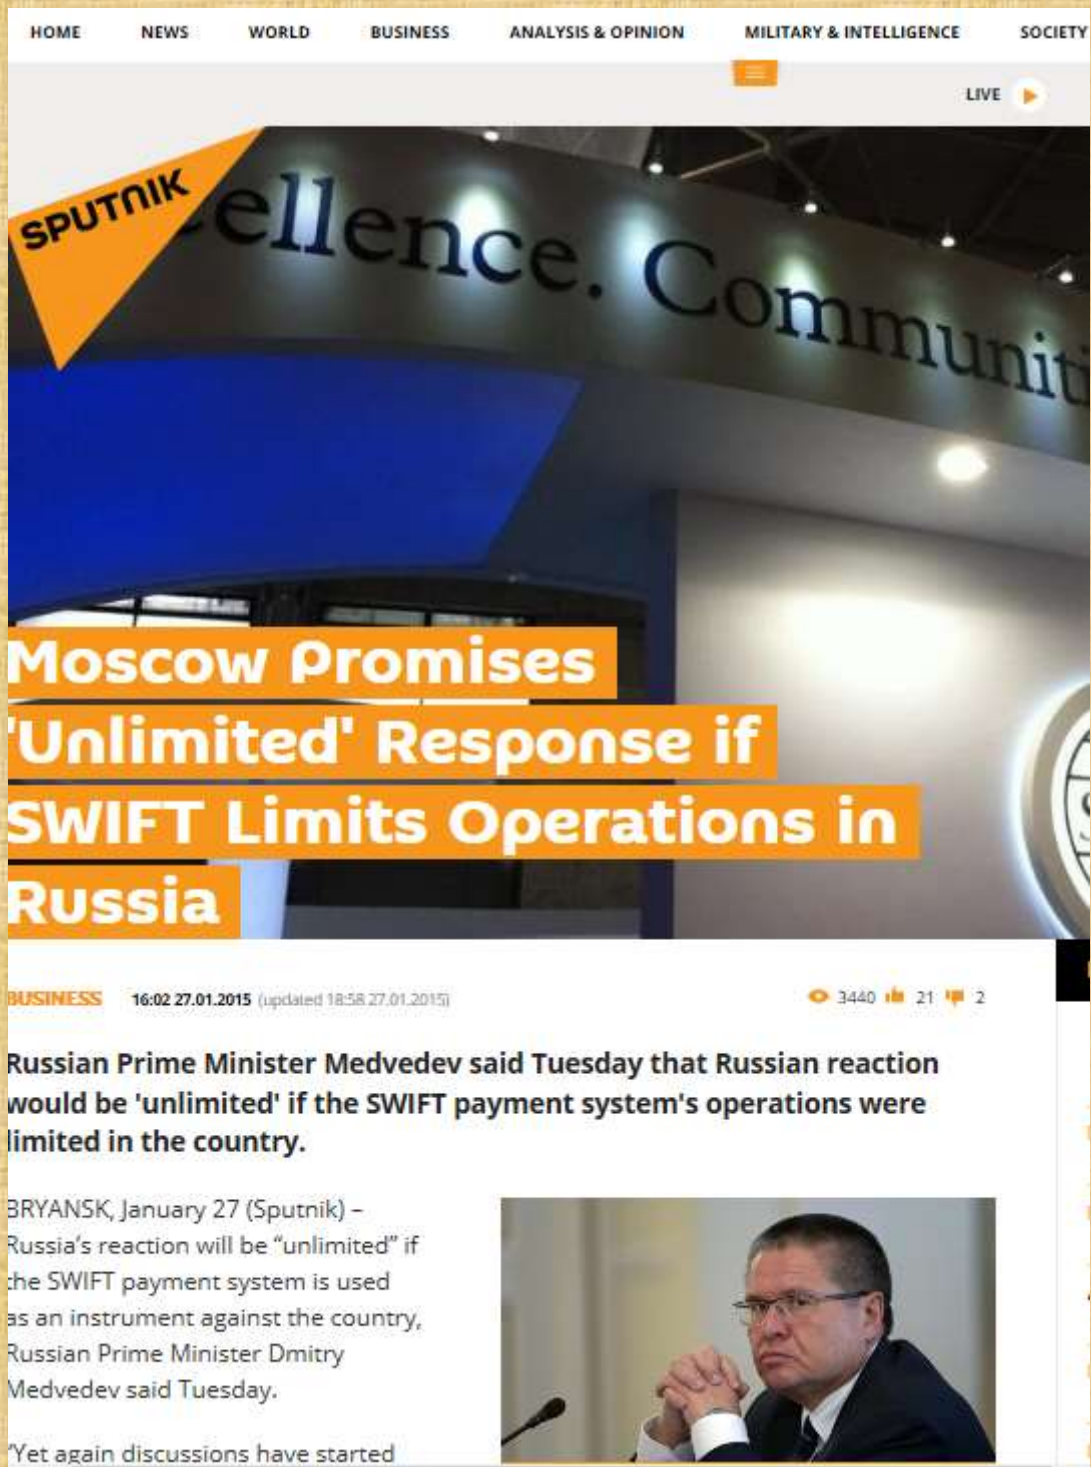

Ties between the US and Russia will be severed if Russian banks were excluded from the Swift banking system due to tougher sanctions, said Andrei Kostin, the chairman of Russian state-controlled VTB Bank.

"Ambassadors can leave capitals. It means Russia and America might have no relationship after that," Kostin said at the World Economic Forum on Friday.

"If there is no banking relationship, it means the countries are on the verge of war, or definitely in the cold war," he added. "It will be a very dangerous situation."

As one of Russia's most senior bankers, Kostin meets regularly with President Vladimir Putin and other top officials.

NATO is expected to station additional soldiers in six member states in Eastern Europe as part of its new anti-Russian strategy. The units would be small, but involved in possible deployment of the alliance's future 'rapid response' force.

The additional NATO troops would be posted to the three Baltic states, Romania, Bulgaria and Poland, NATO's Secretary-General Jens Stoltenberg said Friday.

Each unit would consist of 40 to 50 troops comprised in roughly equal parts of soldiers from the host nation and those from other NATO members Reuters reported, citing an alliance diplomat.

Recent satellite photos of an island off the coast of China confirm Beijing's buildup of military forces within attack range of Japan's Senkaku islands.

Construction of a helicopter base on Nanji Island was observed by a commercial spy satellite in October. The island is off the coast of Zhejiang province—some 186 miles northwest of the Senkakus, a group of resource-rich islets China calls the Diaoyu Islands.

The imagery, obtained from the Airbus Defense and Space-owned Pleiades satellite, reveals China is constructing an airfield with 10 landing pads for helicopters on Nanji Island.

Military analysts said the new military base appears to be preparation by the Chinese People's Liberation Army for an attack or seizure of the Senkakus.

"China's new heli-base on Nanji Island demonstrates that the PLA is preparing for an offensive military operation against the Senkaku/Daiyoutai Islands," said Rick Fisher, a senior fellow with the International Assessment and Strategy Center.

