والعلامات حتى 19 يناير 2016

اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأیضا أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن ايضا علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

ويجب أن ننتبه اليها. ونذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء

المسيح بل ايضا قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر

هذه الظلمة وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه. بمعنى نحتاج من الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان

عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا لان الظلمة والضيق اقتربت

جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة لان وقتها تجميع زيت

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشتر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم يأتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

المسيح قال بعض العلامات مثل

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

أولا لكيلا نرتاع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

ثانيا لنؤمن

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَأَن تُوْمِنُونَ.

ثالثا لننتبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَاَنْتَصِبُوا وَاَرْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ».

If NASA's new office does its job, this scenario should never, ever happen.

Rest a little easier tonight, Earthlings: NASA has just launched a new office aimed at protecting the planet from potential doomsday asteroids.

The Planetary Defense Coordination Office will oversee all of the space agency's efforts to detect and track near-earth objects, and coordinate with other federal agencies as well as other nations if and when it becomes necessary.

Huge Meteor Lights Up Argentina

14 JANUARY, 2016

Argentina experiences a huge fireball caught on video Thursday night. Eyewitnesses catch the fiery meteor streaking across the night sky of the South American country. Pics and videos of a meteor illuminating the skies of the Argentine capital, Buenos Aires, have been popping up all over social media with the hashtag #cieloverde ... Spanish for #greensky. Local newspapers reported the astronomical event happened around 9 pm local time.

Today in Science, astronomers report they've found the brightest such explosion ever observed. (To be more

That bizarre-looking star just got a lot weirder — and yes, it could be aliens

BUSINESS INSIDER By Jessica Orwig

(Danielle Futselaar/SETI International)

Three months ago, news broke that a giant "alien megastructure" could exist around a bizarre-looking star 1,500 light-years away.

While the prospect of aliens was first launched by Penn State astronomer Jason Wright, almost everyone in the astronomy community agreed that the chances that this was the case were "very low."

This uninhabited island lies 1,390 kilometres southwest of the Hawaiian Islands, themselves lying in a remote part of the Pacific.

Johnston Atoll is mentioned here because it is the closest island to what has already become a noteworthy cyclone, Hurricane Pali.

Pali is currently a Category 2 storm (on the five-point Saffir-Simpson scale), with sustained winds of 157 kilometres an hour and gusts of 195km/h.

Rare tropical system forms over Atlantic Ocean

AccuWeather.com Published January 13, 2016

Subtropical Storm Alex has formed in the Atlantic Ocean, making it one of the earliest tropical systems to form in the Atlantic Hurricane Basin since records began in 1851.

"A subtropical storm has both tropical and non-tropical characteristics and has a large wind field," AccuWeather Senior Meteorologist Dan Kottowski

Alex is located well in the eastern Atlantic Ocean and doesn't pose a threat to the United States; however, it will affect the Azores. According to Kottowski, Alex will bring gale-force winds and several inches of heavy rain to the Azores.

Massive Sandstorm Bearing Down On Israel

17 JANUARY, 2016

After the pleasant spring weather that visited most of Israel on Sunday, the country is taking a sharp jump back into winter, with a heavy sandstorm due to hit on Monday. Meteorologists have recommended that citizens close their windows from Monday morning on, as huge amounts of dust and sand are to beat down upon the country. As Monday progresses, a heavy haze is predicted to descend upon much of the country severely limiting visibility, and in the north and coastal region it will be accompanied by pounding rains.

A strong 6.7-magnitude earthquake struck southeast of Japan's northern island of Hokkaido, according to the country's meteorological agency.

The quake was centered 51 kilometers southeast of the city of Shizunai at a depth of 51 kilometers, according to US Geological Survey (USGS).

While saying there was no threat of a destructive tsunami, Japan's authorities have asked people to move away from the coastline. National broadcaster NHK said some "changes in sea level" were possible.

Massive fish kill lethal legacy of floods

January 12, 2016 10:40pm
NEIL KEENE The Daily Telegraph

Tamworth visitor Stephen Briggs (white shirt) and his family were among the very few people to venture near the Hunter River after flooding sparked a mass fish die-off. Mr Briggs said he was unaware of the die-off. Picture: Neil Keene

LAST week's torrential rain and floods have resulted in another painful chapter for the Hunter Region's waterways, with hundreds of thousands of fish dead or dying due to lack of oxygen.

The NSW Environment Protection Authority said this week oxygen levels were 60-80 times lower than normal in the Hunter River due to the huge amounts of silt, rotting vegetation and other organic matter washed into the waterway during days of torrential rain last week.

