والعلامات حتى 24 فبراير 2015

Holy_bible_1

وأيضاً أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن أيضاً علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 7 لأنه تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة وتكون مجاعات واوبئة وزلازل في اماكن

مت 24: 9 حينئذ يسلمونكم الى ضيق ويقتلونكم وتكونون مبغضين من جميع الامم لأجل اسمي

مت 24: 10 وحينئذ يعثر كثيرون ويسلمون بعضهم بعضا ويبغضون بعضهم بعضا

مت 24: 11 ويقوم انبياء كذبة كثيرون ويضلون كثيرين

مت 24: 12 ولكثرة الاثم تبرد محبة الكثيرين

مت 24: 13 ولكن الذي يصبر الى المنتهى فهذا يخلص

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

السماء

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

المسيح لا يتنبأ ولا يتوقع بل يعرف

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

Discussion

Overview

The main driver of all weather and climate, the entity which occupies 99.86% of all of the mass in our solar system, the great ball of fire in the sky – has gone quiet again during what is likely to be the weakest sunspot cycle in more than a century. For the past 5 days, solar activity has been very low and one measure of solar activity – its X-ray output – has basically flatlined in recent days (plot below courtesy NOAA/Space Weather Prediction Center). Not since cycle 14 peaked in February 1906 has there been a solar cycle with fewer sunspots. We are currently more than six years into Solar Cycle 24 and today the sun is virtually spotless despite the fact that we are still in what is considered to be its solar maximum

A 500-pound space rock about two feet in diameter entered the Earth's atmosphere outside of Pittsburgh last night, according to NASA. The object, detected by three NASA meteor cameras, was moving at a speed of 45,000 miles per hour. Visibility was lost at an altitude of 13 miles, but the space agency speculates that fragments, or meteorites, might be found on the ground east of Kittanning, PA. NASA posted this animation from the meteor's perspective showing its trajectory as it raced towards western Pennsylvania.

The American Meteor Society received over 90 reports so far about a bright fireball event in northern Florida just east of Jacksonville. Observers from as far north as August GA reported seeing a bright light in the sky. Over 15 of the reports described a window rattling delayed boom. Below is a heat map of the witness reports.

The estimated trajectory plotted from the witness reports shows the meteor was traveling from the south west to the north east and ended its flight about 30 miles due west from Jacksonville, FL.

Another round of snow, ice and brutal cold crept up the East Coast Monday night into Tuesday after leaving hundreds of thousands without power in parts of the South.

In Washington, the federal government said its offices would be closed Tuesday, with a winter storm warning in effect for the area until noon. The National Weather Service is predicting 6 to 8 inches of snow. Forecasters say most of the snow will fall overnight, but there could still be some snow falling between 7 a.m. and 11 a.m.

A fresh band of winter weather that churned up the East Coast on Saturday, pummeling the storm-weary region with snow, sleet and freezing rain, was expected to gradually taper off Sunday morning, forecasters said.

Six inches or more of fresh snow was forecast for parts of the Northeast by early Sunday, according to the National Weather Service (NWS). Bitter cold is also expected, but conditions should start to ease in many areas by mid-morning, the service said.

Boston, which had already been hit by 98.7 inches of snow going into the weekend, saw only about an inch Saturday, but local weather watchers there were forecasting the total tally to hit 100 inches by midnight. The city's total is well above the average yearly total of 31 inches.

CHICAGO (WLS) -- The brutal cold returned Wednesday as an arctic front brought single digits and wind chills below zero to the Chicago area, but Thursday's temperatures could set record lows.

"By 8 a.m. tomorrow morning we could hit 8 below zero. The old record is 7 below, so that could be a new record in the morning," ABC7 Meteorologist Jerry Taft said.

CASTILE, N.Y. (AP) - The arctic conditions have turned a fountain at a state park in western New York into a five-story-tall "ice volcano."

The pressure-fed fountain is in a pond near the Glen Iris Inn at Letchworth State Park, which straddles the Wyoming-Livingston county line 40 miles south of Rochester. Days of subzero temperatures have formed a solid cone of ice several feet thick with water still spouting out of the top.

Park officials tell local media that the formation dubbed an ice volcano is at least 50 feet high.

Winter is normally a quiet season for the park, known as the "Grand Canyon of the East" for its scenic gorges, but dozens of people are showing up daily to see the frozen wonder while it lasts.

19 Coldest Temps Since Late-1800s in East

Old Man Winter will be unrelenting across the Midwest and Northeast this week as yet another blast of arctic air rolls in and spreads deep into the South. This next push of arctic air is expected to bring air that is just as cold, or even colder than the air that brought subzero lows to the Midwest and Northeast during the weekend. Millions will shiver from Chicago to New York City as record lows are challenged during this bitter blast. Records may also fall across parts of the South where temperatures manage to fall into the teens and single digits. Some southern cities forecast to dip into the teens or lower include Birmingham, Alabama; Charlotte, North Carolina; Columbia, South Carolina; Nashville and Atlanta. Floridians will even experience a taste of the arctic chill with temperatures dipping down to the lower 30s in cities such as Orlando, Melbourne and Daytona Beach. The worst of the cold is expected to focus over the East for Thursday into Friday. In the mid-Atlantic, some daily record lows set during the late-1800s will be challenged. AccuWeather.com: RealFeel® temperatures below 0 F will be common across the regions during the daytime hours, including cities along the Interstate 95 corridor. These values can then drop by as much as 20 degrees during the overnight hours, making for a bitterly cold morning commute. MORE

Four Cities Set All-Time Record Lows from Arctic Blast Grips Midwest, Northeast and South

