والعلامات حتى 30 يونية 2015

Holy_bible_1

اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأیضا أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن ايضا علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. ونذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء

المسيح بل ايضا قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر

هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان

عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيق اقتربت

جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشتر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم يأتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

المسيح قال بعض العلامات مثل

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

السماء

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

أولا لكيلا نرتاع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

ثانيا لنؤمن

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَأَن تُوْمِنُونَ.

ثالثا لننتبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَاَنْتَصِبُوا وَاَرْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ».

There's Another Huge Solar Flare Coming

Bloomberg By Brian K. Sullivan 23 hours ago

A severe geo-magnetic storm sparked by a solar flare swept the Earth Monday and a second is forecast to strike late Wednesday afternoon.

While that's U.S. East Coast time, the impact has the potential to be worldwide -- everything from power being disrupted to radios blacking out to global positioning systems going a little off-course.

Monday's event, which was still winding down Tuesday, doesn't seem to have caused any failures or forced planes to reroute, according to industry statements. It registered as a G4 storm on the U.S. Space Weather Prediction Center's five-step Geomagnetic Storm scale and touched off auroras that were visible across northern Asia, Europe and parts of Canada and the U.S.

(NaturalNews) One morning in September, 1859, British astronomer Richard Carrington sat in his private observatory, drawing pictures of sunspots using a telescope which projected an image of the sun onto a screen.

As he drew and observed, there suddenly appeared a brilliant flash of white light on the surface of the sun. Startled, he ran to find witnesses to what he realized was a very unusual event, but by the time he returned, the massive solar flare that Carrington observed had mostly dissipated.

The next morning, shortly before dawn, skies around the globe lit up with colorful auroras

May 6, 2008: At 11:18 AM on the cloudless morning of Thursday, September 1, 1859, 33-year-old Richard Carrington—widely acknowledged to be one of England's foremost solar astronomers—was in his well-appointed private observatory. Just as usual on every sunny day, his telescope was projecting an 11-inch-wide image of the sun on a screen, and Carrington skillfully drew the sunspots he saw.

Right: Sunspots sketched by Richard Carrington on Sept. 1, 1859. Copyright: Royal Astronomical Society: more .

On that morning, he was capturing the likeness of an enormous group of sunspots. Suddenly, before his eyes, two brilliant beads of blinding white light appeared over the sunspots, intensified rapidly, and became kidney-shaped. Realizing that he was witnessing something unprecedented and "being somewhat flurried by the surprise," Carrington later wrote, "I hastily ran to call someone to witness the exhibition with me. On returning within 60 seconds, I was mortified to find that it was already much changed and enfeebled." He and his witness watched the white spots contract to mere pinpoints and disappear.

It was 11:23 AM. Only five minutes had passed.

Just before dawn the next day, skies all over planet Earth erupted in red, green, and purple auroras so brilliant that newspapers could be read as easily as in daylight. Indeed, stunning auroras pulsed even at near tropical latitudes over Cuba, the Bahamas, Jamaica, El Salvador, and Hawaii.

Earth's protective shield is weakening: Trio of Swarm satellites could reveal how fast the planet's magnetic field is fading

- Swarm measures different magnetic signals from Earth's magnetosphere
- Scientists claim the magnetosphere - our protective shield - is weakening
- This can allow harmful solar radiation to penetrate planet's atmosphere
- The initial results from Swarm are due to be presented at a conference on 22 June to 2 July in Prague, Czech Republic

Earth's protective shield is slowly weakening, allowing harmful solar winds to penetrate the planet's atmosphere.

Known as the magnetosphere, this shield extends thousands of miles into space and affects everything from global communication to weather patterns.

The European Space Agency's Swarm mission aims to map changes to magnetosphere – and, after a year in orbit, it's now provided a glimpse into its dynamics.

KARACHI, Pakistan — Karachi's poor learned long ago to cope with the many adversities that afflict Pakistan's most crowded and chaotic city, including flooding, street violence and political crises. But since a suffocating heat wave descended on Karachi three days ago, killing at least 650 people, they have found no respite and no escape.

"It's so hot," said a security guard, Shamim ur-Rehman, 34, as he sat on a cot, looking beleaguered. "There is no fan, there is nothing. I can't sleep at night or during the day."

Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif declared an emergency on Tuesday as the death toll from the heat wave soared, with overwhelmed hospitals struggling to treat a surge of casualties and morgues filling to capacity. June 2015 – KARACHI, Pakistan — Karachi's poor learned long ago to cope with the many adversities that afflict Pakistan's most crowded and chaotic city, including flooding, street violence and political crises. But since a suffocating heat wave descended on Karachi three days ago, killing at least 650 people, they have found no respite and no escape. "It's so hot," said a security guard, Shamim ur-Rehman, 34, as he sat on a cot, beleaguered. "There is no fan, there is nothing. I can't sleep at night or during the day."

Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif declared an emergency on Tuesday as the death toll from the heat wave soared, with overwhelmed hospitals struggling to treat a surge of casualties and morgues filling to capacity. The army set up emergency treatment centers in the streets and the provincial government closed schools and city offices. The Edhi Foundation, which runs an ambulance service and Karachi's largest morgue, said it had collected over 600 bodies in recent days. "The first to die were the people on the streets — heroin addicts, beggars, the homeless," said Anwar Kazmi, a spokesman for the service. "Then it was the elderly, particularly those who didn't have anyone to take care of them."

In many ways, the emergency is the product of a perfect storm of meteorological, political and religious factors in Karachi. Chronic shortages of water and electricity have exacerbated the impact of the heat wave, which has brought temperatures up to 45 Celsius, or 113 degrees Fahrenheit, in a crowded city of 20 million people that is normally ventilated by a sea breeze. The health dangers are further exacerbated by the demands of the annual Ramadan fast, when most Muslims abstain from eating or drinking water during

Week-long heat wave kills 1,233 people in southern Pakistan – deadliest in country's history

Posted on June 28, 2015

June 2015 – PAKISTAN – A devastating weeklong heat wave in Pakistan's southern port city of Karachi killed 1,233 people, an official said. Nazar Mohammad Bozdar, operations director at the Provincial Disaster Management Authority, said about 65,000 heatstroke patients were treated by doctors at all of Karachi's hospitals since June 20 when the heat wave struck Sindh province, where Karachi is the provincial capital.

He told The Associated Press that 1,923 patients with heat-related ailments were still being treated. "The government quickly responded by making arrangements for the treatment of heatstroke patients and the situation has improved now," he said. Pakistan's deadliest heat wave on record coincided with the holy Muslim month of Ramadan, when Pakistan's Muslim majority observed a dawn-to-dusk fast. The temperatures in Karachi came down to 93 degrees Fahrenheit after reaching 113 degrees Fahrenheit a week ago amid chronic power outages, which forced many residents to spend nights outdoors.

The heat wave shocked many Pakistanis just weeks after soaring temperatures caused nearly 2,200 deaths in neighboring India. On Saturday, TV footage showed a charity burying several unidentified bodies of people who died earlier this week because of the heatstroke. Pakistani television stations reported that several unidentified bodies were buried by the Edhi Foundation charity because local morgues were overflowing.

The El Nino developing across the Pacific strengthened further, according to Australia's Bureau of Meteorology, which again highlighted patterns shown by the data that are similar to the record 1997-1998 event.

Sea-surface temperature indexes for the central and eastern tropical Pacific are more than 1 degree Celsius above average for a sixth week,

Where's the snow? Climate change hits Chile's winter ski resorts

Posted on June 24, 2015

June 2015 – CHILE – Haydee Pereira should be tired by this time of year serving clients at the Valle Nevado ski resort near Santiago. As it is, she has a lot of time to contemplate the mountains out the window — and the absence of snow. With 15 years experience working as a waitress at the resort, Pereira can't remember the last time the slopes were this barren by mid-June. The only snow to be seen is the fake variety, put down last week for a photo shoot. "In all my years here, the snow has never taken so long to arrive or the season so long to start," Haydee said as she stood in the resort's deserted restaurant. Santiago, which sits below the ski resorts, has seen just 1.2 centimeters of rain this year, 86% less than normal, and there is none forecast for at least another seven days. The situation gets more complicated for Valle Nevado and the other ski resorts in the Andes mountains by the Chilean capital in a week or so, when package tours start to arrive from places such as Brazil.

The fire broke out Wednesday and the heavy brush and trees in the area have caused it to rapidly spread and expand.

CIUDAD SERDAN, Mexico — As a result of warming temperatures, Mexico's tallest volcano, Pico de Orizaba, is performing an all-natural striptease, the ice patches near its summit melting away to bare rock.

