اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأيضاً أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن أيضاً علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. ونذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء

المسيح بل أيضاً قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر

هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان

عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيقة اقتربت

جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم ياتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

المسيح قال بعض العلامات مثل

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

أولا لكيلا نرتاع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَانَتْ تُؤْمِنُونَ.

ثالثا لننتبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَاَنْتَصِبُوا وَاَرْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ.»

What is this strange fiery globe spotted off the coast of Florida? Conspiracy theorists claim it is the mythical 'Planet X' that will destroy the world

- Conspiracy theorists say Planet X exists on edge of our solar system

A video has emerged that shows what some people believe is the mysterious 'Planet X'.

Conspiracy theorists claim Planet X, also known as Nibiru, orbits at the edge of our solar system.

They say its gravitational pull could spell the end for humanity by disrupting the flow of energy on Earth.

Nasa has dismissed these claims as an 'internet hoax' and says 'there is no factual basis for claims' given astronomers are yet to spot the so-called planet.

No, a UFO named WTF is not threatening to destroy Earth

12 Comments / Shares / 97 Tweets / Stumble / Email More +

Let's start with the facts: Yes, there's something hurtling through space in our direction. Yes, it's going to enter the Earth's atmosphere and possibly land in the Indian Ocean next month. No, scientists don't know quite what it is. And, no, that doesn't make it a UFO.

The European Space Agency released information last week about an object spotted streaking through space and heading toward Earth. Headlines are zeroing in on the chance of impact and the unidentified object's comically apropos nickname. Officially named WT1190F, the object's catalog number has been popularly shortened to "WTF."

Halloween Fireballs Will Blaze in the Sky Through November

By Joe Rao
14 hours ago

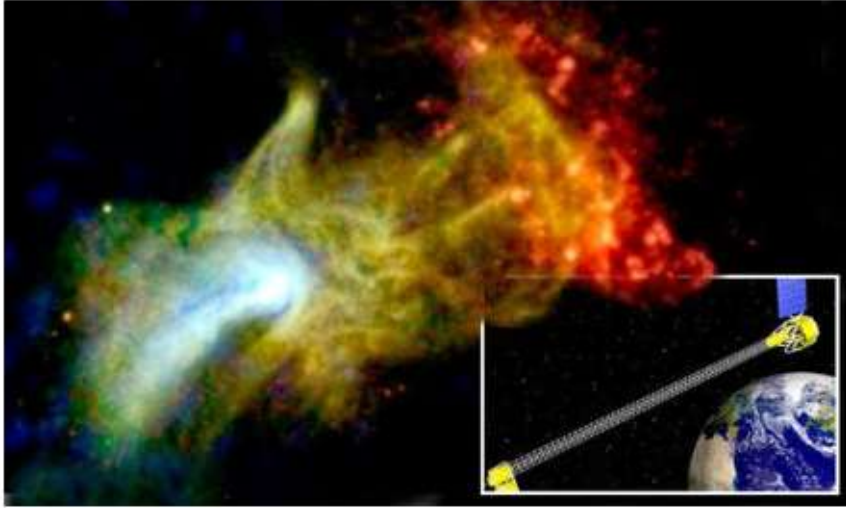

Amateur skywatcher John Chumack filmed a number of Taurid meteors in 2011...

During the next couple of weeks, there is a fairly good chance that Earth will encounter a swarm of unusually large space particles, capable of generating some eye-catching fireball meteors.

The Taurid meteors, sometimes called "Halloween fireballs,"(fireballs are extremely bright meteors) create one of this year's longest meteor showers, with at least a couple of shooting stars per hour from Oct. 20 to Nov. 30. But a one-week time frame extending from Nov. 5 through Nov. 12 is when the Taurids are most active.

NASA Discovers “Hand Of God” 17,000 Light Years Away

28 OCTOBER, 2015

A terrifying image captured by specialist NASA telescopes aimed at a galaxy 17,000 light years away has sparked online speculation the Creator of Universe has been caught on film. The space agency's Nuclear Spectroscopic Telescope Array – or NuSTAR – was aimed at a pulsar (or neutron star) called PSR B1509-58 a staggering distance from earth. What they were sent back was a spectral vision of an outstretched hand – which has become known as the Hand of God. The 'hand' is believed to be the remnants of the star which went supernova and ejected an enormous cloud of material – leaving pulsar PSR B1509-58 in its wake.

NASA Spots Giant Eruption Of X-Ray Light From Supermassive Black Hole

28 OCTOBER, 2015

NASA has for the first time captured a supermassive black hole sending out beams of X-rays. Scientists have always known that massive pulses of energy can be generated by black holes. However, this is the first time researchers have been able to pin down a cause. Based on observations made by the Nuclear Spectroscopic Telescope Array, or NuSTAR, researchers were able to spot how a mysterious source of high energy particles around the black hole, known as coronas, generate flares.

BOULDER, Colo. -- The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) issued a minor solar radiation storm warning on Thursday morning following readings from a weather satellite in orbit around the Earth.

The warning is expected to last from 12:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. EST, Thursday afternoon.

