والعلامات حتى 19 مايو 2015

اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأيضاً أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن أيضاً علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. ونذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء

المسيح بل أيضاً قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر

هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان

عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيق اقتربت

جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشتر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم ياتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

المسيح قال بعض العلامات مثل

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

السماء

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

أولا لكيلا نرتاع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

ثانيا لنؤمن

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَأَن تُوْمِنُونَ.

ثالثا لننتبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَاَنْتَصِبُوا وَاَرْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ».

What IS this strange sound from the sky? Noise heard across the globe for nearly a DECADE - but nobody has an explanation

- One woman in Canada has recorded chilling sounds several times
- At its strongest, eerie noises sounds like a trumpet
- Similar outbursts have been captured on countries around the world including the U.S., Ukraine, Germany and Belarus
- One man in the U.S. says he woke up screaming after hearing the sounds

A mysterious noise from the sky is continuing to baffle people all over the world - as well as giving those who hear it sleepless nights.

Sounding like a trumpet or a collective from a brass section of an orchestra, a selection of videos shot from the Canada to Ukraine, via the U.S., Germany and Belarus show strange goings on above us.

And the eerie sounds have been continuously heard at all different times and locations for almost a decade.

Can YOU work out what the sound coming from the sky is?

Earth's Magnetic Field Is Weakening 10 Times Faster Now

Changes measured by the Swarm satellite over the past 6 months shows that Earth's magnetic field is changing. Shades of red show areas where it is strengthening, and shades of blue show areas that are weakening.

Earth's magnetic field, which protects the planet from huge blasts of deadly solar radiation, has been weakening over the past six months, according to data collected by a European Space Agency (ESA) satellite array called Swarm.

The biggest weak spots in the magnetic field — which extends 370,000 miles (600,000 kilometers) above the planet's surface — have sprung up over the Western Hemisphere, while the field has strengthened over areas like the southern Indian Ocean, according to the magnetometers onboard the Swarm satellites — three separate satellites floating in tandem.

The scientists who conducted the study are still unsure why the magnetic field is weakening, but one likely reason is that Earth's magnetic poles are getting ready to flip, said Rune Floberghagen, the ESA's Swarm mission manager. In fact, the data suggest magnetic north is moving toward Siberia.

RARE SPRING STORM SWEEPS INTO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, ARIZONA

BY ELLIOT SPAGAT AND CHRISTOPHER WEBER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A second round of rain from a rare spring storm swept into drought-stricken Southern California on Friday, along with heavy winds and snow in the mountains before heading inland, where other states were also feeling weird late-season weather.

AP Photo/Jae C. Hong

In San Diego, rain poured steadily a day after the regional water authority decided residents can water lawns no more than twice a week - a measure aimed at achieving sweeping state-mandated cuts to water consumption during drought.

Mariana Dominguez, 41, said she wasn't bothered that her morning commute to a dry cleaning business in San Diego's Ocean Beach neighborhood doubled to 40 minutes.

"It's nice because we need the rain with the drought and everything. It cleans up the air. In San Diego, you don't see this very often," she said.

A small but determined number of surfers, swimmers and strollers went in the water at San Diego's Ocean Beach, including Erin Lale, 46, who was on vacation from Las Vegas.

"The ocean is the ocean," she said after submerging her feet under water. "It's big, cold and full of sand and wildlife. That's going to be true if it's rainy or sunny."

North Korea is experiencing its worst drought in years, and the water shortage is plaguing over a hundred lakes and reservoirs. Using Google Earth satellite imagery, Curtis Melvin of the U.S.-Korea Institute at Johns Hopkins University told Radio Free Asia the bottoms of lakes and reservoirs are exposed at a total of 124 locations. Melvin said the drought has taken hold in the crop-growing province of Hwanghae, and that 121 locations out of the total 124 are in the region crucial to North Korea's food supply.

By Victoria Cavalliere

SEATTLE (Reuters) - Washington state Governor Jay Inslee declared a statewide drought emergency on Friday, saying drought conditions due to a lack of snowpack are some of the worst on record in a region normally known for its drizzly weather.

In an announcement in the state capital of Olympia, Inslee said the drought had "deepened dramatically in the past few weeks," with conditions expected to worsen as the hot summer months approach.

Powerful 6.8 magnitude earthquake rocks northeastern Japan

Posted on May 13, 2015

May 2015 – JAPAN – A powerful earthquake measuring 6.8 on the Richter scale hit northeastern Japan on Tuesday and was felt in a large part of the archipelago although no significant damage has yet been reported, the Japanese Weather Service reported. The quake, after which no tsunami alert was issued, took place at 6:13 p.m. in the Miyagi region and had its hypocenter located at a depth of some 50 km (31 miles). The earthquake was most severely felt in Hanamaki, in the southern part of Iwate prefecture, although it was felt less intensely in some 20 other districts around the country.

