والعلامات حتى 16 فبراير 2016

وأيضاً أوضح أنه يوجد نبوات لم نراها بعد مثل ابن الهلاك وهرمجدون

ولكن أيضاً علامات كثيرة من التي قال عنها الكتاب انها في الزمان الاخير بدأت تحدث بوضوح

سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك زيت الا ما جمعه

سابقا. أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشتر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لانه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم ياتي المسيح في زمنه ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

المسيح قال بعض العلامات مثل

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

أولا لكيلا نرتاع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

ثالثا لننتبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَاَنْتَصِبُوا وَاَرْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ».

By Michael Casey · Published February 08, 2016 · FoxNews.com

The Pictor A galaxy has a supermassive black hole at its center, and material falling onto the black hole is driving an enormous beam, or jet, of particles at nearly the speed of light into intergalactic space. The news reported by Indian newspapers and picked up by many outlets around the world was startling: A bus driver was killed and three people were injured after a meteorite hit a college campus on Saturday. If true, it would have been the first scientifically confirmed report in history of someone being killed by a meteorite impact.

By Tuesday, however, the story appeared to be fizzling as scientific experts weighed in.

The early reports included images of a crater, five feet deep and two feet wide. Witnesses described hearing an explosion, and the police recovered a black, pockmarked stone from the site, in southeast India. The chief minister of the state, Jayalalithaa Jayaram, promised compensation for the families of the driver, who was hit by debris, and for the other three people, The Times of India reported.

Video: Meteor seen in Saudi skies?

YouTube film published by 'Sabq'

By Staff

Published Wednesday, February 10, 2016

A glowing object believed to be a large meteor was captured on camera as it crossed Saudi skies at night, a local newspaper reported on Wednesday.

An eight-second YouTube film published by 'Sabq' Arabic language daily showed the object lightened up the sky in the Northern Rafha town as it moved fast from East to North before disappearing.

The paper said many residents captured the object with their mobile phones and quoted well-known Saudi astronomer Khaled Al Zuaq as saying he believes it was a meteor.

"The object appeared to be a large meteor which was seen crossing the Saudi skies at around 10.30 pm," he said.

The sun is in the midst of its quietest period in more than a century.

Astronomers say this isn't unusual, and solar activity waxes and wanes in 11-year cycles, and we're currently in Cycle 24, which began in 2008.

However, if the current trend continues, then the Earth could be headed for a 'mini ice age' researchers have warned.

A handout satellite image made at 10:45 am ET and released by the US National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) on 23 Oct. 2015 shows Hurricane Patricia (L) as it approaches the coastline of Mexico from the Eastern Pacific.

EPA/NOAA / HANDOUT

Hurricanes have long been a potent symbol — maybe the most potent — of a changing climate. Not only do these storms release destructive energy on a scale that's staggering to contemplate, but how much they can do so depends on the heat contained in ocean water — their power source.

While New York City had its coldest start to Valentine's Day in 100 years on Sunday, it would seem balmy compared with the wicked wind chill at upstate Whiteface Mountain.

As temperatures dropped across the Northeast from the blast of a polar vortex, the wind chill at Whiteface, near Lake Placid, made it feel like a body- and mind-numbing minus 114 degrees late Saturday and into Sunday. Central Park could only muster a minus 1 degree.

The Wild Center, which works with the Atmospheric Science Research Center at SUNY Albany, recorded the frigid temperature from a research station at the mountain's summit.

Phoenix Could Shatter Records With Earliest 90 Degree Temps On Record

15 FEBRUARY, 2016

Never mind it's mid-February. Phoenix could shatter a record this week for the earliest 90-degree day ever recorded in the city, pending a change in the forecast. A strong ridge of high pressure is "large and in charge." It strengthens this week and temperatures peak on Wednesday with a forecast high of 92 degrees. Not only will that be a record for that date, but it's also the earliest in the year the Valley has ever seen a 90 degree high.

A strong 5.7 magnitude earthquake has rocked central New Zealand.

