اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأیضا لا اقصد ان اخيف أحد بل من يخاف هو لا يثق في مواعيد الرب

هدفي فقط أن نذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء المسيح بل

ايضا قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر هذه الظلمة

وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه او من منا سيسلم وديعته في أي وقت. بمعنى نحتاج من

الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا

لان الظلمة والضيقة اقتربت جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة

لان وقتها جميع زيت سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذاري انه لن يكون هناك

أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقرب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان
سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقرب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة
بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لأنه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم يأتي المسيح في زمنه
ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

المسيح قال بعض العلامات مثل

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

السماء

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

أولا لكيلا نرتاع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

ثانيا لنؤمن

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَأَن تَوْمِنُونَ.

ثالثا لننتبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَاَنْتَصِبُوا وَاَرْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ».

An emerald-green comet will brush the Earth Monday, followed one day later by a kissing cousin that will swerve closer to the planet than any other comet in nearly 250 years.

The first and bigger of the two comets will be visible Monday to the naked eye in the southern hemisphere, as long as city lights are far away.

Stargazers in the United States will probably need only binoculars to see the bigger comet in late March. Scientists, however, are bringing out the big guns. The Hubble Space Telescope, the powerful ground-based Gemini telescopes and others will be trained on the celestial visitors, which will provide an extraordinary close-up of objects usually glimpsed only at a distance.

"This is one for the record books," says Michael Kelley of the University of Maryland, who's never heard of two comets approaching close to Earth a day apart. "It's a fantastic opportunity for professionals to learn more about comets, and if you have a chance to try to find them ... it's a fantastic chance to see part of history as it happens."

The first member of the pair, known as comet 252P/LINEAR, is a bright green color from the carbon gas it's puffing out, says the University of Maryland's Matthew Knight. 252P will slide past Earth at a distance of roughly 3 million miles. That's well beyond the moon but near enough to put 252P in the top 10 of closest-approaching comets.

252P wasn't expected to get terribly bright, but it has been "surpassing all expectations," says amateur comet-hunter Michael Mattiazzo of Australia. It may even be visible to the unaided eye in southern hemisphere suburbs where light pollution is low.

A severe thunderstorm hit the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex area on Thursday, March 18, 2016. The storm first hit about 04:00 (local time) and then again just before 09:00, dropping surprisingly large hailstones that busted in windshields, damaged houses, killed several animals at the Fort Worth Zoo and caused traffic chaos. The hailstones varied in size from blueberries to tennis balls.

According to media reports, a local ambulance provider was severely hampered by hail damage. They were out servicing the many accidents on the roads when they became victims of the storm. Matt Zavadsky of MedStar, said 50 vehicles suffered extensive damage. 11 ambulances were brought out of service because of busted windshields.

The Journal

Hundreds of dead fish have washed up on the shores of McPhee Reservoir near Dolores.

Fishermen reported the fish die-off Friday morning in the two retainment ponds that border the town. A tour of the area revealed more than 300 dead trout, kokanee salmon and carp ranging in size from 6 inches to 18 inches floating on the shores of both large ponds.

"I came down to fish and this is what I found," said Dolores fisherman Jim Koenig. "It makes me sick to see it."

Large-scale fish kill on Kimberley beaches a mystery, fisheries department says

By Erin Parke

Posted Wed at 6:56pm

Mystery surrounds the cause of a fish kill which has left hundreds of the dead animals washed up along a 10-kilometre section of coastline near Broome.

The fish, from a mix of species including cod, sea perch, north-west snapper, and coral trout, were found along the popular fishing and swimming beaches in the Manari area, about 70 kilometres north of Broome, over the weekend.

Fisheries regional manager Peter Godfrey said it was not yet known what killed them.

"It's unusual to see a fish kill like this in the ocean," he said.

"Occasionally we see fish kills in a river or estuarine system, but it's unusual to see something like this in the ocean.

"It's a mix of both pelagic and demersal fish, so we're not sure of the origin at this stage, and we're waiting on our analysis."