Officials said that the warning is the result of a coronal mass ejection from the sun that happened around 10:19 p.m. EST on Wednesday as noted by radio signatures.

The energetic protons were expected to reach earth within 30 minutes to just a few hours.

Results from the event may include minor impacts on high frequency radio in the polar regions. However no biological or satellite issues are expected as a result of the storm based on the NOAA solar storm scales.

The storm is classified as S1 which, according to NASA, places it on the lower end of the solar storm spectrum - the most powerful ranking as an S5.

Catastrophic & Historic Flooding Underway in Parts of Central Texas – Updated Forecast This Afternoon

It has been an incredibly busy morning across Central and South-Central Texas. Several tornadoes and catastrophic flash flooding are underway across Hays county. I'll be honest when I say I was not expecting this type of activity this morning. Some locations across Comal and Hays counties have recorded a foot of rain this morning. This is an extremely life-threatening situation comparable to the historic flooding we saw in May. Many roads are closed and its only going to get worse. However with more areas of Texas expected to be impacted today lets go ahead and take a look at what we can expect through the afternoon.

Another round of storms and strong winds was moving east across Texas on Saturday, and two people were missing from earlier flash floods in the Austin area. Two people already were known to have died – in Austin and near San Antonio – when they were swept away by flood waters.

In the Houston area, an official said a tornado has been reported in southern Harris County, and officials were checking on any possible damage there. Power outages in the Houston area topped 25,000.

Francisco Sanchez of the Harris County Office of Emergency Management said 4-7 inches of rain has fallen since Friday night and more was expected. He said many locations had high water and more than two

Drone Footage Of Greenland's Melting Ice Sheet Is Stunning, Terrifying

Parts of Persian Gulf could be too hot for humans by century's end

Posted on October 27, 2015

October 2015 – PERSIAN GULF – If carbon dioxide emissions continue at their current pace, by the end of century parts of the Persian Gulf will sometimes be just too hot for the human body to tolerate, a new study says. How hot? The heat index — which combines heat and humidity — may hit 165 to 170 degrees (74 to 77 Celsius) for at least six hours, according to numerous computer simulations in the new study. That's so hot that the human body can't get rid of heat. The elderly and ill are hurt most by current heat waves, but the future is expected to be so hot that healthy, fit people would be endangered, health experts say. "You can go to a wet sauna and put the temperature up to 35 (Celsius or 95 degrees Fahrenheit) or so. You can bear it for a while, now think of that at an extended exposure" of six or more hours, said study co-author Elfatih Eltahir, an MIT environmental engineering professor.

While humans have been around, Earth has not seen that type of prolonged, oppressive combination of heat and humidity, Eltahir said. But with the unique geography and climate of the Persian Gulf and increased warming projected if heat-trapping gas emissions continue to rise at current rates, it will happen every decade or so by the end of the century, according to the study published Monday in the journal Nature Climate Change. This would be the type of heat that would make deadly heat wave in Europe in 2003 that killed more than 70,000 people "look like a refreshing day or event," said study co-author Jeremy Pal of Loyola Marymount University. It would still be rare, and cities such as Abu Dhabi, Dubai and Doha wouldn't quite be uninhabitable, thanks to air conditioning. But for people living and working outside or those with no air conditioning, it would be intolerable, said Eltahir and Pal. While Mecca won't be quite as hot, the heat will likely still cause many deaths during the annual hajj pilgrimage, Eltahir said.

The Amazon drained forest: Incredible pictures show devastating effect of drought ravishing Brazil in area's worst dry spell for years

- Brazil's Amazonian rainforest has suffered its worst drought in 100 years, leaving many key lakes dried out
- Whole communities in the Amazonian regions of the country have been left struggling without water
- Boats have been left stranded in the Puaquequarauna lake, due the low levels of the Rio Negro

By TOM WYKE FOR MAILONLINE

The Amazon river has long been crucial part of the daily lives of thousands of Brazilians living in the remote stretches of the rainforest. Now communities have been left devastated after the country suffered its worst drought in 100 years.

A vital water source for numerous lakes and streams, the Amazonian drought has been revealed with photos showing miles of riverbeds from where the water used to flow.

Boats have been left stranded in the Puaquequarauna lake, due the low levels of the Rio Negro, near the Amazonian city of Manaus. Houses sit isolated in the middle of the large deserted landscape, with only small pools of water remaining for locals to live off.

The crisis has left the Rio Negro, a crucial tributary of the Amazon River, in ruin. Now, whole communities face a battle to rebuild.

The shocking drought comes just a few months after the same region suffered bad flooding after a deluge of rain left several cities in a state of emergency.

U.N. climate agency says "Don't panic!" as ozone hole gets wider

GENEVA | BY TOM MILES

The U.N.'s weather and climate agency said on Thursday there was no cause for alarm about a record-size hole this month in the ozone layer, that shields life on earth from the sun, as it should shrink again.

The ozone hole that appears over Antarctica fluctuates in size, normally reaching its widest in the polar spring as extreme cold temperatures in the stratosphere and the return of sunlight unleash chlorine radicals that destroy ozone.