PETALING JAYA: Hundreds of dead fish have been spotted flowing along the Klang River, near the city centre today.

The issue was highlighted on social media by Facebook user Jeffrey J C Lim in a series of postings with photos of the dead fish.

"Urgent! Sighted along Klang River, lower part, closer to KL Sentral. Please tag relevant authorities. Off the cycling lane, it's been flowing non-stop with dead fish," read one of his post with photos of the dead fish.

In another posting, he said: "Further down river, south west corridor of Mid Valley, the white bits, those are dead fish."

More than an hour after his first sighting of the incident, Jeffrey said the river was still flowing with the dead fish.

"And now, even more are appearing. It's coming from the Gombak River side," he added.

Meanwhile when contacted by theSun, the Fisheries Department said they would investigate the matter immediately.

With a fresh outbreak of bird flu being reported in Tripura, the mass culling of more than 8,000 chicken and ducks began on Saturday in the western part of the State, officials said in Agartala.

"We have started culling of chickens, ducks and other poultry birds today (Saturday) at the government-run animal farm at Gandhigram in western Tripura. We have told officials to complete the culling drive at the R.K. Nagar government animal farm at the earliest," animal resource development department (ARDD) director Manoranjan Sarkar said.

He said: "After the death of some chicken, ducks and birds we have sent samples to various local and outside laboratories.

"The National Institute of High Security Animal Disease Laboratory in Bhopal has confirmed the samples from the government farm are positive for H5 strain of Avian Influenza."

"It has been decided to immediately commence the culling of birds and destruction of eggs and feed material among other things so as to control further spread of the disease without loss of time," said Mr. Sarkar.

It has also been decided that all the ducks and poultry birds would be culled within a radius of one km of the focus of infection, including the neighbouring villages.

According to the official, in addition to the culling, surveillance would be carried out over a further radius up to 10 km to monitor further spread of infection, if any.

HUNTINGBURG, Ind. — Turkeys tested positive for bird flu at nine more Indiana farms near the location where authorities first confirmed a strain different from the one that ravaged the U.S. poultry industry last summer, Indiana authorities said on Saturday.

Farmers began euthanizing turkeys at the new farms even before final results of whether the birds were infected with the H7N8 strain, said Denise Derrer, spokeswoman for the Indiana State Board of Animal Health. Final results are expected soon from a government laboratory in Ames, Iowa.

It's been a devastating week for the whale population across Northern Europe as 12 whales died on or off the coast of the Dutch island of Texel and the German islands of Wangerooge and Helgoland this week.

Five sperm whales washed up on the shores of Texel on Tuesday night.

Attempts were made to save them but had to be discontinued during the night due to weather conditions which made it impossible to move the giant mammals.

Marian Bestelink, a spokeswoman for the Dutch Economic Ministry, said: "Experts

CDC says closely monitoring outbreak of new bird flu strain

 REUTERS 17 hours ago

CHICAGO (Reuters) - The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention is closely monitoring individuals who may have been exposed to the new strain of bird flu that has been found in a flock of turkeys in Indiana, a CDC health official said on Friday.

Dr. Michael Jhung, a medical officer at the CDC, said there is no evidence of human infection related to the new bird flu strain known as H7N8, but the agency and local health officials are not taking any chances.

US NAVY SAILORS HELD BY IRAN ARE RELEASED WITH THEIR BOATS

BY ALI AKBAR DAREINI AND ADAM SCHRECK
ASSOCIATED PRESS

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) -- All 10 U.S. Navy sailors detained by Iran after drifting into its territorial waters a day earlier have been freed, the U.S. and Iran said Wednesday.

The Navy said the American crewmembers returned safely and there were no indications they had been harmed while in custody.

The nine men and one woman were being held at an Iranian base on Farsi Island in the Persian Gulf after being detained nearby on Tuesday. The tiny outpost has been used as a base for Revolutionary Guard speedboats as far back as the 1980s.

The sailors departed the island at 8:43 a.m. GMT aboard the boats they were detained with, the Navy said. They were picked up by Navy aircraft and other sailors took control of their boats for the return to Bahrain, where the U.S. 5th Fleet is based.

Iran releases 10 US Navy sailors after boat drifted in Persian Gulf

Published January 13, 2016 • FoxNews.com

Iran's Revolutionary Guard released 10 U.S. Navy sailors who were detained after two small Riverine boats crossed into Iranian territorial waters, the Pentagon confirmed Wednesday.