Hundreds of daily record lows and at least three all-time record lows have been set as a frigid air mass with a connection to Siberia grips the central and eastern United States with dangerously cold conditions. Friday morning has brought the most widespread and intense cold of the winter to many areas, sending temperatures into the 30s below zero as far south as Kentucky. Lynchburg, Virginia, plummeted to 11 below zero Friday morning, setting a new all-time record low for any day of the year. The previous record was 10 below zero on Jan. 21, 1985, and Feb. 5, 1996. Impressively, Lynchburg's temperature records go all the way back to 1893. Flint, Michigan, tied its all-time record low of 25 below zero, originally set Jan. 18, 1976. Weather records in Flint began in 1921. Earlier this week Erie, Pennsylvania, had tied its all-time record low when it reached 18 below zero Monday. That tied the record set Jan. 19, 1994. Not far away, Jamestown, New York, set an all-time record low of 31 below zero Tuesday, though its records only go back to 1960. At least 72 daily record lows have been set Friday morning from Connecticut to Florida to as far west as Indiana, including major cities such as New York, Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Atlanta, Charlotte, Miami, Detroit and Cincinnati. According to NOAA's National Climatic Data Center, 453 record lows were tied or broken Sunday through Wednesday. This figure includes not only major airport reporting stations, but also smaller cooperative observation sites in rural areas. This number is likely to skyrocket when data for Thursday and Friday are published. All-time February record lows: Cleveland has broken its all-time record low for the month of February, reaching 17 below zero. The previous February record was minus 16 on Feb. 10, 1899, in the nation's worst arctic outbreak in modern memory. It is also Cleveland's coldest day since Jan. 19, 1994, when the city set its all-time record of 20 below zero. A

LOPATCONG TWP., N.J. - Imagine this: One second, you're plowing the street; the next second, you're swallowed by the street!

People living on Wordsworth Lane in Lopatcong Township said they noticed issues with their water Monday night. Some said they now know where the water went.

Residents in Naples, Italy woke up this morning to a massive sinkhole that opened up in the middle of a street.

Officials say the sinkhole started off as a depression in the road and is most likely caused by a broken sewer.

'It was 5 this morning when I heard a huge thud. I looked out and saw the road collapse and swallow a car,' a woman who lives in a neighboring apartment told Il Mattino.

A sinkhole opened up in the middle of a street in Naples, Italy early Sunday morning. It's believed that a broken sewer caused the sinkhole

BAUCHI CULLS 4,500 BIRDS AS BIRD FLU HITS FIVE FARMS

Posted by: niyi February 16, 2015

The Avian influenza, also known as bird flu, has hit three local government areas of Bauchi State, affecting 14,666 birds out of which about 4,508 have so far been culled by government officials.

According to the Director, Veterinary Services, in the state Ministry of Animal Resources and Nomadic Resettlement, Dr Bala Lucshi, who disclosed this to journalists on Sunday, five farms were affected in Bauchi, Katagum and Toro local government areas of the state.

He explained that the birds culled by officials from the ministry included chickens, turkeys and pigeons, adding that the outbreak was first recorded in the state at Baraji Farms in Magama Gumau town in Toro Local Government Area on January 28.

Two farms at Inkil in Bauchi Local Government Area and Azare, the headquarters of Katagum Local Government Area are also reported to have the disease. Lucshi said the ministry had promptly moved in to ensure that the disease was curtailed so as not to spread to other parts of the state.

Samples taken from the affected farms had since been sent to the National Veterinary Research Institute (NVRI), Vom, Plateau State, for laboratory confirmation of the disease in the state.

He added that the earlier ban placed on movement of poultry products in and out of the state was being enforced in order to ensure strict compliance, saying that surveillance rate by officials of the ministry had been heightened.

Lyssavirus bat infections: Spike in sick and dying bats sparks health concerns in Broome

By Erin Parke

Updated about an hour ago

A spike in cases of a deadly bat virus in some parts of Australia's north has sparked concern, with dying animals being found in the streets close to schools and childcare centres.

Australian bat lyssavirus is similar to rabies, causing a rapid death if passed from an animal to a human.

In recent months, it has been detected in 11 bats in the West Australian town of Broome in the Kimberley region.

Prior to that, there had been only two cases identified in Western Australia in a decade.

There has also been an increase in sick bats being found in Queensland.

Senior Public Health nurse Ashley Eastwood is based in Broome and has been monitoring the numbers.

"In 2014, we became aware that something was happening in the bat colony with these cases popping up," she said.

"We don't know exactly what's caused it.

"There are investigations going on through the Department of Parks and Wildlife, and the Department of Agriculture, wondering what's actually going on in the colony.

Latest Bird Flu Outbreaks in Taiwan Affect 295,000 Poultry

16 February 2015

TAIWAN - New outbreaks of highly pathogenic avian influenza (H5N8 and H5N2 variants) have been reported to the OIE this week. All but one of the outbreaks was in domestic poultry (mostly geese but also chickens and turkeys). A total of almost 295,000 birds were affected, including 100,000 deaths.

The Taiwanese animal health authority has sent two new reports covering new outbreaks of highly pathogenic avian influenza to the World Organisation for Animal Health (OIE).

There were five new outbreaks of H5N8 avian influenza on poultry farms between 6 and 12 February following abnormal mortalities in Yunlin and Chiayi counties and Tainan City.

One of the farms had turkeys, while the other outbreaks were in geese. In total, 24,790 birds were involved; 4,876 birds died and 20,114 have been culled.

Thirty further outbreaks have been confirmed with the H5N2 variant of the virus as the cause. The outbreaks started between 19 January and 12 February.

One of the outbreaks was in a wild bird, found dead in Taitung City in the south-east of Taiwan. The affected bird was a black-crowned night heron (Nycticorax nycticorax; Ardeidae).

By Ibrahim Musa Giginyu

Kano — Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development Mr. Akinwumi Adesina has stated that 299,883 birds out of 417,041 killed nationwide as a result of the recent outbreak of the avian influenza are from Kano State's affected farms.

The minister made this known when he led the ministry's delegation to Kano State Governor, Dr Rabi'u Musa Kwankwaso, over the bird flu outbreak.

He added that out of the total number of 104 farms affected nationwide, Kano State has 58 affected farms which constitutes about 56% of the affected poultry farms in the country.

Adesina also stated that in the Federal Government's attempt to address the situation, it has approved the payment of N140 million as compensation to farmers affected by the outbreak in the 16 affected states of the country, adding that Kano State has the highest share of the approved amount with N100 million allocated to it out of the total amount approved by the government.