The 1.38pm quake was 35km south-east of St Arnaud, Nelson, at a depth of 65km.

Geonet duty seismologist Anna Kaiser said the shake was felt throughout the upper South Island and lower North Island.

"It was widely felt from Taranaki to Canterbury," she said.

There were also five reports from Auckland and one from Otago.

"It was a decent shake," she said.

Cliff collapses as 5.7-magnitude earthquake rocks New Zealand

Posted on February 14, 2016

February 2016 – NEW ZEALAND – A cliff near New Zealand city of Christchurch collapsed on Sunday after a 5.7-magnitude quake struck the South Island city. The New Zealand government's GeoNet monitoring service said the moderate quake was centered 15 km east of the city at a depth of 15 km, Xinhua reported. The US Geological Survey put the magnitude of the temblor at 5.8 with a relatively shallow depth of 8.2 km. Emergency services said part of a cliff collapsed in Sumner district in Christchurch. A video clip posted on the social media showed a huge dust cloud following the collapse.

Police cordoned off nearby access to the fallen cliff and local electricity service said at least 450 homes were left without power. Earthquake Minister Gerry Brownlee said he has not received reports of injuries or deaths and engineers were on the ground to assess any damage. "It's clearly not a state of civil emergency at the present time," he said. The service of cable car in Christchurch was halted after the quake, according to Shu Pei, a Chinese resident in the city. The University of Canterbury evacuated its Christchurch campus as part of normal safety precautions but there were no reports of damage, a spokesperson said. The quake struck just a week before the fifth anniversary of a deadly 6.3-magnitude. –Business Standard

JAKARTA, Indonesia - A strong undersea earthquake has hit off the coast of eastern Indonesia, but no injuries or serious damage was reported immediately.

The Indonesian Meteorology and Geophysics Agency said the temblor Friday had a magnitude of 6.6 and was unlikely to trigger a tsunami.

The U.S. Geological Survey said the earthquake measured 6.5 and struck about 94 kilometers (58 miles) west of Waingapu, a coastal town on Sumba island in East Nusa Tenggara province. It said it was centered at a depth of about 30 kilometers (19 miles).

Indonesia is prone to earthquakes due to its location on the Pacific "Ring of Fire," an arc of volcanoes and fault lines in the Pacific Basin.

In 2004, a massive earthquake off Sumatra triggered a tsunami that killed 230,000 people in a dozen countries.

Guatemala's fire volcano, Fuego, spews ash on nearby towns

Posted on February 14, 2016

February 2016 – GUATEMALA – A restive volcano near Guatemala's capital spewed ash on nearby towns Wednesday, including on a colonial-era city popular with tourists, officials said. The overnight eruption of Fuego Volcano – whose name means “fire” in Spanish – sent ash billowing up to five kilometers (three miles) into the sky and rivers of lava up to two kilometers long, according to Guatemala's Volcanology Institute. Light tremors were also felt up to 25 kilometers away.

Strong gusts of wind could carry the clouds of “fine ash particles” to Guatemala City, 45 kilometers distant, said David de Leon, a spokesman for the government's disaster coordination service. But thus far authorities were maintaining a yellow alert and were not ordering evacuations. However schools in the vicinity were ordered closed. De Leon said the ash had so far fallen on three towns – including Antigua Guatemala, a small, UNESCO-listed city dating back nearly five centuries and which served as the capital until the 18th century. Antigua's Spanish colonial history and many language schools are a draw for foreign tourists. Fuego Volcano is 3,763 meters (12,346 feet) high and has been active for a long while. In February 2015, it erupted powerfully, prompting an alert and the closure of Guatemala City's airport. –qNews

Further south in Costa Rica, Turrialba produced an impressive ash plume (see below). The eruption itself only lasted about 10 minutes and the plume only reached ~500 meters (~1600 feet) above the crater, but the dark grey volcanic ash was very thick. Gusty winds in the area meant that the ash from the eruption was spread widely around the volcano. Interestingly, OVSICORI, the volcano monitoring agency in Costa Rica, said that the crater at Turrialba is ~30 meters deeper now than when the volcano resumed erupting in 2014. The ash from this weekend's events can clearly be seen in the Turrialba webcam, coating the valley in front of the crater.