A statement said that the sailors and the boats left the Iranian naval base where they had been held shortly before 9 a.m. GMT (4 a.m. EST). The nine men and one woman were later transferred ashore by Navy aircraft, while the boats continued toward Bahrain, their intended destination. There was no indication the sailors had been harmed.

VIENNA/WASHINGTON (Reuters) - The day before the Obama administration was due to slap new sanctions on Iran late last month, Iranian Foreign Minister Javad Zarif warned U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry the move could derail a prisoner deal the two sides had been negotiating in secret for months.

Kerry and other top aides to President Barack Obama, who was vacationing in Hawaii, convened a series of conference calls and concluded they could not risk losing the chance to free Americans held by Tehran.

Even as Islamic State (ISIS) is suffering greater losses in Syria and Iraq it is increasing the pace of its attacks worldwide in a troubling trend, according to a top US general.

General Lloyd Austin, head of the Central Command (CENTCOM) overseeing Middle East operations, claimed ISIS attacks this week in Istanbul and Jakarta are signs the group is weakening, reports AFP on Friday.

"ISIL has assumed a defensive posture in Iraq and Syria," Austin said at a news conference in Florida, using an alternate acronym for the jihadist group.

"Going forward, we can expect to see him rely increasingly on acts of terrorism such as we saw this week in Baghdad and in Turkey, and most recently in Jakarta," he said.

ISIS recently has lost portions of the large swathes of Iraq and Syria that it conquered and established a "caliphate" on, with the key city of Ramadi in Iraq being recently recaptured by US-supported local forces.

Suicide bomber kills 10 people, mainly Germans, Istanbul

ISTANBUL | BY AYLA JEAN YACKLEY

A suicide bomber thought to have crossed recently from Syria killed at least 10 people, most of them German tourists, in Istanbul's historic heart on Tuesday, in an attack Prime Minister Ahmet Davutoglu blamed on Islamic State.

All of those killed in Sultanahmet square, near the Blue Mosque and Hagia Sophia - major tourist sites in the center of one of the world's most visited cities - were foreigners, Davutoglu said. A senior Turkish official said nine were German, while Peru's foreign ministry said a Peruvian man also died.

Deputy Prime Minister Numan Kurtulmus said the bomber was believed to have recently entered Turkey from Syria but was not on Turkey's watch list of suspected militants. He said earlier that the bomber had been identified from body parts at the scene and was thought to be a Syrian born in 1988.

Davutoglu said he had spoken by phone with German Chancellor Angela Merkel to offer condolences and vowed Turkey's fight against Islamic State, at home and as part of the U.S.-led coalition, would continue.

"Until we wipe out Daesh, Turkey will continue its fight at home and with coalition forces," he said in comments broadcast live on television, using an Arabic name for Islamic State. He vowed to hunt down and punish those linked to the bomber.

Merkel similarly vowed no respite in the fight against international terrorism, telling a news

Federal Agent: Iraqi Refugee Arrested on Terrorism Charges Planned to Bomb Two Houston Malls

HOUSTON (AP) — An Iraqi refugee who is facing charges he tried to help the Islamic State group wanted to set off bombs at two Houston malls and was learning to make electronic transmitters that could be used to detonate explosive devices, a federal agent testified Wednesday.

Omar Faraj Saeed Al Hardan, who came to Houston from Iraq in 2009, was indicted last week on three charges, including attempting to provide support to a designated terrorist organization. He pleaded not guilty to all three charges during a court appearance on Wednesday.

U.S. District Judge Lynn Hughes denied granting Al Hardan a bond, ruling that there would be a serious risk that the Iraqi refugee would flee if released from federal custody.

Hughes made his decision after listening to testimony from Homeland Security Special Agent Herman Wittliff, who said that in addition to Al Hardan wanting to set off bombs at the two Houston malls, including the popular Galleria mall, the Iraqi man was also learning how to make electronic transmitters that could be used to detonate improvised explosive devices. Al Hardan wanted use cellphones — a collection of which were found in his apartment — to detonate the transmitters, Wittliff said.

"He wanted to build them (the transmitters) for ISIL," Wittliff said.

Massive AP Investigation Concludes Entire U.S. Power Grid Could Easily Be Brought Down By Foreign Hackers

17 JANUARY, 2016

A silent war is escalating in the U.S., a war of hackers and cyber attackers. Enemies of the U.S. aren't preparing to invade militarily; they have all the intelligence they need to tear down the U.S. from within, using technology to take down America's power grid. A massive AP investigation concluded that the entire U.S. power grid could be sabotaged by foreign hackers, leaving Americans with no light for an unspecified amount of time. With computer networks out and refrigeration shut down, most Americans wouldn't be able to work or eat, leaving the masses starving and fighting among themselves.

