اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأیضا أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن ایضا علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. ونذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء

المسيح بل ایضا قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر

هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان

عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيقة اقتربت

جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم ياتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

المسيح قال بعض العلامات مثل

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

السماء

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

أولا لكيلا نرتاع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

ثانيا لنؤمن

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَانَتْ تُؤْمِنُونَ.

ثالثا لننتبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

A dark line more than half a million miles long curves across the lower half of the sun in a gorgeous photo snapped by a NASA spacecraft.

The line is what scientists call a solar filament, a large region of dense, cool gas held in place by magnetic fields. If stretched into a straight line, the filament would be more than 533,000 miles (858,000 kilometers) long, according to NASA officials — the equivalent of about 67 Earths arrayed side-by-side.

NASA's Solar Dynamics Observatory (SDO), which took the image on Feb. 10, registers colder materials in the sun's atmosphere as dark, and hotter materials as bright.

"SDO captured images of the filament in numerous wavelengths, each of which helps highlight material of different temperatures on the sun," NASA officials wrote in a description of the image.

Capturing images of filaments at different wavelengths and temperatures helps scientists learn more about what causes them. Red images, which highlight plasma at temperatures of 90,000 degrees Fahrenheit (50,000 degrees Celsius), are good for observing filaments as they form and erupt, NASA officials said.

The Feb. 10 filament was plenty big, certainly, but the sun has hosted even larger ones in the past. In October 2014, for example, SDO spotted a filament 1 million miles long — more than 100 times the width of the Earth and longer than the diameter of the sun, which is about 865,000 miles (1.39 billion km).

NASA on alert as HUGE Asteroid 2014-YB35 set to 'skim past Earth' at 23,000 mph on FRIDAY

A 1,000 metre wide asteroid will skim past earth

The 1,000-metre wide monster will hurtle terrifyingly close to the planet within days, sparking fears of an unprecedented disaster.

The object called '2014-YB35' is almost the same size as Ben Nevis and will skim the Earth on FRIDAY travelling at more than 23,000 mph.

Small meteorites often pass close by however one of this size is a once in 5,000-year occurrence, according to concerned astronomers.

A massive asteroid, capable of wiping out an entire country, is on a near-collision route towards Earth.

The 1000-metre wide mammoth asteroid has sparked fears of an unprecedented disaster, as it travels at a speed of more than 36,000km/h.

Small meteorites pass by Earth regularly, but one of this size is an occurrence that only happens once in 5000 years.

The impact would reportedly trigger earthquakes, tsunamis and devastating changes in climate.

If the asteroid, called 2014-YB35, did collide with Earth, it would unleash an explosive force equivalent to more than 15,000 tonnes.

"Smaller scale events like Tunguska are absolutely a real risk, largely they are undiscovered and so we are unprepared," Bill Napier, professor of astronomy at the University of Buckinghamshire, told the Daily Express.

"With something like YB35, we are looking at a scale of global destruction, something that would pose a risk to the continuation of the planet," he continued.

Massive hailstones from 'out of nowhere' pummel southern Queensland town of Chinchilla

By Rachel Rigga and Bridget Judd
Updated Sun at 6:20pm

Hailstones larger than cricket balls have pummelled the town of Chinchilla in Queensland's southern inland, causing widespread damage to the area.

The hailstorm that hit late on Saturday afternoon also brought strong winds and heavy rain.

Hailstones up to 12 centimetres in diameter hit businesses along the Warrego Highway, and the region received more than 75 millimetres of rain in less than two hours.

Chinchilla resident Mark Kurtz said the hail cut power to parts of the town, broke windows and damaged cars.

"A tree landed on top of the house next door to us and on the other side they had a hailstone go through their window and there's quite a few people around town who've had that problem," he said.

"I've been in Chinchilla for 30 years, I've never seen hail like that come through here anyway."

Local watermelon farmer and cattle breeder Terry O'Leary said his car was a write-off.

"Both the front and rear windscreen have been completely smashed in, all the windows on one side have been smashed in, the hail was even that strong it knocked the front bumper bar off," he said.

"And then the whole bodyworks of the car copped a real pizzling as well."

More than 15,000 buildings without power after Oklahoma tornadoes

Thu Mar 26, 2015 2:29pm EDT

By Heide Brandes

OKLAHOMA CITY (Reuters) - About 15,000 homes and businesses in Oklahoma and Arkansas were without power on Thursday after tornadoes touched down in the states a day earlier, leaving at least one person dead and scores of structures damaged.

School were closed in parts of Oklahoma and clean up was under way from the twisters that hit near Tulsa, Oklahoma City and in northwest Arkansas. Oklahoma Governor Mary Fallin declared a state of emergency in 25 counties.

"Last night's storms led to widespread damage throughout a large portion of the state," Fallin said on Thursday.

In the Tulsa suburb of Sand Springs, one person was killed in a trailer park when a tornado ripped through the area. At least 60 buildings were damaged, including a gymnastics studio with about 60 people inside that had its roof ripped off. No one was severely injured in that incident.

Another tornado was spotted in Moore, Oklahoma, where police said multiple buildings were damaged and vehicles overturned. The Oklahoma City suburb was hit by a tornado in 2013 that killed 24 and injured more than 300.

The Moore Public School District said that one elementary school had its roof torn off, and several nearby homes were struck.

Flood Alerts Issued in Kashmir as Rivers Cross Danger Mark

Hundreds of Kashmiris in both India and Pakistan moved to higher ground Monday as rain-swollen rivers swamped parts of the disputed Himalayan region placed under an emergency flood alert just six months after some 600 people died in flooding that left the region in shambles.

Officials ordered residents along the banks of the Jhelum River to move to relief camps as the water crossed the danger threshold in Srinagar, the main city in Indian-controlled Kashmir.

More than a dozen people were trapped inside two houses that partially sank into the ground after a landslide hit Laden village in Budgam district, police said. Rescuers pulled out the bodies of four men from the huge piles of mud that buried the houses, said Manoj Pandit, a police spokesman. Rescue workers were searching for at least 10 others who were in the buildings when they were hit by the landslide, he said.

The flooding after three days of heavy rain renewed fears among the tens of thousands who have struggled to rebuild after flooding in September destroyed thousands of homes and infrastructure worth $17 billion. For days in September, many residents were left stranded on rooftops or the upper floors of buildings as bloated livestock carcasses floated by. For weeks, heaps of garbage piled up in the waterlogged city.

"My house has been submerged," Srinagar resident Zareena Bano said. "Last year, too, it was submerged, and today again. I feel helpless."

After many faulted the government last year for failing to anticipate such flooding, and for taking too long to respond, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday dispatched a special team to assess the threat and to get relief efforts moving.

The government of the Indian-controlled portion of the region had issued a flood warning Sunday night as river levels approached the danger mark. On Monday, a junior minister assured that the central government was working with the region to offer whatever help it could.

The Euphrates is drying up. Strangled by the water policies of Iraq’s neighbors, Turkey and Syria; a two-year drought; and years of misuse by Iraq and its farmers, the river is significantly smaller than it was just a few years ago. Some officials worry that it could soon be half of what it is now.

Top official delivers bleak forecast for Lake Mead

STEPHEN'S WASHINGTON BUREAU

WASHINGTON — Nevada faces "significant possibilities" of water shortages if drought on the Colorado River persists into the next two years, according to an ominous forecast delivered Wednesday by a top government official.

Michael Connor, deputy secretary of the Interior Department, said there is a 20 percent chance of shortages in Nevada and Arizona in 2018 if levels of Lake Mead and Lake Powell continue to drop, "and it goes up to almost 50 percent after that."