Last year, the World Meteorological Organization (WMO) said it detected the first sign of ozone recovery, largely thanks to a 1987 ban on gases that cause ozone depletion, but said it could be a decade before the hole begins shrinking.

This year, a colder than usual stratosphere widened the hole to a peak of 28.2 million square km (10.9 million square miles) on Oct. 2, bigger than Canada and Russia put together.

It was a record for a hole recorded on Oct. 2 of any year, and the hole has remained at daily record levels on every day since then, the WMO said, citing data from NASA. Over the 30 days around the peak, the hole averaged 26.9 million square km, making it the third largest, after 2000 and 2006.

"This shows us that the ozone hole problem is still with us and we need to remain vigilant. But there is no reason for undue alarm," WMO Atmospheric and Environment Research Division senior scientist Geir Braathen said in a statement.

Offshore mud volcano erupts in Sea of Azov

Posted on October 27, 2015

October 2015 – SEA OF AZOV – An abandoned autumn beach looking out on the Sea of Azov became a popular sightseeing attraction over the weekend, after Mother Nature created an incredible mud volcano, which formed a wide, flat island just a few dozen meters away from the shore. Spewing a slurry made of water and gases mixed with sand and dirt, the mud volcano shot several meters into the air as it started forming an artificial island on Sunday, just off the coast of the Taman Peninsula.

The act of nature was recorded by local beach strollers who witnessed the mud volcano, most typically formed after hot water below the earth's surface begins to blend with mineral deposits, pushing the mixture to the surface. But unlike an actual volcano, the muddy imitation produces no lava.

In fact some mud volcanoes are used as popular, therapeutic "mud baths," and are often found in Russia's Krasnodar region. Dozens of mud volcanoes can be found on the Taman Peninsula of Russia and the Kerch Peninsula of southeastern Ukraine. Local geologists warn that mud volcanoes overall can cause injuries or material damage if the eruption involves spewing out large pieces of clay or other debris. Luckily enough, geologists say that for the last 50 years, mud volcanoes, which have formed in the Azov Sea, have remained harmless. -RT

The mystery of dead salmon in a Marlborough Sounds fish farm is being worked on by a government agency and the farm's owner NZ King Salmon.

Officials from the Ministry for Primary Industries and industry representatives met yesterday to mull the causes of high fish mortalities at NZ King Salmon's Waihinau farm in Pelorus Sound during summer months. The trend was first noticed in 2012.

Response manager Chris Rodwell says MPI believes there are a range of factors at play including high water temperatures, water flow, diet and even sea anemone stings.

Two bacteria not previously detected in New Zealand have also been found.

There are no concerns about food safety associated with this situation, Dr Rodwell says.

NZ King Salmon chief financial officer Andrew Clark says the losses occurred during record high water temperatures.

S. Korea confirms new bird flu case

2015/10/28 18:41

SEOUL, Oct. 26 (Yonhap) -- South Korea confirmed a new case of bird flu on Monday, bringing the total to nine since the middle of September.

The Ministry for Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs said ducks at a poultry farm in Naju, 355 kilometers south of Seoul, tested positive for the virulent strain of avian influenza (AI).

All 15,600 ducks were culled as of Sunday as a precautionary measure, after some birds showed signs of being sick before they were to be shipped out last week, it said.

The ministry said the farm has been under quarantine to prevent the virulent virus from spreading.

"As of today, 112,031 birds have been culled," a government official said.

The latest outbreak is viewed as a continuation of the outbreak that hit the country from Sept. 24, 2014, through to June 10 of this year.

After two duck farms in South Jeolla Province first tested positive for AI on Sept. 18, two traditional markets, a bird holding facility and an eatery that serves poultry were all found to have been contaminated with the AI virus. Birds at two other duck farms were infected with AI and had to be culled.

For now, the farm ministry said all confirmed outbreaks have been contained in the southwestern part of the country.

Nam Dinh Province in northern Vietnam has announced an outbreak of the highly pathogenic bird flu virus H5N6 at two communes.

A statement from the province, which is around 90 kilometers from Hanoi, said it has culled more than 3,300 sick fowls and managed to contain the outbreak.

Agriculture officials said the virus strain can be passed to humans and it is as dangerous as H5N1.

DESTIN, Fla. (WJHG/WECP) - For weeks, we've been telling you how red tide has been affecting locals and visitors in Panama City Beach, but it's affecting the shores of other cities too.

On Wednesday afternoon there were still a lot of dead fish at the Destin Harbor, but it was nothing compared to that morning. Locals say thousands of dead fish were washing ashore.

Crews came and cleaned up the mess, but when you look in the water, you can still see tons of dead fish floating in the water. The FWC released a new report on red tide Wednesday afternoon. It's been found in high concentrations in six samples in and along the Bay County shores, and satellite images show red tide also on the shores of Walton, Gulf and Okaloosa Counties.

PHOTOS: Rare Flower Bloom Makes One of World's Driest Deserts Come to Life

By Brian Lada, Meteorologist

One of the driest places on the planet is currently experiencing a vibrant flower bloom, making for a rare spectacle for those living in Chile's Atacama Desert.

The Atacama Desert is located in the north part of the country and barely receives any rain throughout the entire year, making it extremely difficult for any vegetation to grow.