It is the Holy Grail of health research, discovering the key to help people live longer. Now scientists believe they may be one step closer.

A team at Yale School of Medicine have identified a hormone, produced by the thymus gland, extends lifespan by 40 per cent.

Their findings reveal increased levels of the hormone, known as FGF21, protects the immune system against the ravages of age.

Researchers said the study could have implications in the future for improving immune function in the elderly, for obesity, and for diseases such as cancer and type 2 diabetes.

California hospital becomes first in US to prescribe ingestible sensors from Proteus

By Jonah Comstock | January 11, 2016

Redwood City, California-based Proteus Digital Health announced its first US healthcare provider customer, Barton Health, which will prescribe the company's Proteus Discover to patients. The company says this is the first time its technology has been implemented outside of a clinical trial setting in the US.

Barton Health, a health system in Lake Tahoe, California, will use the medication adherence platform, which includes Proteus's FDA-cleared ingestible sensor, in populations with uncontrolled and co-morbid hypertension. Implementation for other chronic conditions will follow if the first use case goes well.

"Patients struggle with medication adherence for various reasons. When a non-adherent patient is not seeing results and the physician believes a patient is taking a medication, this may lead to unnecessary changes in treatment which can be costly for the patient and the health system," Dr. Purvance, CEO of Barton Health, said in a statement. "This new product offering provides a data-driven communication channel between the medical provider and the patient that empowers the patient to take the appropriate dose of medication and better understand the importance of daily activity levels and other lifestyle changes."

As communications become increasingly important to online life, and political expression, Homeland Security and law enforcement wield powerful new tools to regulate the signal and control the masses, particularly during crises.

Lawsuits by the Electronic Privacy Information Center have hinged around disclosure of a secret plan that gives the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) the ability to cut cell service and black out communications across entire cities, or on specific areas.

How extensively the plan has been developed remains unknown, as legal action so far has failed to declassify the digital tool of mass control.

Closing out the holiday season in an ironically traditional style, the PBS-sponsored website It's Okay To Be Smart posted a dozen short videos called "The 12 Days of Evolution" on YouTube, completing the set¹ just in time for post-Christmas viewing. The "12 Days of Christmas" is an 18th century folk song celebrating the days between Christmas and the Feast of the Epiphany. That day commemorates the successful quest of the Magi (Matthew 2:1-12) to find and worship the infant Jesus Christ, the incarnate Son of God.

These 12 video gifts—conveniently embedded (as shown in this screen shot) as clickable finches in Darwin's beard—encourage viewers to reject God's Word from its beginning. Substituting fallible man's evolutionary explanation of origins for God's account undermines the foundation for faith in Jesus Christ—our Creator (Colossians 1:16-17) who came to live among man and to die, purchasing our salvation (1 Peter 1:18; Hebrews 2:9).

Americans Told To Stop Chanting 'U-S-A' At Sports Events

13 JANUARY, 2016

Last month, Wisconsin's governing body for high school athletics declared that chanting "U-S-A, U-S-A," is unsportsmanlike behavior. The Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association also directed schools to stop fans from booing, or chanting "Air Ball," "Season's Over," "Fundamentals," "Scoreboard," and "Over-Rated." "Any action directed at opposing teams or their spectators with the intent to taunt, disrespect, distract or entice an unsporting behavior in response is not acceptable sportsmanship," the WIAA wrote in an email obtained by the Post-Crescent.

Do you know what your "threat score" is? Today, more than 90 percent of all local police departments and nearly all government agencies employ some sort of technological surveillance.

One of the most common applications is called "Beware", and it scans billions of "arrest reports, property records, commercial databases, deep Web searches" and social media postings to give authorities an idea of who they are dealing with.

Congressman: IRS should implement procedures to prevent abuse from happening again

The Internal Revenue Service may still be unfairly targeting conservative organizations for audit due to flaws within their interior controls, Americans for Tax Reform reported Wednesday.

A Government Accountability Office audit found that because of control deficiencies within the IRS system, there is higher risk for the government agency to select organizations based on political and religious beliefs for audit:

GAO found that the IRS does not have strong internal controls and did not have consistent procedures for documenting audit selection decisions, which increases the risk of unfair audit selection.