The same process is taking place in the permafrost of Russia, the ice fields of the Yukon and the glaciers of New Zealand. And as the once-frozen world emerges from slumber, it's yielding relics, debris — and corpses — that have been hidden for decades, even millennia.

The thaw has unnerved archaeologists, given hope to relatives of lost mountain climbers and solved the mysteries of old plane crashes.

Mexico's Colima Volcano unleashes huge blast of ash and steam

Posted on June 24, 2015

June 2015 – MEXICO – The Colima Volcano in Western Mexico blasted a column of ash and smoke into the air early Tuesday morning. The volcano, also known as the 'Fire Volcano,' is one of the most active in Mexico. It is included in the Colima Volcanic Complex, a prominent center of the Western Mexican Volcanic Belt. As of now, the renewed activity has not affected nearby cities. Colima volcano is one of the most active in Central America and one of the potentially most dangerous ones. It has had more than 30 periods of eruptions since 1585, including several significant eruptions in the late 1990s. Scientific monitoring of the volcano began about 20 years ago. Explosions continue to occur from time to time. On 16 May an ash plume rose from Colima to an altitude of 5.5 km (18,000 ft). –KGNS

Exhibiting signs of awakening: two volcanoes under watch in the Aleutians

June 2015 – ALASKA – Satellite imagery shows elevated surface temperatures in the summit crater at Cleveland Volcano, roughly 140 miles west of Dutch Harbor. John Power is the Scientist in Charge at the Alaska Volcano Observatory. "So, we're seeing warm ground, increased thermal activity at the summit. Some of the radar images that we have suggested that new lava has been extruded forming a small lava dome in the volcano summit crater." Scientists at the AVO have raised the alert level for Cleveland to 'advisory.' The aviation color code has also been set to yellow.

"We have heightened the alert levels at Cleveland so that folks are aware that there is the possibility of increased hazards associated with any eruptive activity that might occur beyond what's apparently already gone on." Cleveland volcano has been extremely active for the past decade. Power says it's one of the most active volcanoes in the Aleutian Chain. But the majority of that activity has come in the way of small, long-term, low-level eruptions. A similar scenario is playing out roughly 125 miles to the east of Dutch Harbor at Mt. Shishaldin.

Mount Sinabung volcano spews giant volcanic ash over abandoned houses at Bekerah village in Karo, North Sumatra on June 25, 2015. AFP

JAKARTA: Indonesia's Mount Sinabung spewed searing ash and gas 4 kilometres into the sky Thursday, officials said, as the number of people displaced by the latest round of eruptions exceeded 10,000.

"There were two strong eruptions today and the ash travelled far to the east," said Subur Tambun, chief of the disaster management agency in Karo district in North Sumatra province, where the volcano is located.

The volcano erupted 11 times on Wednesday, sending ash to the provincial capital Medan.

There have been no fatalities since the volcano began its latest period of activity early this month, he said.

Indonesian President Joko Widodo this week arranged 6 billion rupiah (US$450,000, RM1.6 million) to help local authorities cope with the displaced.

The National Disaster Management Agency said more than 10,000 had fled their homes and more than 6,000 of them have to be relocated for good because they live too close to the volcano.

Officials say fish in Regina's Wascana Creek are suffocating due to low levels of oxygen in the water.

On Monday, a large number of dead fish were discovered at the Albert Street bridge and others were moved to a better location.

Officials said crews from the provincial Water Security Agency successfully rescued an estimated 600 to 800 fish on Monday night, moving them from a spot near the bridge to Wascana Lake where oxygen levels are higher.

False Bay mussels bonanza

June 25 2015 at 08:50am
By Helen Bamford

Comment on this story

Cape Town - People have been feasting on mussels which have washed up in their hundreds of thousands on False Bay beaches in recent weeks – but authorities say it isn't a good idea to eat them.

They cite a red tide, which has been known to contaminate shellfish, but this hasn't stopped people collecting the delicacy by the sackload.

Local fisherman Godfrey Permall scoffed at concerns that the mussels may be toxic.

He says they wash up every winter – and when they do, he is waiting.

Permall, from Vrygrond near Muizenberg, fills around eight or nine plastic bread packets with the mussels, which he sells for R30 each.

He comes to the beach every day but it is in winter when the ocean's bounty is most generous and helps put food on the table.

The Department of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries' Carol Moses said harvesting would be legal with a recreational permit and providing bag limits were adhered to. Individuals can only catch 30 mussels each per day.

