اكرر اننا لا نحدد مواعيد بل فقط نشجع بعضنا بعضا بقرب مجيء المسيح

وأیضا لا اقصد ان اخيف أحد بل من يخاف هو لا يثق في مواعيد الرب

هدفي فقط أن نذكر بعضنا باننا نحتاج ان نستعد. والاستعداد ليس فقط قبل مجيء المسيح بل

ايضا قبل الظلمة التي ستسبق مجيؤه ليكون عندنا زيت في مصابيحنا يكفي ان نعبر هذه الظلمة

وتكون مصابيحنا مضيئة وقت مجيؤه او من منا سيسلم وديعته في أي وقت. بمعنى نحتاج من

الان ان نستعد بقوة بأيمان عامل وبتنقية القلب وان نثمر بالخدمة أي نجمع زيت في مصابيحنا

لان الظلمة والضيقة اقتربت جدا ومن لن يستعد لها بزيت كافي من الان لن يجد زيت في الضيقة

لان وقتها تجميع زيت سيكون صعب جدا بل أستطيع ان أقول من مثل العذارى انه لن يكون هناك

أفضل ان اقول لنفسي ولكم استعدوا الان لأنه اقترب فنكون مستعدين سواء جاء او نحن ان
سلمنا وديعتنا عن أنى لا اقول انه اقترب لكيلا يقال عني كاذب وانشر اشاعات ولكنه يأتي بسرعة
بغته. لا اعتقد اي أحد ندم لأنه كان مستعد ومنتظر مجيء المسيح ولم يأتي المسيح في زمنه
ولكنه انتقل وهو مستعد ولكن كثيرين جدا ندموا على عدم الاستعداد عندما انتقلوا

المسيح قال بعض العلامات مثل

انجيل لوقا 21

21: 10 ثم قال لهم تقوم امة على امة ومملكة على مملكة

21: 11 وتكون زلازل عظيمة في اماكن ومجاعات واوبئة وتكون مخاوف وعلامات عظيمة من

21: 25 وتكون علامات في الشمس والقمر والنجوم وعلى الارض كرب امم بحيرة البحر والامواج

تضج

21: 26 والناس يغطى عليهم من خوف وانتظار ما يأتي على المسكونة لان قوات السماوات

تتزعزع

21: 27 وحينئذ يبصرون ابن الانسان اتيا في سحابة بقوة و مجد كثير

سفر اعمال الرسل 2

2: 19 واعطي عجائب في السماء من فوق وآيات على الارض من أسفل دما ونارا وبخار دخان

2: 20 تتحول الشمس الى ظلمة والقمر الى دم قبل ان يجيء يوم الرب العظيم الشهير

2: 21 ويكون كل من يدعو باسم الرب يخلص

لماذا قال المسيح بعض العلامات؟

أولا لكيلا نرتاع

انجيل متى 24

مت 24: 6 وسوف تسمعون بحروب واخبار حروب لا ترتاعوا لأنه لا بد ان تكون هذه

كلها ولكن ليس المنتهى بعد

ثانيا لنؤمن

إنجيل يوحنا 14: 29

وَقُلْتُ لَكُمْ الْآنَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يَكُونَ، حَتَّى مَتَى كَانَ تُؤْمِنُونَ.

ثالثا لننتبه ونستعد

انجيل لوقا 21

28 وَمَتَى ابْتَدَأَتْ هَذِهِ تَكُونُ، فَاَنْتَصِبُوا وَاَرْفَعُوا رُؤُوسَكُمْ لِأَنَّ نَجَاتَكُمْ تَقْتَرِبُ.»

In January, scientists said they discovered an exploding star ending in a super-luminous supernova that was almost inconceivably bright — more so than the output of the entire Milky Way. Now, new research shows the distant flare may have actually been the result of a rare cosmic collision.

People in the Republic of Khakassia in southwest Siberia witnessed a large fireball exploding in the sky on Tuesday, which briefly made the evening as bright as the day. Some even managed to catch the event on camera.

"At first, I couldn't understand what's going on. There was a sudden luminescence. It wasn't as light as day, but still quite bright," witness Olga Sagalakova told RT.

"We looked at the mountain near us... and there was huge meteor flying above it. It had a tail. Frankly, I was scared. I thought that it was a bomb," she said.

GEMINID METEOR SHOWER: Canada's Meteor Orbit Radar (CMOR) is picking up echoes from the constellation Gemini. It's a sign that the annual Geminid meteor shower is underway. The bright pink "hot spot" in this CMOR sky map shows where Geminid meteoroids are hitting the atmosphere on Dec. 9th:

Geminid meteoroids are gravelly debris from "rock comet" 3200 Phaethon. They hit Earth's atmosphere traveling ~35 km/s (78,000 mph) and typically disintegrate about 80 km (50 miles) above Earth's surface.

While many Geminids are faint, bright fireballs are not unusual. Brian Emfinger saw one of them last night burning up above Pinnacle Mountain near Little Rock, Arkansas:

SOLAR WIND CONTINUES TO BLOW: For the third day in a row, a fast-moving stream of solar wind is blowing around Earth. Wind speeds in excess of 600 km/s are disturbing our planet's polar magnetic field and causing auroras to dance around the Arctic Circle. Last night, during a G1-class geomagnetic storm, Chad Blakley photographed Northern Lights over Abisko, Sweden:

"The mixture of silvery moonlight and green auroras was sublime," says Blakley.