GAO concluded that "the lack of strong control procedures increases the risk that the audit program's mission of fair and equitable application of the tax laws will not be achieved."

The audit was requested by Reps. Kevin Brady (R., Texas) and Peter Roskam (R., Ill.).

"Now we have reports from GAO raising concerns about the audit selection process throughout IRS operations," said Roskam.

"The American people deserve better. We must do more to ensure the IRS treats all Americans fairly, holds employees responsible for these abuses accountable, and implements procedures to prevent this abuse from ever happening again."

Lowest Ever: The Baltic Dry Index Plunges To 394 As Global Trade Grinds To A Standstill

By Michael Snyder, on January 14th, 2016

For the first time ever, the Baltic Dry Index has fallen under 400. As I write this article, it is sitting at 394. To be honest, I never even imagined that it could go this low. Back in early August, the Baltic Dry Index was sitting at 1,222, and since then it has been on a steady decline. Of course the Baltic Dry Index crashed hard just before the great stock market crash of 2008 too, but at this point it is already lower than it was during that entire crisis. This is just more evidence that global trade is grinding to a halt and that 2016 is going to be a "cataclysmic year" for the global economy.

If you are not familiar with the Baltic Dry Index, here is a helpful definition from Wikipedia...

The Baltic Dry Index (BDI) is an economic indicator issued daily by the London-based Baltic Exchange. Not restricted to Baltic Sea countries, the index provides "an assessment of the

The Financial Crisis Of 2016 Rolls On – China, Oil, Copper And Junk Bonds All Continue To Crash

By Michael Snyder, on January 11th, 2016

Never before have we seen a year start like this. On Monday, Chinese stocks crashed once again. The Shanghai Composite Index plummeted another 5.29 percent, and this comes on the heels of two historic single day crashes last week. All of this chaos over in China is one of the factors that continues to push commodity prices even lower. Today the price of copper fell another 2.40 percent to $1.97, and the price of oil continued to implode. At one point the price of U.S. oil plunged all the way down to $30.99 a barrel before rebounding just a little bit. As I write this article, oil is down a total of 6.12 percent for the day and is currently sitting at $31.13. U.S. stocks were mixed on Monday, but it is important to note that the Russell 2000 did officially enter bear market territory. This is yet another confirmation of what I was talking about yesterday. And junk bonds continue to plummet. As I write this, JNK is down to 33.42. All of these numbers are huge red flags that are screaming that big trouble is ahead. Unfortunately, the mainstream media continues to insist that there is absolutely nothing to be concerned about.

The Bursting of the Bond Bubble Has Begun

The bursting of the bond bubble has begun.

As I've outlined previously the primary concern for Central Banks is the bond bubble. CNBC and other financial media focus on stocks because the asset class is more volatile and so makes for better content, but the foundation of the financial system is bonds. And bonds are THE focus for Central Banks.

In the simplest of terms, the world is awash in too much debt. The bond bubble was close to $80 trillion in size going into 2008. The Central Banks had a choice to either let the defaults hit and clear out the garbage debt from the financial system or attempt to inflate the debts away.

They chose to attempt to inflate the debts away. Put differently, all of their policies were aimed at containing debt deflation... or the process through which debt becomes less and less serviceable leading to eventual insolvency and default.

To whit:

- 1) Central Banks cut interest rates to zero to make bond payments smaller.
- 2) Central Banks launched QE and other programs to put a floor beneath bond prices (when bond prices rise, bond yields fall and debt payments become smaller and easier to service).
- 3) Central Banks provided verbal intervention promising to do "more" or "whatever it takes" whenever bonds came close to ending their bull market.

As a result of this, the financial system has become even more leveraged than it was in 2007 at the beginning of the last debt crisis.

NEW YORK-- Oil producer BP plans to slash more than 4,000 jobs over the next two years as oil prices plummet.

BP will reduce its global upstream staff from 24,000 to "well below" 20,000 by the end of 2017, the company said in an emailed statement.

BP's upstream operations are made up primarily of its of exploration and production activities for oil and gas, and employs people in at least half a dozen U.S. states, including Texas, Alaska, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Wyoming.

Gartman Now Says Crude Has Bottomed Hours After Warning Of "Egregiously Lower" Prices And "Panic Selling" To $15

It was less than a day ago when Gartman, in his latest appearance on the nepotism-challenged CNBC, said that not only is the bottom for oil not in yet, but that a selling "panic" could push it down as low as $15: after all with Standard Chartered coming out with a $10 forecast, it was suddenly cool to have dire predictions about the black gold's downside risk.