No problems or abnormalities at any of the country's nuclear power plants have been registered in the regions affected by the quake, according to NHK television. Japan is located on the so-called "Pacific Ring of Fire" and experiences earthquakes relatively frequently, and thus construction regulations in the Asian nation are very strict and there are rigorous emergency protocols that can be activated quickly to respond to

Five more aftershocks hit Nepal as toll in fresh quake tops 100

Posted on May 15, 2015

May 2015 – NEPAL – Five aftershocks jolted Nepal today, triggering panic among the people as the death toll in the powerful 7.3-magnitude earthquake that struck the Himalayan nation two days ago climbed to over 100. Nepal was jolted by the quake on Monday just weeks after a 7.9 magnitude temblor had wreaked havoc in the country, claiming 8,151 lives and leaving 17,861 others injured. Five small tremors — measuring between 4 and 5 on the Richter scale — were recorded near Kathmandu as aftershocks continued to jolt the quake-affected region. A 5-magnitude quake struck at 0325 AM while a 4-magnitude quake was felt at 0905 AM with the epicentre of both the temblors at Dolakha district. Three other tremors were also recorded by National Seismological Centre here between 12 am and 0822 am with their epicenter mainly being in the Dolakha and Sindhupalchowk districts, situated to the east of Kathmandu.

However, no damages were reported from the temblors. The death toll in the 7.3-magnitude quake that struck Nepal on May 13 climbed to 107 with 2,563 others injured, according to the Home Ministry. The highest number of casualties — 51 people — are from the Dolakha district, situated 75 km east of Kathmandu. Altogether 211 aftershocks have been reported in Nepal after the April 25 quake temblor that left the country devastated with thousands reeling under the impact of the disaster. Meanwhile, a seven-storeyed building that had developed cracks due to the quake last month collapsed in Kalanki area of Kathmandu today. However, no casualties were reported in the incident.

The Himalayas Dropped 3 Feet After the Nepal Earthquake

The earthquake in Nepal was so violent it moved mountains. Satellite imagery shows that the parts of the Himalayas sank three feet—and the area around it as much as five feet—as tectonic plates snapped under extreme pressure. But the mountains will regain their height, slowly but surely, thanks to the geologic forces at work.

The European Space Agency's Sentinel-1A radar satellite captured before and after images of the area hit by the earthquake. The image below show how the Eurasian plate bent, the land falling in some places (yellow) and rising in others (blue). The area of the Himalaya's Langtang range sank by three feet. 40 Volcanoes Are Erupting Right Now, And 34 Of Them Are Along The Ring Of Fire

