Holy_bible_1

سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة
بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لأنه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم يأتي المسيح في زمنه
ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

المسيح قال بعض العلامات مثل

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

انجيل متى 24

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَاَنْتَصِبُوا وَاَرْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ.»

Submerged roadways, backed-up sewers, stalled cars and flooded homes: The dramatic scenes in and around Shreveport, La., were being repeated Thursday in the South as historic flash flooding continued to pound the region.

Five people have been killed in Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana since the deluge began earlier this week, and the heavy rain promises not to let up for at least another day.

More than 20 inches of rain has already fallen in some places, the Weather Channel reported. In all, some areas will receive two feet of rain by the time the storm winds

Never Before Has America Been Hit By So Many Historic Floods In Such a Short Period Of Time

By Michael Snyder, on March 11th, 2016

The United States has been hit by seven historic floods since the month of September, and the latest one is making headlines all over the planet. This week, nearly two feet of rain triggered record-setting flooding in parts of Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi, and more rain is expected for the area as we move into the weekend. Flooding along one part of the Sabine River has already broken the previous record by more than five feet, and this crisis is far from over. Of course this just continues a trend that I have been documenting for months now. Never before in U.S. history have we ever seen so many historic floods in such a compressed time frame.

Record fish kill stinks up Ross

March 6, 2016 7:00am
LYDIA KELLNER Townsville Bulletin

Townsville City Council staff have launched a massive clean-up operation between the Nathan St bridge and Aplins Weir, which has been inundated with hundreds of dead fish, believed to have died as a result of oxygen depletion.

While water tests are ongoing, Deputy Mayor Vern Veitch said the council's poor stance on weed management was to blame for the fish kills.

"The fish kill is a result of the huge amount of weed in the local waterways as well as recent rain which has led to oxygen depletion," he said.

Local iwi has given permission for marine experts to examine three rare whales that stranded and died on a Northland beach.

The Gray's beaked whales were discovered on Ruakaka Beach, about two kilometres south of the Ruakaka Surf Lifesaving Club, by a member of the public at high tide about 7am yesterday.

Two whales lay dead 10 metres apart while the third was discovered about 100 metres north. All were male, measured between 4.5m and 5m long and each weighed at least one tonne.

Thousands of sardines and mackerel yesterday appeared dead on the shores of the lagoon Alalay, Cochabamba. The mayor declared an emergency, while the Interior said to be on alert. Pollution and low oxygenation could be the causes.

"There are indications that this has happened by the decreased level of oxygen in the water, and that can be due to different reasons, including the level of pollutants, microscopic and high algae temperatures due to global warming," said Gabriel Lopez, Municipal chief Natural Resources Management.

Environmental engineer said water samples and fish, which were taken to the laboratory to determine the specific causes of death of sardines and

TAIPEI—More than 16,000 chickens on a farm in Chutang Township, Changhua, were culled Saturday due to an outbreak of avian influenza, the county's Animal Disease Control Center said.

The center was notified Friday by the national Animal Health Research Institute that the chickens on the farm were infected with the highly pathogenic H5 subtype virus, the center's director Tung Meng-chi (董孟治) said.

All 16,880 chickens on the farm were culled Saturday and disinfection was in progress, Tung said.

WEDNESDAY, March 9, 2016 -- The list of neurological disorders potentially associated with the Zika virus continues to grow, health officials reported Wednesday.

Writing in the Wednesday online edition of the New England Journal of Medicine, French researchers described the case of an unidentified 81-year-old man who had been in fine health before becoming feverish and then comatose while on a cruise in the South Pacific.

An MRI scan and a test of spinal fluid indicated he was suffering from meningoencephalitis, an infection and swelling of the brain.

The elderly cruise ship patient was admitted to an intensive care unit, where doctors were able to make a tentative diagnosis of Zika infection. Within several days, his condition began to improve without treatment, and 17 days after admission to the hospital he was removed from intensive care. By day 38, he was fully recovered, the

US: 48 sick, 15 dead in Wisconsin Elizabethkingia outbreak

Via The Washington Post: A mysterious infection may have killed 15 people in Wisconsin, and health officials aren't sure why. Excerpt:

The rare bacterial infections began cropping up late last year across parts of southeastern Wisconsin, affecting dozens of people who had little in common, other than their advanced age and a history of existing health problems.