"If you want to rate the level of tension, this is the PLA reaching for its holster. When forces start deploying to Nanji Island, that means the hammer is cocked."

To stop US carrier groups from entering South China Sea waters, the Second Artillery Corps, China's strategic missile force, has recently deployed DF-21D anti-ship ballistic missiles to the southern province of Guangdong, according to the Canada-based Kanwa Defense Review.

The expansion of the Second Artillery Corps unit in Guangdong began in 2010, according to a report from the Pentagon. It has nine parking lots for the mobile launchers and an additional 13 lots for other vehicles. The facilities apparently also contain a training field, office building and checkpoint, according to a satellite photo.

SEOUL, South Korea -- North Korea may be attempting to restart its main nuclear bomb fuel reactor after a five-month shutdown, a U.S. research institute said Thursday.

If true, the finding, which is based on recent commercial satellite imagery, will be an added worry for the United States and the North's neighbours at a time of increasing animosity over recent U.S. sanctions against the North and Pyongyang's fury about a U.N. push to punish its alleged human rights abuses.

Activity at the 5-megawatt Nyongbyon reactor is closely watched because North Korea is thought to have a handful of crude nuclear bombs, part of its efforts to build an arsenal of nuclear tipped missiles that could one day hit America's mainland. Nyongbyon, which has produced plutonium

Ten days ago, before the smashing success of Greece's anti-austerity party, Syriza, we noted that Russia gave Greece a modest proposal: turn your back on Europe, whom you despise so much anyway, and we will assist your farmers by lifting the food import ban.

And, sure enough, Greece's new premier Tsipras did hint with his initial actions that Greece may indeed pivot quite aggressively away from Europe and toward Russia in general and the Eurasian Economic Union in particular (as a tangent recall "Russia's "Startling" Proposal To Europe: Dump The US, Join The Eurasian Economic Union").