Fisheries officers had visited the site to collect samples of water and fish flesh, which had been sent to Perth for analysis.

Mr Godfrey said it was unlikely a poison or pollution was involved.

"It could be environmental factors, like warm water temperatures," he said.

"It's probably more likely to be that than a poison or an algal bloom, but it's difficult to determine at this stage and we're waiting to get those results back.

Fishermen in Rayong's Muang district are calling on the authorities to find out why a large number of fish were found dead at Ta Kuan Beach-Pradu Bay area on Tuesday, though they believe it could be blamed on rising sea temperatures, which usually happens at this time of the year.

They also found that some sort of black powder had blackened parts of the beach and also darkened and muddied seawater near the shore.

Rash of Sea lion deaths spark investigation on Island

Posted By: Skye Ryan on: March 18, 2016 In: News

Investigators have spent Friday looking for answers at a beach near Union Bay, where more dead sea lions have just emerged. The eight new discoveries add to the two dead sea lions found earlier this week.

Investigators with Fisheries and Oceans travelled to the scene today, and say this is highly unusual to see so many dead marine mammals in such a short period of time.

Fisheries expert Paul Cottrell rushes to hit the water off Union Bay where eight dead California sealions have just been reported, Making 10 this week alone on the beaches of Vancouver Island.

"Having so many animals dead in one location at the same time is obviously something of concern so that's why we're out

BENGALURU: Barely 11 days after thousands of dead fish washed ashore Ulsoor lake, a photo of dead fish afloat Devarabeesanahalli lake started doing the rounds on WhatsApp on Thursday. Ram Prasad, a member of Friends of Lakes group, requested those living close to the lake to visit the place and confirm it. Urban conservationist Vijay Nishanth reached the water body around 11.15pm and confirmed the death of hundreds of fish.

The lake had witnessed largescale fish deaths in June last year also. "The water body is landlocked and the stench hit me when I neared the lake. I couldn't see too many fish because a sewage outlet from an adjoining apartment complex was open and water was gushing out," he said. "Someone was trying really hard to get rid of the dead fish," he added.

FLORIDA TODAY is checking out reports of a major fish kill in the Indian River Lagoon, involving some 15 different species of fish and stretching from Titusville to the Pineda Causeway area.

The fish floated around the area of the no-motor zone of the Merritt Island Refuge to State Road 520.

Alex Gorichky, a charter captain who has been fishing in Brevard County his entire life, said he's seen a variety of fish dead in the lagoon.

"We've seen everything now from several different types of bait fish, all the different types of puffer fish that we have in the lagoon which is three different types, we have

It sounds like science fiction: tens of thousands of voracious, fast-growing fish escape from ocean pens in a foreign environment and begin migrating up the coast, wreaking havoc on native fisheries.

But this is really happening, as thousands of cobia, which are found in the Atlantic but unknown to the Eastern Pacific, were accidentally released from an Ecuadorian aquaculture facility during late summer.

DAKAR (Thomson Reuters Foundation) - Health workers are rushing to the site of a fresh Ebola outbreak in Guinea to bolster efforts to contain the virus and prepare for the likelihood of more cases, aid agencies said on Friday.

Four people in the southern region of Nzerekore were tested on Thursday and two of them were found to have Ebola. They were all from Korokpara, a village where three people from the same family have died in recent weeks from diarrhea and vomiting.

China, Russia Planning Space Attacks on U.S. Satellites

Critical space infrastructure faces crippling missile strikes, small satellites, lasers

China and Russia are preparing to attack and disrupt critical U.S. military and intelligence satellites in a future conflict with crippling space missile, maneuvering satellite, and laser attacks, senior Pentagon and intelligence officials told Congress on Tuesday.

Air Force Gen. John Hyten, commander of the Air Force Space Command, said the threat to U.S. space systems has reached a new tipping point, and after years of post-Cold War stagnation foreign states are focused on curbing U.S. space systems.