But she advised against eating the mussels, saying a red tide from Strandfontein to Smitswinkel Bay had persisted for much of June and the department had limited information on its toxicity.

Department of Environmental Affairs spokesperson Zolile Nqayi said that while no toxicity had been reported, anything dead for an unknown period and for unknown

... 25/06/2015 France: Thousands of jellyfish washed up in Saint-Brevin

12:52

Technical services have evacuated 160 m3 jellyfish last week. A common activity for them this season.

Rising temperatures and favorable winds foiled by thousands of jellyfish on the beaches of Saint-Brevin in recent days.

From June 10 to 18, the Hall Technical Services completed the evacuation of 160 m3 of dead jellyfish on the coast from cove to the Rochelets. "It is a usual activity for us in this season, explains Antoine Martin, technical services. This year, there is no more than other years. It was packed. There a few years, it took us three weeks to pick every jelly up."

These dead jellyfish are of two varieties: large white, a priori rhizostomes, and small violets, stinging more that could be Physalia. Once collected, these jellyfish are deposited on a common. "Once they are emptied of their water, it remains practically nothing says Antoine Martin. But with decomposition, it stinks damn! "

Hundreds of dead bunker fish have turned up on the banks of the Hudson River in recent weeks, and local environmentalists are alarmed.

Watchdog group Riverkeeper says it first received reports of a fish die-off in early June. At its peak, about a week ago, the watchdog group was receiving two to three reports daily of the same thing happening from Peekskill south to New York Harbor and around Long Island Sound, where thousands of the same bunker fish washed up.

John Lipscomb, Riverkeeper's water quality program director, called the news "very upsetting."

"We suspect the peak of the problem may have passed — we hope so," he said in an e-mail.

The state Department of Environmental Conservation was notified and dead fish have been sent for analysis to the Cornell Aquatic Animal Health Lab. Officials say there could be a number of factors contributing to the die-off, including algae blooms.

Rockland County resident Annadora Perillo got a whiff of the dead fish on her daily walk along the Piermont Pier.

"There were literally dead fish the entire way, start to finish," she said, adding, "It was disturbing to see such a large number."

Faced with a shortage of U.S. Navy ships, the Marine Corps is exploring a plan to deploy its forces aboard foreign vessels to ensure they can respond quickly to global crises around Europe and western Africa.

The initiative is a stopgap way to deploy Marines aboard ships overseas until more American vessels are available, said Brig. Gen. Norman Cooling, deputy commander, U.S. Marine Corps Forces Europe and Africa.

The Marines will be able to respond quickly to evacuate embassies or protect U.S. property and citizens, a need highlighted by the 2012 attack in Benghazi, Libya, that killed four Americans, including the U.S. ambassador.

"There's no substitute for U.S. amphibious" vessels, Cooling said. "We're looking at other options" in the meantime, he added.

The Marines have been working with Spain, Italy, the United Kingdom and other close allies to determine the suitability of the foreign ships for U.S. personnel and aircraft.

The units would be designed for limited operations and not major amphibious assaults. A ground force of about 100 to 120 Marines would be deployed along with three or four Ospreys, which fly like airplanes but can take off and land like helicopters.

The U.S. Navy has 30 amphibious ships but says it needs 38 to fulfill war fighting requirements. It won't reach that level until 2028 because of budget constraints, according to the Navy.

Critics say the Navy has allowed its amphibious capabilities to decline.

CARTER: US TO PUT MILITARY EQUIPMENT IN 7 EUROPEAN COUNTRIES

BY LOLITA C. BALDOR
ASSOCIATED PRESS

TALLINN, Estonia (AP) -- Defense Secretary Ash Carter announced Tuesday that the U.S. will spread about 250 tanks, armored vehicles and other military equipment across seven European nations to help reassure NATO allies facing an array of threats from Russia and terrorist groups.

Each set of equipment would be enough to equip a military company or battalion, and would go on at least a temporary basis to Bulgaria, Estonia, Germany, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, and Romania. Carter said the equipment could be moved around the region for training and military exercises, and would include Bradley fighting vehicles and self-propelled howitzer artillery guns.

But while the stated goal of the move is that American forces moving in and out of Europe will be better able to do training, it also would allow NATO nations to more quickly respond to any military crisis in the region.

In continuation of a militarizing trend, Russia will deploy advanced aerial weapons systems to the Arctic, according to the deputy commander of Russia's Aerospace Defense Forces.