Some recent examples of this dramatic shift in perspective were the following:

US Senate panel approves controversial Iran sanctions bill

US Senators Robert Menendez (right) and Mark Kirk

The US Senate Banking Committee has approved a controversial bill that would trigger additional sanctions against Iran if the ongoing nuclear negotiations between the Islamic Republic and the P5+1 group of countries collapse.

On Thursday, lawmakers in the Senate panel voted 18 to 4 to advance the bipartisan legislation sponsored by hawkish Senators Robert Menendez and Mark Kirk, despite warnings from the Obama administration that the new sanctions risked derailing the talks with Iran.

The full Senate is expected to vote on the so-called Kirk-Menendez bill by March 24.

Obama has agreed to 80% of Iran's demands in nuke talks.

Israeli officials told Channel 10 on Friday that they are convinced the Obama administration has already agreed to most of Iran's demands in the P5+1 negotiations over the Islamic Republic's nuclear program. According to unnamed officials, Washington "has given the Iranians 80 percent of what they want" out of the negotiations, Channel 10 is reporting. Jerusalem officials appear alarmed at the prospect that the United States will soon strike a deal with the Iranian regime that will leave it with a "breakout point" of months before it can gallop toward the bomb. Experts: Iran Now a Nuclear-Ready State, Missiles Capable of Hitting US

Regardless of intelligence uncertainties and unknowns about Iran's nuclear weapons and missile programs, we know enough now to make a prudent judgment that Iran should be regarded by national security decision makers as a nuclear missile state capable of posing an existential threat to the United States and its allies.

On Jan. 22, The Jerusalem Post reported that Iran deployed a new intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) "whose range far exceeds the distance between Iran and Israel, and between Iran and Europe." It was also shown on Israeli television.

Iran's development of an ICBM at this time would be consistent with unclassified U.S. intelligence community reports that in 2013 warned Iran could test an ICBM by 2015.

Iran and others claim the missile is not a military ICBM for delivering nuclear warheads but a peaceful Space Launch Vehicle (SLV) for orbiting satellites.

Special: 70% of Seniors Make This $152K Social Security Mistake

This is a distinction without a difference.

Iran has a demonstrated capability to orbit satellites weighing over a ton, which means it could also deliver a nuclear warhead against the U.S. or any nation on Earth.

Indeed, Iran has orbited several satellites on south polar trajectories passing over the western hemisphere from south to north, as if practicing to elude U.S. Ballistic Missile Early Warning Radars and National Missile Defenses, which are oriented to detect and intercept threats coming from the north.

Moreover, the altitude of these satellites, if they were carrying a nuclear weapon detonated over the center of the U.S., was in all three cases near optimum for generating an electromagnetic pulse (EMP) field across all 48 contiguous United States. EMP could cause a protracted blackout of the national electric grid and other life-sustaining critical infrastructures.

WASHINGTON – A terrorist attack on the Pakistani national grid plunged more than 140 million people into darkness before power was restored, prompting U.S. experts to warn that terrorist cells and "lone wolves" in the United States could cause similar damage to the vulnerable national electric-grid system.

The blackout in Pakistan affected more than 80 percent of the country's population and all public services in all the major cities, including the capital, Islamabad.

A separatist group in the Naseerabad district of Baluchistan province in the country's southwest caused the blackout by blowing up a major transmission line connected to the national grid.

It was the third such attack in two weeks.

"It shows the bad guys definitely do know what they're doing when they want to – in a country with upwards of 100 nuclear weapons," said Clare Lopez, vice president for research and analysis at the Washington-based Center for Security Policy.

Speaking in English, he said:

The Next War In The Middle East Has Begun And Israel Vows 'To Act Powerfully On All Fronts'

By Michael Snyder, on January 28th, 2015

Israel and Hezbollah are at war. On top of everything else that is going on in the world, now we have a new war in the Middle East, and nobody is quite certain what is going to happen next. Israel has been preparing for this moment for more than 8 years. So has Hezbollah. According to some reports, Hezbollah has amassed an arsenal of 50,000 rockets since the end of the Hezbollah-Israel war in 2006. If all-out warfare does erupt, we could potentially see tens of thousands of missiles rain down into an area not too much larger than the state of New Jersey. And of course the Israeli military is also much more sophisticated and much more powerful than it was back in 2006. If cooler heads do not prevail, we could be on the verge of witnessing a very bloody war. But right now nobody seems to be in the mood to back down. Hezbollah is absolutely fuming over an airstrike earlier this month that killed six fighters and a prominent Iranian general. And Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu says that Israel is "prepared to act powerfully on all fronts" in response to a Hezbollah ambush that killed two Israeli soldiers and wounded seven. Just such an incident is what sparked the war between the two sides back in 2006. But this time, a conflict between Israel and Hezbollah could spark a full-blown regional war.