"Adversaries are developing kinetic, directed-energy, and cyber tools to deny, degrade, and destroy our space capabilities," Hyten said in a prepared statement for a hearing of the House Armed Service strategic forces subcommittee.

"They understand our reliance on space, and they understand the competitive advantage we derive from space. The need for vigilance has never been greater," the four-star general said.

Hyten said U.S. Global Positioning System satellites remain vulnerable to attack or jamming. The satellites' extremely accurate time-keeping feature is even more critical to U.S. guided weapons than their ability to provide navigation guidance, he said.

Disrupting the satellites time capabilities would degrade the military's ability to conduct precision strike operations used in most weapons systems today.

Hyten said a new joint military-intelligence command center is helping to monitor space threats, such as anti-satellite missile launches, covert killer robot satellites, and ground-fired lasers that can blind or disrupt satellites. The unit is called the Joint Interagency Combined Space Operations Center, located at Schriever Air Force Base, Colorado.

The Space Command also is creating 39 cyber mission teams that will be used for defensive and offensive cyber operations involving space systems.

The Army's top general says military forces on the ground face a high level of risk if the United States gets into a large-scale conflict against a power such as Russia or China. Testifying Wednesday on Capitol Hill, Army Chief of Staff Gen. Mark Milley says years of combat in Iraq and Afghanistan, constrained budgets and troop cuts have had a cumulative effect on the service.

Defiant North Korea fires ballistic missile into sea, protests

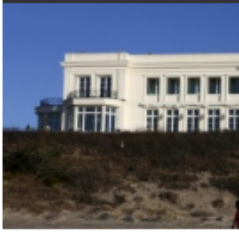

SEOUL | BY JACK KIM AND JU-MIN PARK

North Korea fired at least one ballistic missile which flew about 800 km (500 miles) before hitting the sea off its east coast, South Korea's military said on Friday, as the isolated state stepped up its defiance of tough new U.N. and U.S. sanctions.

A U.S. official told Reuters in Washington it appeared to be a medium-range missile fired from a road-mobile launcher. That would mark North Korea's first test of a medium-range

Israeli President meets with Putin in Russia

Meeting focused on Israeli security amidst Russia's gradual military withdrawal from Syria; Israel reportedly addresses desire for return of UN peacekeeping forces on border; Putin confirms future meeting with Netanyahu

Israeli President Reuven Rivlin traveled to Moscow on Tuesday to meet with Russian President Vladimir Putin, the meeting focused on measures for Israel's security amidst Russia's military withdrawal from Syria, specifically Hezbollah on the Syrian border with Israel. According to various, unconfirmed reports, Israel addressed the return of UN peacekeeping forces on the Syrian border with Israel, as requested by Israel's Foreign Ministry.

Rivlin stated prior to arriving to Russia that the meeting was "to coordinate with Russia... We want Iran and Hezbollah not to emerge strengthened from this entire process. Everybody understands that the Islamic State is a danger to the entire world, but for us, fundamentalist Iranian Shi'ite Islam is no less of a danger."

Following their meeting Wednesday, which last three hours, Rivlin and Putin gave a short press conference. Details of their discussion were not elaborated in the press conference.

While the US State Department's refusal to recognize Jerusalem as being part of the State of Israel is well-known and was even the subject of a US Supreme Court case, it seems that the official US visa information and appointment services website has erased Israel completely.

Elder of Zion notes that the visa application website is run by a private firm, Computer Sciences Corporation, on behalf of the US State Department, and is the only officially authorized website for completing visa applications.

Curiously, while the website lists dozens of nations around the world, including rogue states like Iran, with their flags, there is no mention of Israel or the Israeli flag. Instead, two separate listings are made under the Middle East section: one for Jerusalem and one for Tel Aviv. Israel is, in fact, the only country whose reference is avoided and replaced with the names of cities.

Despite the separate links, both connect to the same page which services both the US Embassy in Tel Aviv and Consulate General in Jerusalem. Even here there is no mention or reference to the State of Israel and no image of the Israeli flag.