The minister further stated that the Federal Ministry of Agriculture and agric ministries in the affected states have been working hand-in-hand to see that the spread of the virus is curtailed through taking various preventive measures. According to him, with the avian

"It was after 3000, all between 750 grams and a kilo and a half," he assured some "were still gasping and others had already died," said one of the fishermen.

"It's the first time we found many dead shad, there are days that is one or two, but we never had this happen to find thousands of dead fish on the beach," he added.

Felipe Galli said the death was between "former railroad laundry cages and about five hundred feet below the street May 25" attributing it to "any chemical which certainly threw rail" and encouraged the thesis Brazilians who had previously responsible rail "polluting products used to wash cars."

"The worst he added Galli- there is now a quarter of the fish had yesterday, I estimate that about 2000 were removed by families living near here and took them to eat, but were told that if they died for something would be and that were possibly contaminated, but nobody wanted to ignore until a truck loaded with fish and were happy but this said, "can have health consequences for those who ingest".

Olive Ridley turtles carcasses dot Odisha's Gahirmatha coast

*Odisha Sun Times Bureau
Rajnagar, Feb 19:*

The Gahirmatha marine sanctuary in Odisha's Kendrapara district, considered to be the largest rookery of the endangered Olive Ridley turtles, has turned into a mass graveyard of these endangered species as hundreds of carcasses were spotted ashore.

Around 800 Olive Ridley turtles were found dead along Barunei, Penth,

Satabhaya, Gahirmatha, Babubali river mouth and other places during the ongoing mass nesting season by February 15, a forest department official said.

However, unofficial estimates put the toll over 5000, raising concern among environmentalists.

As informed by Rajnagar Mangrove (Forest) and Wildlife Division DFO Bimal Prasanna Acharya, that there have been reports of several Olive Ridley turtles lying dead along the beaches.

During this time, the south wind blows fiercely as a result tens of thousands of female Olive Ridley's climb ashore to lay eggs. Due to this strong wind, dead turtles were seen along the beaches from Habalikhati to Chinchiri, a Satabhaya villager said.

Feb. 21, 2015 Updated 10:33 p.m.

BY LAYLAN CONNELLY

NEWPORT BEACH – Daniel Stringer had an idea after eying the little lobster-like crustaceans that washed ashore on Balboa Island.

“I’ll get the barbeque,” said Stringer, who has lived on Balboa Island for 47 years and has never seen the small crabs like the ones that showed up Saturday. “I like mine with butter.”

Thousands of mini crabs - which actually look like tiny lobsters or craw fish - created a rim of red along the shoreline, scattered on the sand along the sleepy seaside of Balboa Island in Newport Beach. Most washed up dead at high tide, but some were still alive and swimming near the shoreline.

Passerby stopped to marvel at the unusual sight, some people coming to the aid of the ones that still looked like they had some life to them.

The Pleuroncodes planipes, also known as pelagic red crabs or tuna crabs, showed up during the last king tide event - when tides are especially high - at the end of January.

But then, as quick as they showed up, they disappeared - until Saturday morning, when they came in by the thousands. Another king tide event, which only happens a few times each year, showed up again this week, though it’s unclear whether the two incidents are KANPUR: Thousands of dead fish were found floating in Ganga at Dhabka Nullah and Dasheswar Ghat in Jajmau on Friday. Experts attributed the death of fish to oxygen crisis in river water. However, neither any official from district administration nor from pollution control board visited the spot to take stock of the situation.

In absence of police, locals had a free run carrying away dead fish in baskets. Kids were found carrying away large fish, a few weighing over several kilograms.

A few locals informed the police but no official turned up at the site. Jajmau is the hub of leather tanneries. Recently, power supply to 98 tanneries of the area was snapped and forcibly shut down on the orders of National Green Tribunal (NGT) for flouting norms and polluting Ganga. The death of fish has once again brought the issue of Ganga's pollution to the forefront.

This is not the first instance of fish dying in Ganga. On several occasions in the past fish have been found dead in the river. In fact, a large number of fish had died in Sher Shah Suri pond in Jajmau too.

EPA investigates Bellinger River turtle kill

Posted Sun at 1:37pm

An investigation is underway into the recent discovery of dead and dying turtles upstream from the Bellinger town centre.

On Wednesday February 18, 2015 canoeists on the Bellinger found around a number of distressed and dead turtles upstream from Lavenders Bridge.

They alerted the Environment Protection Authority (EPA).

The Authority said so far 30 turtles have been recovered by National Parks and Wildlife rangers, the shire council, WIRES volunteers and local residents.

The EPA said three species of freshwater turtles inhabit the Bellinger River but so far it seems only the Georges Turtle, the Elsayya georgesi or Bellinger River Snapping Turtle, appears to have been affected.

The early indications are that disease, not pollution has impacted on the turtles.

The EPA said water and other samples have been sent to laboratories to help narrow the possible causes.

Anyone with information which they think may be useful to the investigation is asked to contact the Environment Line on 131 555.

Confidential reports can also be made.

The EPA said residents who come across dead, sick or injured turtles should contact WIRES.

India struggles with deadly swine flu outbreak

Sanjoy Majumder reports from Delhi: "With the rising numbers, there is an element of panic"

Indian health officials are struggling to contain a swine flu outbreak that has killed more than 700 people since it took hold in mid-December.

The number of cases has doubled since last week to more than 11,000.

Critics have accused the government of failing to distribute medicines, but officials insisted the situation was under control.

This year's outbreak of the H1N1 virus, which causes swine flu, is the deadliest in India since 2010.

The virus first appeared in Mexico in 2009 and rapidly spread around the world.

Saudi Arabia is not doing enough to control the spread of the deadly MERS virus, which has infected 50 people in the oil-rich kingdom this month alone, say WHO experts. The virus remains largely shrouded in mystery.

"Critical gaps in knowledge remain, and several challenges ... will require further work," experts who are part of an investigative WHO committee said in a joint statement. "How and why infections occur in the community is yet to be understood, and this is critical for stopping the outbreak."

Since 2012, more than 1,000 cases of Middle East Respiratory Syndrome (MERS) have been reported and almost 400 deaths. Infection has been confirmed in the US, France, the UK and other countries, usually after travel to Saudi Arabia, where the virus was first identified.