Connor briefed members of the House Interior subcommittee who met to review the department's budget request for the coming year. Connor, the department's No. 2 leader and its ranking expert on water, appeared alongside Interior Secretary Sally Jewell.

Deep 7.7 magnitude earthquake strikes PNG – 3rd major quake to hit the region in 4 months

March 2015 – PAPUA NEW GUINEA – A 7.7-magnitude earthquake has struck off the coast of Papua New Guinea, with the epicenter located 54 kilometers southeast of Kokopo, according to the US Geological Survey (USGS). The Pacific Tsunami Warning Center has warned that "hazardous tsunami waves are possible for coasts located within 1,000 km (620 miles) of the earthquake epicenter along the coasts of Papua New Guinea and the Solomon Islands." It added that no major destructive tsunami was expected in the Pacific. There were no immediate reports of damage or injuries. The region was struck by a 6.8 magnitude earthquake on December 6, 2014, and by a 6.3 magnitude earthquake on March 15, 2015. -RT

SYDNEY (AP) — A powerful earthquake rattled the South Pacific nation of Papua New Guinea on Monday, generating a small tsunami and frightening locals near the epicenter, but prompting no reports of damage or injuries.

A tsunami of half a meter (1.5 feet) was measured in the harbor of Rabaul, a town near the epicenter of the magnitude-7.7 earthquake, said Martin Mose, acting director for Papua New Guinea's National Disaster Center. The quake struck at a depth of 65 kilometers (40 miles), about 50 kilometers (30 miles) southeast of the town of Kokopo, near Rabaul, in northeastern Papua New Guinea, the U.S. Geological Survey reported.

The Pacific Tsunami Warning Center had warned that tsunami waves up to 3 meters (10 feet) could strike parts of Papua New Guinea, and waves of less than 0.3 meters (1 foot) could hit other Pacific countries, as far north as Russia. The center lifted the warning a few hours later, after reporting a 3-centimeter (1-inch) tsunami wave was measured at a wharf in the Solomon Islands, about 450 kilometers (280 miles) from the epicenter.

In Rabaul, residents noticed the sea level rose slightly, prompting ocean water to flood the parking lot of a shopping center near the beach, said Mika Tuvi, an employee at the Rabaul Hotel. "But nothing beyond that — no damage caused," she said.

When the quake struck, guests and workers at the hotel fled outside, fearing the building would collapse, Tuvi said. The tremors, which lasted for about 5 minutes, were frightening in their intensity, but the hotel withstood the shaking, she said.

Officials in the capital, Port Moresby, were working to contact their counterparts in the outer provinces, but hours after the quake, there still had been no reports of damage or injuries, said Mose, of the national disaster center. He said he was confident the nation had averted a major catastrophe.

The quake caused strong shaking and knocked items off shelves in Kokopo, and was felt 800 kilometers (500 miles) away in Port Moresby, said Chris McKee, assistant director of the Geophysical Observatory in Port Moresby.

Franz Josef asked to prepare for Alpine Fault earthquake

Franz Josef township faces tough decisions to prepare for an Alpine Fault earthquake.

A West Coast community will need to consider drastic changes to its town to prepare for an inevitable Alpine Fault earthquake.

The fault runs diagonally through Franz Josef township and geologists have recommended a "fault avoidance zone" 100 metres either side to protect buildings.

GNS Science sent four of its geologists to Franz Josef to talk about what will happen when the Alpine Fault ruptures.

The 600-kilometre fault has ruptured five times in the past 1100 years. Each time it produced an earthquake of magnitude 7.0 to 8.0, the last being in 1717.

Dr Ursula Cochran said studying the fault was complicated because different sections had ruptured at different times.

The 9.0 Tohoku earthquake damaged thousands of buildings when it ripped through Japan four years ago. Much of that debris is gone now, but the broken buildings had an invisible effect, too: The earthquake released thousands of tons of ozone-destroying greenhouse gases into the air.

The chemicals, called halocarbons, came from old insulation, refrigerators, and electrical equipment damaged in the quake. Air quality monitoring stations recorded a major spike in halocarbon emissions in 2011. In a paper published in Geophysical Research Letters, scientists estimate that these "extraordinary halocarbon emissions" from the earthquake added up to 6,600 metric tons of gases.

Quakes increasing: volcanic alert raised for Mount Ngauruhoe after 40 year slumber

Posted on March 24, 2015

March 2015 – NEW ZEALAND - GNS Science has increased the volcanic alert level for Mount Ngauruhoe after an increase in the number of earthquakes around the volcano. Duty volcanologist Art Jolly said the change at Ngauruhoe indicated the volcano had entered a state of minor volcanic unrest prompting the alert level to be lifted from zero to one. During the past three weeks there has been an increase in the number and magnitude of earthquakes recorded by the GeoNet seismographs around Mt Ngauruhoe.

Swarms of earthquakes around Ngauruhoe have been recorded in the past, most recently in December 2014. Jolly said it was "more likely than not" the unrest would not result in an eruption in the short term. GNS Science would continue to monitor the volcano closely. Initial analysis indicates the earthquakes around the volcano were shallow, occurring at depths of less than about 5kms. The last major eruption at Ngauruhoe was in 1975, although earthquakes near the volcano are not unusual.

Mount Ngauruhoe is an active stratovolcano or composite cone in New Zealand, made from layers of lava and tephra. It is the youngest vent in the Tongariro volcanic complex on the Central Plateau of the North Island, and first erupted about 2,500 years ago. Although seen by most as a volcano in its own right, it is technically a secondary cone of Mount Tongariro. The volcano lies between the active volcanoes of Mount Tongariro to the north and Mount Ruapehu to the south, to the west of the Rangipo Desert and 25 kilometres to the south of the southern shore of Lake Taupo. -Stuff NZ

Eruption of Russian volcano blamed for mysterious ash rain over U.S. Pacific Northwest

Posted on March 25, 2015

March 2015 – OREGON - A few weeks ago residents of Oregon and Washington observed a strange milky rain. As per the reports, the rain contains equal quantity of water and ashes. The officials of Washington and Oregon gathered samples of mysterious ash like rain fall for analysis. They are trying hard to determine the origin and reason of the ashes. Recently, a group of scientists come up with a theory that a Russian volcano is responsible for such kind of strange rain. Shiveluch volcano is situated at Kamchatka Krai in Russia. It is considered as one of the hyperactive volcanoes of the world. On the 26th of January, a large quantity of ash plumes erupted from the volcano.

Afterwards, the ash covered majority of the regions of Oregon and Washington. Therefore, the concerned authorities suppose that global wind currents carried the ash plumes from the north-eastern Russia. Ashes have the ability to travel long distance through wind current. They can even effortlessly cross the whole continent in a very short time period. Nevertheless, there could be numerous other reasons behind the strange ash rainfall. There are several other volcanoes that can be blamed for such rain. Derek Vandam, a meteorologist at CNN discussed other possibilities of unusual rain. He informs that a volcano expulsion in Colmia is second major suspect of the researchers. The particular volcano is located approximately 2,000

Chile issues orange alert for Villarrica volcano as plumes of ash terrorize town below

- The volcano erupted earlier this month, triggering evacuations of thousands of people, including tourists
- Residents in Pucon, a resort town near the volcano, were fearful that clouds of smoke could signal another eruption was on its way
- The March eruption was Villarrica's first major eruption since 1984

A steady stream of smoke and ash leaking from the Villarrica volcano has residents of a nearby town wondering if - or when - disaster might strike. Chilean officials raised threat levels to orange on Wednesday due to increasing signs of activity in the 2840-meter tall volcano, leaving area residents fearful of an eruption.