A dozen people got sick, and then another dozen. More than four months later, the number has grown to 48. So far, 15 patients have died, though it remains unclear whether the infection was to blame. Federal and state authorities are still trying to figure out where the infections are coming from, and investigators remain baffled. The Wisconsin Department of Health Services traces the outbreak – involving bacteria called Elizabethkingia, which is prevalent in the environment but usually not harmful to most people – to last November.

Lead Fear Forces Water Ban in 30 New Jersey School Buildings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS -
NEWARK, N.J. — Mar 9, 2016, 5:32 PM ET

Elevated levels of lead caused officials in New Jersey's largest school district on Wednesday to shut off water fountains at 30 school buildings until more tests are conducted, but officials said they don't believe the contamination poses any serious health risks.

Newark Public Schools notified the state Department of Environmental Protection on Monday that annual testing found levels ranging from non-detected to above the Environmental Protection Agency's action level for lead, which is 15 parts per billion. That level requires additional testing, monitoring and remediation.

The DEP has requested test results from previous years to be able to do a complete analysis. No building had more than four samples above the action level, the DEP said in a statement.

The DEP confirmed lead has not been found in the city's water supply. "In the vast majority of cases where lead is found in drinking water, it enters through the water delivery system itself when it leaches from either lead pipes, household fixtures containing lead or lead solder," the DEP said.

Notices were posted and bottled water and water coolers were delivered to the school buildings in Newark.

Lead in drinking water has drawn increased attention recently because of the water crisis in Flint, Michigan, that happened after the city switched from the Detroit system to the Flint River as a cost-saving measure in 2014. Lead from aging pipes leached into the drinking water because it wasn't treated with anti-corrosion chemicals. Lead in school water is a longstanding issue in the United States and has been a focus of federal and local regulators.

Why Threaten North Korea And China? Would Obama Start A War To Stay In Office?

By Michael Snyder, on March 7th, 2016

Is Barack Obama trying to start a war, and will that war be used as an excuse to stay in office once his term is over? Late in his second term, Obama is starting to become extremely aggressive with the rest of the world. He just angered China by sailing an aircraft carrier task force past disputed islands in the South China Sea, he is provoking North Korea by simulating an invasion of that nation during a military exercise that is going to involve more than 300,000 troops, and he is backing Saudi Arabia and Turkey as they make moves that could very well start World War III in the Middle East. If a war did begin, that could give Obama the excuse that he needs to exercise his emergency powers, and that could potentially include suspending the election that is scheduled for November.

I know that all of this sounds a little bizarre, but it would help to explain Obama's extremely aggressive behavior lately.

North Korea's Kim says country has miniaturized nuclear warheads

Kim: North Korea has a mini-nuclear warhead

By Jack Kim

SEOUL (Reuters) - North Korean leader Kim Jong Un said the country has miniaturized nuclear warheads to mount on ballistic missiles and ordered improvements in the power and precision of its arsenal, state media reported on Wednesday.

Kim has called for his military to be prepared to mount pre-emptive attacks against the United States and South Korea and stand ready to use nuclear weapons, stepping up belligerent rhetoric after coming under new U.N. and bilateral sanctions for its nuclear and rocket tests.

U.S. and South Korean troops began large-scale military drills this week, which the North called "nuclear war moves" and threatened to respond with an all-out offensive.

Kim's comments, released on Wednesday, were his first direct mention of the claim, made repeatedly in state media, to have successfully miniaturized a nuclear warhead, which has been widely questioned and never independently verified.

"The nuclear warheads have been standardized to be fit for ballistic missiles by miniaturizing them," KCNA quoted Kim as saying as he inspected the work of nuclear scientists, adding "this can be called a true nuclear deterrent".

"He stressed the importance of building ever more powerful, precision and miniaturized nuclear weapons and their delivery means," KCNA said.