Speaking on June 20, Deputy Commander Kirill Makarov told RIA Novosti that the Kremlin will deploy fighter aircraft, surface-to-air missile systems, and radar systems to islands off the Russian coast in the Arctic.

12 Signs That The United States And China Are Moving Toward War

By Michael Snyder, on June 21st, 2015

If the United States and China are supposed to be such "great friends", why are both sides acting as if war is in our future? Thanks to events in the South China Sea and the blatant theft of the personal information of millions of U.S. government workers, tensions between the United States and China are the highest that they have been in decades. Most Americans typically assume that a real, actual shooting war between the U.S. and China could never possibly happen, but as you will see below the Chinese are actually spending a lot of time and money preparing for precisely such a conflict. In fact, the Chinese are working feverishly to develop new offensive weapons systems that would only be used in such a war. Of course it is extremely unlikely that a military conflict between our two nations will happen in our immediate future, but without a doubt we are moving in that direction. And this is how wars typically happen – things build up over a period of time before they finally reach a breaking point. Just think about what took place between the United States and Japan in the lead up to our war with them. There were years of diplomatic troubles before Japan finally made the decision to launch a "surprise" attack on Pearl Harbor. Right now, I believe that we are moving into a similar period of diplomatic trouble with China. Initially, this will likely affect our trade relationship with the Chinese, but ultimately it could be much more than that. The following are 10 signs that the United States and China are moving toward war...

AS OBAMA JUNE 30TH NUCLEAR DEAL LOOMS, IRAN PARLIAMENT CHANTS 'DEATH TO AMERICA'

Geoffrey Grider | June 22, 2015 | 5 Comments

WITH SOME LAWMAKERS CHANTING "DEATH TO AMERICA," IRAN'S PARLIAMENT VOTED SUNDAY TO BAN ACCESS TO MILITARY SITES, DOCUMENTS AND SCIENTISTS AS PART OF A FUTURE DEAL WITH WORLD POWERS OVER ITS CONTESTED NUCLEAR PROGRAM.

EDITOR'S NOTE: US President Barack Hussein Obama desperately wants America to think he has successfully brought the Iranians to the bargaining table, and has solved the question of a nuclear-armed Iran. Taking the opposing viewpoint, however, was the Iranian parliament who stood on their feet and shouted en masse "DEATH TO AMERICA!!". Well played, Obama, well played.

The bill, if approved into law, could complicate the ongoing talks in Vienna between Iran and the six-nation group — the U.S., Britain, France, Russia, China and Germany — as they face a self-imposed June 30 deadline. The talks are focused on reaching a final accord that curbs Iran's nuclear program in return for the lifting of economic sanctions.

WASHINGTON – With a deadline looming on nuclear talks with Iran, Tehran has revealed it has developed a “filter” to protect against an electromagnetic pulse attack targeting key national security facilities.

Rahimi said Iran had acquired the technology, based on illegally acquired surge arresters, at “considerable costs and various strategies.”

NO BAILOUT DEAL YET FOR GREECE AS TALKS GET BOGGED DOWN

BY DEREK GATOPOULOS AND RAF CASERT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BRUSSELS (AP) -- Crucial talks between Greece and its creditors to keep the country solvent and within the euro got bogged down again Wednesday amid differences over what kind of reforms the country should make in exchange for loans.

The impasse forced eurozone finance ministers to cut short a meeting, which they plan to resume Thursday. Concern over the lack of progress weighed on financial markets, with stock indexes falling in the U.S., where trading was still open.

Earlier in the day, Greek Prime Minister Alexis Tsipras held long talks with key creditors but bickered again over what kind of reforms the country should make in return for much-needed loans.

Greece has promised mainly tax increases to achieve budget savings, whereas the International Monetary Fund would like more spending cuts. Tsipras rejected the creditors' new suggestions, saying they put both sides further away from a deal.

BUSINESS*Euro zone readies for Greek default after Tsipras referendum call

Sat, Jun 27 22:52 PM IST

« 1 of 7 »

By Karolina Tagaris and Robin Emmott

ATHENS/BRUSSELS (Reuters) - The euro zone got ready to deal with a Greek debt default next week after refusing to extend credit following Prime Minister Alexis Tsipras's surprise announcement of a referendum on an offer from creditors that his leftist government rejected.

Athens asked for an extension of Greece's bailout programme beyond Tuesday, the day it must pay 1.6 billion euros to the International Monetary Fund or go bust.