"Rainfall is extremely hard to come by in northern Chile," AccuWeather Senior Meteorologist Kristina Pydynowski said.

However, historic rainfall moved through the region earlier this year which led to catastrophic flooding, but it also provided water for flower seeds that laid dormant for years.

Australia's largest ever farm-based outbreak of Q fever

Posted by Chris Whitehouse on October 29, 2015 // 1 Comment

It was recently revealed that in 2012 Australia experienced its largest outbreak of Q fever associated with a single farm in the country's history, according to a report that aired earlier this month on the Australian Broadcasting Corporation program Landline. At least 24 people contracted Q fever during an outbreak – that is still ongoing, at least among the animals – on a goat dairy farm in the state of Victoria in southeastern Australia.

Victoria is the smallest of the Australian states and home to the city of Melbourne, where more than 75% of Victorians live. Victoria is also the center of dairy farming in Australia, and more than 14 million sheep and 5 million lambs graze over Victorian farms. And the region boasts one of the biggest dairy goat farms in the country.

The affected farm located near Ballarat – a city borne out of the gold rush days of the 1850s and located 65 miles outside of Melbourne – is a big enterprise with three dairies and more than 100 staff. They milk thousands of sheep and about 5000 goats twice daily, according to the report.

Q fever is a zoonotic disease – that is, a disease passed from animals to humans – caused by a bacterium called Coxiella burnetii. In the environment, this bug is extremely hardy as it can morph into a spore-like form that can sit in the soil for years before it encounters its next host. While the bacterium can infect many different species of animals, livestock including cattle, sheep, and goats are the primary reservoir hosts for this bug. In them, the disease often manifest as abortion, and the bacteria are excreted in the milk, urine, and feces of infected animals.

In hindsight, the outbreak began in 2011 when a few people at the farm, including the owner's own daughter, began getting sick with flu-like symptoms. However, the identity of the disease was not known until late 2012 when one of the staff was diagnosed with Q fever. "Most, but not all, of the infected people worked directly with animals on the farm," Dr. Simon Firestone, a senior veterinary lecturer at the University of Melbourne, said in the report. It is even believed that one of the farm employee's spouse became infected from washing her husband's contaminated clothes.

Nearly 40% of Fukushima evacuation personnel exposed to over 1 millisievert of radiation

Posted on October 27, 2015

October 2015 – JAPAN – Nearly 40 percent of all Self-Defense Forces personnel, police and firefighters who helped evacuate residents during the Fukushima nuclear crisis in 2011 were exposed to more than a millisievert of radiation — the annual limit for the general public, according to a Cabinet Office study. Four years after the triple core meltdown, the Cabinet Office surveyed for the first time 2,967 personnel who carried out evacuations within 20 km of the Fukushima No. 1 power plant, as well as decontamination and other related activities from March 12 to 31 that year. The data were reportedly tallied from dosimeter readings. The study found that around 62 percent of the personnel were exposed to less than a millisievert and that 38 percent were exposed to a millisievert or more.

Of the latter group, 19 percent received 1 to 2 millisieverts and 5 percent received 5 to 10 millisieverts. Daily radiation doses remained high until around March 15 — when the third reactor building was hit by a hydrogen explosion — and dropped below 0.1 millisievert from March 18. The Cabinet Office disclosed the data during a meeting on ways to mitigate radiation exposure for civilians engaged in evacuation procedures during a nuclear accident. The government is pushing to reactivate the nation's idled reactors if they clear safety requirements imposed in the wake of the man-made crisis triggered by the earthquake and tsunami on March 11. But public concern persists about whether smooth evacuations are even feasible for nuclear accidents.

Plague Surfaces: Oregon Girl Recovering In Hospital

30 OCTOBER, 2015

BREAKING NEWS: A Crook County, Oregon, girl is being treated in the hospital for bubonic plague, a disease medical officials believe she contracted from a flea bite during a hunting trip in Morrow County. Her condition hasn't been released, but she's in the intensive care unit at a hospital in Bend, CNN reported. State and federal officials, as well as medical authorities, are investigating and warning area individuals to watch out for rodents, including chipmunks, squirrels and rats. The animals are carriers of infected fleas, which can then jump to humans and bite.

Symptoms of the plague include an overall feeling of sickness, sudden and high fever, stomach pain, swollen lymph nodes, nausea and vomiting. The symptoms kick in two to six days after exposure, but can be successfully treated with antibiotics in many cases. So far, 15 other cases of

RUMORS OF WAR: US And Allies Gearing Up For War With Russia

30 OCTOBER, 2015

The decision by the United States and its allies to deploy more troops and heavy weaponry onto Russia's borders indicates that Washington is gearing up for a fight with Russia, an American journalist and political activist says. "They are clearly preparing to fight a war with Russia, and they are not only preparing to fight it at the old battle lines, but at Russia's door, while they talk about Russia provoking," Don DeBar said during an interview with Press TV on Thursday. He made the remarks when asked for his views on Washington's plans to deploy up to 4,000 more forces in countries bordering with Russia.