NUKE WARS

North Korean leader orders further nuclear tests

By Hwang Sung-Hee
Seoul (AFP) March 11, 2016

North Korean leader Kim Jong-Un has ordered further nuclear tests, state media said Friday, as military tensions surge on the Korean peninsula with South Korean and US forces engaged in large-scale joint exercises condemned by Pyongyang.

Since the joint drills began Monday, the North has issued daily warnings and statements, talking up its nuclear strike capabilities and threatening to turn Seoul and Washington into "flames and ashes."

Just days after he was photographed posing in front of what state media described as a miniaturised nuclear warhead, Kim said the weapon required further testing.

Overseeing a ballistic missile launch on Thursday, Kim ordered "more nuclear explosion tests to estimate the destructive power of the newly produced nuclear warheads," the North's official KCNA news agency said.

Experts are divided as to just how far the North may have gone in shrinking warheads to a size capable of fitting on a ballistic missile -- a major step forward in strike capability that would present a heightened threat to South Korea, other countries in the region and, eventually, the US mainland.

The warning was issued in the form of a written statement from the Russian foreign ministry. It follows North Korea's threat it would engage in a "preemptive and offensive nuclear strike" in reaction to the start of joint U.S.-South Korean war games Monday.

South Korea's National Intelligence Service has accused Pyongyang of attempting to hack into railway control systems and wiretap officials' smartphones as tensions continue to mount on the peninsula.

The National Intelligence Service (NIS) said in a press release on Tuesday that North Korean hackers penetrated the smartphones of dozens of senior South Korean officials, stealing text and voice messages, Yonhap news agency reported.

The U.S. and South Korea conducted a big military exercise Saturday, storming a simulated North Korean beach defense as tensions on the Korean Peninsula continue to rise and Kim Jong Un threatens to wipe out his enemies.

The amphibious landing drills on South Korea's east coast are part of eight weeks of exercises with the U.S., which the South has said are the largest ever. North Korea has threatened to wipe out its enemies.

Is Nuclear War With North Korea Coming?

13 MARCH, 2016

(Michael Snyder) On Sunday, North Korea warned the United States that it could wipe out Manhattan with a single hydrogen bomb, and earlier this month North Korea threatened to make a “preemptive and offensive nuclear strike” on the United States in response to aggressive military exercises currently being jointly conducted by South Korea and the U.S. military. So does nuclear war with North Korea actually pose a significant security risk to this country? Well, according to the Washington Post the entire west coast of the United States is within reach of North Korea’s intercontinental ballistic missiles. The only question is whether or not North Korea’s ultra-paranoid leader Kim Jong Un would ever actually press the button.

Israel demands world powers punish Iran for missile tests

By the Associated Press | March 13, 2016 | 2:35 PM EDT

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu on Sunday called on world powers to punish Iran after the country test-fired two ballistic missiles emblazoned with the phrase "Israel must be wiped out" in Hebrew.

Netanyahu said he instructed Israel's Foreign Ministry to direct the demand to the United States, Russia, China, Britain, France and Germany — the countries that signed the deal lifting sanctions on Iran in exchange for Tehran curbing its nuclear program.

Iran's Revolutionary Guard test-launched the ballistic missiles last week, the latest in a series of recent tests aimed at demonstrating Iran's intentions to push ahead with its missile program after scaling back its nuclear program under the deal reached last year.

Following last week's missile launches, United Nations Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon called on Iran to "act with moderation," and the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations said the launches were "provocative and destabilizing."

Iran's Foreign Ministry said the missile tests do not violate Iran's nuclear deal with world powers or U.N. Security Council resolutions. A Security Council resolution last year removing sanctions called on Iran not to undertake any activity related to ballistic missiles designed to deliver a nuclear weapon.

The Israeli leader said world powers had pledged to prevent Iran from such violations. Speaking ahead of his weekly Cabinet meeting, Netanyahu said his demand for punitive action against

With about 10 months left in office, President Barack Obama is considering unprecedented moves to implement a two-state solution, according to a Wall Street Journal report.