But the other 18 members of the euro zone unanimously rejected the request, freezing Greece out of further discussions with the European Central Bank and IMF on how to deal with the fallout from a historic breach in the EU's 16-year-old currency.

The swift rejection was a startling demonstration of the degree to which Tsipras had alienated the rest of the currency bloc with a final-hour announcement that upended five months of intense talks.

The Eurogroup of finance members shut Greece's Yanis Varoufakis from a meeting in Brussels and issued a statement without him, accusing Athens of breaking off negotiations unilaterally.

"The current financial assistance arrangement with Greece will expire on June 30, 2015, as well as all agreements related to the current Greek programme," it said, making clear its refusal of a grace period to hold the vote.

Varoufakis said the refusal to provide an extension "will certainly damage the credibility of the Eurogroup as a democratic union of partner member states".

"I'm very much afraid that that damage will be permanent."

The offer from creditors requires Greece to cut pensions and raise taxes in ways that Tsipras has long argued would deepen one of the worst economic crises of modern times in a country where a quarter of the workforce is already unemployed.

But voters in other euro zone states -- including economic powerhouse, other southern states which have suffered harsh austerity in return for EU cash and poor eastern countries with living standards much lower than Greece -- have lost patience.

Jeroen Dijsselbloem, the Dutch finance minister and chair of the Eurogroup, said Greek lawmakers should think about whether the referendum was wise before agreeing to hold it, essentially appealing directly to the Greek parliament to defy Tsipras.

Worried the country could default and even leave the euro zone, some Greeks queued up at cash machines to withdraw funds, though there were no signs of panic in Athens. Many sounded defiant, saying Tsipras had offered them an important chance to determine their own fate.

Greece imposes capital controls as crisis deepens

ATHENS | BY LEFTERIS PAPADIMAS AND GEORGE GEORGIPOULOS

Greece moved to check the growing strains on its crippled financial system on Sunday, closing its banks and imposing capital controls that brought the prospect of being forced out of the euro into plain sight.

After bailout talks between the leftwing government and foreign lenders broke down at the weekend, the European Central Bank froze vital funding support to Greece's banks, leaving Athens with little choice but to shut down the system to keep the banks from collapsing.

■ How Long Will Bond Volatility Chill U.S. Corporate Sales?

TCW Group Inc. is taking the possibility of a bond-market selloff seriously.

So seriously that the Los Angeles-based money manager, which oversees almost $140 billion of U.S. debt, has been accumulating more and more cash in its credit funds, with the proportion rising to the highest since the 2008 crisis.

AN APPEAL TO HEAVEN

WARREN, Ark. — A Christian-themed flag that had been raised outside a county courthouse in Arkansas has been removed following a complaint from a prominent atheist activist organization.

The Madison, Wisconsin-based Freedom from Religion Foundation (FFRF) recently sent a letter to the county judge of Warren, Arkansas to assert that the presence of the flag, which reads, “Appeal to Heaven,” is unconstitutional.

The flag, which simply bears the phrase along with the image of an evergreen tree, was created by a Christian political organization of the same name, which “exists to honor the Lord by supporting candidates for public office who are believers in Jesus Christ, who regularly attend and display a commitment to an evangelical, Gospel-centered church and who will commit to live and govern based on biblical, constitutional and Federalist principles.”

FFRF says that it received a complaint from a local resident about the flag, which flies at the Bradley County Courthouse below the Arkansas state flag.

Nowadays, we all take it for granted that any time you step out your front door, there's a good chance that your picture is going to be taken at some point. It could be a visit to a convenience store, a passing police car, and now with drones, lounging on your front porch is liable to be subject to surveillance. But it's not just the act of documenting your movements that can be creepy, it's also type of surveillance that can be disturbing.

This is especially true for facial recognition technology, which can identify your facial features and cross-reference them with a database. You can expect this technology to become ubiquitous in the years ahead for its ability to catch criminals and increase profits for retail outlets. But while we're on the subject, it won't just be retail establishments using your face to blare "Minority Report" style ads in your face as you walk by. Apparently, churches with large congregations are starting to embrace facial recognition as well.

The legalization of same-sex marriage would be a "very dangerous place" for America to go and could lead to civil disobedience, former Arkansas Governor Mike Huckabee warns.

I have received an exclusive copy of a letter the Republican presidential candidate is sending to conservative leaders and pro-family activists around the nation.