Earlier this month, Israel launched a surprise assault against a group of Hezbollah fighters that Israel believed was planning to conduct terror attacks inside their borders.

But in addition to killing six Hezbollah fighters, a very important Iranian general was also killed. Needless to say, Iran is furious...

TEHRAN: Iran has told the United States that Israel should expect consequences for an attack on the Syrian-controlled Golan Heights that killed an Iranian general, a senior official said on Tuesday.

Revolutionary Guards General Mohammad Ali Allahdadi died alongside six fighters from Lebanon's Hezbollah group in the January 18 attack on forces supporting President Bashar al-Assad in Syria's civil war.

Israel has not officially acknowledged carrying out the attack, but was already warned last week of an eventual response.

"We have sent a message to the United States through diplomatic channels telling the Americans that the Zionist regime crossed Iran's red lines by this action," said Deputy Foreign Minister Hossein Amir-Abdollahian.

"In this message, we said those responsible should wait to suffer the consequences of their act," he added, in remarks carried by the official IRNA news agency.

Amir-Abdollahian was speaking on the sidelines of a memorial service for Allahdadi also attended by General Ghassem Souleimani, head of the Guards' elite Quds Force, which is responsible for operations outside Iran.

Benjamin Netanyahu, one presumes, has a keen sense of history. Therefore, Israel's Prime Minister might reflect on what happened when an earlier best friend of the United States overstepped the diplomatic bounds.

Back in 1793, at the height of the French revolution, Edmond Genêt arrived as the new French ambassador to the US, with instructions to get the country that France had helped to independence barely a decade earlier to take its side in the gathering conflict with Britain.

The self-styled "Citoyen Genêt", however, went about his task too enthusiastically, scorning President George Washington's declaration of American neutrality, and going over the head of the

BILL GATES CALLS FOR 'GLOBAL GOVERNMENT'

Billionaire claims world government "badly needed" to save the earth

Billionaire Bill Gates called for "a kind of global government" this week, arguing that the creation of such a system would be needed to combat major issues such as "climate change."

Speaking with Germany's "Süddeutsche Zeitung" newspaper Tuesday, Gates decried the fact that a proper United Nations system has failed to materialize as planned.

"You can make fun of it, but in truth it was sad how the conference in Copenhagen is run, how individual who behave like the UN system failed," Gates said according to an English translation in the Huffington Post.

Gates went on to stress his position further, stating that a global government was "badly needed" in order to combat an array of issues ailing the planet.

Secret planting of up to 75,000 Syrian Muslims begins in U.S.

Up to 10,000 Syrian refugees, most of them Muslims, will be resettled in cities throughout the U.S. in 2015, with that figure expected to surge to near 75,000 over the next five years. While some of the planned destinations for these refugees are starting to leak out, the big question is: where will they be going? The U.S. State Department does not announce where it plans to send foreign refugees for resettlement within the United States, although the locations do eventually show up in a government database some weeks after they arrive in their host cities. Word of their anticipated arrivals will sometimes surface earlier in local media reports. And that's already happening in North Dakota, Kentucky, North Carolina, Ohio and Washington. The Jamestown Sun of Jamestown, North Dakota, reported recently that the Midwestern state is expecting about 400 new refugees to arrive from the Middle East this year. Lutheran Social Services of North Dakota and its "community partners," which include schools, medical facilities, law enforcement, county and volunteer agencies and churches, are anticipating a shift in the ongoing resettling of refugees there. More

How can we defend America against Islamic supremacist encroachment?

In "Stop the Islamization of America," renowned activist Pamela Geller provides the answer, offering proven, practical guidance on how freedom lovers can stop jihadist initiatives in local communities.

Today Islamic supremacists are demanding more accommodation of Islamic principles and practices than ever, and daily growing more aggressive in eroding our freedoms – with politically correct public officials only too happy to oblige them. Speaking from the fruit of her experience as the national leader of the fight against the Ground Zero mega-mosque and numerous other initiatives, Geller's guidebook provides a much-needed wake-up call about a sinister agenda that could do nothing less than destroy the United States – with unique instructions about how we can, and must, fight back now to defend our nation and civilization.