China rebuked Washington for sending a U.S. guided-missile destroyer close to one of Beijing's man-made islands in the disputed South China Sea, saying it had tracked and warned the ship and called in the U.S. ambassador to protest.

The USS Lassen's patrol on Tuesday was the most significant U.S. challenge yet to the 12-nautical-mile territorial limits China claims around artificial islands it has built in the Spratly archipelago.

A senior administration official told the BBC that there will be "fewer than 50" forces deployed in the region to "train, advise and assist" vetted opposition forces.

According to the official, this does not mark a change US strategy, but rather an "intensification" of the campaign in Syria.

The Russian Air Force has conducted 71 sorties targeting 118 terrorist targets in Syria over the past 24 hours, including an Al-Nusra Front command center, the Defense Ministry reports.

The number of sorties has risen due to the increased amount of confirmed intelligence information on Islamic State (IS, formerly ISIS) facilities, Major-General Igor Konashenkov told journalists on Wednesday.

A massive army of Islamic State (ISIS) fighters coming from various nations are massing on Afghanistan's northern border ready to march and conquer neighbouring states, Russian intelligence officials have revealed.

At the same time, Russian President Vladimir Putin is reportedly planning a huge ground operation in Syria involving 150,000 Russian soldiers to seize the ISIS stronghold of Raqqa and once and for all wipe out the jihadist group. Raqqa is the self-declared capital of ISIS in Syria and is reportedly guarded by as many as 5,000 Islamist fighters, the Daily Express reported.

For the first time since Israel's establishment in 1948, Egypt has voted in the Jewish state's favor in the United Nations.

The vote came during elections for membership in the UN Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space Affairs (UNCOOSA) late last week.

The vote for Israel triggered angry criticism among Arab social media users, with some even creating a hashtag "Egypt votes for Israel" to criticize the vote.

In the face of the backlash Egyptian officials scrambled to clarify that they had only voted for Israel in order to enable the election of several Arab states as well.

"Egypt's commitment to support the candidate of the Arab countries is the main motive behind the vote in favor of the resolution," Egyptian Foreign Ministry Spokesperson Ahmed Abu Zeid told The Cairo Post Saturday.

Hizballah is creeping up on Israel's Golan border, relying on Russian military cover

Wholly preoccupied with the ferocious Palestinian terror campaign washing over their country, Israelis have scarcely noticed that Hizballah forces, believing they are protected by the Russian military presence in Syria, are creeping toward Israel's northeastern Golan border. DEBKAFile reports: The Lebanese group thinks it is a step away from changing the military balance on the Golan to Israel's detriment and gaining its first Syrian jumping-off base against the Jewish state – depending on the Syrian-Hizballah forces winning the fierce battle now raging around Quneitra opposite Israel's military positions.

For two years, Hizballah, egged on intensely by Iran, has made every effort to plant its forces along the Syrian border with Israel. For Tehran, this objective remains important enough to bring Al Qods Brigades chief, Gen. Qassem Soleimani, on a visit last week to the Syrian army's 90th Brigade Quneitra base, which is the command post of the battle waged against Syrian rebel forces.

Soleimani, who is commander-in-chief of Iran's military operations across the Middle East, is acting as military liaison in Syria between Tehran and Moscow. DEBKAFile's military sources report that the Iranian general inspected the Quneitra battle lines no more than 1.5-2 km from the Israeli Golan border. He arrived a few days after Revolutionary Guards Col. Nader Hamid, commander of Iranian and Hizballah forces in the region, died there fighting against Syrian rebels.

His death betrayed the fact that not only are Hizballah forces gaining a foothold on the strategic Golan enclave, but with them are Iranian servicemen, officers and troops.

While in Quneitra, the Iranian general also sought to find out whether Col. Hamid really did die in battle or was targeted for assassination by Israel to distance Iranian commanders from its border.

Just 10 months ago, on Jan. 18, Israel drones struck a group of Iranian and Hizballah officers who were secretly scouting the Quneitra region for a new base. Iranian Gen. Ali Mohamad Ali Allah Dadi died in that attack.

But Tehran and Hizballah are again trying their luck. During his visit to Quneitra, Soleimani called up reinforcements to boost the 500 Hizballah fighters in the sector. Seen from Israel, the Syrian conflict is again bringing enemy forces into dangerous proximity to its border.

The Iranian general and Russian Air Force commanders agree that the drawn-out battle for Quneitra will not be won without Russian air strikes against the rebels holding out there. A decision to extend Russia's aerial campaign from northern and central Syria to the south would be momentous enough to require President Vladimir Putin's personal approval.

A 19-year-old Syrian was brutally executed by ISIS militants who crushed him to death with a tank, according to a new video released by the jihadist group.

The video depicts a young Syrian soldier, dressed in an orange jumpsuit, being driven over by the vehicle. Before his execution, he is forced to confess to driving over the bodies of jihadis himself with a tank, according to the Syrian Observatory for Human Rights.

The white robed ISIS soldier explain the execution is a punishment.

An ISIS fighter dressed in white explains that the execution was a punishment.

"This apostate dirty Nusayri ran over our brothers who were dead in a tank so it was decided that he will be run over by the tank while he is alive," said the ISIS fighter.