By Michael Snyder, on May 14th, 2015

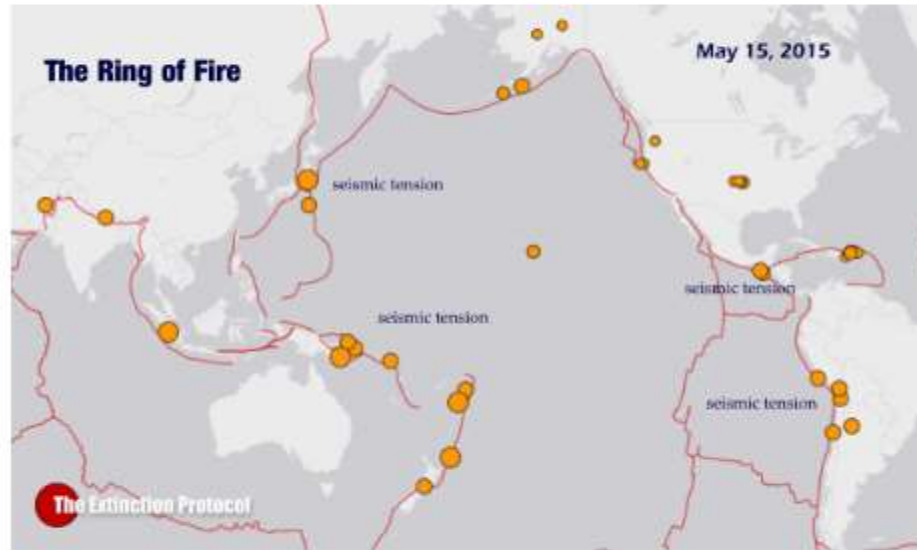

You may not have noticed, but our planet is becoming increasingly unstable. According to Volcano Discovery, 40 volcanoes around the globe are erupting right now, and only 6 of them are not along the Ring of Fire. If that sounds like a very high number to you, that is because it is a very high number. As I have written about previously, there were a total of 3,542 volcanic eruptions during the entire 20th century. When you divide that number by 100, that gives you an average of about 35 volcanic eruptions per year. So the number of volcanoes that are erupting right now is well above the 20th century's average for an entire calendar year. And of course we are witnessing a tremendous amount of earthquake activity as well. Nepal was just hit by the worst earthquake that it had seen in 80 years, and scientists are telling us that the Himalayas actually dropped by an astounding 3 feet as a result of that one earthquake. How much more does our planet have to shake before people start paying attention?

Of course the things that we have been seeing lately are part of a much larger long-term trend. Seismic activity appears to have been getting stronger over the past few decades, and now things really seem to be accelerating. The following is how one news source recently summarized what we have been witnessing...

Piton de la Fournaise volcano (La Réunion) erupts for the second time in 2015

Posted on May 18, 2015

May 2015 – Réunion Island – A new eruption, so far small, began this Sunday at 13:45 from a fissure vent at the the southeast slopes of the Dolomieux crater inside the Enclos next to the Château Fort cone. An intense seismic crisis with 5-7 earthquakes per minutes started 55 minutes before the onset of the eruption, as magma pushed its way to the surface. A few minutes after the beginning of the quakes, significant deformation of the Dolomieu crater rim could be measured as well.

The prefecture of La Réunion triggered alert phase 2 and closed access to the Enclos. The new eruption seems to be similar in its (small) size and vent location as the last one that occurred between 4-16 February this year. Both probably originate from a same shallow magma reservoir that by early 2015 had grown enough to produce eruptions at the surface. Frequent (several per year), but generally small eruptions have been a typical feature of Piton de la Fournaise during much of the volcano's recent past decades. –Volcano Discovery

am: Tue May 12, 2015 11:21:02

The summit lava lake in Halema'uma'u Crater has dropped significantly over the past two days, as this USGS photo shows. Scientists say the dropping lava level has allowed lava veneer on the walls of the Overlook crater to fall away, clearly exposing the contact between the original rim of the Overlook crater (which is the original, pre-overflow floor of Halema'uma'u Crater) and the stack of recent lava overflows. These overflows are roughly 8 meters 26 feet thick in total.

5/16/2015 — PROFESSIONALS WARN A NEW ERUPTION OF KILAUEA VOLCANO IN HAWAII MAY BE COMING SOON

Just as we were watching for, now professionals are saying publicly..... we could be looking a new eruption in Hawaii along the lines of what occurred 5 days before the 2011 Japan 9.0M mega-earthquake.

Currently, in 2015, we have a large swarm of earthquakes occurring on the flanks of Kilauea volcano which is located on the Big Island of Hawaii.

In addition to the earthquakes we also have a draining interior lava lake inside Kilauea caldera.

Volcano Watch: restless activity beneath Hawaii's Mauna Loa volcano continues

Posted on May 15, 2016

Mauna Loa is one of five volcanoes that form the Island of Hawaii in the U.S. state of Hawaii in the Pacific Ocean. The largest subaerial volcano in both mass and volume, Mauna Loa has historically been considered the largest volcano on Earth.

May 2017 – HAWAII – The recent high lava lake levels at Kilauea Volcano have caught the attention of visitors and kama'aina alike. But we shouldn't forget that unrest at Mauna Loa continues. Ongoing inflation in the upper Southwest Rift Zone and summit areas of Mauna Loa suggests that magma continues to rise into the volcano. The current rate and pattern of deformation are similar to the most recent episode of rapid inflation on Mauna Loa in 2004-2005. Earthquakes have also been occurring at elevated rates, particularly around the areas of inflation in the upper Southwest Rift Zone and summit. Throughout its history, the USGS Hawaiian Volcano Observatory (HVO) has taken advantage of advances in technology to better monitor volcanoes and earthquakes. Computers have become faster, methods of transmitting information have improved, and instrumentation has become smaller and more energy efficient. All these advances have been utilized to create an improved geophysical network that better supports HVO's monitoring and science efforts.