LONDON — The British Royal Air Force scrambled warplanes to intercept two Russian bombers off the coast of Cornwall in southwest England, the Defense Ministry said on Thursday, as a government minister sounded alarms about the Kremlin's intentions elsewhere in Europe.

The episode magnified concerns about the possibility of further moves by President Vladimir V. Putin of Russia that could draw in the NATO alliance after advances by pro-Russian separatists in eastern Ukraine.

Typhoon warplanes took off from an air base in eastern England and escorted the two Russian airplanes in international airspace "until they were out of the U.K. area of interest," the Defense Ministry said in a statement. The encounter happened on Wednesday.

"At no time did the Russian military aircraft cross into U.K. sovereign airspace," the statement said. During the Cold War,

Russian President Vladimir Putin overnight demanded the Kiev government tell its soldiers in the city of Debaltseve to lay down their weapons and surrender to pro-Moscow rebels.

"I hope that the Ukrainian authorities are not going to prevent the Ukrainian soldiers from laying down their weapons," Putin said in a press conference in Budapest.

North Korea conducted the first flight test of a new submarine-launched ballistic missile last month, defense officials said this week.

The flight test of what the Pentagon is calling the KN-11 missile took place Jan. 23 off the coast of North Korea from a sea-based platform — not a submarine — located off the coast of the communist state, said officials familiar with reports of the flight test.

U.S. intelligence ships and aircraft monitored the test and tracked the successful missile firing.

ALEXIS TSIPRAS QUICKLY FORMS UNEXPECTED ALLIANCE BETWEEN GREECE AND RUSSIA

EDITOR'S NOTE: Last week, NTEB released the ground-breaking story on the new Prime Minister of Greece, Alexis Tsipras, and we showed you the ASTONISHING connections between him and prophecies related to the Antichrist. So you just might want to know that his first official act is to form an alliance with...RUSSIA.

To those who have followed the EU, this is surprising and disturbing. He seems to be arrogantly distancing himself from the historical platform of the EU. Of course, Russia is not a member of this institution. Russian considers the EU to be an arch enemy, especially with sanctions being implemented against them by the EU.

Business Insider reports today that "Greek prime minister Alexis Tsipras has blasted European economic sanction on Russia over the Ukraine crisis. The left-wing firebrand accused Brussels of hypocrisy over the sanctions, saying it was unfair not to pursue Russian oligarchs with money invested overseas.

"If you want to punish Russia, you need to punish all the countries where Russian multi-billionaires have invested their assets," Tsipras told German magazine Stern. source

EUROPE IS RAPIDLY REALIGNING ITSELF BEHIND THE CHARISMATIC NEW GREEK LEADER

"But in his estate shall he honour the God of forces: and a god whom his fathers knew not shall he honour with gold, and silver, and with precious stones, and pleasant things." Daniel 11:38 (KJV)

Like Pope Francis in Rome, new Greek Prime Minister Alexis Tsipras is making dizzyingly-fast change in Greece that is having a ripple effect across Europe. The anti-God leader's example has given rise to atheist leaders in other Euro nations.

Alexis Tsipras, who was sworn in earlier this week as the new Prime Minister of Greece, has become his country's first openly atheist leader. A survey noted that atheist leaders in Europe are becoming more prominent, with France and Croatia also being led by non-religious figures.

In the wake of the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria, or ISIS, beheading 21 Coptic Christians in Libya, retired U.S. Air Force Gen. Tom McInerney is slamming the Obama administration for failing to take obvious military steps to destroy the terrorists and identify radical Islam as the motivating factor for the atrocities committed throughout the region.

McInerney is a Vietnam veteran and rose to the No. 3 position in the Air Force during his career in uniform. He is now a Fox News military analyst.

On Sunday, ISIS released a new video depicting the beheading of 21 Coptic Christians from Egypt on a beach in Libya.

U.S.-led airstrikes have been aimed at ISIS since August, after the terrorists beheaded American journalists James Foley and Steven Sotloff. However, McInerney said the operations could be far more intense and would quickly cripple the enemy if done right.

"I think the air campaign is not nearly the intensity we needed," McInerney said. "It's not even an air campaign. It's somewhere between seven and 15 sorties a day when we absolutely need upward of 100-200 sorties a day. I'm calling for 200. We need to be attacking the ISIS capital of Raqqa (Syria) 24/7. We need to close the highway between Raqqa and Mosul, Iraq."

Ed Henry today grilled White House Press Secretary Josh Earnest on why his statement on the 21 beheadings in Libya didn't mention that the victims were Christian.

"I'm curious, why didn't you mention it was 21 Christians killed by Muslims? Is that relevant?" he asked.

"It sure is, because [...] the ISIL extremists who carried out this attack indicated that the reason that they were killing them wasn't just because they were Egyptian, but also because they were Christian," Earnest responded.

Islamic State militants 'burn to death 45 in Iraq'

Jihadist militants from Islamic State (IS) have burned to death 45 people in the western Iraqi town of al-Baghdadi, the local police chief says.

Exactly who these people were and why they were killed is not clear, but Col Qasim al-Obeidi said he believed some were members of the security forces.

Col Obeidi said a compound that houses the families of security personnel and local officials was now under attack.

He pleaded for help from the government and the international community.

The fighting and poor communications in the area make it difficult to confirm such reports.

Earlier this month, IS published a video showing militants burning alive a Jordanian air force pilot, whose plane crashed in Syria in December.

ISIS' plans to conquer Europe via Libya have been revealed in letters seen by an anti-terrorism group. Owing to its perfect location on the continental doorstep, the terrorists plan to ferry fighters from North Africa across the Mediterranean.

The plans, analyzed by anti-terrorism British think tank Quilliam, outline a strategy to illegally ferry fighters across the sea from Libya into southern Europe, into ports such as Italy's southernmost island of Lampedusa, less than 300 miles (483km) away.

ISIS has threatened to flood Europe with half a million migrants from Libya in a 'psychological' attack against the West, it was claimed today.