The pickup truck that fell into a sinkhole on Strasburg Road in Kitchener Wednesday morning was lifted out nine hours after the incident, according to Kitchener Utilities.

Although there had been fears that fuel from the truck could leak into the city's water supply, the utility confirmed Wednesday evening that the truck's fuel lines were not punctured when it plunged into the hole. The radiator was also intact.

"So, there was no risk of contamination," said Tammer Gaber, manager of

Withdrawal of fish

Photo: Disclosure

Teams of the Municipal Deputy Works began to gather on the morning of Thursday (04/02), dead fish that accumulate since yesterday in various parts of the lagoon complex of Marica, especially in Almond edge in Sao Jose do Imbassai.

Yet there is a calculation of the volume of fish to be collected, but the goal of the registry is to remove everything as soon as possible.

Even on the morning of Thursday teams of the State Institute of the Environment, triggered by the Deputy Municipal Secretary for the Environment, Guilherme Motta, they were at various points of the ponds to collect water samples necessary to define the causes of this new slaughter.

According to analysis of past events, the phenomenon is related to the low-oxygen water, heat and the significant increase in the city's population, which is reflected in a greater volume of sewage released clandestinely in the lagoon complex.

Dead fish mystery at La Brea again

Published: Thursday, February 4, 2016

Close to 400 pounds of dead fish has once again washed up on the shores at Point Sable and Carat Shed beaches, La Brea, sparking fear among residents that what ever caused their death could also affect them.

The find has propelled president of the La Brea Fisherfolk Association, Alvin La Borde, to once again plead with the Environmental Management Authority (EMA) to come clean with the results of tests conducted in the past and say what was causing the fish kill to continue.

Speaking at Carat Shed beach yesterday, La Borde said following the discovery of carcasses of a bottle-nose dolphin and other marine life on the beach last August, numerous samples were taken but the results were never revealed.

"Basically the same thing is happening again. A lot of different species of fish is washing ashore and it is a cause for serious concern.

"What is killing the fish could be affecting human beings in some way. We want to know if this fish kill is as a result of some sort of chemical being dumped in the sea because it does not happen throughout the year."

He said dead fish first started surfacing following the Petrotrin oil spill two years ago but did not believe that was responsible for the present situation. He said there were a lot of companies operating around the Gulf of Paria and toxicity levels in the water must be tested and revealed so it could be corrected.

Oyster disease POMS confirmed at second Tasmanian location 30km from first

A case of Pacific Oyster Mortality Syndrome (POMS) has been confirmed in a second oyster growing region in southern Tasmania.

Oysters Tasmania, which represented growers, said the disease was confirmed at Pipe Clay Lagoon, south-east of Hobart.

The deadly oyster disease was first found in Ironstone Oyster's lower Pittwater lease 30 kilometres away.

It killed all 2.5 million oysters at the lease.

Neighbouring growers in lower Pittwater also reported high mortalities and they are also being treated as POMS.

Oysters Tasmania CEO Neil Stump said the new confirmed case of POMS at Pipe Clay Lagoon is at one lease, but it was expected to spread to others nearby.

POMS is not harmful to humans but has wiped out entire growing regions in New South Wales in recent years.

Local stock movements are banned and New South Wales and South Australia halted all Tasmanian oyster spat imports.

NOKOMIS, Fla. (AP) - Officials say a highly concentrated patch of red tide likely caused the death of hundreds of fish that washed ashore on beaches near the border of Sarasota and Charlotte counties.

The Herald-Tribune reports that according to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, dense algae patches are expected to soon appear in the waters of Sarasota, Manatee and Charlotte counties.

While they're not deadly to humans, toxins produced by red tide can cause coughing, runny nose and itchy eyes.

Vincent Lovko, staff scientist at Mote Marine Laboratory, says a red tide bloom has been located off the coast of Southwest Florida since September. He says the bloom isn't "unusually alarming."