Senior US officials revealed that the President is looking to initiate a final negotiated settlement between Israel and the Palestinian Authority using United Nations Security Council resolutions, a step that would obligate not only Israel and the Palestinian Authority, but effectively determine the direction of US policy for the president's successor as well.

The report comes ahead of Vice President Joe Biden's visit to Israel on Tuesday, where he is scheduled to meet with Israeli Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu and senior Palestinian Authority officials.

New Proposal to Divide Jerusalem Unites People Against It

By ISABEL KERSHNER MARCH 6, 2016

JERUSALEM — A new plan on how to divide Jerusalem's Jewish and Arab neighborhoods has had the peculiar distinction of uniting people against it.

The contentious plan, promoted by a group of liberal Israeli Jews and adopted in principle by the center-left Labor Party, would unilaterally fence off most of East Jerusalem's Palestinian neighborhoods and transfer responsibility for their 200,000 residents from City Hall to the Palestinian Authority and the Israeli military in the occupied West Bank.

Kicked off with advertisements under the heading "Saving Jewish Jerusalem," the campaign's almost jingoistic tone seems intended to appeal to the broadest Jewish constituency, including Israel's growing political center and conservative "nationalist camp."

Computers are getting pretty good at predicting the future. In many cases they do it better than people. That's why Amazon uses them to figure out what you're likely to buy, how Netflix knows what you might want to watch, the way meteorologists come up with accurate 10-day forecasts.

Now a team of scientists has demonstrated that a computer can outperform human judges in predicting who will commit a violent crime. In a paper published last month, they described how they built a system that started with people already arrested for domestic violence, then

AFP AFP
12 March 2016

A Google computer's stunning 3-0 victory in a Man-vs-Machine face-off over the ultimate board game highlights the need to keep Artificial Intelligence under human control, experts said Saturday.

The partly self-taught AlphaGo programme's defeat of Go grandmaster Lee Se-Dol showed AI was progressing faster than widely thought, they said – a highly symbolic moment in humanity's quest to create smart machines.

And while AI plays a key role in building a better, safer world, some fear the fast pace of development could finally leave humans outwitted by our own inventions.

AlphaGo's triumph "shows that the methods we do have are even more powerful than we first thought," said AI expert Stuart Russell of the University of California's Berkeley Electrical Engineering & Computer Sciences department.

Could The Large Hadron Collider Make An Earth-Killing Black Hole?

13 MARCH, 2016

Every time we push the frontiers of knowledge, it comes with a risk, and it comes with the prospect of a reward. The risks are many: failure to find anything new, futility of the experiment to function as designed, and even the possibility of damage and destruction if things go awry. But the rewards can be tremendous, including the unlocking of new knowledge, the development of new technologies, and the advancement of the entire human enterprise of science.

One of the places that personifies all of this is the Large Hadron Collider (LHC) at CERN, where we've begun colliding protons at the highest energies ever achieved in a particle accelerator. A few years ago, we broke the old record — 2 TeV (tera-electron-Volts, or  $10^{12}$  eV), which was set at Fermilab — by accelerating each particle up to 3.5 TeV and smashing them into one another, achieving 7 TeV of total energy. This discovery enabled us to not only create huge numbers of a

To the casual observer, Saudi Arabia might seem like an emboldened nation that is asserting itself. However, these aren't the actions of a stable nation that is asserting its dominance in the region. These are the flailing death throes of a nation that is struggling to hang on.

Chinese buyers are increasingly looking to snap up farmland in Australia and New Zealand, leaving governments to balance the need for foreign investment against accusations of selling out

With Chinese buyers eyeing farm land in Australia and New Zealand, authorities are coming under growing pressure to balance the need for foreign investment against accusations of "selling out". Currently up for sale is the S. Kidman and Co. Limited cattle empire -- a vast Outback estate which covers 1.3 percent of Australia's land mass and has an average herd of 185,000 cattle.

Treasurer Scott Morrison blocked its sale to all foreign investors in November, including from China, saying it was contrary to the national interest given part of the holding overlaps with a military testing range.

But Morrison recently approved the sale of Australia's largest dairy farming business to a Chinese buyer, despite criticism that businessman Lu Xianfeng's Aus$280 million (US$210 million) purchase of Tasmania's Van Diemen's Land Company could impact food security.