Volcanic eruption like Mount St. Helens: 'It will happen again in Cascades'

Posted on May 18, 2015

May 2015 – EUGENE, Ore. – Mount St. Helens caught science a little by surprise. A volcano hadn't erupted on the United State mainland outside Alaska and Hawaii since California's Lassen Peak in early 20th Century. And modern science had yet to witness an eruption quite like St. Helens. "I think this was a turning point in the way people approached these kinds of potentially active, explosive volcanoes," said Mike Dungan, a volcanologist with an office at the University of Oregon. St. Helens didn't just erupt: it blew up. The force of the May 18, 1980, eruption wasn't just vertical; it was lateral, sending a side of the mountain rocketing down slope as a wall of boiling mud and rock. The eruption killed 57 people – and put scientists and policy makers on notice.

"It's only a matter of a short time – decades or something – before another one of these things occurs," Dungan said. "A sector collapse eruption like Mount St. Helens – it will happen again in Cascades." Research at the University of Oregon is shedding new light on the cause of the explosion. Sinkhole Closes Portion of Traverse City Street

A sink hole closed several blocks in Traverse City Monday.

S. Elmwood Avenue is closed from Seventh up to Eleventh street.

Signs and barricades block the road near the sink hole.

The road had to be shut down because the hole is about four feet wide and three feet deep.

The city says a pipe broke and caused the road to cave in.

"We found out that we have a broken storm pipe," said Robert Becker, Streets Department supervisor. "We are in the process of calling all of our preparation in and then we will fix it tomorrow morning starting at 7 a.m."

The city suggests you use Sixth Street to get to Munson Medical Center and other buildings in the area.

HEALTH MINISTRY: ALGAE BLOOM COULD BE TO BLAME FOR DEAD FISH

11 May 2015 | Written by Press release | Published in Environment | Print | Email | Add new comment |

The Ministry of Health, Seniors and Environment has received several reports of fish 'die-offs' occurring recently in the inshore waters of the Island.

Reports began on Saturday, May 9th regarding the discovery of dead red-eared sardines (also known as pilchards) in the region of Shelly Bay, Hamilton Parish.

A biologist from the Department of Conservation Services attended the area and estimated that several hundred fish had been affected and observed a suspected algae bloom, which may be the cause of the dead fish. Samples of the fish and water were collected for testing.

Additional reports have also surfaced of dead fish of the same species in the Spanish Point area, Whalebone Bay and Coot Pond, St. George's; however the number of fish at the latter sites were small. A further suspected algae bloom was reported in the waters off Tuckers Town and another along the north shore of Harrington Sound.

The plankton bloom, when coupled with calm weather and light easterly winds, can create low oxygen levels in the waters of western-facing bays, such as Shelly Bay and at Spanish Point. These conditions could have caused the fish mortality.

"A change in wind direction may bring more fish carcasses to shore but would also disperse the bloom and re-oxygenate the water column," explained a spokesperson for the Department of Environmental Protection. "We expect the conditions which caused the die-off to diminish; already a check of Shelly Bay today revealed no further mortality.

"It is important for the public to keep in mind that these kinds of episodes do occur naturally. Swimmers at Shelly Bay have not reported any resultant illness, and the Department of Health has no reports of related illness. There is no cause to avoid swimming, however the Ministry reminds people to not consume any dead fish, nor should the fish be offered to any pet animal."

1 new bird flu case strikes Swift County turkey farm; Minnesota toll hits nearly 5.7M birds

Associated Press | MAY 11, 2015 — 2:40PM

ST. PAUL, Minn. — One new Minnesota turkey farm has been hit by bird flu, raising the state's total to 85 since the outbreaks were first confirmed in early March.

The Minnesota Board of Animal Health says the latest case is in Swift County. The flock size hasn't been reported yet, but Minnesota turkey and chicken producers have now lost nearly 5.7 million turkeys and chickens to the disease.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture now reports over 140 findings of highly pathogenic avian influenza across the country, which have affected more than 30 million chickens and turkeys.

Minnesota, the country's top turkey producing state, has had the most farms hit by the H5N2 virus, but Iowa, the country's top egg producer, has lost by far the most birds at more than 24 million.

Bird flu is already widespread in Iowa, where more than 26 million chickens have been lost. Officials routinely destroy the entire flock when the disease is found to limit its spread.

The Agriculture Department says the bird flu doesn't represent a significant health risk to humans, and no human infections have been found.

It should be mentioned that the Bay of Loreto, one of the most important protected areas in the Sea of Cortez or Gulf of California, National Park has been instrumental in the recovery of many species through the implementation of conservation programs very successful factor.

Moreover, this area which groups five islands and dozens of sites of outstanding natural wealth, is known for its rich biodiversity and even the existence of several endemic species.

2 more turkey farms in South Dakota found with bird flu

The Associated Press

Two more turkey farms in South Dakota have been confirmed to have some form of the deadly bird flu that's swept through poultry operations across the Midwest.