'No one can sleep peacefully because the other day the eruption surprised us at 3 in the morning,' said Francisco Valenzuela, a tour guide in the nearby resort town of Pucon.

USGS upgrades Aleutian volcano alert level

Megan Edge | March 25, 2015

 Email

Citing increased seismic intensity, the U.S. Geological Survey is upgrading the volcano alert level status for Semisopochnoi, an Aleutian Island volcano, to "advisory," the agency said in a notice issued Wednesday morning.

Seismic activity at the Semisopochnoi volcano began in January, but "has increased in intensity over the past few days," USGS wrote in the notice. "In addition, we have detected brief periods of seismic tremor, which can indicate movement of magma or magmatic gases."

Semisopochnoi is remote even by Alaska standards. It lies on an island of the same name some 127 miles from Adak and 1,283 miles from Anchorage.

The volcano last erupted in 1987.

Semisopochnoi Island is shown in this November 2012 photo. The USGS upgraded the island's volcano alert level status to "advisory" and its aviation code to "yellow" Wednesday after an increase in seismic activity.

Sinabung volcano (Sumatra): eruption news and activity updates

Sinabung volcano (Sumatra, Indonesia) update: growing lava lobe, pyroclastic flows

Monday Mar 30, 2015 09:23 AM | BY: T

Active lava lobe and incandescent rockfalls at
Sinabung in March 2015

The volcano continues to effuse a viscous lava lobe from its summit crater. Frequent rockfalls and pyroclastic flows occur due to partial collapses of the sticky lava masses on the steep upper slope.

Our friend Bastien Poux who has been observing the volcano during the past weeks sent us the following report:

"I have been watching the Sinabung volcano for the last two weeks, there is a big lava lobe hanging at the summit, you can see it glow at night. Debris flows are getting bigger and more frequent, usually the rocks come from the side of the lobe, where it is contact with the walls made of older formations (sign the the lobe moves forward), between 10 and 25 times a day, going down the flank to distances between 500 and 2000m in general, couple of them went to 3000m yesterday when a big piece of the frontal part of the lobe collapsed.

There is still a 5km forbidden perimeter, more or less respected by the people who want to go back in their houses after being refugees for 18 months."

Dramatic video of a Brazilian passenger bus being swallowed by a sinkhole and spit out into a nearby river is going viral across the web.

The incident happened in the state of Para in northern Brazil during recent flooding. Luckily, all the passengers of the bus escaped before the vehicle was swept away, according to the BBC.

The bus became stuck on the road near the cities of Itaituba and Ruropolis, leading all the passengers to evacuate. The ground gave out soon after and the bus was carried down the nearby river.

The video comes on the heels of a bus crash in Brazil that killed 54 people earlier this month. That bus plunged nearly 400 metres down the steep slope of mountain near the city of Joinville, about 950 kilometres southwest of Rio de Janeiro.

Critical the situation of the farmers of the dam of Bethany, who are concerned about the amount of dead fish and say that to date have already lost about 80 tonnes between tilapia and milkfish.

The high mortality of fish has disturbed fish farmers Campoalegre a sector, through which the reservoir of Bethany, who claim that this week the mortality rate has increased dramatically.

The death toll reached 80 fish and milkfish and tilapia tonnes between, and last but not least, the flow of the dam that is filled of Magdalena, Yaguará and Paez rivers has decreased dramatically, reaching the low of 71 meters cubic per second occurred despite the rainy season currently lives in that sector of Huila, when above water ingress up to 250 or 300 cubic meters per second was recorded last Monday.

Although the real reasons that led to this worrying situation are unknown, workers from different companies of fish in the area, assume that the failure is due to the rapid decline of water in Bethany.

The bodies of 21 pelicans were found in the Srebarna nature reserve in northeastern Bulgaria on Tuesday.

The likely causes of the birds' death are disease, poisoning or overpopulation of the colony, private bTV station reports.

The reserve has a pelican colony consisting of 65 couples and during the inspection on Tuesday newly-hatched pelicans were discovered.

Employees at the reserve and local residents claim that there has been no such mass death of birds until now.

The pelican colony had not been inspected as the birds should not be disturbed during their nesting period.

It was announced that the measures against bird flu, which had been introduced in the beginning of the year, will remain in force and monitoring of the reserve will continue.

White immovable birds had been spotted through the reserve's video surveillance system, but they were not identified until Tuesday.

The regional environmental and water inspection in Ruse has informed the Ministry of Environment and Water of the incident.

The ice receded and the disaster revealed itself...

The warmer weather affects me like paroled madman every year and I find myself standing on the boat ramp at Spencer Lake Wildlife area, flanked by my fellow former inmates; sportsmen so anxious to get in their boats and go fishing that they too want to see just how much the ice has drawn back from the shore. It's not much, mere inches, and every night it refreezes so it's slow going before we'll be pitching crankbaits at submerged tree stumps here. But as the ice draws back, it offers up a grizzly find and our sunny hearts sink. At the end of the dock we see a dead three pound Smallmouth and a what is certainly a Fish-Ohio Award Crappie. What joy these fish would have brought on the end of a line in the sun of a mid-summer evening. Now they just float here white and water-logged, belly up waiting to have their bones picked by crows or marauding seagulls, venturing far in from Lake Erie's shore to feast on this macabre buffet of death.

Gizzard Shad are everywhere; usually a nuisance to fisherman but an important food source for the larger gamefish and bass that are so popular at this lake. Now the food chain is damaged if not broken, and although some dead fish are normal to find in the Spring, you could almost step from one to the next all the way around the shore. Panfish carcasses are numerous in the kill but probably underrepresented for as many of them as this lake holds. In warmer times this is the perfect place to take the kids and spend the happiest of days catching bluegill after bluegill while lurching on bologna sandwiches. Now I'm holding my breath to see how many are left.

Many large catfish litter the banks, usually the dwellers of the bottom where it's always cold and dark. Way back in the 80's Bob, Pete and I used to come out here to night fish for these lunkers by the light of a Coleman lantern. A few years down the line, this lake holds many memories for me and great inland

Netherlands Reports Bird Flu in Friesland Poultry

27 March 2015

THE NETHERLANDS - Movement restrictions have been imposed following the detection of what is thought to be an H7 low-pathogenic avian influenza virus in a free-range layer flock in the north-west of the country.

Avian influenza has been detected at a poultry farm at Tzummarum in the province of Friesland. The farm has 22,000 hens in one barn with outdoor access, according to the Ministry of Economic Affairs.

The virus is likely to be a mild H7 variant.

Because a low pathogenic (mild) H7 variant can mutate to a highly pathogenic form, the flock will be culled, according to European rules, by the Dutch Food and Consumer Product Safety Authority (NVWA).

A ban is in place on the movement of poultry, eggs, poultry litter and used bedding within one kilometre of the affected farm and nearby poultry farms are being tested for the virus.

More monitors installed on River Derwent as fish kills continue

ABC
March 27, 2015, 8:42 pm

Extra sensor equipment has been placed in Hobart's River Derwent to try to find out why schools of dead fish have been washing up on shore.

There have been at least five fish kills this month, the most recent on Wednesday.

The Derwent Estuary Program believes saltwater barracouta are chasing bait fish upstream, and getting stranded in freshwater.

Director Christine Coughanowr said pathology samples had proven the fish are not diseased.

"The main thing we're looking at is low oxygen and low salinity," she said.