Transcripts of telephone intercepts published in Italy claim to provide evidence that ISIS is threatening to send 500,000 migrants simultaneously out to sea in hundreds of boats in a 'psychological weapon' against Europe if there is military intervention against them in Libya.

Many would be at risk of drowning with rescue services unable to cope. But authorities fear that if numbers on this scale arrived, European cities could witness riots.

Separately, the militants hope to cement their control of Libya then cross the Mediterranean disguised as refugees, according to letters seen by Quilliam the anti-terror group, reported by the Telegraph.

The troops will guard sensitive sites and targets, including in Rome where around 500 members of the military will be deployed.

In the Italian capital the soldiers will help guard Jewish schools, the city's synagogue and diplomatic residences.

The measures, announced after a meeting of military and security officials, will be implemented until at least June.

ISIS Turns to Chemical Weapons As It Loses Ground in Iraq

THE FISCAL TIMES By Riyadh Mohammed 13 hours ago

A few weeks ago, the US Central Command announced that an air raid had killed an ISIS chemical weapon expert in Mosul. The ISIS operative, Iraqi engineer Mahmoud al-Sabawi, used to work at Saddam Hussein's chemical weapons program before he joined al-Qaeda in Iraq after the 2003 US led invasion.

The idea that ISIS terrorists have access to chemical weapons brings back images of the genocide inflicted on the Kurds by Saddam Hussein in the late 1980's. The Halabja Massacre killed up to 5,000 and injured between 7,000 and 10,000 more.

If ISIS jihadists have a stash of chemical weapons, they won't hesitate to use them on the Kurdish people or anyone else who has challenged their authority. Since President Obama has just asked Congress to for additional war powers to fight ISIS, it is important to know if the enemy has such weapons.

The Iraqi militant group Islamic State (Isis) has released a new video showing children being trained to become 'Isis cubs' in a camp based in one of its strongholds.

Some of the children shown in the new propaganda video, a PR stunt which appears consistent with earlier IS releases, are thought to be as young as five.

The nine-minute video shows the instructor training the young jihadis. The children, dressed in camouflage fatigues, are shown following the command of the senior militant.

The children are also made to recite verses from the Quran and asked questions on religion.

The Associated Press reported that a potential deal is taking shape in the talks, which began Friday, that would phase out restrictions on Iran's uranium enrichment activities in the final years — potentially allowing it to build a nuclear weapon more quickly than the one-year timeframe U.S. officials were using as the benchmark for their negotiating strategy. The timeframe of the deal is under negotiation.

Thousands of Afghan, Pakistani Shiites in Hizballah's advance on Golan

The Iranian-backed "Operation Quneitra Martyrs named for Gen. Ali Allah Dadi" to capture the Golan brings Afghan and Pakistani Shiite fighters to an Israeli border for the first time, debkafle's military and intelligence sources reveal that 2,000 of these fighters have joined an equal number of Hizballah troops, who are spearheading a march on the Golan from southern Syria, directly behind the Syrian tanks. They are acting on an order from the Iranian high command in Syria to integrate Shiite fighters from Afghanistan and Pakistan in combat for the Golan sector of the Syrian-Israeli border.

These fighters were recruited from two Shiite militias which the Revolutionary Guards Al Qods Brigades have established among Iran's minority communities, notably the Hazara and Zaynubian Militias.

Hazara has been drawn from the two million Afghan Shiite refugees who escaped to Iran in flight from persecution by Taliban and al Qaeda. Zaynubian Militia is made up of Pakistani Shiites brought to Iran for military training.

From the Israeli viewpoint, the arrival of these fighters to boost Hizballah's push in southern Syria attests to Iran's intention to expanding the Hizballah war effort against Israel - both from Syria and from Lebanon. The injection of this new strength is designed to consolidate Israel's besiegement from the east and the north by a strong, continuous Lebanese-Afghan-Shiite Shiite military belt under Iranian command, and teach them to fight Israel as an integrated force

Still, not everyone in top IDF and security top circles rates the combat capabilities of the Afghan-Pakistani contingents too highly. Some account for the slowdown of the Iranian-Syrian offensive at the beginning of this week by the disappointing performance of those Shiite forces and their failure to fully pull their weight as expected.

debkafle's military sources say that the truth of the matter is irrelevant, considering Tehran's firm determination to win a foothold on the Golan willy-nilly - even if to attain this objective, it becomes necessary to import more manpower, be they Afghans or Pakistanis, as well as adding more heavy arms.

Interestingly, a small group of Hazaras had their first Syrian experience two years ago when they were thrown into the Syrian army's battle for the town of Aleppo. They took a severe beating from Syrian rebel forces, against whom their unfamiliarity with urban guerrilla warfare and local conditions placed them at a serious disadvantage. They were pulled out and sent to Iran for extra training and reorganization and brought back to Syria at the beginning of the year.

BEIRUT — A recent surprise offensive against Syrian rebels in southern Syria, apparently directed by Iran, may have more to do with preparing a new front against Israel along the Golan Heights and deterring Jordan than with crushing armed opposition to the regime of President Bashar al-Assad.

Launched on Feb. 9, the offensive is intended to push rebel forces in the Quneitra and Deraa provinces back toward the Jordanian border. If it succeeds, the effort would enable Hezbollah, an Iranian-backed Shia group, to extend its front line with Israel from the Mediterranean coast to the Yarmouk River on the Syria-Jordan border, a distance of 114 miles. But Israel has warned that it will not tolerate Iran and Hezbollah building a military front in the Golan, its quietest border since the 1973 Arab-Israeli War, despite the ongoing Israeli occupation of the Syrian territory. In an apparent signal of that resolve, Israel last month staged a rare missile strike against a Hezbollah convoy in the Golan.

"It seems the old equation is changing," said Andrew Tabler, a Syria expert with the Washington Institute for Near East Policy in Washington, D.C. "Since 1973, Syria kept the Golan quiet while

Iran has built an active front from Israel's northern Mediterranean border adjacent to Rosh Hanikra, all the way to the Golan Heights. The goal: to undermine and wage war against the "Zionist entity" with conventional, powerful military means from within Lebanon and Syria.