State Veterinarian Dustin Oedekoven tells the Yankton Press and Dakotan (<http://bit.ly/1E6iE9F>) the two farms in Yankton and Hutchinson Counties have around 115,000 birds combined. He says crews plan to begin euthanizing birds at both farms Wednesday.

It's still not known whether the farms have been impacted by the highly pathogenic H5N2 strain. State officials are waiting for the U.S. Department of Agriculture to confirm the exact strain.

Shocked locals have posted pictures of the dead fish amid suspicions they were killed by explosions as officials melted winter ice to prevent flooding.

The disturbing scene was at Lake Khatyng, in the Sakha Republic, the coldest region in Russia. The fish - believed to be carp and grouper - were seen dead en mass on 14 May.

Locals in Tulagino village blamed the dynamiting of local rivers to prevent ice causing dams on rivers, so leading to flooding of villages. But representatives of the Ministry of Emergencies in the republic, also known as Yakutia, denied being responsible for the dead fish.

Governor Pete Ricketts ordered a state of emergency Thursday after Nebraska's Department of Agriculture confirmed the highly contagious H5N2 avian flu virus had infected a second farm.

The declaration opens up emergency funding in the hopes it can help contain the pathogen that now threatens what is, according to local officials, a $1.1 billion poultry industry in Nebraska.

"While not a human health threat, the discovery of avian influenza is a serious situation for our poultry sector, and I want to provide responders with access to all appropriate tools to address it," said Ricketts in a statement.

Bird flu found in Indiana; 15th state to report it

(Reuters) - A strain of avian flu that until now had been found only in the Western United States has cropped up in Indiana, bringing the total number of states affected by the virulent outbreak to 15, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said on Monday.

The eastward spread of any strain of the highly contagious H5 virus is worrying to farmers and investigators, who have hoped that warmer spring weather would help lower the number of infections in birds and curtail the virus' spread.

The H5N8 strain found in a backyard poultry flock in Indiana is concerning to them also. It is different from the H5N2 strain that has been confirmed in scores of Midwestern farms and resulted in the death or culling of nearly 30 million birds so far.

The highly pathogenic H5N8 strain had been seen only in the Pacific flyway during this outbreak. Federal and state officials have confirmed it in commercial chicken and turkey farms in California

EGG, TURKEY MEAT PRICES BEGIN TO RISE AS BIRD FLU SPREADS

BY DAVID PITT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) -- Prices for eggs and turkey meat are rising as an outbreak of bird flu in the Midwest claims an increasing number of chickens and turkeys. Market experts say grocery stores and wholesalers are trying to stock up on eggs, but there's no need to worry about having enough turkeys for Thanksgiving.

The cost of a carton of large eggs in the Midwest has jumped nearly 17 percent to $1.39 a dozen from $1.19 since mid-April when the virus began appearing in Iowa's chicken flocks and farmers culled their flocks to contain any spread. Neighboring Nebraska reported its first case of bird flu Tuesday, affecting 1.7 million chickens at an egg farm in Dixon County.

A much bigger increase has emerged in the eggs used as ingredients in processed products such as cake mix and mayonnaise, which account for the majority of what Iowa produces. Those eggs have jumped 63 percent to $1.03 a dozen from 63 cents in the

A small quantity of radioactive water has leaked from a storage tank at Japan's tsunami-crippled Fukushima Daiichi nuclear power plant, Tokyo daily Asahi Shimbun reported Saturday.

A worker at the facility, located in northeastern Japan, found a wet patch measuring 20 sq. centimeters (3 sq. inches) under a storage tank for radiation-contaminated water on Friday morning, Tokyo Electric Power Co. the plant's operator, said.

Seventy microsieverts per hour of beta-ray-emitting radioactivity, far exceeding the recommended maximum exposure of 0.11 microsieverts per hour, were detected on the surface where the water had leaked.

Workers placed sandbags around the tank to prevent the radioactive water from spreading to other areas, the newspaper said.

A Florida Democrat in Congress is proposing legislation that would require all public-school students in America to be vaccinated, preventing parents with religious or other objections from opting out their children.

The plan by U.S. Rep. Frederica S. Wilson is the "Vaccinate All Children Act of 2015."

While its future in the Republican-controlled U.S. House appears limited, it illustrates recent concerns over communicable diseases spreading among school populations with large numbers of immigrants.

Neither the legislation nor a statement by Wilson addresses the huge cost of negative vaccination reactions reported annually in the United States.

Pentagon report: Chinese ballistic missiles can target nearly the entirety of the US

BUSINESS INSIDER By Jeremy Bender

t f twitter email

China now has dozens of nuclear-capable missiles that could target almost the entirety of the US, according to the Department of Defense's 2015 report on the Chinese military.