In a statement headed "Sell Out", independent Senator Nick Xenophon labelled the decision "wrong, wrong, wrong" saying Morrison failed to give sufficient weight to an alternative Australian bid.

"It's certainly a very emotive issue," said Hans Hendrichke from the University of Sydney Business School.

Credit Card Debt In The United States Is Approaching A Trillion Dollars

By Michael Snyder, on March 11th, 2016

For the first time ever, total credit card debt in the United States is approaching a trillion dollars. Instead of learning painful lessons from the last recession, Americans continue to make the same horrendous financial mistakes over and over again. In fact, U.S. consumers accumulated more new credit card debt during the 4th quarter of 2015 than they did during the years of 2009, 2010 and 2011 combined. That is absolutely insanity, because other than payday loans, credit card debt is just about the worst kind of debt that consumers could possibly go into. Extremely high rates of interest, combined with severe penalties and fees, can choke the financial life out of almost any family in no time at all.

These days, most Americans use credit cards for various purposes, and they can be very convenient.

Islamic State jihadists set fire to hundreds of Christian books in Mosul

Hundreds of Christian books have been burned by Islamic State in Mosul, almost two years after jihadists took over the Iraqi city.

Video footage emerged last week showing militants throwing books onto a burning pile. Close-ups showed many of the books were emblazoned with crucifixes.

The video was titled "Diwan of education destroys Christian instruction books in Mosul". The Diwan Al-Hisbah is ISIS's morality police, responsible for enforcing the group's laws.

A local activist, Abdullah al-Mulla, told ARA News the books had been collected from schools and churches in Mosul, which was once considered the heartland of Iraq's Christian population.

"The militants have also collected a lot of Christian textbooks from the Dawassa district near Martyrs' Park and publicly burned them," he added.

Congress to vote on labelling Christian persecution in the Middle East 'genocide', as pressure on Obama grows

The US Congress will on Monday decide whether to recognise atrocities committed against Christians and other religious minorities in the Middle East as genocide.

The motion is brought forward by House Republicans and if passed would put significant pressure on President Obama to follow their example and label the persecution as a genocide. The resolution has over 200 signatories from both parties and many expect it to pass.

It comes after the release of a 278-page report compiling evidence of crimes committed against Christians in Iraq, Syria and surrounding countries. The report was released in an attempt to present Secretary of State John Kerry with irrefutable evidence after he said an "additional evaluation" was needed.

However director of campaign group A Demand for Action, Steve Oshana, told Christian Today he believed the Obama administration had already made a decision.

"If I were to guess I think they have already made their determination at this point and it is just a question of when they will come out with it," he said.

"I cannot imagine there are still deliberations given all the evidence that has already come out."

Students in a Missouri school district are pushing back after a professing atheist organization recently sent a letter to district officials, demanding that an area youth pastor be prohibited from leading prayers during the lunch period. The Wisconsin-based Freedom From Religion Foundation (FFRF) had sent a letter last month to Hollister Superintendent Brian Wilson after a parent complained about a video posted on social media that showed a youth minister leading students in prayer.

Billy Graham: Why Does the Cross Offend People?

8:00AM EST 3/11/2016

Billy Graham

Why is the cross so offensive to many? (Lightstock)

Because, you see, we have a beautiful cross on our churches. We have crosses in the lapels of our coats. We have crosses around our necks. We have crosses embossed on our Bibles. We never think of it as a scandal and as an offense. And yet the Bible says it's a stumbling block. It's an offense. It's a scandal among men. It's a base and despised thing.

The cross was a place to execute criminals. It was a place where the vilest died. And when I see Christ hanging on the cross, I say with Isaiah, there is no "appearance that [I] should desire him" (Is. 53:2). Paul says that in his day it was an offense.

I've found in my own ministry that I can preach anything else and it's called popular. It pleases the ear. But when I come to the heart of Christianity, when I come to the cross and the blood and the resurrection, that is the stumbling block. That's the thing people do not want to hear. That's the thing that is an offense, and yet it's that very thing that is the heart of the gospel. Without the cross, there is no salvation; there is no forgiveness.