So says Yigal Carmon, Counter-terrorism Adviser to prime ministers Yitzhak Shamir and Yitzhak Rabin, and founder and president of the prestigious Middle East Media Research Institute (MEMRI).

"Iran has taken advantage of the chaos in the Middle East to form a united front from Tehran, through Baghdad, Syria and Lebanon," Carmon told Kol Yisrael public radio on Monday. "It has turned Syria into a Hezbollah-state for this purpose, and is making inroads into the PA-controlled areas in Judea, Samaria and Gaza for this purpose."

Carmon and his MEMRI colleague Yael Yehoshua publicized a ten-page treatise on the topic last week, but it has received relatively little publicity.

Iran has several objectives, Carmon explained: "These include deterring Israel from attacking Iran's nuclear capabilities, capturing the Golan from Israel, and the like – but these are sub-objectives. Their main goal is ultimately to destroy Israel."

More Prophecy Players Making Moves as Russia offers Iran the latest anti-aircraft missiles

Bible Prophecy Players are coming into Play more and More as Russia, a major player in the future "War of Gog and Magog" mentioned in Ezekiel Chapters 38 and 39 in the Bible has offered Iran its latest Antey-2500 missiles, the head of Russian state defense conglomerate Rostec said on Monday, after a deal to supply less powerful S-300 missiles was dropped under Western pressure. Russia scrapped a contract to supply Iran with S-300 surface-to-air missiles under Western pressure in 2010, and Iran later filed a $4-billion international arbitration suit against Russia in Geneva, but the two countries remain allies. The United States and Israel lobbied Russia to block the missile sale, saying it could be used to shield Iran's nuclear facilities from possible future air strikes. There was no immediate response to Chemezov's comments from Iran, Israel or the United States. "As far as Iran is concerned, we offered Antey-2500 instead of S-300. They are thinking. No decision has been made yet," Chemezov was quoted as saying. Rostec includes state-owned arms exporting monopoly Rosoboronexport, which has the sole right to export and import arms in Russia. FULL STORY

Greece is on the brink of exiting the European Union as concerns grow

Germany and Greece face a dramatic eurozone showdown which could see Athens abandon the single currency to ease crippling austerity. Euro finance ministers will hold crisis talks as a deadline for Greece to request an extension to its €240 billion (£178bn) bailout program looms. The last tranche of rescue money destined for Athens will be withheld unless the Greeks agree to more spending cuts and tax hikes. Surrendering the lifeline would leave Greece unable to pay its debts – paving the way for a "Grexit". Germany has rejected Greek requests for a fresh six-month assistance package that would have reduced Berlin-backed austerity. The decision means Athens is likely to run out of money by the end of the month if a deal is not reached. The fall-out from a Greek exit would unleash a disastrous ripple effect, eventually hitting Britain and impacting on the UK economy. Its last-ditch plea for a new settlement came less than four weeks after the left-wing Syriza coalition swept to power promising to end austerity. But Berlin said it was "not a substantial proposal for a solution" – opening a rift with the European Commission which had branded the request "positive" only moments earlier. Greek finance minister Yanis Varoufakis had written to the "Eurogroup" promising to use the six months "to attain fiscal and financial stability". He said a deal would "enable the Greek government to introduce the substantive, far-reaching reforms that are needed to restore the living standards of millions of Greek citizens through sustainable economic growth, gainful employment and social cohesion". MIRROR

The Historical Case for Europe to Recognize Palestine

Up until the June 1967 war, Israel had generally had strong support in Europe based on political, historical, moral and legal claims to the land. Two decades earlier, most West European countries had been among the first to recognize Israel when the state was founded in 1948. That recognition is as strong as ever and almost no prominent European politician, intellectual or academic would today question Israel's right to exist within its internationally recognized borders. During the June 1967 war, Israel tripled its size and the occupation of what the international community sees as the Palestinian territories began. The occupation has now lasted for almost 50 years, despite the fact that not a single country in the world recognizes it. The same is true for Israel's annexations of the Golan Heights and East Jerusalem. As the first 20 years of the occupation, between 1967 and 1987, saw comparatively little violence, observers in Europe back then talked about a light, benign or even enlightened occupation. This talk quickly disappeared after the outbreak of the first intifada in Gaza in 1987, when then Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin gave the Israeli security forces order to break arms and legs of the stone-throwing Palestinian youngsters, which they also did. Israel's main dilemma was — and still is — that it wants the land, particularly the West Bank and East Jerusalem, but not

"You had to live—did live, from habit that became instinct—in the assumption that every sound you made was overheard, and, except in darkness, every movement scrutinized."—George Orwell, 1984

Today, there's little room for indiscretions, imperfections, or acts of independence—especially not when the government can listen in on your phone calls, monitor your driving habits, track your movements, scrutinize your purchases and peer through the walls of your home.

That's because technology—specifically the technology employed by the government against the American citizenry—has upped the stakes dramatically so that there's little we do that is not known by the government.

In such an environment, you're either a paragon of virtue, or you're a criminal.

If you haven't figured it out yet, we're all criminals. This is the creepy, calculating yet diabolical genius of the American police state: the very technology we hailed as revolutionary and liberating has become our prison, jailer, probation officer, Big Brother and Father Knows Best all rolled into one.

Consider that on any given day, the average American going about his daily business will be monitored, surveilled, spied on and tracked in more than 20 different ways, by both government and corporate eyes and ears.

Earlier this week John Williams warned that hyperinflation will begin to appear in America sometime in 2015. He noted that, though the dollar is currently strong compared to other fiat money, signs that a currency collapse is coming will begin with the sell-off of the U.S. dollar.

It's a known fact that the Russians and Chinese have already begun divesting themselves of dollar dependency by implementing trade agreements that completely sidestep the world's reserve currency, but there has been no overt sign of a sell-off that might be indicative of a coming attack on our currency.

Until now, that is.

According to a report from Zero Hedge the Russians have already started unloading their dollar reserves. In the month of December alone they sold a record $22 billion in U.S. Treasuries. While this may not seem like a big number, it is over 20% of their total US dollar holdings.