In that letter, which you can read here, he vows to "fight to defend religious liberty at all costs."

"I refuse to sit silently as politically driven interest groups threaten the foundation of religious liberty, criminalize Christianity and demand that Americans abandon biblical principles of natural marriage," Huckabee wrote.

Huckabee also had a stern message for his fellow Republican contenders—urging them to join the fight to defend the Constitution.

"If you lack the backbone to reject judicial tyranny and fight for religious liberty, you have no business serving our nation as President of the United States," he wrote.

Huckabee has mobilized an impressive group of conservative and religious leaders—many of whom

Obama, Clinton Hail Gay Marriage Rights on Eve of Ruling

By Alexis Simendinger ♥ - June 24, 2015

Email Print Comments

President Obama and Hillary Clinton Wednesday each found openings to publicly celebrate gay rights and marriage equality leading up to a June Supreme Court ruling that is widely expected to energize the 2016 political bloodstream, no matter how it comes down.

During an East Room event to celebrate LGBT Pride Month, Obama said, "We're now awaiting the Supreme Court's ruling on whether same-sex couples nationwide have the equal right to marry," adding that a verdict on a key element of the Affordable Care Act also hangs in the balance as the high court's session comes to a close.

"There are a few decisions coming down these next few days that I'm paying close attention to," he confided to a raucous standing-room-only audience during a reception.

Whether the Supreme Court affirms a federal right for same-sex couples to marry, "one thing is undeniable," the president said. "There has been this incredible shift in attitudes across the country."

Gay marriage was legal in two states when Obama was elected. At that time, the Illinois senator backed civil unions, but not gay marriage. His political wariness about states' fast-moving judicial rulings fell away after Vice President Biden embraced gay marriage during an interview in 2012. Biden accompanied the president Wednesday.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruling giving gay people the right to marry in all 50 states is vindication of the belief that "ordinary people can do extraordinary things" and has "made our union a little more perfect," President Barack Obama said Friday.

The court ruled that allowing states to deny gay people the right to marry is a violation of the 14th Amendment.

Obama: Justice arrives 'like a thunderbolt'

COMMENTS 122

By Jordan Fabian - 06/26/15 11:26 AM EDT

Raw: Obama applauds same-sex marriage decision

President Obama on Friday hailed a Supreme Court decision legalizing same-sex marriage nationwide, saying justice has arrived "like a thunderbolt" for gay and lesbian couples.

"They've reaffirmed that all Americans are entitled to the equal protection of the law, that all people should be treated equally," Obama said in the Rose Garden.

Obama said the ruling ends uncertainty for same-sex couples by ending the "patchwork" system of marriage laws in the United States.

"Sometimes there are days like this, when that slow, steady effort is rewarded with justice that arrives like a thunderbolt," Obama said.

Obama opposed same-sex marriage when he was first elected president in 2008. He backed it before the 2012 election, saying his views had been "evolving" during his time in the White House.

BERLIN HOLDS MASSIVE LGBT PRIDE RALLY AFTER US SUPREME COURT RULING ON SAME-SEX MARRIAGE

Geoffrey Grider | June 28, 2015 | 17 Comments

SEVERAL HUNDRED THOUSAND PEOPLE FILLED THE STREETS OF BERLIN FOR THE CITY'S GAY LGBT PRIDE PARADE ON SATURDAY, A DAY AFTER THE US SUPREME COURT LEGALISED SAME-SEX MARRIAGE NATIONWIDE.

"Likewise also as it was in the days of Lot; they did eat, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they builded; But the same day that Lot went out of Sodom it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all." Luke 17:28,29 (KJV)

The crowds were a riot of colour under grey skies, with many demonstrators in costume — including US embassy staffer Tim Standaert, who painted his torso blue with an enormous red heart as he waved a rainbow-hued Stars and Stripes flag.

"We are all different, we are all the same," was the theme of this year's march, which comes a day after the landmark Supreme Court ruling that all 50 US states must carry out and recognise same-sex marriages.

Demonstrators protest the Supreme Court's gay marriage ruling. (Reuters)

As evangelical Christians, we dissent from the court's ruling that redefines marriage. The state did not create the family, and should not try to recreate the family in its own image. We will not capitulate on marriage because biblical authority requires that we cannot. The outcome of the Supreme Court's ruling to redefine marriage represents what seems like the result of a half-century of witnessing marriage's decline through divorce, cohabitation and a worldview of almost limitless sexual freedom. The Supreme Court's actions pose incalculable risks to an already volatile social fabric by alienating those whose beliefs about marriage are motivated by deep biblical convictions and concern for the common good.