"We'd like to consult with some fish biologists, particularly marine fish biologists, just about whether there's reasons why there might be more couth up there than usual."

The latest fish kills were reported near New Norfolk.

"We have installed a backup sensor in the upper part of the river, that was actually in when the last fish kill happened," she said.

Starving Sea Lions Washing Ashore by the Hundreds in California

By JACK HEALY MARCH 12, 2015

 Email Share Tweet Save More

CAPISTRANO BEACH, Calif. — By the time Wendy Leeds reached him, the sea lion pup had little hope of surviving.

Like more than 1,450 other sea lions that have washed up on California beaches this year, in what animal experts call a growing crisis for the animal, this 8-month-old pup was starving, stranded and hundreds of miles from a mother who still needed to nurse him and teach him to hunt and feed. Ribs jutted from his velveteen coat.

The pup had lain on the beach for hours, becoming the target of an aggressive dog before managing to wriggle onto the deck of a million-dollar oceanfront home, where the owner shielded him with an umbrella and called animal control. In came Ms. Leeds, an animal-care expert at the Pacific Marine Mammal Center, which like other California rescue centers is being inundated with calls about lost, emaciated sea lions.

FREETOWN (Reuters) - Police fired tear gas at an angry crowd fighting over food supplies in Sierra Leone on Saturday, while other residents defied a three-day national lockdown that the government hopes will accelerate the end of the Ebola epidemic.

Sierra Leone has reported nearly 12,000 cases and more than 3,000 deaths since the worst Ebola epidemic in history was detected in neighboring Guinea a year ago.

New cases have fallen sharply since a peak of more than 500 a week in December but the government says the lockdown, its second, is necessary to identify the last cases and to buck a worrying trend towards complacency.

In the remote Russian village of Kalachi in Kazakhstan (central Asia), a mysterious illness is baffling scientists around the world. Dubbed the "sleeping sickness," it causes people to suddenly fall asleep for anywhere from two to six days, accompanied by "startling" memory loss, blinding headaches, back pain, dizziness and general "edginess." Intensity can range from full sleep to a deep, sluggish drowsiness.

"Whatever they are doing," reported the Telegraph, "whoever they are, and at any time or day, a resident of this remote settlement on the central Asian steppe lives with the knowledge they may suddenly fall asleep – and remain unconscious for days."

Victims say one moment they're walking, talking or reading ... and the next they're asleep. Some people have been hit with sleeping episodes no less than eight times. Certain victims, particularly children, report terrifying hallucinations. One toddler survived in utero his mother's bout of sleeping sickness. The affliction even affects animals. One woman reported her cat had fallen asleep after a "bizarre outburst of hyperactivity."

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. – The Air Force test-launched an unarmed Minuteman 3 missile from California for the second time this week.

The missile blasted off at 3:53 a.m. Friday from Vandenberg Air Force Base on the coast northwest of Los Angeles.

The Air Force said the missile carried a test re-entry vehicle that hit a target area in the Pacific Ocean near Guam 40 minutes after liftoff.

Col. Shane Clark, the 30th Space Wing vice commander, said in a statement that conducting two test-launches in less than a week demonstrated the capabilities of the intercontinental ballistic missile fleet and crews.

The week's first launch occurred early Monday.

The test involved personnel from Vandenberg's 576th Flight Test Squadron and the 341st Missile Wing at Malmstrom Air Force Base, Montana.

Russia Has Constructed Massive Underground Shelters In Anticipation Of Nuclear War

By Michael Snyder, on March 25th, 2015

g+ Share Tweet Pinterest Email Share This

Did you know that the Russians have a massive underground complex in the Ural mountains that has been estimated to be approximately 400 square miles in size? In other words, it is roughly as big as the area inside the Washington D.C. beltway. Back in the 1990s, the Clinton administration was deeply concerned about the construction of this enormous complex deep inside Yamantau mountain, but they could never seem to get any straight answers from the Russians. The command center for this complex is rumored to be 3,000 feet directly straight down from the summit of this giant rock quartz mountain. And of course U.S. military officials will admit that there are dozens of other similar sites throughout Russia, although most of them are thought to be quite a bit smaller. But that is not all that the Russians have been up to. For example, Russian television has reported that 5,000 new emergency nuclear bomb shelters were scheduled to have been completed in the city of Moscow alone by the end of 2012. Most Americans don't realize this, but the Russians have never stopped making preparations for nuclear war. Meanwhile, the U.S. government has essentially done nothing to prepare our citizens for an attack. The assumption seems to be that a nuclear attack will probably never happen, and that if it does it will probably mean the end of our civilization anyway.

Needless to say, the Russians are very secretive about their massive underground facility at Yamantau mountain, and no American has ever been inside. The following is what Wikipedia has to say about it..

Sweden, NATO report Russian military planes over Baltic Sea

By Karl Ritter | AP March 24 at 1:54 PM

STOCKHOLM — The Swedish Air Force and NATO jets on Tuesday tracked four Russian combat aircraft flying with their transponders turned off over the Baltic Sea, officials said.

The Russian planes — two long-range, nuclear-capable Tu-22M3 bombers and two Sukhoi Su-27 fighters — were flying in international airspace, according to Sweden's Armed Forces and alliance sources.

NATO said it scrambled Danish jets and Italian jets based in Lithuania early Tuesday to identify the Russian aircraft which it said were heading to the Russian Baltic exclave of Kaliningrad.

"The Russian military aircraft did not use their onboard transponder; they were not in contact with civilian Air Traffic Control and they were not on a pre-filed flight plan," a NATO military officer said on condition he not be identified by name in keeping with alliance practice.

Swedish Foreign Minister Margot Wallstrom said it was "unacceptable" for the Russian planes to be flying with shut-off

27 WW3 ALERT — Russia to Supply Mexico with Arms to Retake Southwest U.S. if Obama Sends Weapons to Ukraine

Red Flag News is reporting some interesting developments regarding Russia, Mexico, Ukraine and the Mideast! World War 3 May have got ever so closer with a couple of developments that are big news. The first is that Saudi Arabia has now entered the Yemen Civil War on the side of the Government/ISIS bombing Houthi rebel positions. Which is big in and of itself except that this operation includes 10 other countries!!! Gulf States.

From W&J: – “The attacks, which began at 2 a.m. local time on Thursday in Yemen, hit military aircraft at Sana'a's international airport. The thud of explosions and the crack of heavy gunfire echoed across the city, residents said. Adel Al-Jubeir, Saudi Arabia's ambassador to Washington, told reporters that the six Gulf countries and four other nations were participating in the military operation. The U.S. military wasn't involved, he said.” The implications are enormous. Who are the other 4 countries? All I know right now is that Egypt is one of them. Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Bahrain, Qatar, and Kuwait are others. When World War 3 occurs in the Europe and Pacific, I guarantee the Middle East will also be a major front with Iran (Eurasian) and Saudi Arabia (Allies) being the primary leaders of the fight. FULL REPORT

Does Iran Have Secret Nukes in North Korea?

Washington's nuclear deal with Tehran depends on aggressive inspections inside Iran. But the mullahs may well have a secret program outside their borders.

In October 2012, Iran began stationing personnel at a military base in North Korea, in a mountainous area close to the Chinese border. The Iranians, from the Ministry of Defense and associated firms, reportedly are working on both missiles and nuclear weapons. Iran to Test Intercontinental Ballistic Missile in 2015 - US Defense Agency

The US Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) has assessed that Iran will be capable of testing an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) this year, US Missile Defense Agency Director James Syring said.