Dozens of cattle dead in Tonj North County from unknown disease

TONJ (9 Feb.)

Dozens of cattle have died due to unknown diseases in Aliab area of Tonj North County in South Sudan's Warrap State, according to a local official in the county.

Share 36Tweet

County Commissioner Tito Sijin Ayii told Radio Tamazuj that the disease has killed dozens of cattle in a week and is spreading in the county. He said a team from the Red Cross is visiting the county to see the situation.

Separately, Sijin said a team from the World Food Programme has visited the area to provide aid to people affected by the recent conflict between Marial Lou and Akok clans which led to the killing and injuries of about 100 people and the displacement of hundreds.

The commissioner pointed out that preparation is underway to hold a peace conference between the two feuding clans, adding that the authorities are still looking for the perpetrators behind the conflict.

February 11, 2016 | Latest update : February 11, 08:00

OOSTERHOUT. Brabantse Delta Water warns to look out Oosterhouters in contact with surface water in the Oosterheide district.

The board found that there in several places and hundreds of dead fish floating gasping by a shortage of oxygen in the water.

It is about water and the ponds parallel to the Neighbor Urban and Long Furrows to the Mayor Materlaan. An observant resident who had seen floating fish, made any reference to the water board.

The cause is rainfall in combination with a defect in a municipal sewage pump. This allows sewage water will not be pumped into the sewer system, but discharged via an overflow on the waters in the district.

The crude sewage pulls oxygen from the ditches and ponds, causing fish to die. The municipality solves these days the problem. Polluted water is discharged to be cleared by tanker and dead fish. Further dilutes and the water flushes the water with water from the Wilhelmina.

It is expected that decreasing the concentration of pollution per hour and the pollution is completely gone within a few days. The advice is to avoid the coming days contact with the water.

Consumer protection watchdog Rospotrebnadzor has confirmed the first case of the Zika virus in Russia. The woman infected returned to Moscow from a holiday in the Dominican Republic, and was admitted to hospital after she spiked a fever and displayed a rash.

"Thanks to strengthened preventive measures against the Zika virus on Russian territory, and to the readiness of medical institutions to diagnose and assist patients, the infected woman was immediately hospitalized with the recommendation to screen for Zika fever. A lab test using a domestic diagnosis kit showed the presence of the Zika virus in the patient's biological fluids," reads the agency's statement.

Posted: Feb 09, 2016 2:09 PM MST
Updated: Feb 10, 2016 3:27 PM MST

Reported by Tracy Kornet CONNECT

NASHVILLE, TN (WSMV) - The Tennessee Department of Health confirmed Tuesday that the first case of the Zika virus has been reported in East Tennessee.

Health officials said the person recently traveled to South America before returning to Tennessee.

"We have been expecting an imported case of Zika virus disease and we believe more infections are likely as people travel to and from areas where the disease is currently being transmitted," said Dr. John Dreyzehner, Tennessee Department of Health commissioner, in a release.

Officials said Zika virus is almost always a mild illness. Testing is not necessary for most people.

In pregnant women, there have been increased cases of microcephaly associated with the Zika virus. Microcephaly is a condition where the child's head is smaller than normal and may lead to the child experiencing other health problems.

Indian Point nuclear plant leak causes radioactivity in groundwater

By David Shortell, CNN

Updated 10:02 PM ET, Sat February 6, 2016

Story highlights

Tests this week at the Indian Point nuclear facility show radioactivity levels in groundwater 65,000% higher than normal

The plant's owner says, "There is no health or safety consequence to the public"

New York's governor says he is "deeply concerned," calls for investigation into the incident

(CNN)—A leak at the Indian Point nuclear facility in New York has sent contaminant into the area groundwater, causing radioactivity levels 65,000% higher than normal, the Gov. Andrew Cuomo said on Saturday.

The groundwater beneath the nuclear plant, which does not contribute to drinking water, flows into the Hudson River at a point about 25 miles north of New York City.