The Bible clearly teaches the enduring truth that marriage consists of one man and one woman. From Genesis to Revelation, the authority of Scripture witnesses to the nature of biblical marriage as uniquely bound to the complementarity of man and woman. This truth is not negotiable. The Lord Jesus Himself said that marriage is from the beginning (Matt. 19:4-6), so no human institution has the authority to redefine marriage any more than a human institution has the authority to redefine the gospel, which marriage mysteriously reflects (Eph. 5:32). The Supreme Court's ruling to redefine marriage demonstrates mistaken judgment by disregarding what history and countless civilizations have passed on to us, but it also represents an aftermath that evangelicals themselves, sadly, are not guiltless in contributing to. There is renewed energy on Capitol Hill to lift the Defense Department's ban on transgender troops.

Lawmakers view recent steps by the Pentagon and some of the armed services to expand protections for gay and lesbian troops as an opportunity to do away with the decades-old prohibition on allowing transgender troops to serve openly.

They are also taking note of other societal changes in calling for the ban on service by transgender troops to be lifted.

"In politics, I think it's always appropriate to take advantage of timing. Whether it's taking down the Confederate flag or creating equality in the military for transgender persons," said Rep. Jackie Speier (D-Calif.).

The United States Supreme Court handed down its long-awaited same-sex marriage ruling today, opting to redefine marriage in America—a 180-degree turn away from the biblical intent for marriage—as the Court also pushed aside states' rights and voters' voices.

Dr. Richard Land, president of Southern Evangelical Seminary, a leader in apologetics education, said the decision throws away God's meaning for marriage.

"Now," Land said, "the battlefield shifts to religious freedom. Will the progressive, totalitarian and intolerant left weaponize the government and attempt to force or compel people to affirm same-sex behavior and relationships? Or will they respect the freedom of conscience guaranteed by the Constitution? These will continue to be questions for the coming generations, now that the high Court has

A state lawmaker with expertise in constitutional issues says there's a strategy that would allow Congress to halt the legalization of same-sex "marriage" by the U.S. Supreme Court in its tracks.

The court's 5-4 ruling Friday abolished all state laws limiting marriage to one man and one woman.

But Virginia Delegate Robert G. Marshall contends Congress "can

PALO ALTO –

A billionaire-funded Christian organization is currently working to clone Jesus Christ after obtaining DNA from the Shroud of Turin and feel confident they will have a Jesus clone in 2016.

"The Jesus Has Returned Project is a private organization devoted to bringing about the Second Coming of Our Lord, Jesus Christ, as prophesied in the Bible," the The Jesus Has Returned Project spokesman said. "Our intention is to clone Jesus, utilizing techniques pioneered at the Genetic Research Group in Switzerland, by taking an incorrupt cell from the Shroud of Turin, extracting its DNA, and inserting into an unfertilized human egg (oocyte), though the now-proven biological process called symbiotic cellular transfer. The fertilized egg, now the zygote of Jesus Christ, will be implanted

فالاضطهاد يزيد والاضطراب يزيد والزلازل والابوثة والفساد الأخلاقي يزيد والالحاد يزيد

فلهذا أقول المسيح اقترب ميعاد مجيؤه لا احدد مواعيد بل ارفض من يحدد مواعيد ولكن اطلب

الأول نصلي ونستعد ونعد زيت لمصاييحنا لاستقبال العريس بالصلاة والصوم وخدمة أبناء الله
وتنقية القلب والاستعداد بلبس العرس.

رسالة بولس الرسول الي أهل رومية 13

13: 11 هذا وأنكم عارفون الوقت انها الان ساعة لنستيقظ من النوم فان خلاصنا الان أقرب مما
كان حين امنا

13: 12 قد تنهى الليل وتقارب النهار فلنخلع اعمال الظلمة ونلبس اسلحة النور

13: 13 لنسلك بلباقة كما في النهار لا بالبطر والسكر لا بالمضاجع والعهر لا بالخصام والحسد

13: 14 بل البسوا الرب يسوع المسيح ولا تصنعوا تدبيرا للجسد لأجل الشهوات

احترس ان لم تتمسك بالمسيح من الان قد لا تستطيع في المستقبل القريب بسبب الظلام.

الثاني لا نخاف