Third banker mysteriously dies this year, joining 36 banker deaths from 2014

A third international banker has died mysteriously since the first of the year, following an unusual amount of deaths among the financial professionals — 36 — in all of 2014. As reported by Zero Hedge, the latest casualty is Chris Van Eeghen, 42, of Amsterdam firm ABN Amro, who reportedly took his own life, though it came as a major shock to most who knew him. What's more, Van Eeghen is the fourth ABN Amro banker to "take their own life" in the past few years. As further reported by Quote magazine, the suicide of Van Eeghen — who was head of corporate finance and capital markets — "startled" his friends and colleagues, who all said he "had a great reputation" at work, had come from an "illustrious family," and briefly enjoyed national fame as the boyfriend of a famous model/actress. As one colleague noted, "He was always cheerful, good mood, and apparently he had everything your heart desired. He never sat in the pit, never was down, so I was extremely surprised. I can not understand." Zero Hedge reported that one of Van Eeghen's colleagues noted recently that his job title on his Facebook page was prefaced by the word "former." Again, in all, 36 bankers and financial pros died last year, and that has a number of observers shaking their heads, including Rick Moran over at The American Thinker website: This is either the most interesting case of coincidental deaths or one of the most evil plots in modern history. An Iraqi archbishop has warned a gathering of U.K. peers and MPs that Christians in the region face being wiped off the map without direct military action on the ground.

Archbishop Warda, of the Catholic Chaldean Church, said that Iraq's Christian communities had fallen "dramatically" over the last 10 years.

Islamist aggression has prompted tens of thousands of Iraqi Christians and Yazidis to flee their homes. In the summer of 2014, Islamic State militants warned Christians to renounce their faith or face death.

"We don't have much time left as Christians in this region," the archbishop told the Westminster gathering of cross-party MPs and peers.

"As a Catholic I find it hard to say, but I want military action, there is no other way now."

The archbishop explained that air strikes were "not enough" to defeat Islamic State fighters and asked for Western ground troops to be deployed.

Plight of Middle East Christians is the Greatest Tragedy Since World War II, Says Patriarch

Catholic News Service

Posted 2015-02-20 22:04 GMT

The Middle East is suffering a "Way of the Cross" that is the greatest tragedy since World War Two, Melkite Catholic Patriarch Gregoire III Laham said in his Lenten message.

He said the Church, despite its efforts, is having difficulty meeting the growing needs it faces in the region.

"We fail in front of the suffering of our people in all walks of life, Christians and Muslims. It's a universal suffering," he said.

"We as pastors are with our people, at their side, in front of them, behind them," Patriarch Laham said, adding that it is "as if we wash the feet of those who are suffering as Jesus washed the feet of his disciples."

"We are in the fifth year of the Way of the Cross," especially in Syria, Iraq and the Palestinian territories and also in Lebanon, "which is affected in a tragic way by war, which rages around it," Patriarch Laham said.

Melkite Patriarch Gregoire III Laham (CNS).

He continued: "This is a tragedy of the greatest tragedies of history -- not just in the region, but in the world -- since World War Two.

"We call on all citizens and our children (to work together and with Pope Francis) to not let the flame of hope be extinguished in your hearts."

The Syrian-born prelate pointed out that Lebanon has accepted waves of displaced people and refugees: from Palestine since 1949, from Syria since 2011 and, currently and in stages, from Iraq.

Lebanon is now hosting more than 1.5 million refugees -- mostly Syrians and an increasing flow of Iraqi Christians -- putting a strain on the country's infrastructure and resources for its existing population of around four million people.

"How many have heard about all the stories of suffering," he said. He noted that although the Church encourages the faithful in the region to remain and hold on "with ropes of hope and faith and surrender to the will of God," at the same time, the decision whether to stay or to leave one's country "is a personal decision and responsibility of every individual and every family."

"But we as pastors, we will remain with all who remain, and serve them ... with all our strength," Patriarch Laham added.

He thanked Muslims who urged Christians to remain in the Middle East. They have included leaders of Al-Azhar University, Sunni Islam's leading institution of higher learning, and Egyptian President Abdel Fattah al-Sisi.

In a separate Lenten message, Cardinal Bechara Rai, Maronite Catholic patriarch, called for greater efforts to preserve the Christian presence in the Middle East.

"You know, my brothers and sisters, loved ones, how the needs of our people in Lebanon, Syria, Iraq, Egypt and the Holy Land are growing, because of the wars and destruction and displacement, as well as displacement and impoverishment due to the economic crisis and rising costs of living, unemployment and limited job opportunities," the Lebanese cardinal said.

He urged people to participate in Caritas Lebanon's annual fundraising campaign "geared to meet these needs," which he said must be addressed in charity and love. He also assured people that "Christ is capable of renewing everything around us."

We are learning more and more about Obama's supposed conference on "extremism" and one thing we've discovered is that Obama had the thing opened up with a Muslim prayer. But no other religions were allowed to participate in the event. Worse, Vice President Joe Biden was then heard saying that it is Christians who are the violent murderers.

After President Barack Obama said this week that "Islam has been woven into the fabric of our country since its founding," Glenn Beck asked historian David Barton to come on his radio program and share some examples of what the president meant.

"In all the reading I've done, thousands of books, there's nothing there," Barton said on Friday. "I mean, we know that Muslims were the folks who captured the slaves sent to America, largely out of Africa. ... The Muslims did the slave hunting and the slave trading, et cetera. The first Muslims came to America as a result of the Muslims capturing them and sending them to the Dutch traders."

Barton said that beyond their heavy involvement in the slave trade, America was at war with the Barbary pirates shortly after the founding of the country, but those were "the two biggest contributions."

"This is the fabric," Beck said with heavy sarcasm. "I mean, it's practically the whole blanket."

Lawmakers Urge Archbishop to Remove Morality Clauses

AP California lawmakers are urging the archbishop of San Francisco to remove morality clauses from a teachers' handbook they say are discriminatory.

Eight state lawmakers on Tuesday sent a letter to Archbishop Salvatore Cordileone saying the clauses "foment a discriminatory environment."

Cordileone earlier this month presented teachers at the archdiocese's four high schools with a statement that says Catholic school employees are expected to conduct their public lives in a way that doesn't undermine or deny the church's doctrine.