Indian Point's parent company Entergy said elevated levels of tritium, a radioactive isotope of hydrogen, had been detected in the groundwater at the facility, but that "there is no health or safety consequence to the public."

The leak also does not pose a threat to the river environment because dilution would render the radioactive water "undetectable," said Neil Sheehan, a spokesman for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

On Saturday, Cuomo said he was "deeply concerned" by the leak and directed the heads of the state departments of health and environmental conservation to investigate.

"Our first concern is for the health and safety of the residents close to the facility and ensuring the groundwater leak does not pose a threat," Cuomo said.

There are 317,000 residents within a 10-mile evacuation zone around the nuclear facility, according to the Natural Resources Defense Council.

Saudi Arabia Prepares To Send Special Forces To Syria; Will Fight As Part Of "US-Led Coalition"

As we reported yesterday, in one of the most surprising developments involving the Syrian proxy war, Saudi Arabia and U.S. presence on the ground, the latest twist is that both Turkey and Saudi Arabia are now mulling a full-scale invasion while Russia and the Syrian government continue their progress in wiping out the US and Saudi-funded rebellion. To be sure, there was confusion when CNN Arabia reported first that the Saudis may send as much as 150,000 troops into Saudi Arabia, by way of Turkey, something which Anadolu news promptly denied.

However, the denial itself was softly denied by the Saudi Press Agency, which further stirred the water earlier today when it reported that not only is Saudi Arabia ready to send a special force to fight in Syria, but that this deployment was proposed by the US, which would oversee the Saudi troops as part of the US-led coalition in Syria. World War 3 Could Start This Month: 350,000 Soldiers In Saudi Arabia Stand Ready To Invade Syria

By Michael Snyder, on February 14th, 2016

350,000 soldiers, 20,000 tanks, 2,450 warplanes and 460 military helicopters are massing in northern Saudi Arabia for a military exercise that is being called "Northern Thunder". According to the official announcement, forces are being contributed by Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Egypt, Jordan, Bahrain, Sudan, Kuwait, Morocco, Pakistan, Tunisia, Oman, Qatar, Malaysia and several other nations. This exercise will reportedly last for 18 days, and during that time the airspace over northern Saudi Arabia will be closed to air traffic. This will be the largest military exercise in the history of the region, and it comes amid rumors that Saudi Arabia and Turkey are preparing for a massive ground invasion of Syria.

If you were going to gather forces for an invasion, this is precisely how you would do it. Governments never come out and publicly admit that forces are moving into position for an invasion ahead of time, so "military exercises" are a common excuse that gets used for this sort of thing.

In open defiance of recent US sanctions on Iran's ballistic missile program, Iranian Defense Minister Hossein Dehghan on late Tuesday told local media that Tehran will soon be rolling out an upgrade of its nuclear-capable medium-range Emad missiles.

Emad is said to have a 1,700 kilometer range, putting Israel and much of eastern Europe squarely in its sights.

"The missile is being mass-produced but its precision-striking power will improve and its second version will be unveiled next year," Dehghan added. He went on to claim the missile was not a violation of the nuclear deal or UN sanctions because "we will never use a nuclear warhead (on it)."

SOUTH KOREA'S LEADER WARNS OF NORTH KOREA COLLAPSE

BY HYUNG-JIN KIM
ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) -- South Korea's president warned Tuesday that North Korea faces collapse if it doesn't abandon its nuclear bomb program, an unusually strong broadside that will likely infuriate Pyongyang.

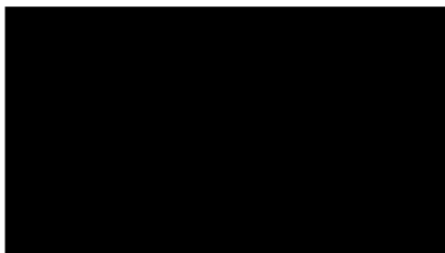

President Park Geun-hye, in addressing Parliament to defend the closure of a jointly run factory park in North Korea, said South Korea will take unspecified "stronger and more effective" measures to make North Korea realize its nuclear ambitions will result only in accelerating its "regime collapse."