Packed with current information drawn from Geller's front-line experience in the struggle against Islamist organizations and creeping Shariah in the United States, "Stop the Islamization of America" is an indispensable guidebook for everyone committed to defending American liberty.

Here is just a small sampling of what you'll find in this book:

The Central Bank of Russia bought a record amount of gold in the first 11 months of 2014 spending an estimated $6.1 billion. Increasing gold reserves attempts to reduce dependence on the dollar amid geopolitical tension, Mark O'Byrne of GoldCore, told RT.

Russia's gold purchases accounted for a third of the world's total of 461 tons, according to research by Thomson Reuters GFMS (Gold Fields Mineral Services). The amount of gold bought went up 123 percent from the previous year to 152 tons, worth $6.1 billion at current prices. It's the most Russia has spent since the collapse of the Soviet Union.

Given the tension between the US and Russia, it's more likely Russia will sell dollar assets and buy gold, said O'Byrne.

The International Monetary Fund is meant to be the firefighter of the world economy. Recently, though, it is China that has responded to the ringing of alarms.

First, it lent Argentina cash to replenish its dwindling foreign-exchange reserves. Next, with the rouble crashing, China offered credit to Russia.

Seven of eight indexes on my world market watchlist posted weekly gains, with the three European indexes topping the list, thanks to the European Central Bank's QE. France's CAC 40 was up 5.96%, Germany's DAX rose 4.74%, and the UK's FTSE 100 gained 4.31%.

But the list of big winners extended beyond Europe. The three Asia-Pacific indexes posted gains ranging from 3.10% to 4.11%.

The S&P 500 was the poorest performer of the weekly winners, but its 1.60% gain snapped a three-week losing streak. China's Shanghai Composite posted the only weekly loss, down a modest -0.73%.

Here is an overlay of the eight for a sense of their comparative performance so far in 2015.

'Britain's economic recovery in decline'

A new report indicates the UK's economic recovery lost steam by the turn of 2014 amid a slumping growth.

Recent reports have pointed to a slowdown at the end of 2014 for both industry and construction while consumer spending appears to have held up, the Guardian reported.

Analysts see little chance of that pattern changing in coming months as continued troubles among the UK's key trading partner, the eurozone, and a slowdown in China weigh on exports. But manufacturing should get some support from lower oil prices.

Meanwhile, growth is forecast to have slowed to 0.6% in the fourth quarter, from 0.7% in the third.

The report also found that people continue to worry about job security.

Greek stocks fall by 22% as Athens market tumbles for the third consecutive day

Bank stocks have fallen by a total of 40 per cent since the weekend election, which saw leftist leader Alexis Tsipras become Prime Minister with his anti-austerity party. Tsipras immediately formed a coalition with the right-wing Independent Greeks.

Fears that Greek banks, facing increased deposit outflows, could be shut out of European Central Bank liquidity assistance if their assets were no longer accepted as collateral have led to a rout as investors dump financial stocks.

Tsipras' new government has defied expectations it would be wary of upsetting European and International Monetary Fund creditors after the election. It immediately halted planned privatisations of Greece's biggest port and biggest utility ahead of talks on renegotiating its bailout conditions.

Minneapolis Mayor Betsy Hodges showed up for a meeting with Somali Muslims in a hijab.

A Sacramento, California, high school scheduled a "hijab day" celebrating Islamic law in which Muslims helped school girls don the concealing headscarves.

It was at Natomas Pacific Pathways Prep High School, also known as NP3, where officials posted a notice that said: "January 28, 2015. The hijab is a headcovering worn by Muslim women as a symbol of modesty and their devotion to God. GIRLS! Come to the library Wednesday morning and MSA [Muslim Student Association] members will assist you in putting your hijab on. You can bring ANY type of rectangular (or square) scarf that is bought at any store. (If you do not have any scarves, they will be provided for you to borrow for the day.)"

El-badawi said the tribunal follows Sharia law to resolve civil disputes in family and business matters. He said they also resolve workplace disputes.

In matters of divorce, El-badawi said that "while participation in the tribunal is voluntary, a married couple cannot be considered divorced by the Islamic community unless it is granted by the tribunal." He compared their divorce,

Sound Vision asks: "Frustrated with Islamophobes defaming the Prophet? Remember the Danish cartoons defaming the Prophet? Or the anti-Islam film, Innocence of Muslims?"