This is what he said:

"The dollar is the predominant deciding factor at this point, and as long as the dollar continues to go higher, and it does, the pressure will remain on the crude oil market. I really thought that $32 might hold. I actually thought that would be the furthest that we could extend it down to, but we're getting a panic situation. And in panic you can get an egregiously lower price," he said.

According to Gartman, the bottom is not in for oil: It could fall much further. "Egregiously lower — $15, $16, $17, $18 per barrel on the front month for a day or two but it won't last long down there," he said.

Perhaps because the video was record around lunch time, before oil dipped below $30 and then rebounded, and perhaps because just a few hours later Jeff Gundlach said oil has bottomed, the half-life of this particular Gartman sell was indeed short.

The market storm that has engulfed Wall Street to start 2016 again took aim at stock investors, with the Dow closing down nearly 400 points Friday, as increasingly jittery traders reacted to the latest swoon in oil prices and another big selloff in Chinese stocks.

The massive selloff extended the U.S. stock market's worst start to a year ever to 10 trading sessions. The slide is gaining steam amid raising investor fears of slowing global growth and even steeper losses in markets.

"Today hasn't been an easy one in the markets for the faint of heart," Terry Sandven, chief equity strategist for U.S. Bank Wealth Management, said.

Middle East Stock Crash Wipes $27 Billion Off Markets As Tehran Enters Oil War

18 JANUARY, 2016

Stock markets across the Middle East saw more than £27bn wiped off their value as the lifting of economic sanctions against Iran threatened to unleash a fresh wave of oil onto global markets that are already drowning in excess supply.

All seven stock markets in the Gulf states tumbled as panic gripped traders. London shares are now braced for a second wave of crisis to hit when they open on Monday morning after contagion from China sent the FTSE 100 to its worst start in history last week.

French President Francois Hollande has announced what he called "a state of economic and social emergency" involving a €2 billion plan to revive hiring and catch up with the world's economy.

"Due to the threat of terrorism in the past, we had to introduce a state of emergency. But amid global chaos and an uncertain economic environment, it's appropriate to talk about a state of economic and social emergency. Employment is the most important question after the security of French citizens," TASS quotes Hollande as saying.

"Isramco" and "Modiin Energy" companies, announced on Sunday that they found a gas reserve in the Mediterranean Sea the size of the "Tamar" drilling field. The companies who partner in searching for oil and gas reserves in Israel publicized on Sunday morning that they have found gas reserves that equal the size of the offshore "Tamar" Gas field. The reserves are located in the drilling license regions of East and West Daniel.

According to an outside prospective agency that hails from the Netherlands "NSAI", the twin gas field has the potential to drill up to 8.9 trillion cubic feet (TCF), making it quite larger than the "Tamar" field. It will require several drilling points, as opposed to the single drilling point needed for the "Tamar" field.

The chances of taking full advantage of this discovery are estimated at 30 to 40%. Currently the assets of the field are divided among four owners. "Modiin Energy" owns a 15 percent share, "Isramco" owns a 75 percent share, "ATP" and "AGR" groups own five percent each of the additional ten percent.

Top 50 Countries Difficult to be a Christian—North Korea is Losing its Lead

2015 was the worst year for the persecution of Christians in the modern world. Open Doors analyzed countries and headlines from around the world to determine which places were the most challenging for Christians to live in. From ISIS attacks in Libya, Kenya and Egypt to fleeing refugees forced out of their homes to recent attacks in Paris and San Bernardino, the world feels less safe than ever. The 2016 World Watch List from Open Doors gives a list of 50 countries where it's most difficult to be a Christian. Here are a few facts you should know:

- Over 7,000 Christians were killed this past year for their faith. This number does not include deaths in North Korea and parts of Iraq and Syria where it's difficult to acquire accurate numbers.
- The number of churches attacked or damaged doubled from 2014 to amount to 2,400 churches in 2015. "More than 60 percent" of the total number of churches attacked happened in China."

Anti-Christian violence increased in 2015

Persecution of Christians is more than just physical violence. It's a complex, multifaceted phenomenon that involves many aspects such as various forms of cultural marginalization, government discrimination, hindrances on conversion, hindrances on participation in public affairs and restrictions on church life.

These and other aspects of persecution are comprehensively covered by the World Watch List methodology which distinguishes between squeeze (pressure) and smash (violence).

It is a challenge to document violent incidents targeting Christians, especially in countries where access to information is restricted, or media reporting is insufficient. This table is based on research by the World Watch List team, assistance by Open Doors' networks in the field, and help from external experts.