Park shut the factory park in response to the North's recent long-range rocket test, which Seoul and Washington see as a test of banned ballistic missile technology. The launch and the North's fourth nuclear test last month put the country further along

Pentagon documents released on Tuesday indicate that the 2017 budget requests of the US Defense Department include a total of $145.8 million for Israeli missile defense programs, a sharp drop in financial support amid a standoff over American military aid.

The aid, meant for Israel's missile interceptor programs including the short-range Iron Dome, medium-range David's Sling and Arrow ballistic missile interceptor, includes far lower figures than those recorded the year before in 2016, reports Reuters.

A total of $103.8 million for Israeli cooperative programs was listed in the 2017 budget request, in a serious cut from $267.7 million in 2016. The funding for Iron Dome also dropped from $55 million in 2016 to $42 million in 2017.

Scientists are claiming a major breakthrough in the field of cryonics after a rabbit brain was frozen and recovered in "near perfect" condition – the first time an entire mammalian brain has been restored successfully.

The procedure has brought scientists a step closer to fulfilling the sci-fi goal of living forever by resurrecting the frozen dead or installing the human brain into a robot.

Bachmann on Muslim Migration: ‘This Is A Planned Invasion’ For The ‘Purpose of Destroying Western Christendom’

By Michael W. Chapman | February 10, 2016 | 5:30 PM EST

The movement of Muslims, not a few of whom are radicalized, into Europe and the United States is a “planned invasion” for the “specific purpose of destroying Western Christendom,” said former House Rep. Michele Bachmann (R-Minn.), who stressed that you do not see “this mass migration into Russia or into China” – it is “all headed toward Western Christendom.”

““We saw this mass migration, this people movement, which is a historic people movement of Muslims from Islamic nations tending to be the most radicalized nations -- from those nations into nations that are known as Western Christendom,” said Rep. Bachmann during a Feb. 6 interview on the Understanding The Times with Jan Markell radio program.

There are now 260,000 robots working in U.S. factories

By Jennifer Booton

Published: Feb 10, 2016 9:48 a.m. ET

There are now more than 260,000 robots working in U.S. factories. Orders and shipments for robots in North America set new records in 2015, according to industry trade group Robotic Industries Association. A total of 31,464 robots, valued at a combined $1.8 billion, were ordered from North American companies last year, marking a 14% increase in units and an 11% increase in value year-over-year. Shipments rose 10% over 2014 to 28,049 units. The biggest increase in robot orders came from buyers in the automotive, semiconductor and electronics industries, according to the trade group. The most popular jobs for these robots were industrial, including coating and dispensing, material handling and spot welding.

A 918 Point Stock Market Crash In Japan And Deutsche Bank Denies That It Is About To Collapse

By Michael Snyder, on February 9th, 2016

On Tuesday junk bonds continued to crash, the price of oil briefly dipped below 28 dollars a barrel, Deutsche Bank was forced to deny that it is on the verge of collapse, but the biggest news was what happened in Japan. The Nikkei was down a staggering 918 points, but that stock crash made very few headlines in the western world. If the Dow had crashed 918 points today, that would have been the largest single day point crash in all of U.S. history. So what just happened in Japan is a really big deal. The Nikkei is now down 23.1 percent from the peak of the market, and that places it solidly in bear market territory. Overall, a total of 16.5 trillion dollars of global stock market wealth has been wiped out since the middle of 2015. As I stated yesterday, this is what a global financial crisis looks like.

Just as we saw during the last financial crisis, the big banks are playing a starring role, and this is definitely true in Japan. Right now, Japanese banking stocks are absolutely imploding, and this is what drove much of the panic last night. The following numbers come from Wolf Richter...