When he was 2 years old, his university-professor parents divorced and his father and mother entered the gay lifestyle. His lesbian mom and her partner took him to gay pride parades, LGBT clubs, parties and campouts, while his father remained "closeted" for several years.

"Mom was a political activist," says Caleb Kaltenbach, author of Messy Grace (WaterBrook Press). At gay pride parades, Kaltenbach witnessed Christian demonstrators spray homosexual marchers with water and urine.

When he asked his mom why they were doing this, she said: "Because Christians hate gay people."

As a result, Kaltenbach wanted nothing to do with Christianity or God.

In high school, a friend invited him to a Bible study and he accepted with ulterior motives. "I thought I would pretend to be a Christian, learn about Christianity and dismantle their arguments," he recalls.

Ill Californians may take life-ending drugs starting in June

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Terminally ill California residents will be able to legally end their lives with medication prescribed by a doctor beginning June 9.

State lawmakers adjourned a special session on health care Thursday, starting the 90-day countdown to physician-assisted suicide. The law approved last year made California the fifth state to adopt the practice, but patients were left in limbo until the session ended.

The bill passed following the heavily publicized case of Brittany Maynard, a 29-year-old California woman with brain cancer who moved to Oregon to legally end her life in 2014.

Elizabeth Wallner, a Sacramento resident with stage 4 colon cancer that has spread to her liver and lungs, said she is relieved a date has been finally set.

"It gives me a great peace of mind to know that I will not be forced to die slowly and painfully," Wallner said in a statement provided by Compassion & Choices, a right-to-die advocacy group that worked closely with her and others to campaign for the law.

Opponents say it could lead to premature suicides.

Supporters say they do not know how many terminally ill patients have been waiting for the law to go into effect.

One prominent advocate, Christy O'Donnell, a 47-year-old single mother with lung cancer who sued the state to demand the right to life-ending medication, died last month at her home north of Los Angeles before getting the option.

'Huge Victory' In Alabama Battle For Marriage

12 MARCH, 2016

The Alabama Supreme Court upheld an earlier decision banning state officials from issuing marriage licenses to same-sex couples last week, and while the legal road is far from over for traditional marriage supporters, they believe the facts of the case and the Constitution are on their side. The fight stems from early 2015, when Alabama justices ruled that probate judges should not obey federal court orders striking down the state's laws defining marriage as the union of one man and one woman.

After the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in June 2015 that the Constitution contains the right to same-sex marriage, offices of probate judges began issuing licenses again. That policy was challenged by Liberty Counsel, leading to the most recent ruling on March 3.

You know the look you get from your liberal friends when you mention slippery slopes? Well, get prepared to see a lot of those if you discuss this week's episode of Broad City, "Game Over." Let's start by saying this show is rude and crude times 10 and not recommended for human consumption. So don't feel like you need to watch to see just how bad it is. Trust us, it's that bad. On top of being disgusting, it isn't even funny. One laugh per show ... maybe.

The real issue at hand, though, is the slippery slope. Anytime conservatives talk about how normalizing gay marriage could lead to other issues, we get scoffed at. Yet it is consistently true. You would be hard pressed to convince anyone that gay marriage would have just happened without homosexuality first being normalized by Hollywood. How many openly gay characters can you name from the 70s? I can't really think

You might not have noticed vampires, Satanism and zombies on any elementary or junior high school curriculum, but your kids are probably so well versed they could pass a final exam in flying colors. The reason is simple – young adult fantasy has a basic menu replete with occult, witchcraft, Satanism, paganism, vampires, zombies, Greek mythology and similar fair. It might not be required reading or viewing, but it’s being marketed and targeted to teens who compulsively consume it with their insatiable appetite for fantasy.

As a concerned parent and as a TV executive that works with content on a daily basis, I found this situation extremely disconcerting. Why should our kids be fantasizing about werewolves, gruesome zombies or Greek pagan gods (i.e. the highly popular ‘Percy Jackson’ series) especially when they