The annual report to Congress focuses on China's military modernization, possible invasion plans for the self-governing and US-allied island of Taiwan, advances in space technology, and Beijing's rapidly advancing missile capabilities.

China's conventional capabilities are improving. But Beijing also now has what could be considered the ultimate military asset for a rising superpower: the ability to deliver nuclear warheads nearly anywhere on earth (outside of South America, at least).

The following map from the report highlights the maximum missile ranges of China's medium and intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs). The longest-ranging of the missiles, the CSS-4, can target almost the entirety of the US (except for Florida).

Amid rising tensions in the disputed South China Sea, the latest in a series of provocative joint military exercises took place between the Philippines and Japan. This despite the fact that Japan doesn't even have an official claim in the region.

As part of their first joint naval exercises, two Japanese destroyers participated in a maritime safety exercise with a Philippine warship. The drills occurred off the coast of Manila, in the waters of the South China Sea.

The exercises coincide with Japan's plan to coordinate coastguard search and rescue operations with Vietnam this week.

Islamic State of Iraq and Syria militants, known for their obliteration and wanton destruction of historical sites, have seized parts of the ancient city of Palmyra, a UNESCO world heritage site in Syria, according to reports.

"If [the Islamic State] enters Palmyra, it will spell its destruction," said Syria's director of antiquities, Maamoun Abdulkarim, to Agence France-Presse before the news was announced. "If the ancient city falls, it will be an international catastrophe."

"It will be a repetition of the barbarism and savagery which we saw in Nimrud, Hatra and Mosul," he said.

"We must save Palmyra," said Irina Bokova, UNESCO Director-General, in a statement Thursday. The site, a 1st century A.D. desert oasis, "suffered from looting and represents an irreplaceable treasure for the Syrian people and the world. I appeal to all parties to protect Palmyra and make every effort to prevent its destruction."

ISIS leader Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi declared the existence of an Islamic caliphate in Iraq and Syria and all ISIS fighters are required to swear an oath to support him as their caliph.

An Iraqi-American man who likely entered the country as a refugee or asylum seeker in 2009 has been arrested in Mesquite, Texas, on charges that he pledged allegiance to Caliph Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi of ISIS.

The FBI says Bilal Abood, 37, lied to the agency about his travels to Syria last year. He is charged with making false statements, according to a federal criminal complaint.

Abood is a licensed security guard and had worked as an interpreter for the U.S. Army before emigrating to the U.S., according to his LinkedIn page.

ISIS leader: Islam 'never a religion of peace,' it's a 'religion of fighting'

A recording of Islamic State of Iraq and Syria's leader Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi, which the Pentagon has not confirmed is genuine, calls for all Muslims to join the fight against the "infidels," saying, "Islam was never a religion of peace. Islam is the religion of fighting."

Al-Baghdadi had not been heard from until this voice recording since a March coalition airstrike where he was reportedly injured. As the former leader of al Qaeda in Iraq, al-Baghdadi was known for defying the larger al Qaeda organization and forming the Islamic State, against al-Qaeda's wishes, and was one of many former al Qaeda members that the U.S. released a few years ago from its prison Camp Bucca, in Umm Qasr, Iraq.

"We have not been able to confirm that the audio recording released yesterday was authentic," said Brig. Gen. Thomas Weidley, chief of staff of the Combined Joint Task Force Operation Inherent Resolve Friday.

Vatican Officially Recognizes Palestinian State In New Treaty

WATCH: Vatican To Officially Recognize Palestine As A State

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican officially recognized the state of Palestine in a new treaty finalized Wednesday, immediately sparking Israeli ire and accusations that the move hurt peace prospects.

The treaty, which concerns the activities of the Catholic Church in Palestinian territory, makes clear that the Holy See has switched its diplomatic recognition from the Palestine Liberation Organization to the state of Palestine.

The Vatican had welcomed the decision by the U.N. General Assembly in 2012 to recognize a Palestinian state. But the treaty is the first legal document negotiated between the Holy See and the Palestinian state and constitutes official diplomatic recognition.

And the controversial decision by Pope Francis is even leading to allegations the Roman Catholic Church will be an adversary to Christians and the state of Israel during those times.

(CNSNews.com) – A rural Oregon man was sentenced Wednesday to 30 days in jail and over $1,500 in fines because he had three reservoirs on his property to collect and use rainwater.