The statement outlines the church's teaching that using contraception is a sin and that sex outside of marriage, whether it is in the form of adultery, masturbation, pornography or gay sex, is "gravely evil."

The archbishop said the statement would be added to the faculty handbooks.

RIO GRANDE VALLEY, Texas – A truck driver in Texas says that he was fired for listing Jesus as his co-driver on log sheets that he is required to complete.

According to reports, all truck drivers across the United States must keep a logbook, and one of the sections asks for the name of the co-driver.

Ramiro Olivarez decided to write in Jesus in the section since he rides by himself, but believes that God is always with him.

"The graph on there is strictly Ramiro Olivarez. And Jesus is my co-driver, and that's my belief. That he's with me," he told KRGV-TV.

In the name of anti-discrimination, the City Council of Charlotte, North Carolina, is poised to discriminate against people of conservative moral values, also imposing the struggles of a tiny minority on every man, woman and child who lives or works in Charlotte or might happen to visit the city.

It's wake-up time, Charlotte! It's not too late to make a change.

According to an in-depth review by a team of lawyers with the Alliance Defending Freedom, a new bill, which the City Council will vote on after a public meeting on Monday, Feb. 23, "does not contain adequate safeguards for constitutionally protected speech and free exercise of religion."

If the bill is passed, it would raise the following legal concerns:

- 1) "It will infringe First Amendment free speech and free exercise rights by requiring business owners to engage in certain activities, or support certain messages, in violation of their religious beliefs."

وأوردت الطبعة الدولية لصحيفة "زي نيوز" الهدية الثلاثاء 6-2-2007، أن المسلمين الذين يعتنقون المسيحية يبتذون من قبل عائلاتهم ويتلقون تهديدات بالقتل، مشيرة إلى أن عشرة آلاف مسلم اعتنقوا الكاثوليكية فيما اعتنق 5 آلاف منهم البروتستانتية.

Barronelle Stutzman, a Washington State florist who declined to provide flowers for a gay wedding, has rejected a deal by the attorney general's office that would've forced her to betray her religious beliefs – much like Judas betrayed Jesus.

A legal case over a public school in California that has students "bowing to the sun god" is looming in an appeals court, where a team of lawyers advocating for student and parental rights is challenging the Encinitas Union School District's Ashtanga yoga program.

It has broad implications, and it's getting attention not just in the United States but worldwide.

Austria, for example, recently removed a similar teaching from its classes because it conflicts with students' Catholic beliefs, and the Indian Supreme Court is examining whether the Ashtanga yoga

Pastor: Christianity Irrelevant if it Continues Quoting The Bible

Says church must accept homosexuality

Rob Bell, former megachurch pastor turned spiritual advisor to Oprah Winfrey, said that the culture is ready to embrace homosexuality and same-sex marriage and if the church hopes to stay relevant, it must accept those relationships and stop looking to the Bible as its best defense.

Bell was recently asked by Winfrey on her network's show, Super Soul Sunday, how close Christian churches are to accepting homosexuality. Bell said they are "close" and warned that if they don't, they will become even more irrelevant than before:

I think culture is already there and the church will continue to be even more irrelevant when it quotes letters from 2,000 years ago as their best defense, when you have in front of you flesh-and-blood people who are your brothers and sisters, and aunts and uncles, and co-workers and neighbors, and they love each other and just want to go through life with someone.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — The governor of Alabama, who also serves as a deacon and Sunday school teacher at First Baptist Church Tuscaloosa, says that he will obey the recent federal court ruling striking down the state's Sanctity of Marriage Act as being unconstitutional.

Gov. Robert Bentley told Politico on Friday while attending a meeting of the National Governor's Association in Washington, D.C. that he believes he must obey the courts even if he disagrees with them personally.

"[I would] never do anything to disobey a federal court ruling," he told the outlet when asked about last month's same-sex "marriage" decision, which Alabama Supreme Court Chief Justice Roy Moore has called on others to fight.

"We are a nation under laws," Bentley said. "We may not always agree with them, but we obey them."

The governor, who teaches at First Baptist Church Tuscaloosa under the leadership of Gil McKee, additionally told AlabamaNews that while he and Moore have the same convictions, they differ when it comes to compliance with federal court rulings. He said that he would not punish probate judges who decided to issue same-sex "marriage" licenses, nor those who have refused to do so, but will wait to hear from the U.S. Supreme Court on the issue.

"I don't want Alabama portrayed in a negative light because when it's portrayed in a negative light, it doesn't help me to recruit jobs in Alabama," he said. "So I'm hurting families when I can't help people get a job in this state."

If you haven't noticed, there's been a mass exodus of Bible-believing congregations from the Presbyterian Church USA since the denomination voted to allow its ministers to perform gay weddings in states where it's legal last summer.

Apparently, the Methodists aren't getting the hint. The United Methodist Church could have openly gay pastors and pastors could officiate at same-sex marriages if a proposal affirmed by denomination leadership prevails, according to a report from Methodist headquarters.

Instead of embracing the truth espoused by the Trinity, the denomination's "Connection Table"—a United Methodist body of clergy and lay people that acts as a church counsel for the denomination—is working to draft legislation that could serve as a "Third Way" in the church's debate about homosexuality. The group has already voted to remove language that makes it a "chargeable offense" under church law for pastors to be "self-avowed practicing homosexuals" or to officiate at same-sex weddings, according to the

Michelle Obama speaks at veterans group and lauds gay marriage

(Allen B. West) -- I want to take the time to thank first lady Michele Obama for speaking at a recent event hosted by Got Your Six, a group that seeks to ensure positive portrayals of veterans in the popular culture.

On its website the organization says, "Through entertainment industry partners, Got Your 6 works to normalize the depictions of veterans on film and television to dispel common myths about the veteran population."

Mrs. Obama was even kind enough to share with the crowd that she recently viewed the movie American Sniper during her recent travels to India and Saudi Arabia — and hat tip to her for not bowing to the repressive Saudis and wearing any head covering.

Regarding "American Sniper," CNS News said "Mrs. Obama praised the hit movie "American Sniper," and called on the screenwriters to present more veterans in their work.