WASHINGTON (Sputnik) — The US ground-based interceptors based in Fort Greely, Alaska and Vandenberg Air Force Base in California are sufficient to protect the United States homeland against "the future Iranian ICBM threat should it emerge," Syring stated.

"The DIA's assessment is that Iran is capable of flight-testing an ICBM in 2015," Syring told members of the US Senate Armed Services Committee on Wednesday.

U.S to allow Iran to run nuke centrifuges at underground bunker

The United States is considering letting Tehran run hundreds of centrifuges at a once-secret, fortified underground bunker in exchange for limits on centrifuge work and research and development at other sites, officials have told The Associated Press. The trade-off would allow Iran to run several hundred of the devices at its Fordo facility, although the Iranians would not be allowed to do work that could lead to an atomic bomb and the site would be subject to international inspections, according to Western officials familiar with details of negotiations now underway. In return, Iran would be required to scale back the number of centrifuges it runs at its Natanz facility and accept other restrictions on nuclear-related work. Instead of uranium, which can be enriched to be the fissile core of a nuclear weapon, any centrifuges permitted at Fordo would be fed elements such as zinc, xenon or germanium for separating out isotopes used in medicine, industry or science, the officials said. The number of centrifuges would not be enough to produce the amount of uranium needed to produce a weapon within a year – the minimum time-frame that Washington and its negotiating partners demand. Israeli Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu has said the deal currently under discussion between Iran and world powers over Tehran's nuclear program is even worse than he had feared.

"The dangerous accord which is being negotiated in Lausanne (Switzerland) confirms our concerns and even worse," Netanyahu said in remarks at a meeting of his cabinet broadcast on public radio.

Netanyahu also highlighted concerns over Iran's wider expansionist ambitions in the region via Shia Islamist proxies and other terrorist groups.

"Even as meetings proceed on this dangerous agreement, Iran's proxies in Yemen are overrunning large sections of that country and are attempting to seize control of the strategic Bab-el-Mandeb straits which would affect the naval balance and the global oil supply.

"After the Beirut-Damascus-Baghdad axis, Iran is carrying out a pincers movement in the south as well in order to take over and conquer the entire Middle East. The Iran-Lausanne-Yemen axis is very dangerous for humanity and needs to be stopped."

Obama threatens allies for criticizing Iran nuke deal

Efforts by the Obama administration to stem criticism of its diplomacy with Iran have included threats to nations involved in the talks, including U.S. allies, according to Western sources familiar with White House efforts to quell fears it will permit Iran to retain aspects of its nuclear weapons program. A series of conversations between top American and French officials, including between President Obama and French President Francois Hollande, have seen Americans engage in behavior described as bullying by sources who spoke to the Washington Free Beacon. The disagreement over France's cautious position in regard to Iran threatens to erode U.S. relations with Paris, sources said. Tension between Washington and Paris comes amid frustration by other U.S. allies, such as Saudi Arabia and Israel. The White House responded to this criticism by engaging in public campaigns analysts worry will endanger American interests. Western policy analysts who spoke to the Free Beacon, including some with close ties to the French political establishment, were dismayed over what they saw as the White House's willingness to sacrifice its relationship with Paris as talks with Iran reach their final stages. FULL REPORT

OBAMA REVENGE FOR NETANYAHU'S CONGRESS TALK? 1987 REPORT ON ISRAEL'S TOP SECRET NUCLEAR PROGRAM RELEASED IN UNPRECEDENTED MOVE.

"The LORD shall fight for you, and ye shall hold your peace." Exodus 14:14 (KJV)

EDITOR'S NOTE: With this latest move, the Obama administration has declared itself to be, if not at war, then certainly at fatal odds with the nation of Israel in general, and with Benjamin Netanyahu in particular. Obama is all done pretending to be a friend to Israel, and the Spirit that controls him is only going to make sure things get worse quickly.

In a development that has largely been missed by mainstream media, the Pentagon early last month quietly declassified a Department of Defense top-secret document detailing Israel's nuclear program, a highly covert topic that Israel has never formally announced to avoid a regional nuclear arms race, and which the US until now has respected by remaining silent.

But by publishing the declassified document from 1987, the US reportedly breached the silent agreement to keep quiet on Israel's nuclear powers for the first time ever, detailing the nuclear program in great depth.

Influx of advanced weapons flowing into Syria and Lebanon "Unprecedented"

Advanced weaponry, much of it supplied by Iran, is flowing into Syria and Lebanon, a senior Israel Navy source warned on Sunday. The Navy is spending a large chunk of its operational time dealing with advanced weapon smuggling, according to the source, who added, "Such weapons pose a challenge to all Western navies in the area." He said the northern front has become unified, and that Lebanon and Syria can not be viewed as separate entities anymore. "What happens in Syria, happens in Lebanon [in terms of weapons availability], and vice versa. I'll go a step further and say that everything that happens in Iran can end up in Syria, which can then end up in Lebanon," the source stated. "In the event of war with Hezbollah in Lebanon, I'm not sure Syria will remain on the sidelines. Hezbollah assists the Assad regime, and the help is mutual." Describing the quantity and quality of surface-to-sea missiles in Hezbollah's possession as "unprecedented," the source said there are dozens of such weapons in its keeping, covering around 10 different kinds of such missiles. "The types of warheads and their ranges are many," said the source. "We are in a completely

THE 1939 FLAG OF PALESTINE FURTHER PROOF THAT ALL ISRAEL BELONGS TO THE JEWS

Geri Ungorean | March 25, 2015 | 22 Comments

THE MUSLIM WORLD, AND EVEN MUCH OF THE REST OF THE WORLD, WOULD HAVE YOU BELIEVE THAT ISRAEL DOES NOT BELONG TO THE JEWS – BUT TO THE SO-CALLED PALESTINIANS. IT'S A LIE FROM THE PIT OF HELL.

"In the same day the Lord made a covenant with Abram, saying, Unto thy seed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates" Genesis 15:18 (KJV)

The land of Israel was given to the Jews thousands of years ago, by God:

"From the wilderness and this Lebanon even unto the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the great sea toward the going down of the sun, shall be your coast." Joshua 1:4 (KJV)

THE FACT IS THAT PALESTINE IS ISRAEL – THE JEWISH HOMELAND.

After the Romans conquered the Jews in the Jewish-Roman wars, the Romans renamed Israel after the Jews' worst enemies — the Philistines — in order to further humiliate them. The term was first used to denote an official province in c.135 CE, when the Roman authorities, following the suppression of the [Jewish] Bar Kokhba Revolt, combined Iudaea Province with Galilee and the Paralia to form "Syria Palaestina".

IT WAS A ROMAN EMPEROR WHO FIRST COINED THE NAME PALESTINE

In AD 135, the Emperor Hadrian blotted out the name "Provincia Judea" and renamed it "Provincia Syria Palaestina". This was the Latin version of the Greek name and soon became a name to be used as an administrative unit. This name was shortened to Palaestina and the name "Palestine" was derived from it as a modern and anglicized version.

PICTURE OF THE OFFICIAL FLAG OF PALESTINE IN 1939 LAROUSSE-FRENCH DICTIONARY:

What you are looking at is a photograph of a Larousse-French dictionary printed in 1939. You will notice the official flag of Palestine on the right, with the Star of David on a blue and white background, and you will notice the Nazi flag in the upper-left, proving this was before 1945 and the end of the war.

1939 Palestinian Flag. What does it look like? Surprised? From Factual Israel: This a Larousse French dictionary from 1939. In the appendix it lists all the then current flags of the world in alphabetical order. You'll notice that for Germany at that time the flag was the Nazi one replete with Zwasitika which proves that this was pre-1945 (before 1945).