The captive then reveals that his name is Fadi Ammar Zidan.

A militant group affiliated to Islamic State in Egypt claimed responsibility for the downing of a Russian passenger plane that crashed in Egypt's Sinai peninsula on Saturday, the group said in a statement circulated by supporters on Twitter.

Below is the full statement from a group alleging to speak on behalf of Islamic State, posted on their affiliate site, translated by the Guardian's Jahd Khalil. It offers no evidence that the group brought down the plane, apart from their word.

Breaking: Downing of Russian airplane, killing of more than 220 Russian crusaders on board.

Soldiers of the Caliphate were able to bring down a Russian plane above Sinai Province with at least 220 Russian crusaders aboard.

They were all killed, praise be to God. O Russians, you and your allies take note that you are not safe in Muslims lands or their skies.

The killing of dozens daily in Syria with bombs from your planes will bring woe to you. Just as you are killing others, you too will be killed, God willing.

(NaturalNews) As reported by TechDirt, the Chinese government is now implementing policies that are designed to control its population via heart, mind and, of course, the Internet — where all sorts of ideas about freedom, liberty and democracy are lurking. In authoritarian regimes, rolling out mandatory programs is most often met with little opposition, with the logistics of said programs being the biggest problem.

As TechDirt noted:

"The Chinese government has mandated a rating system for all of its connected citizens.

China's New 'Citizen Scores' Are a Warning for the West

(NEWS.COM.AU)—Imagine a world where you are given a "citizen rating" based on your lifestyle, shopping habits, social behaviour and morals.

China is moving quickly towards just such a system, in a Big Brother-style plan that will see everyone given a grade between 350 and 950.

If you buy diapers or recycle, you get extra points for showing you are responsible. If you play video games and spend too much on clothes, you lose points. Your friends matter, too. If they have a poor financial record, it reflects badly on you.

A low score will have serious consequences, making you ineligible for certain jobs and restricting in borrowing money, claiming benefits or finding housing.

The "social credit" system is an extension of your credit rating at the bank, only it goes far beyond financial status. And it takes in people left out of traditional systems: students, low-income households and those who have never borrowed.

Congress Pushes Obama-backed National Biometric ID for Americans

font size Print Email

After largely failing to prod state governments into developing a national identification system known as "REAL ID," Republican lawmakers in Congress are once again pushing an Obama-backed scheme that would force every American to have a national ID card containing sensitive biometric data. The controversial plan, embedded in an immigration-enforcement bill, has been in the works for years, but has consistently been met with stiff opposition from liberty-minded grassroots organizations and activists. While the plan has failed in previous Congresses thanks to a groundswell of opposition, critics of the measure say that without prompt action, the unconstitutional scheme could soon become a reality.

The legislation, officially dubbed the "Legal Workforce Act" (H.R. 1147), is ostensibly aimed at preventing illegal immigrants from obtaining jobs in the United States. Among the most troubling elements highlighted by critics, though, is that the bill would purport to mandate a national ID card for every American as a condition of working. It would also force every employer in America to purchase and use so-called "E-Verify technology" to check with Washington, D.C., as to whether potential employees have government permission to work. Finally, it would create a massive federal database containing sensitive data on virtually every person in the country — a database that could easily be expanded to include even more information.

While establishment lawmakers on both sides of the aisle seem fond of the measure, critics are sounding the alarm about the bill and its implications for liberty. In an e-mail to supporters urging them to help crush the unconstitutional legislation, for example, former Congressman Ron Paul (R-Texas), in his capacity as chairman of Campaign for Liberty, warned that the national ID scheme would be a nightmare. Among other concerns, the two-time GOP presidential contender noted that it would allow federal bureaucrats to include biometric information — potentially including fingerprints, retinal scans, and more — that could and likely would be eventually used as a tracking device. It would also make it illegal for anyone to work in the United States without obtaining the national ID.

Computers could decide who lives and dies in a driverless car crash

Ethicists ponder the coming era of driverless vehicles making life-and-death choices

Amid all the buzz about vehicles that drive themselves, there are serious ethical questions facing regulators, manufacturers and the people who will ride in them. If faced with an unavoidable fatal crash, would the car be programmed to save its occupants at all costs or would it sacrifice its passengers for the greater good of saving a group of pedestrians?

"There's this trade-off between the interests of the driver, or rather the passenger who buys the car, and the level of public acceptance versus public outrage," says Azim Shariff of the Culture and Morality Lab at the University of Oregon. Along with researchers from France and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Shariff set out to test public attitudes on the cold, hard decisions computer programs will have to make when lives are on the line.

JERUSALEM – A 3,000-year-old seal discovered on Jerusalem's Temple Mount likely dates back to the times of David and Solomon and confirms the credibility of the Bible's historical record.

Since 2004, the Temple Mount Sifting Project has combed through tons of soil that was illegally removed from the Temple Mount by an Islamic group in 1999. The Sifting Project has recruited over 170,000 volunteers through the years to carefully search through the excavated earth and look for artifacts.