Hezbollah chief Hassan Nasrallah threatened unprecedented attacks on Israel in the next confrontation between the two.

Speaking on Monday evening to the Beirut-based Al Mayadeen news agency, Nasrallah discussed rumors of an impending military escalation.

Nasrallah remarked that a wide-reaching conflict was unlikely in the near future. Israel, he claimed, would not respond to Hezbollah provocations with broad military action.

"Israel will not undertake military operations [against us] that will lead to war without a green light from the US. I think it's completely impossible that the Obama administration would give its backing for a war," Nasrallah said.

If Israel does respond to Hezbollah, however, Nasrallah threatened a wide-range of unprecedented attacks on Israel, including Israel's nuclear facilities.

"We have a full list of targets, including Israel's nuclear facilities," Nasrallah said. "In the next war, there will be no red lines."

Prescription Painkiller Crisis: Why Do Americans Consume 80 Percent Of All Prescription Painkillers?

By Michael Snyder, on March 14th, 2016

f t p g in su e

If Americans are so happy, then why do we consume 80 percent of the entire global supply of prescription painkillers? Less than 5 percent of the world's population lives in this country, and yet we buy four-fifths of these highly addictive drugs. In the United States today, approximately 4.7 million Americans are addicted to prescription pain relievers, and that represents about a 300 percent increase since 1999. If you personally know someone that is suffering from this addiction, then you probably already know how immensely destructive these drugs can be. Someone that was formally living a very healthy and normal life can be reduced to a total basket case within a matter of weeks.

And of course many don't make it back at all. According to the CDC, more than 28,000 Americans died from opioid overdoses in 2014. Incredibly, those deaths represented 60 percent of all drug overdose deaths in the United States for that year...

Getting painkillers seems easy. Getting help to fight painkiller addiction is hard.

Women whose babies develop fatal defects in the early stages of pregnancy will be given advice on going ahead with the birth so the NHS can harvest their organs, The Mail on Sunday can reveal.

Most expectant mothers opt for termination after being told the devastating news their child has no chance of survival once born.

But now, amid a chronic shortage of donated organs, mums will be 'supported' to have the baby at nine months so that the child's vital organs can be taken for transplant.

Michigan is expected to take in more than 5,000 refugees this year, the highest number since 2002, amid renewed concerns about security and the latest effort in Congress to overhaul the U.S. Resettlement Program.

Since 2002, the earliest year for which U.S. officials say they have reliable state-by-state data, Michigan has resettled between about 500 and 4,500 refugees annually. State social service agencies say they plan to take in about 5,100 this year.

Refugees in Michigan

Social service agencies hope to resettle 5,100 refugees in Michigan, which would be the highest annual number since 2002, the earliest year for which the U.S. government says it has reliable state-by-state refugee data.

The expected influx comes as intelligence officials warn Islamic State members posing as refugees will likely launch an attack on U.S. soil this year. A bill seeking to cap the number of refugees and strengthen security measures was approved Wednesday by the U.S. House Judiciary Committee.

Advocacy groups insist the fears are overblown, since refugees go through a 13-step vetting process by the Department of Homeland Security, the FBI, and other law enforcement agencies. Refugees from Iraq and Syria are subject to even more stringent background checks.

Muslim police in France refuse to protect synagogues as growing support for Jihad is affecting law enforcement, according to a Gatestone Institute report.

The report claims that a leaked confidential memo from the Department of Public Security, published by Le Parisien, detailed 17 cases of police officers radicalized between 2012 and 2015, noting that the police officers listen to and broadcast Muslim chants while on patrol.

According to the anti-terrorist unit of the French Interior Ministry, as of January 2016, France is already host to 8,250 radical Islamists (a 50% increase in one year). Some have gone to Syria to join ISIS while others have infiltrated all levels of society, including the police and the armed forces.

Booms heard on Sunday evening prompted at least two calls to York County 911, but what caused the noise remains a mystery.