The 12-month reporting period ending 31 Oct., 2015 shows an overall increase in the numbers of Christians killed for faith-related reasons and churches attacked in comparison to last year. The 2015 World Watch List reported 4,344 Christians killed for faith-related reasons and 1,062 churches attacked. The 2016 list documents 7,106 Christians killed and 2,425 churches attacked.

2016 World Watch List drawn from world headlines

Published: Jan. 13, 2016 by World Watch Monitor

Some of the most urgent headlines of the past 12 months, from the global spread of jihadist violence to North Korea's test of a putative atomic weapon, intersect with an updated list of the most difficult places to live as a Christian.

For the 14th straight year, North Korea is the most difficult place to be a Christian, according to the 2016 Open Doors World Watch List, released 13 Jan. by Open Doors, a charity that provides support to Christians who live under pressure because of their faith. North Korea's "dictatorial paranoia" has kept it at the head of the 50 countries on the annual list, a placement underscored 6 Jan. when the country detonated what it claims to be a hydrogen bomb.

But the gap between North Korea and the rest of the world is narrowing, Open Doors said.

Throughout the 49 other countries on the list, the dominant and growing source of pressure on Christians is "Islamic extremism." It is the primary driver of persecution in the rest of the top 10 countries on the list, and in 36 of the entire list of 50 countries. Many of those countries share a common denominator in the 2016 list: the self-proclaimed Islamic State.

North Korea Gets Competition: The Top 50 Countries Where It's Now Hardest To Be a Christian

(UPDATED) Hermit Kingdom losing lead as modern persecution hits record high, according to 2016 World Watch List.

2014 was the world's worst year for the persecution of Christians in the modern era. Until 2015 surpassed it.

The 2016 World Watch List (WWL) from Open Doors analyzes how African countries now outnumber Mideast countries on the list, affecting far more Christians numerically (though not as severely). Christian martyrdoms and destruction of churches nearly doubled during the "Year of Fear," yet only 4 of the top 10 persecuting countries rank among the 10 most violent ones. Meanwhile, the spread in severity among top persecutors shrank by half, and five countries that would have qualified for last year's list did not make this year's list because the minimum

Middle Eastern Christians: "Living on the Edge of Extinction"

In a far corner of the world where our faith story began, church bells no longer ring at Christmas. Christians in the Middle East are rapidly disappearing – pushed out, cast away, targeted, forced to renounce their faith, and killed.

"Last Christmas was the first time that bells did not ring out in the city of Mosul in 2,000 years," Elijah Brown of the 21st Century Wilberforce Initiative said. "I think that speaks to the reality that hundreds of thousands of Christian families are living on the edge of extinction."

Christians are consistently under siege from ISIS in Syria and Iraq. They've been fleeing to Europe and Lebanon for years. Sadly, the world has remained quiet in response.

"The Christian population in Iraq has plummeted from 1.5 million in 2003 to current estimates of 275,000 and could be gone for good within five years," according to the report. The dwindling numbers are due to genocide, refugees fleeing to other countries, those who are internally displaced, and others

Cuba: Churches demolished and pastors arrested in latest government crackdown

Two churches have been demolished and several church leaders arrested in the latest state crackdown in Cuba.

Both churches were part of the Apostolic Movement which is unregistered by the Cuban government and were destroyed without warning on January 8, according to Christian Solidarity Worldwide (CSW).

"Just after 4am police and state security agents broke down the door and handcuffed Reverend Bernardo de Quesada Salomon and his wife Damaris, taking them to two separate prisons while the demolition took place," said a statement from the religious freedom charity.

"Damaris was released at around 1pm while Rev de Quesada Salomon was dropped off by state security after 3pm, after the church had been destroyed. Their son was handcuffed and held in the house during the demolition of the open-air structure."

As the Cuban state restricts religious freedom, Cuban soldiers have reportedly arrived in Syria to join the Russian effort in supporting the regime of President Bashar al-Assad.

MUSLIMS DEMAND Cross Be Removed From The Swiss Flag Because They "Find It Offensive"

Michigan Dentist Sued for 'Forcing Her Beliefs' on Employees by Playing Christian Music in the Office

Four former employees are suing a Michigan dentist for playing Christian music in her office, allegedly holding mandatory prayer meetings and forcing her religious beliefs on them through discrimination, according to an article published by the Washington Post on Friday.