Another Recession Alarm After Dallas Fed Outlook Deteriorates For 10th Consecutive Month

Dallas Fed Fisher Recession

For the 10th month in a row, Dallas Fed's Manufacturing Outlook printed a deteriorating negative signal. At -12.7 (against expectations of a modest rise from September's -9.5 to -6.5) it appears ex-Dallas Fed head Fisher was dead wrong as recession warnings loom large. Below the already ugly headline, the components were a disaster. While production and employment rose (somehow), New orders plunged, Prices Received continued to fall, and Average employee workweek fell for the 9th time in the last 10 months. Perhaps worst was the drop in hope amid falling workweek and wage growth expectations.

This has never happened outside of a recession... and is not helped by 12 months of consistent weakness in the New Order growth rates.

Six big U.S. banks need to raise an additional $120 billion, most likely in long-term debt, under a rule proposed on Friday by the Federal Reserve.

The requirements are aimed at ensuring that some of the biggest and most interconnected banks, which include Goldman Sachs Group Inc. (GS.N), JPMorgan Chase & Co. (JPM.N), and Wells Fargo & Co (WFC.N), can better withstand another crisis by turning some of

New York City homeless population nears 60,000, over 40% are children – report

A tangle of skyrocketing rents, stagnant wages, evictions and a lack of affordable housing has led to a boom in homelessness in New York City. The latest figures show 57,448 people sleeping in shelters, and approximately 40 percent are children.

According to the latest Department of Homeless Services (DHS) figures, more than 23,000 of the 57,448 people sleeping in New York City shelters are children. There are nearly 12,000 families in the shelter system. Organizations that help aid homeless people are getting worried that as the cold weather sets in, the numbers will return to the record high of seen in December 2014, when the homeless population numbered 59,068.

Another point of concern is that homeless people are staying in shelters longer and returning to them within a given year. The DHS said adults are staying an

The U.S. Government Is Spending 400,000 Dollars On A Single Helmet

By Michael Snyder, on October 27th, 2015

Would you pay $400,000 for a single helmet? Of course you wouldn't – but that is precisely what the U.S. government is doing. Just the helmet for the pilot of the new F-35 Lightning II is going to cost taxpayers nearly half a million dollars. And since we are going to need 2,400 of those helmets, the total bill is going to end up approaching a billion dollars. But what is a billion dollars between friends, eh?

Sadly, our military has a very long history of wasting money like this. Back in the 1980s, the "six hundred dollar toilet seat" became quite famous. Average Americans were absolutely outraged that the government was wasting so much of our hard-earned money, and promises were made that things would change. OAKLAND (KPIX 5) – Those who love Gospel music refer to it as “joyful noise” and it is anything but quiet.

“The music of the church reveals the life of the church, the enthusiasm of the church,” said Michael Wright, pastor at Solid Rock Baptist Church.

But the City of Oakland has a different description of it, they’re calling it a “nuisance.” Pleasant Grove Baptist Church in West Oakland recently received a letter from the city threatening a $3,500 nuisance fee and a $500 a day fine unless it toned down its choir practice.

The letter states in part, “...this activity may constitute a public nuisance due to its impact to the use and quiet enjoyment of the surrounding community's property.”

Mexico High School quarterback Dante Turo.

A public high school quarterback in upstate New York was penalized for raising his right hand toward the sky to thank God after he scored a long touchdown run to put his team down by one point at a crucial moment in the game.

In the final minutes of the first half of Mexico High School's regular season finale at Vernon-Verona-Sherrill High, Mexico junior quarterback Dante Turo, a devout Christian, exploded through the middle for a 73-yard run for a touchdown that brought the Tigers within one point of tying the game going into halftime.

As Turo crossed the goal line to give him his second touchdown of the game, he pointed toward the sky for a couple seconds to give honor to God for giving him the ability to make such a play. Soon after, the referee in the end zone threw a yellow penalty flag and gave Turo and the Tigers a 15-yard penalty, which was assessed on the following extra point attempt.

The referee claimed that Turo's gesture to God was taunting, therefore worthy of an uns

Christian Baseball Hero Lambasted For Stance On Gays

28 OCTOBER, 2015

Daniel Murphy has accomplished something no one else in baseball history has done. Not Babe Ruth, or Hank Aaron, or Mickey Mantle. He has hit home runs in six consecutive postseason games. His latest helped the Mets defeat the Cubs and earn their first trip to the World Series in fifteen years. But Murphy is making headlines beyond his baseball heroics. Reporters are replaying an incident that occurred last spring, when he made this statement regarding homosexuality: "I do disagree with the lifestyle, 100 percent." Critics are deriding him today for such "intolerance."

We disagree with the lifestyle. That's the way I would describe it for me. It's the same way that there are aspects of my life that I'm trying to surrender to Christ." BREMERTON -- When the Bremerton Knights take the field against Sequim on Thursday, a group of Satanists dressed in ceremonial robes will be watching from the stands.

The members of The Satanic Temple of Seattle say they are coming to the game to advocate for religious equality, in light of the controversy sparked by Bremerton High School assistant football coach Joe Kennedy, who has threatened to sue the school district if he is not allowed to pray on the field after games.