Gary Harrington of Eagle Point, Ore., says he plans to appeal his conviction in Jackson County (Ore.) Circuit Court on nine misdemeanor charges under a 1925 law for having what state water managers called “three illegal reservoirs” on his property – and for filling the reservoirs with rainwater and snow runoff.

“The government is bullying,” Harrington told CNSNews.com in an interview Thursday.

JAPAN SET TO LAUNCH IRIS-SCANNING SMARTPHONE

Companies push biometric authentication despite glaring vulnerabilities

by MIKAEL THALEN | INFOWARS.COM | MAY 13, 2015

Japanese cellphone manufacturer NTT Docomo is set to launch a new smartphone later this month complete with iris-scanning authentication.

Produced in conjunction with fellow technology manufacturer Fujitsu, the Arrows NX F-04G smartphone will utilize a user's iris pattern to carry out a multitude of tasks.

Captured using both the phone's infrared camera and LED, the iris scan will allow a user to unlock their device, confirm payments, and access several built-in Docomo services.

Long-Range Iris Scanning Is Here

An engineering professor at Carnegie Mellon says he's invented technology that can identify someone from across the room with the precision of a fingerprint.

ROBINSON MEYER | MAY 13, 2015

An officer pulls someone over on the side of the highway. The cop sits in the car a moment, runs the plates—they're fine—and gets out of the car. As he or she approach the driver's side window, the driver pulls out a gun, shoots the officer, and flees.

This is something close to what happened in Long Island earlier this year, when a Suffolk County police officer was shot during a traffic stop. Unlike the recent traffic-stop shooting in Hattiesburg, Mississippi, the suspect in the New York case, police told CBS, was a "known gang member."

Marios Savvides, a Carnegie Mellon engineering professor, says he's invented the fix: a long-range iris scanner that can identify someone as they glance at their rear-view mirror. In other words, it's technology that could potentially identify a dangerous suspect before the cop even gets out of the car.

It is the first effective long-range iris scanner, he says.

In this video from March, he demonstrates how his technology would work:

Many have pondered the idea of recreating dinosaurs while novelists and sci-fi film directors tempted our imagination with such as creations the Jurassic park film and novel series.

A research team led by Yale paleontologist and developmental biologist Bhart-Anjan S. The Debt To GDP Ratio For The Entire World: 286 Percent

By Michael Snyder, on May 17th, 2015

Did you know that there is more than $28,000 of debt for every man, woman and child on the entire planet? And since close to 3 billion of those people survive on less than 2 dollars a day, your share of that debt is going to be much larger than that. If we took everything that the global economy produced this year and everything that the global economy produced next year and used it to pay all of this debt, it still would not be enough. According to a recent report put out by the McKinsey Global Institute entitled "Debt and (not much) deleveraging", the total amount of debt on our planet has grown from 142 trillion dollars at the end of 2007 to 199 trillion dollars today. This is the largest mountain of debt in the history of the world, and those numbers mean that we are in substantially worse condition than we were just prior to the last financial crisis.

When it comes to debt, a lot of fingers get pointed at the United States, and rightly so. Just prior to the last recession, the U.S. national debt was sitting at about 9 trillion dollars. Today, it has crossed the 18 trillion dollar mark. But of course the U.S. is not the only one that is guilty. In fact, the McKinsey Global Institute says that debt levels have grown in all major economies since 2007. The following is an excerpt from the report...

Moody's downgraded Chicago's credit rating down to junk level "Ba1" from "Baa2."

The announcement, which the ratings agency released Tuesday afternoon, cited a recent Illinois court ruling voiding state pension reforms. Moody's said it saw a negative outlook for the city's credit.

Following that May court decision, Moody's said it believes that "the city's options for curbing growth in its own unfunded pension liabilities have narrowed considerably."

The NHS is 'stretched close to breaking point' with its finances 'cut to the bone', the country's leading medical journal warned last night.

It said public safety is at risk and the next five years are set to be the 'most challenging' the Health Service in England has faced.

The comments, which amount to a stinging attack on the Coalition's record since 2010, were made in an open letter by Dr Fiona Godlee, editor-in-chief of the British Medical

With Denmark moving towards a completely cash-free economy there has been a heated debate between the experts who think it's a natural thing caused by technological development and those who warn that total traceability has a dark side.

The Danish government has proposed that certain businesses such as petrol stations, restaurants and clothes retailers should no longer be legally required to accept cash. Moreover, a third of the Danish population already uses a mobile payment app when making transactions.

Is this trend a natural pace of progress or are officials blinded by seemingly posh perspectives? RT has spoken to George Harrap, CEO of Bitspark, a Bitcoin startup, and Robert David Steele, IT strategic analyst and innovator, whose biography can be found on robertdavidsteele.com.