- Mitsubishi UFJ Financial Group plunged 8.7%, down 47% from June 2015.
- Mizuho Financial Group plunged 6.2%, down 38% since June 2015.
- Sumitomo Mitsui plunged 6.2%, down 26% since May 2015
- Nomura plunged a juicy 9.1%, down 42% since June 2015

Day Of Reckoning: The Collapse Of The Too Big To Fail Banks In Europe Is Here

By Michael Snyder, on February 8th, 2016

There is so much chaos going on that I don't even know where to start. For a very long time I have been warning my readers that a major banking collapse was coming to Europe, and now it is finally unfolding. Let's start with Deutsche Bank. The stock of the most important bank in the "strongest economy in Europe" plunged another 8 percent on Monday, and it is now hovering just above the all-time record low that was set during the last financial crisis. Overall, the stock price is now down a staggering 36 percent since 2016 began, and Deutsche Bank credit default swaps are going parabolic. Of course my readers were alerted to major problems at Deutsche Bank all the way back in September, and now the endgame is playing out. In addition to Deutsche Bank, the list of other "too big to fail" banks in Europe that appear to be in very serious trouble includes Commerzbank, Credit Suisse, HSBC and BNP Paribas. Just about every major bank in Italy could fall on that list as well, and Greek bank stocks lost close to a quarter of their value on Monday alone. Financial Armageddon has come to Europe, and the entire planet is going to feel the pain.

... the highest Canadian media instance, the Globe and Mail decided to take us to task. To wit:

Were the folks at Zerotrade.com looking at the best numbers when they argued that Canadian banks were just as levered as troubled European banks?

In a simple analysis that generated a great deal of commentary, a blogger at Zerotrade.com, an oddball but widely followed financial site, suggested that Canadian banks were as levered as European banks because they have low ratios of tangible common equity to total assets.

But there's an argument that looking at that ratio is the wrong way to judge a bank's strength because it ignores the composition of the assets.

Sadly, the folks at Zerotrade.com were looking at the best numbers, and even more sadly, in the interim nearly 5 years, Canada's banks took absolutely no action to bolster their capital ratios; in fact, these have only deteriorated.

Update 5:00 p.m.: This post has been updated to reflect the close of the market.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell by nearly 400 points at one point on Monday, down 2.39 percent to 15,817.97, while the S&P 500 fell by 2.3 percent. Since the beginning of year, the Dow has fallen by 9.13 percent.

By the close of the day, the Dow rebounded to 16,027, which was down 177.92 points, or 1.1 percent.

"The S&P 500 tumbled 44 points, or 2.3%, to 1,835, led by losses in the financial sector," according to MarketWatch. "If the index closes at that level, it would mark its lowest settlement since April 2014. The S&P remains above its Jan. 20 intraday low of 1812.29."

Economics Professor: Negative Interest Rates Aimed at Driving Small Banks Out of Business and Eliminating Cash

More than one-fifth of the world's total GDP is in countries which have imposed negative interest rates, including Japan, the EU, Denmark, Switzerland and Sweden.

Negative interest rates are spreading worldwide.

And yet negative interest rates – supposed to help economies recover – haven't prevented Japan and Europe's economies from absolutely going down the drain.

Nor have they even stimulated spending. As ValueWalk points out:

*Japan has had ultra-low rates for years and its economy has been terrible. Trillions of debt in Europe now trades at negative interest rates and its economy isn't exactly booming. Denmark, Sweden and Switzerland all have negative interest rates, but consumer spending isn't going up there. In fact, savings rates have been going up in lockstep with the decrease in interest rates, exactly the opposite of what the geniuses at the various central banks expected.

Why is this happening? Simply, savers are scared. Lower interest rates have wrecked their retirement plans. Say you were doing some financial planning 10 years ago and plugged in 3% from your savings account. Now its 0%. You still have to plan for your retirement. Plug in 0%. What happens to your planning now? 0% compounded for X years is 0%. The math is simple. So in order to have your target savings at retirement, you need to save more, not spend more. But for some reason, the economists that run central banks around the world can't see this. They are all stuck in their offices talking to one another and self-reinforcing this myth that they can drive spending up by reducing the rate of return on investments. Want to see consumer spending go up? Don't wreck their savings plans so that they are too scared to spend. But that's too simple. Instead, central banks use a chain of causation that doesn't exist to try to create change 3 or 4 steps down the line. It hasn't worked, and it won't work. It isn't in an individual's self-interest to go out and spend their money on more "stuff" in order to spur economic growth.