Dentist Tina Marshall of Lake Orion, Michigan, has been accused of firing or reprimanding the four employees when they objected to her religious beliefs and practices, according to the lawsuit that was filed in August 2015. The plaintiffs have requested a jury trial, which, if granted, would most likely take place during the summer, the Washington Post reported.

"We were all on edge. We were trying to be nice to the patients and do good dental work, but she kept forcing the music and her beliefs on us," plaintiff Nancy Kordus, a former dental assistant of Marshall's, told Clarkston News. "Several patients questioned the music, and I turned it off and turned on the TV. So I was 'disobedient.'"

The four plaintiffs in the case against Marshall are seeking "damages for loss of past and future income and employment benefits, outrage, humiliation, embarrassment, mental anxiety, emotional distress, and loss of professional reputation," according to David Kotzian, the lawyer representing the former employees. The complaint also claims that Kordus preferred to keep her Christian music on at all times in order to "ward off

Pope Francis Says All Major Religions Are Paths To Same God

12 JANUARY, 2016

A new video has just been released in which Pope Francis very clearly expresses his belief that all of the major religions are different paths to the same God. He says that while people from various global faiths may be “seeking God or meeting God in different ways” that it is important to keep in mind that “we are all children of God”. This is the most recent example that shows that the Pope has completely abandoned any notion that a relationship with God is available only through Jesus Christ. As he has done throughout his papacy, he continues to lay the groundwork for the coming one world religion, and yet hardly anyone seems upset by this.

Baptist church votes to OK gay marriage

First Baptist Church in Memphis, Tenn., has adopted a resolution granting gays the same privilege to get married afforded to everyone else.

By Bob Allen

A Cooperative Baptist Fellowship congregation in Tennessee voted Jan. 10 to marry same-sex couples.

First Baptist Church in Memphis capped a three-month discernment process by adopting a policy extending "privileges afforded to any follower of Christ" without discrimination based on factors including sexual orientation.

The policy enumerates specific but privileges of "baptism, membership, leadership, ordination and marriage."

David
Breckenridge

David Breckenridge, pastor of the historic congregation since 2008, said the essence of the action was to clarify what members of First Baptist mean by their slogan, "All are welcome, no exceptions."

"At FBC Memphis all followers of Christ will have equal access to all areas of church life and practice," Breckenridge said.

Founded in frontier Memphis in 1839, First Baptist Church never lost its pioneering spirit. It was the first Southern Baptist church in Memphis to allow an African-American family to join in the early 1970s.

The congregation began ordaining women as deacons in the 1990s and in 2000 ordained its first woman minister, longtime church member Carol McCall Richardson, who went on to serve as associate pastor until her retirement in 2012.

The church has long included members who are openly gay and two years ago ordained a gay deacon.

It was one of the churches in the area to part ways with the Southern Baptist Convention over disagreement with policies such as the convention's membership ban on churches which "act to affirm, approve or endorse homosexual behavior."

Because of those differences, First Baptist Church's primary affiliation today is the Cooperative Baptist Fellowship, an 1,800-church group formed in 1991.

Based in Decatur, Ga., the CBF includes congregations that come down on both sides of the LGBT-inclusion debate. Recently a number of CBF-friendly churches have publicly moved toward a more welcoming stance.

First Baptist Church in Greenville, S.C., passed a resolution in May to no longer discriminate based on sexual orientation or gender identity. The church subsequently withdrew from the South Carolina Baptist Convention at the convention's request.

A second CBF church in South Carolina was booted from the state convention in November after its pastor performed a same-sex wedding on his own time with permission from the church deacons. The SBC Executive Committee is expected to formally withdraw fellowship from Augusta Heights Baptist Church in Greenville, S.C., at its upcoming meeting Feb. 22-23 in Nashville, Tenn.

San Francisco Moves to Mandate City Bathrooms as Gender Neutral

1.13.2016 | News | Sarah Fleher | 58

Surprisingly, San Francisco is behind the curve on gender neutral bathrooms. But all that is about to change. "On Monday, San Francisco Supervisor David Campos took the first substantive steps toward changing that when he announced plans to introduce a bill that would make many city bathrooms gender-neutral."

The proposed measure would mandate that all single-occupancy bathrooms would be relabeled for all genders.

The bill would also go beyond similar laws in other cities by putting in place sweeping enforcement mechanisms, including a complaint process handled by the Human Rights Commission, an LGBT rights organization, and adding these facilities as a standard checklist item for building inspections.

If the measure passes, San Francisco would join Philadelphia, Seattle, Washington, D.C., West Hollywood, Calif. and Austin,