After Muslim "defenders of Muhammad" recently murdered 16 people in Paris, and continue to persecute millions of Christians and non-Muslims worldwide, Sound Vision expressed its commitment to "defending Muhammad."

HOUSTON – Testimony in a trial for five Houston-area pastors suing the city to have an election on a transgender ordinance has begun, with one minister accusing the city of calling "an entire community of churches and citizens criminals."

The lawsuit was brought by a coalition of pastors and groups in Houston who oppose an ordinance council members adopted at the urging of lesbian Mayor Annise Parker.

The measure requires Houston businesses and organizations to recognize transgenders with certain rights and privileges.

The pastors immediately collected signatures to overturn the ordinance, but the city's lawyer, working on behalf of Parker, stepped into the dispute after the city secretary had affirmed there were enough valid signatures and disqualified pages and pages of names.

KATY, Texas – A junior high school principal is returning to her job today after she was put on leave earlier this month, possibly for linking to a Christian website in the school's e-newsletter.

According to reports, Seven Lakes Junior High School Principal Imelda Medrano was placed on leave on Jan. 12, just days after she had included a link in the school's e-newsletter that belonged to the Christian website Crosswalk.com. The parenting article provided warnings about how sexual predators use apps to prey on children.

"Sexual predators can target your children even when your child is in the room down the hall," it read. "And sexual predators aren't the only problem. Cyber-bullying and exposures to sexually inappropriate content are additional concerns."

But the Katy Independent School District soon sent out an email to parents, instructing them to ignore the article and to refer to the district's policy on bullying.

"On Friday, January 9, you may have received an eNews containing an article titled '9 Most Dangerous Apps for Kids' which was obtained from a website that had not undergone a thorough review and approval process for content distribution. Please disregard that article and content," the email read.

However, when asked about why Medrano had been placed on administrative leave, officials would not state why the principal was seemingly being punished or if the link had anything to do with the situation. According to KHOU-TV, the district generally advised that Medrano was not accused of any criminal activity, nor any conduct that would put student safety at risk, but that a review was underway regarding potential issues surrounding administration of Seven Lakes High School.

A group of concerned parents soon launched a Facebook page calling for Medrano's reinstatement, along with a petition on iPetitions.

New anti-terror bill could put chill on freedom of speech

'It's really more political posturing than sound counterterrorism policy,' says legal expert

Prime Minister Stephen Harper said last weekend that new anti-terror legislation to be introduced on Friday will, among other things, "criminalize the promotion of terrorism."

Such a move, however, could have a chilling effect on freedom of expression in Canada and would not necessarily contribute to effectively fighting domestic extremism, according to legal experts.

The new bill, which could also include provisions for expanded police powers, was promised by the federal government in the weeks following the October attacks in Quebec and Ottawa that left two members of the Canadian Forces dead.

Indian Christians from across denominations have formed a legal-aid agency, complete with a telephone hotline number, to respond to increasing attacks that have followed the rise of Hindu nationalists to national power.

The United Christian Forum for Human Rights was formed Jan. 19 "to coordinate both legal and advocacy assistance to the community, which has been traumatized in recent months by communal violence in several states," said John Dayal, a prominent Christian activist and spokesperson for the new group, in a statement to World Watch Monitor.

Harassment of India's Christians has increased since the Hindu nationalist Bharatiya Janata Party, or BJP, swept parliamentary elections in May 2014.

The new initiatives have been assembled ahead of U.S. President Barack Obama's visit to India. Asked whether the flurry of anti-Christian violence would figure on Obama's agenda, the new Forum Secretary Rev. Vijayesh Lal said, "We have to speak up for ourselves."

Transgender nominated to be Pennsylvania's physician general

JANUARY 27, 2015

BY OLAF EKBERG

A man who became a woman five years ago has been nominated to be Pennsylvania's physician general.

Dr. Rachel Levine has been nominated by Gov. Tom Wolf, the state's newly sworn-in progressive governor.

The Washington Blade reports the appointment would make Levine the "highest-ranking transgender person to ever hold a position within state government."

"I was thrilled," Levine told the Washington Blade after she was nominated. "I was very excited to serve the commonwealth."

The Patriot-News reports Levine has been a physician at Penn State Milton S. Hershey Medical Center since 1996.

She adds she hopes she can "serve as a mentor and role model" for other LGBT people in the state.