So what's really going on? Why are central banks worldwide pushing negative interest rates?

Global Stocks Continue To Crash As Oil Plummets And Gold Skyrockets

By Michael Snyder, on February 11th, 2016

Stock markets around the world continue to collapse as this new global financial crisis picks up more steam. In the U.S., the Dow lost 254 more points on Thursday, and it has now fallen for five days in a row. European stocks continued to get obliterated, and financial institutions are leading the way. But this week what is happening in Japan has been the most sobering. After falling 918 points the other day, the Nikkei plunged another 760 points early on Friday. The Nikkei has now fallen for seven of the past eight days, and investors in Japan are in full panic mode. Overall, global stocks are well into bear market territory, and nearly 17 trillion dollars of global stock market wealth has already been wiped out.

As panic rises, investors are seeking alternative investments. On Thursday, the price of gold hit $1,260 an ounce at one point before settling back a bit. But even with the fade at the end of the day, it was still the biggest daily gain in more than two years. Overall, gold is having its best quarterly performance in 30 years.

Canada sells off large chunks of its gold reserves

By Monique Muise National Online Journalist, Politics Global News

WATCH: The government of Canada sold off large amounts of its gold reserves in recent months, leaving only 0.62 tonnes of gold.

Editor's Note: A previous version of this story reported that half of gold reserves had been sold off in early 2016, leaving 1.7 tonnes in the vaults by the beginning of February. Those numbers were based on International Monetary Fund statistics released Feb. 4. The IMF figures dated from late December, however, and additional sales were conducted through January, dropping the reserves to 0.62 tonnes. Global News regrets the confusion caused.

A play that portrays Jesus as a transgender woman who refers to God as 'Mum' is to be performed in a Church of England church today.

To the fury of critics who say the play is deeply offensive, the Bishop of Manchester, David Walker, will not block the staging of The Gospel According To Jesus, Queen Of Heaven.

The one-woman play by Jo Clifford, an award-winning Scottish playwright who has herself changed gender, imagines Jesus returning to earth as a 'trans woman' and retelling the parables with a transsexual slant.

Beyonce might not have been the only performer to seemingly embed political messages in the Super Bowl 50 halftime show on Sunday, with Coldplay joining her and Bruno Mars in concluding their performance by having spectators hold up rainbow-colored cutouts.

Those placards collectively spelled out the words "Believe in Love."

While AFP reported that Coldplay was paying tribute to the "1960s counterculture" in San Francisco, the host city of Sunday's Super Bowl, others saw a more specific and pointed message embedded in the performance: one that backed same-sex relationships.

Here's how the Guardian's Needham described the show's finale: "Finally, the whole stadium held up a rainbow of cards, some spelling out the words 'Believe in Love,' perhaps also a sweet affirmation of same-sex marriage."

ALBANY, N.Y. — The Democratic governor of New York announced on Saturday that multiple agencies within the state have taken steps to ban mental health facilities from providing help to homosexual youth to overcome temptation.

Andrew Cuomo, a homosexual rights advocate who has lived with his girlfriend Sandra Lee since 2005, called the practice known as conversion therapy “hateful” and decried efforts to change youth from “being who they are.”

Join us on our podcast each weekday for an interesting story, well told, from Charisma News. Listen at charismapodcastnetwork.com.

Two women have spoken out about the euthanasia of their sister, Tine Nys, in Belgium.

On Christmas Eve 2009, Tine, who was 37 at the time, announced her intention to pursue euthanasia, following a split from her boyfriend.

In a recent interview with Terzake, a Flemish current affairs television program, Lotte and Sophie expressed their dismay at the attitude doctors took toward Tine's request.

The law requires that two doctors and a psychologist evaluate a person's request for euthanasia. In Belgium, euthanasia on the grounds of "unbearable suffering" is permitted.