Now, alphabetically, look for the Palestinian Flag. YES , there is one. What does it look like? Surprised? Oh, but you thought (Mandate Jewish) Palestine was an Islamic Arab-,Turkish-, Circassian Sovereign State that the bad Jews took over , right?

"Not one day goes by without an alert, the discovery of a network trying to send people to Syria or Iraq, or an intervention (by the security services)," a high-level official from the Defense Ministry of France told AFP on condition of anonymity.

According to the source, there are currently around 4,000 people who are "identified or suspected of evil intentions" in France.

These aren't just amateurs, they include some highly educated people – "pros, not drop-outs," he added.

The French security services are forced to "play catch-up" with the terrorists as they "use the best encryption and concealment techniques," the official stressed.

"Every time we get our hands on a network, we see they are each using seven or eight SIM cards, changing them constantly. And the most cunning don't go near phones at all - they use messengers," he said.

The US Army's Special Operations Command never saw this coming.

An upcoming exercise codenamed JADE HELM 15 has sparked suspicion among some conspiracy theorists of impending martial law and a US military plot to wage war on the American people.

ARAB FOREIGN MINISTERS MEET IN EGYPT AND DRAFT RESOLUTION TO CREATE A UNITED MUSLIM ARMY

ARAB FOREIGN MINISTERS MEETING IN EGYPT AGREED A DRAFT RESOLUTION ON THURSDAY TO FORM A UNIFIED MILITARY FORCE, IN A MOVE AIMED AT COUNTERING GROWING REGIONAL SECURITY THREATS.

"They have said, Come, and let us cut them off from being a nation; that the name of Israel may be no more in remembrance. For they have consulted together with one consent: they are confederate against thee: The tabernacles of Edom, and the Ishmaelites; of Moab, and the Hagarenes; Gebal, and Ammon, and Amalek; the Philistines with the inhabitants of Tyre; Assur also is joined with them; they have holpen the children of Lot. Selah." Psalm 83:4-8 (KJV)

IS THE A PRELUDE TO THE COMING PSALM 83 WAR?

The bible says that in the last days, there is a great Muslim confederacy created, a united army, that eventually comes against Israel as a group. So it is with great interest that we see today, in Egypt, an historic resolution drafted by Arab leaders to create a first-ever United Arab Muslim Armed Forces.

The agreement came after warplanes from Saudi Arabia and Arab allies struck Shi'ite Muslim rebels in Yemen on Thursday, in an effort to check Iranian influence in their backyard without direct military backing from Washington.

DID THE GREAT BATTLE FOR CONTROL OF THE MIDDLE EAST JUST BEGIN IN YEMEN?

Geoffrey Grider | March 27, 2015 | 4 Comments

THE BATTLE FOR THE MIDDLE EAST'S FUTURE BEGINS IN YEMEN AS SAUDI ARABIA JUMPS INTO THE ABYSS

Unprecedented in modern Arab history, a Sunni Muslim coalition of 10 nations – including non-Arab Pakistan – has attacked another Arab nation. The Sunnis and the Shia of the Middle East are now at war with each other in Iraq, in Syria and Yemen. Pakistan is a nuclear power. The armies of Bahrain and the Gulf states include Pakistani soldiers. Pakistanis were among the dead in the first great battle against Iraqi troops in the 1991 Gulf War.

But already, the battle for Yemen is dividing other Arab countries. In Lebanon, the former Sunni Muslim Prime Minister Saad Hariri has praised the "brave and wise" decision of King Salman to attack. Mr Hariri is not only a Sunni – he is also a Saudi citizen. But the Shia Hezbollah, who oppose Saudi intervention, called the Saudi assault an "uncalculated adventure". These words were chosen with care. They are exactly the words the Saudis used against Hezbollah after it captured three Israeli soldiers in 2006, a stupid political act which started the Israeli bombardment of Lebanon that year.

Robots and computer programs could almost wipe out human workers in jobs from cooks to truck drivers, a visiting researcher has warned.

Driverless cars and even burger-flipping robots are among the technological advancements gunning for low-skilled jobs across dozens of industries.

University of Oxford Associate Professor in machine learning Michael Osborne has examined the characteristics of 702 occupations in the US, predicting 47 per cent will be overtaken by computers in the next decade or two.

LHC restart: Short circuit slows preparations

Teams on the collider's big experiments like Atlas (pictured) are using the time to make extra tweaks

The rebooted Large Hadron Collider is facing a delay of days or even weeks, after a short circuit was detected in one of its powerful electromagnets.

Following a two-year break, the LHC is getting ready to smash protons together once again - at

It may have been two years since the Large Hadron Collider went to sleep at the CERN headquarters but scientists are stirring to get it back up and running. Unfortunately all the experiments that have been waiting for the power up will have to wait as a short circuit has delayed the restart of the machine.

Indeed, officials say that a minor glitch has forced a delay in the restart of the world's largest particle smasher, Europe's multi-billion dollar Large Hadron Collider.

Actually the team found that a small metallic piece near one of the magnetic components needs to be removed before they can really get the machine going again; and this could take a week or so.

But while this mishap is unexpected it is somewhat understandable, as CERN Director for Accelerators Frédéric Bordry explains: "Any cryogenic machine is a time amplifier, so what would have taken hours in a warm machine could end up taking us weeks."

A stiff new layer in Earth's mantle

Date: March 23, 2015

Source: University of Utah

Summary: By crushing minerals between diamonds, a new study suggests the existence of an unknown layer inside Earth: part of the lower mantle where the rock gets three times stiffer. The discovery may explain a mystery: why slabs of Earth's sinking tectonic plates sometimes stall and thicken 930 miles underground.

Mainland China could soon implement a full-scale economic stimulus due to the threats of deflation and stagnation, adding to the piles of cash being printed by Japanese and European mints, rendering monetary equivalent less valuable and investment less powerful across the globe.

Kristian Rouz - People's Bank of China (PBOC) governor Zhou Xiaochuan, speaking at a forum of the nation's high-ranking officials and top businesspersons on the Chinese island of Hainan in Sunday, admitted the Communist nation is falling into the mire of deflation at a faster pace than might be expected.

Coupled with the dramatic slowdown in the nation's real economy, the threat of deflation might prompt the Chinese central bank to implement a full-scale stimulus, also known as 'quantitative easing' or QE, in the nearest future. Despite the fact that stock markets would eagerly welcome

Peter Schiff won't back down: 'The dollar is going to crash, buy gold'
HOW TO PLAY THE DOLLAR

The dollar index has risen for nine-straight months and recently hit a 12-year high vs. the euro. The greenback's robust rise caught a lot of traders by surprise; for years the conventional wisdom was the dollar was heading down the tubes because of America's runaway debt and the Fed's easy money policies. Now, sentiment has now swung 180 degrees to where "everyone" it seems is bullish on the almighty dollar

J.P. Morgan to Start Charging Big Clients Fees on Some Deposits

New deposit fees likely to reduce deposits by billions

By EMILY GLAZER

Updated Feb. 24, 2015 8:40 a.m. ET

J.P. Morgan Chase & Co. is preparing to charge large institutional customers for some deposits, citing new rules that make holding money for the clients too costly, according to a memo reviewed by The Wall Street Journal and people familiar with the plan.

The largest U.S. bank by assets is aiming to reduce the affected deposits by up to $100 billion by the end of 2015, according to a bank presentation Tuesday morning.