What I laid out at the Solution Conference is the ONLY way out of this nightmare. It is time for people to start spreading the word and getting behind changing the game plan while we still have a game in play. We have to stop this confiscation of all wealth and the continual borrowing and taxation. This will lead to the total destruction of Western culture, for we are plagued by insane

THEIR MISSION STATEMENT IS TO ADVOCATE AGAINST THE WIDESPREAD ACCEPTANCE OF THE STORY OF JESUS CHRIST AS WRITTEN IN THE HOLY BIBLE

"Opening and alleging, that Christ must needs have suffered, and risen again from the dead; and that this Jesus, whom I preach unto you, is Christ." Acts 17:3 (KJV)

When Jesus walked the earth, all He did was good for other people. The Bible said that Jesus stood in the Temple and proclaimed that "The Spirit of the Lord GOD *is upon me; because the LORD hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to *them that are bound;" (Isaiah 61:1 KJV). The Devil hated each and every word of that, and guess what? In 2015, he still hates it.

Students at Prince Charles' old university vote to ban Bibles from halls of residence for not being 'appropriately multicultural'

Students at a Welsh university have voted to end a tradition of putting Bibles in their halls of residence in the name of 'multiculturalism'. Those studying at Aberystwyth University – which Prince Charles once attended – want to end the long-running practice of putting Gideon Bibles in dorm rooms at the start of term. The Students' Union at the west Wales institution claim the policy could be 'offensive' to non-Christians, but Bible groups have branded the ban 'illiberal'. A motion passed at a meeting of the Union called for all Bibles to be removed from halls of residence bedrooms at the end of the current academic year and students to instead be given an option to request a religious text if they want one.

In the statement, the president said he is working to "address the specific needs of transgender persons."

Here is the president's statement:

Michelle and I join our fellow Americans and others around the world in commemorating the International Day Against Homophobia and Transphobia tomorrow, May 17. Have you noticed that it's Christian bakers, florists, photographers and pizza makers who are in targeted for declining to promote same-sex ceremonies, even though other religions reject "gay marriage," too?

Conservative icon Phyllis Schlafly has noticed, and she sees the double standard as part of a desire by "gay marriage" advocates to destroy Christianity.

"They want to wipe out the Christian religion," Schlafly said in an interview Monday on CRN's "Talkback with Chuck Wilder."

Britain now has the gayest Parliament in the world after last week's election.

There are 32 openly gay, lesbian and bisexual MPs – just under 5 per cent of the total number in the Commons.

This dwarfs the 12 and ten in the parliaments of Sweden and the Netherlands respectively, both countries that pride themselves on their liberal attitude to gay rights.

According to analysis by the New Statesman magazine, 13 are Labour MPs, 12 are Conservatives and six represent the SNP.

In the last Parliament there were 26 gay, lesbian and bisexual Labour, Lib Dem and Conservative MPs.

Girl Scouts Now Welcoming Transgender Boys

On days like today, I'm glad I was never a Girl Scout. Don't get me wrong, the principles Girl Scouts of America teaches—courage, confidence and character—are historically helpful and the cookies are no doubt delicious. But the group's latest move left a bad taste in my mouth.

A new Girl Scouts of America policy extends membership to boys who identify as girls. In other words, this girls group is now embracing transgender boys.

"Girl Scouts is proud to be the premiere leadership organization for girls in the country. Placement of transgender youth is handled on a case-by-case basis, with the welfare and best interests of the child and the members of the troop/group in question a top priority," the group says in an FAQ on its website. "That said, if the child is recognized by the family and school/community as a girl and lives culturally as a girl, then Girl Scouts is an organization that can serve her in a setting that is both emotionally and physically safe."

One of the nation's largest public school systems is preparing to include gender identity to its classroom curriculum, including lessons on sexual fluidity and spectrum – the idea that there's no such thing as 100 percent boys or 100 percent girls.

Fairfax County Public Schools released a report recommending changes to their family life curriculum for grades 7 through 12. The changes, which critics call radical gender ideology,

UPDATE: The Fairfax County Public Schools School Board voted Thursday night to add "gender identity" to its nondiscrimination policy in spite of massive opposition from parents and the area's religious community.

Police were summoned to control a standing-room-only crowd as board members approved the controversial measure.

Critics argued it would allow boys who identify as girls to use the bathrooms and locker rooms of their choice—and vice versa. Parents also had concerns about the possibility of transgender teachers.

School Board Chair Tamara Derenak Kaufax issued a statement calling the measure a way to "provide an environment which promotes equality where every student and employee is treated with dignity and respect."