Bremerton School District spokeswoman Patty Glaser confirmed Wednesday the district has received a request from the Satanic Temple asking to be allowed access to the field after the game for a ceremony. The district is working on a statement in response, Glaser said.

The Satanists aren't coming uninvited. Two Bremerton High School students responded to a public offer made by the Temple this week to give an invocation at the game and asked the Satanists to attend.

At the invitation of the Bremerton High School senior class president, Liith Starr says that her group of self-described Satanists will attend the school's football game Thursday to protest a decision by a Christian coach to continue praying at the 50-yard line after games. - AP Photo/Elaime Thompson

A showdown over private prayer will likely move to court after school officials in Bremerton, Washington, suspended a high school football coach for privately praying after games, something he's done for seven years without prior incident. Coach Joe Kennedy is barred from the final game of the season at Bremerton High School, his attorneys said.

"I am devastated that the school district is denying me an opportunity to privately and silently pray for my players at the fifty," Kennedy said in a statement issued by the Liberty Institute before the news of his suspension broke. "I love my players and I hope I can continue coaching them and being a part of their lives."

Intercessors Go To War As Church Of Lucifer Readies To Open On Halloween

Concerned families from the city of Spring, Texas, are saying: "Proud Lucifer next to the Christmas Crib—NO thanks!" The cause of their alarm is the Greater Church of Lucifer opening in their town on Friday, Oct. 30. This public devil worship in the heart of quaint Old Town Spring is sparking healthy reaction. Prayer vigils and peaceful protests are in the works by locals and by the national Catholic group TFP-America Needs Fatima on several days from now until Halloween. TFP-America Needs Fatima is also launching an online petition against the opening of the "church" of Lucifer and in support of locals who abhor the growth of Satanism in their town.

If we've learned anything here in America in the last few months, it is this: When your religious faith comes in conflict with your job, if you are a Muslim, your faith is protected and sacred; if you are a Christian, it is not.

We all know what happened to Christian bakers, florists, photographers and county clerks who refused to participate in same-sex "marriages" because of their religious faith. They were found guilty by the courts and fined or punished or even imprisoned.

And we know where the Obama administration stood on these issues, to the point that last year, Attorney General Eric Holder instructed attorneys general nationwide that they were not obligated to defend state laws—meaning, specifically, bans on same-sex "marriage"—if they found them to be discriminatory.

But when it comes to freedom of religion for Muslims, the results in the courts are different, the reaction

Justice Anthony Kennedy feels that if faithful Christians don't like his usurping of their rights to define marriage as between one man and one woman, then they should just quit their jobs if they happen to hold public office. In other words: "I am King, now do what I say... or else."

Speaking to an audience of Harvard law school students Wednesday, Justice Kennedy was asked if public officials who disagree with same-sex marriage or abortion should comply with the law if they hold public office, to which he replied "no" and declared that those officials should quit their jobs instead.

It would've been interesting to see him squirm had the question gone something like this: "Justice Kennedy, what should Christians do if their wishes to define marriage as between one man and one woman are completely usurped from them by an unelected official who thinks he can legislate from the bench?"

Protestant pastors are increasingly polarized about Islam, as a growing share label the Muslim faith violent while a sharply rising minority calls it spiritually good.

Although a majority considers Islam dangerous, a small but increasing segment believes Islam is similar to Christianity, according to a new survey by Nashville-based LifeWay Research.

Two-thirds of Protestant pastors agree Christianity and Islam should seek to coexist in America.

The softening of some pastors' views toward Islam is a key finding of a LifeWay Research survey of 1,000 Protestant pastors. Seventeen percent of pastors characterize Islam as similar to Christianity, nearly double the 9 percent from five years earlier. Although views shifted in both directions, positive opinions rose more significantly.

The American public, meanwhile, is twice as likely as pastors to see common ground between Islam and 13: 13 لنسلك بلبياقة كما في النهار لا بالبطر والسكر لا بالمضاجع والعهر لا بالخصام والحسد

13: 14 بل البسوا الرب يسوع المسيح ولا تصنعوا تدبيراً للجسد لأجل الشهوات

احترس ان لم تتمسك بالمسيح من الان قد لا تستطيع في المستقبل القريب بسبب الظلام.

الثاني لا نخاف

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب انظروا لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

بطرس الأولى 3: 14

وَلَكِنْ وَإِنْ تَأَلَّمْتُمْ مِنْ أَجْلِ الْبِرِّ، فَطُوبَى لَكُمْ. وَأَمَّا خَوْفُهُمْ فَلَا تَخَافُوهُ وَلَا تَضْطَرُّوهُ،

بل نؤمن

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَانَ تُؤْمِنُونَ.

ثالثًا لنتبته ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَاذْفَعُوا وَارْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ.»

افرحوا لان عريسنا قد اقترب مجيؤه. وانتبهوا الشيطان يريد أن نفقد سلامنا ولا ننال أكاليل.

وأيضاً استعدوا فقد تسلموا وديعتكم في أي وقت فهناك 150 ألف شخص يموتوا في اليوم الواحد

انت لا تعرف متى ستكون منهم

المسيح اقترب فاصنعوا ثمار تليق بالتوبة واستعدوا لاستقبال العريس.