FEDS URGE BANKS TO CALL COPS ON CUSTOMERS WHO WITHDRAW $5,000 OR MORE

War on cash intensifies

Image Credits: Todd Kravos via Flickr

by PAUL JOSEPH WATSON | MARCH 23, 2015

The Justice Department is ordering bank employees to consider calling the cops on customers who withdraw $5,000 dollars or more, a chilling example of how the war on cash is intensifying.

Banks are already required to file 'suspicious activity reports' on their customers, with threats of fines and even jail time for directors if financial institutions don't meet quotas.

But as investor and financial blogger Simon Black points out, last week, "A senior official from the Justice Department spoke to a group of bankers about the need for them to rat out their customers to the police."

Assistant attorney general Leslie Caldwell gave a speech in which he urged banks to "alert law enforcement authorities about the problem" so that police can "seize the funds" or at least "initiate an investigation".

As Black highlights, according to the handbook for the Federal Financial Institution Examination Council, such suspicious activity includes, "Transactions conducted or attempted by, at, or through the bank (or an affiliate) and aggregating $5,000 or more..."

They Are Slowly Making Cash Illegal

By Michael Snyder, on March 23rd, 2015

g+ Share Tweet Pinterest Email ShareThis

The move to a cashless society won't happen overnight. Instead, it is being implemented very slowly and systematically in a series of incremental steps. All over the planet, governments are starting to place restrictions on the use of cash for security reasons. As citizens, we are being told that this is being done to thwart criminals, terrorists, drug runners, money launderers and tax evaders. Other forms of payment are much easier for governments to track, and so they very much prefer them. But we are rapidly getting to the point where the use of cash is considered to be a "suspicious activity" all by itself. These days, if you pay a hotel bill with cash or if you pay for several hundred dollars worth of goods at a store with cash you are probably going to get looked at funny. You see, the truth is that we have already been trained to regard the use of large amounts of cash to be unusual. The next step will be to formally ban large cash transactions like France and other countries in Europe are already doing.

Starting in September, cash transactions of more than 1,000 euros will be banned in France. The following comes from a recent Zero Hedge article which detailed what these new restrictions will do...

Prohibiting French residents from making cash payments of more than 1,000 euros, down from the current limit of 3,000 euros.

Given the parlous state of the stagnating French economy the limit for foreign tourists on currency payments will remain higher, at 10,000 euros down from the current limit of 15,000 euros.

The threshold below which a French resident is free to convert euros into other currencies without having to show an identity card will be slashed from the current level of 8,000 euros to 1,000 euros.

In addition any cash deposit or withdrawal of more than 10,000 euros during a single month will be reported to the French anti-fraud and money laundering agency Tracfin.

French authorities will also have to be notified of any freight transfers within the EU exceeding 10,000 euros, including checks, pre-paid cards, or gold.

China stepped up its purchases of U.S. government debt late last year, increasing its holdings of Treasuries to an all-time record of $1.317 trillion in November, government data released this week revealed.

The statistics underscore how reliant the U.S. and Chinese economies are on one another even as political tensions occasionally emerge.

(NaturalNews) The world's great powers, over the past 100 years, have grown more liberal in their societies and socialist in their economies.

Of course, plenty of people will dispute that, but facts are, as they say, facts, and no matter how many times you shout down the truth teller, that won't change.

And in this case, the facts are in the numbers or, more specifically, in the percentages - as in, "debt-to-GDP" ratios (GDP being "gross domestic product," or the value/amount of all goods and services produced within a country on an annual basis).

Boko Haram kidnapped hundreds in northern Nigeria town - residents
Tue, Mar 24 18:44 PM GMT

By Joe Penney

DAMASAK, Nigeria (Reuters) - Boko Haram militants have kidnapped more than 400 women and children from the northern Nigerian town of Damasak that was freed this month by troops from Niger and Chad, residents said on Tuesday.

There was no immediate official confirmation of the figure, but the Islamist group has previously carried out mass kidnappings. Boko Haram's abduction last April of nearly 300 schoolgirls in the region stirred international outrage and drew global attention to the group's six-year insurgency.

"They took 506 young women and children (in Damasak). They killed about 50 of them before leaving," a trader called Souleymane Ali told Reuters in the town. "We don't know if they killed others after leaving, but they took the rest with them."

Troops from Niger and Chad last week found the bodies of at least 70 people in an apparent execution site under a bridge leading out of Damasak, where the streets remain strewn with debris and burnt-out cars after the fighting.

Ali said his wife and three of his daughters were among those seized.

"Two of them were supposed to get married this year. (Boko Haram) said 'They are slaves so we're taking them because they belong to us'," he said.

Mohamed Ousmane, another trader, said the militants took his two wives and three of their children.

A 40-year-old resident who gave her name as Fana said fighters had rounded up captives in the main mosque before taking them out of town. She said she saved her two children by hiding them in her house.

Boko Haram wants to carve out a caliphate in northern Nigeria. A sharp increase in violence forced a delay in planned elections last month in Africa's most populous country.

"NO POINT TRYING TO LEAVE"

Nigerian, Chadian and Niger forces have driven militants out of a string of towns in simultaneous offensives over the past month. Nigeria says all but three of the 20 local government areas occupied at the beginning of the year have been freed.

Nigeria's rearranged election is now due to take place on Saturday.

Niger troops distributed food on Tuesday to a handful of residents who remained in Damasak. A few others returned to check their houses but left for the bush again.

Ali said he was just hoping life would return to normal.

"We've seen the worst possible things you can imagine, so after a certain point there was no point in trying to leave," he said. "They killed all our friends, our family members, so we just submitted ourselves to God."

Philippine President Benigno Aquino called on lawmakers Friday to pass a bill endorsing a pact aimed at ending a decades-long Muslim separatist rebellion, warning them they would otherwise start counting "body bags".

Aquino had wanted the bill, which would give autonomy to the majority Catholic nation's Muslim minority in the south, passed this month.

But Congress suspended debates on the proposed law in the face of public outrage over the killings of 44 police commandoes by Muslim guerrillas in a botched anti-terror raid in January.

It really takes a special kind of lowlife to stop a chaplain from ministering to the family and colleagues of a dead sailor.

But that's exactly what happened last week at Naval Nuclear Power Training Command in Goose Creek, South Carolina, according to attorneys representing Chaplain Wes Modder.

"For this Navy to bar a chaplain from comforting and ministering to sailors and families is a reprehensible violation of religious freedom and common human decency," said Kelly Shackelford, the president of Liberty Institute, a law firm that specializes in religious liberty cases.

Some quick background before I explain what happened:

Chaplain Modder is facing the end of a stellar, 19-year-career in the Navy because he expressed his faith-based views on marriage and human sexuality during private counseling sessions with sailors.

Last December, a gay officer took offense at Christian chaplain's take on homosexuality. Modder, who is endorsed by the Assemblies of God, was accused of discrimination and failing to show tolerance and respect, among other things.

A group of Canadian Christian leaders is raising the alarm about what they say are attacks on their faith, citing barriers to a Christian university setting up a law school and doctors opposed to ending pregnancies being forced to refer patients elsewhere.

The group, including Charles McVety, president of the Institute for Canadian Values, pointed to a number of recent events they said equate to an attack on the Christian faith and impinge on Christians' ability to practice their faith.

The events include:

- A refusal by three provincial bar associations to accredit any potential law school graduate of Trinity Western University, which prohibits sexual intimacy outside heterosexual marriage among its students.

The number of students graduating with STEM degrees already far exceeds the number of STEM jobs available but powerful interests in the business community are pushing Congress to allow more foreign skilled workers into the country.