The calls came from the southwestern part of the county, York County spokesman Carl Lindquist said. Staff at the 911 center made some calls but were unable to confirm any cause.

THE YORK DAILY RECORD

Source of loud boom in York County explained

Jeri Jones, owner of Jones Geological Services, said he heard two booms at his home in North Codorus Township. The first one around 7:43 p.m. was louder than the second one around 7:52 p.m. It didn't seem like a seismic event.

And it wasn't an earthquake, Dr. Charles Schamberger, professor emeritus of the earth sciences department at Millersville University. Nothing showed on the seismograph.

THE YORK DAILY RECORD

What was that boom in southern York County?

AccuWeather.com meteorologist Randy Adkins checked the weather records, and there wasn't any lightning Sunday evening. Perhaps it was something flying through the air faster than the speed of sound, such as an aircraft or a meteorite coming through the atmosphere, he said.

Since peaking in late 2014, U.S. exports have been steadily declining, and this is something that we never see outside of a major recession.

Anbang has been on a U.S. hotel buying spree as Chinese insurers rush to acquire high-yielding assets as they struggle to keep up with the policy liabilities of the country's aging population.

X Men Apocalypse Official Trailer #1 2016 Jennifer Lawrence, Michael Fassbender Movie HD

via youtube

Join us on the new C-Pop podcast where Taylor and Jessilyn discuss, debate and sometimes deride pop culture with a strong sense of humor and a focus on Christ. Listen at charismapodcastnetwork.com.

The latest installment in the X-Men franchise stirs the water of blasphemy by claiming Jesus was the original mutant—and that the Son of God is one in the same with other major religious figures.

"I've been called many things over many lifetimes," says the titular character known as Apocalypse. "Ra, Krishna, Yahweh."

The fictional story follows the omnipotent En Sabah Nur, later known as Apocalypse, who terrorizes the globe for centuries with his four horsemen.

"You are all my children, and you're lost because you follow blind leaders, but I am here now. I'm here for you," Apocalypse says.

Sound familiar? That's not the only rip-off from the Bible.

A coalition of more than 80 gay rights groups are expressing profound frustration after unsuccessfully demanding that the National Collegiate Athletic Association divest from "religious-based campuses" that have "requested discriminatory Title IX waivers toward LGBTQ youth."

"The NCAA through its member institutions sends a message about their core values of integrity, inclusive culture and sportsmanship," read a March 9 letter from Campus Pride, an pro-LGBTQ rights organization, to the NCAA sports authority. "Fifty-nine religious-based colleges and universities have requested a Title IX waiver for the right to discriminate against LGBTQ youth."

The letter said that the requests by these religious schools — which reportedly increased in prevalence after the Department of Education included transgender protections under Title IX in 2014 — stand in conflict with the NCAA's commitment to diversity, specifically when it comes to LGBTQ rights, and went on to fully explain activists' grievances.

The NFL is sending a strong message about the need to support "gay" marriage and "gay" rights.

The NFL has issued a warning to Georgia over that state legislature's advance of a so-called "religious-freedom" bill that protects same-sex marriage opponents from discrimination lawsuits, saying the measure, if approved into law, could impact where future championship games are played.

"NFL policies emphasize tolerance and inclusiveness and prohibit discrimination based on age, gender, race, religion, sexual orientation, or any other improper standard," NFL spokesman Brian McCarthy said, CBS News reported. "Whether the laws and regulations of a state and local community are consistent with these policies would be one of many factors NFL owners may use to evaluate potential Super Bowl host sites."

Do young children need to be exposed to transgender ideology? (Reuters)

Join us on our podcast each weekday for an interesting story, well told, from Charisma News. Listen at charismapodcastnetwork.com.

Parents have been told that kids as young as four will be given classes on transsexualism and encouraged to "explore" their sexuality, provoking a series of complaints.

Several parents have vowed to withdraw their children from a Church of England primary school in Hartfield, East Sussex, during an upcoming "transgender day".

The Christian Institute has warned that children should not be targeted in order to "satisfy adult political agendas".