Congress is considering new immigration laws that would flood the U.S. with "guest workers" from the Middle East and Asia, a plan some are calling an open invitation for jihadists to walk right through America's front door.

Critics say lawmakers – including top Republican leaders – are playing with fire and could jeopardize national security with the proposals to double or even triple the number of H1B work visas.

(NaturalNews) The Left's war on organized religion is continuing, especially on the nation's college and university campuses, those bastions of "tolerance" that are actually becoming zones of speech control.

In particular, Christians are becoming an endangered species, especially on California campuses where more and more exchange students from other cultures and religions are attending.

As reported by The College Fix:

When Cal Poly Sal Luis Obispo hosts its annual Open House this April, during which campus clubs typically greet and recruit prospective visiting students, one longtime mainstay at the university will be conspicuously absent: Cru.

HOMELAND CHIEF LIKENS QURAN TO 'AMERICAN VALUES'

Jeh Johnson says text reminds of MLK

Jeh Johnson

Jeh Johnson, the secretary for the Department of Homeland Security, raised some eyebrows recently when he likened the Quran to American values and Martin Luther King.

He made the inflammatory remarks during a ceremony by the Muslim Public Affairs Council to honor him for "his dedication to and personal investment in engagement with Muslim American communities across the United States," Twitchy reported.

In "Stop the Islamization of America: A Practical Guide to the Resistance," renowned activist Pamela Geller provides the answer, offering proven, practical guidance on how freedom lovers can stop jihadist initiatives in local communities.

After receiving his award, he spoke fondly of the Quran, MPAC reported.

In a tweet, MPAC quoted Johnson as saying: "The reading of the #Quran reminded me of 2 things that MLK said a lot, which are quintessentially American values' @DHSgov Sec. Jeh Johnson."

A few minutes earlier, MPAC had tweeted: "We must learn to live together as brothers or perish together as fools." – Martin Luther King, Jr."

«عشرات الآلاف من المغاربة الذين اعتنقوا الديانة المسيحية بعدما كانوا مسلمين، يكابدون مضايقات في حياتهم، تضطّرهم إلى أن يطوفوا ممارسة شعائرهم الدينية بكثير من السرية، خشية أن يجري الزج بهم في السجن أو يلاقوا تهديدًا من جيرانهم، ذلك ما رصدته موقع «فيس نيوز» الأمريكي في تحقيق عن ظروف عيش المسيحيين في المملكة.

المنبر الأمريكي، الذي يتخذ من نيويورك مقرًا له، أورد أنّ المسيحيين في المغرب، ممن كانوا مسلمين فغيروا دينهم، يضطرون إلى أن يجتمعوا بيوت فيما بينهم، بشكل سري، كي يؤدوا

28 The New 'Radically Inclusive' Mega-Church Says Bring Your Own God

"I DON'T KNOW IS THE REQUIRED CONFESSION NEEDED TO BE GRANTED ADMISSION TO THE PATH OF ENLIGHTENMENT AND TO THE WAY OF KNOWING." DE PAULK

"And hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his commandments. And this is his commandment, That we should believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us commandment." 1 John 2:3, 1 John 3:23 (KJV)

EDITOR'S NOTE: As we get deeper into the Laodicean church age, God is being replaced by many gods, with no one way or one path to truth. Jesus in Revelation 3 says that last church is "blind and naked", spiritually confused and stumbling around in the dark and groping for answers which become more and more elusive. The Spirit and Truth Sanctuary is just one of many hundreds of contemporary mega-churches who have abandoned the clear teachings of the Bible.

People have always tried to increase the number of church members. Well, there is a new trend, and they are packing in people like never before! Here is the catch: They advertise that ALL beliefs are welcome. You just have to believe in something, and I suppose that means you can be an atheist too! They are calling themselves "Radically Inclusive" churches. They even have a slogan: BYOG. That stands for "Bring your own god." If these churches stand for anything and everything, then what is their purpose? FULL REPORT

34,000 Black, Latino Churches Cut Ties with Presbyterian Church USA Over 'Gay Marriage' Stance

WASHINGTON — The National Black Church Initiative (NBCI), a coalition of approximately 34,000 churches spanning various denominations and representing an estimated 15.7 million African Americans and Latinos, has “broken fellowship” with the Presbyterian Church USA (PCUSA) after a majority vote was reached among the denomination’s regional presbyteries to redefine marriage.

As previously reported, last June, the General Assembly of PCUSA, headquartered in Louisville, Kentucky, voted 76-24 to allow licensed ministers to officiate same-sex ceremonies. Delegates within the denomination also approved a proposal to change language in the PCUSA Book of Order to redefine marriage from being a union between “a man and woman” to rather only “two persons.”

But the change was not to become official until its 172 regional presbyteries across the country voted on the matter. Earlier this month, PCUSA reached its majority vote in order to ratify the amended language, generating both applause and sadness from various groups and entities across the nation.

“Finally, the church in its constitutional documents fully recognizes that the love of gays and lesbian couples is worth celebrating in the faith community,” Brian Ellison, executive director of the Covenant Network of Presbyterians, told the New York Times.

فالاضطهاد يزيد والاضطراب يزيد والزلازل والابوئة والفساد الأخلاقي يزيد والاحاد يزيد

فلهذا أقول المسيح اقترب ميعاد مجيؤه لا احدد مواعيد بل ارفض من يحدد مواعيد ولكن اطلب

شيئين

الأول نصلي ونستعد ونعد زيت لمصابيحنا لاستقبال العريس بالصلاة والصوم وخدمة أبناء الله
وتنقية القلب والاستعداد بلبس العرس.

أفسس 6: 15

وَحَادِيْنَ أَرْجُلِكُمْ بِاسْتِعْدَادِ إِجِيلِ السَّلَامِ .

رسالة بولس الرسول الي أهل رومية 13

13: 11 هذا وأنكم عارفون الوقت انها الان ساعة لنستيقظ من النوم فان خلاصنا الان أقرب مما

كان حين امنا

13: 12 قد تناهى الليل وتقارب النهار فلنخلع اعمال الظلمة ونلبس اسلحة النور

13: 13 لنسلك بلياقة كما في النهار لا بالبطر والسكر لا بالمضاجع والعهر لا بالخصام والحسد

13: 14 بل البسوا الرب يسوع المسيح ولا تصنعوا تدبيرا للجسد لأجل الشهوات

احترس ان لم تتمسك بالمسيح من الان قد لا تستطيع في المستقبل القريب بسبب الظلام.

الثاني لا نخاف

بطرس الأولى 3: 14

وَلَكِنْ وَإِنْ تَأَلَّمْتُمْ مِنْ أَجْلِ الْبِرِّ، فَطُوبَىٰ لَكُمْ. وَأَمَّا خَوْفُهُمْ فَلَا تَخَافُوهُ وَلَا تَضْطَرُّوهُ،

بل نفرح

رسالة بولس الرسول إلى أهل فيلبي 4: 4

إَفْرَحُوا فِي الرَّبِّ كُلَّ حِينٍ، وَأَقُولُ أَيْضًا: افْرَحُوا.

افرحوا لان عريسنا قد اقترب مجيؤه. وانتبهوا الشيطان يريد أن نفقد سلامنا ولا ننال أكاليل.

وأيضاً استعدوا فقد تسلموا وديعتكم في أي وقت فهناك 150 ألف شخص يموتوا في اليوم الواحد

انت لا تعرف متى ستكون منهم

المسيح اقترب فاصنعوا ثمار تليق بالتوبة واستعدوا لاستقبال العريس.

والمجد لله دائماً