Blakley's picture is special to us because almost the entire staff of Spaceweather.com happens to be standing beside that overgrown Bonsai tree. Photographer Oliver Wright and explorer Roger Marklund are also there. "It was a great night out with a fantastic group of aurora watchers," he says.

NOAA forecasters estimate a 20% chance of G1-class geomagnetic storms on Dec. 10th. Arctic auroras do not require full-fledged geomagnetic storming and will almost certainly reappear tonight as the solar wind continues to blow. Free: Aurora Alerts

Due to the alarming rate of growing seismic activities, the Oficina Nacional de Emergencias (ONEMI) and Chilean Geological Survey (SERNGEOMIN) has put the area near the Hudson volcano under Yellow alert since Saturday. This is a major precautionary measure considering the history of the volcano, which erupted in 1991 covering the whole province of Santa Cruz.

Vulcanian explosion at Colima yesterday morning (photo: Hernando Rivera)

The activity of the volcano is picking up: in particular, explosions have become more frequent and gradually larger in size.

While the active lava flow continues to creep down the southern flank along with incandescent rockfalls, alimanted by the growing lava dome in the summit crater, vulcanian-type explosions of small to moderate size occur at rates of 1-3 per hour, producing ash plumes that rise up to approx. 3000 m and throw out many incandescent blocks onto the upper flanks of the volcano (see video):

Lake Buhi in state of calamity due to fish kill

Published December 1, 2016 8:39am

Lake Buhi in Camarines Sur has been declared a state of calamity due to massive fish kill, a television report said.

Citing local officials, GMA News' Unang Balita reported Thursday morning that up to 1,000 fish cage owners have been affected by the fish kill.

Authorities said fish kill usually occurs after continuous rain for several days, adding that chemicals from fish feed also cause deaths of fish.

They said an estimated P500,000 in local revenue has been lost because of the fish kill.

Buhi government officials had met with Bureau of Fisheries and Aquatic Resources experts and civilian volunteers to discuss ways to address the problem. —Erwin Colcol/LBG, GMA News

Bird Flu Hits French Farm, Disrupting Planned Move to Disease-Free Status

05 December 2016

FRANCE - A duck farm in France is the latest casualty of the outbreaks of H5N8 highly pathogenic avian influenza that have been spreading around Europe and beyond in recent weeks.

Two thousand ducks died from the disease out of a total of 5000 raised on the farm, in the town of Almayrac in the Tarn department. The rest of the ducks will now be culled and a 3 km protection zone and a 10km surveillance zone have been set up around the farm.

The same H5N8 virus was detected for the first time in France on November 27 on wild ducks in Pas-de-Calais.

The French authorities told the public in a statement that the outbreak is not related to the outbreaks last winter in the south west of France. However, the outbreak does prevent France from declaring itself free from avian flu, which was planned to take place on the 3 December. The new H5N8 outbreak took Twenty days after a highly pathogenic avian influenza virus was first detected in South Korea, the epidemic shows no sign of abating. Nearly 3.4 million poultry had been culled as of Monday morning.

According to the Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs, some 2.5 million chickens, 790,000 ducks and 71,000 quails have been slaughtered nationwide as part of the quarantine, after nearly 70 farms were confirmed or suspected of having avian influenza, or bird flu, outbreaks.

Most of the ducks were culled at farms in Eumseong and Jincheon in North Chungcheong Province, two of the hardest hit areas. Those two places account for more than half the farm ducks in North Chungcheong Province.

So far, 69 farms in seven cities and provinces have confirmed H5N6 cases since Nov. 16, when the H5N6 strain of bird flu was first reported at a chicken farm in Haenam, South Jeolla Province.

A reed field in Cheonan, South Chungcheong Province, is burned on Monday as part of the quarantine authorities' attempt to contain and eliminate the H5N1 virus, a highly contagious strain of bird flu believed to be carried by wild

Disease outbreak news
7 December 2016

The National Health and Family Planning Commission (NHFPC) of China has notified WHO of two laboratory-confirmed cases of human infection with avian influenza A(H5N6) virus.

Details of the cases

- On 21 November 2016, a human case of infection with avian influenza A(H5N6) virus was reported in a 47-year-old female living in Wugang Prefecture, Hunan Province who developed symptoms on 18 November 2016. She was admitted to hospital on the same day in critical condition. On 20 November 2016, the case was confirmed as infected with avian influenza A(H5N6) virus by laboratory testing, supplemented with clinical and epidemiological findings. The epidemiological investigation is ongoing.
- On 1 December 2016, an additional human case of infection with avian influenza A(H5N6) virus was reported in a 30-year-old female living in Guangxi Province who developed the disease on 8 November 2016. She was admitted to hospital on 18 November 2016, and at the time of notification, was in critical condition. She had a history of exposure to dead poultry prior to illness onset. 127 close contacts are being monitored, and at the time of Russia conducted a test of a revolutionary nuclear-capable drone submarine that poses a major strategic threat to U.S. ports and harbors.

U.S. intelligence agencies detected the test of the unmanned underwater vehicle, code-named Kanyon by the Pentagon, during its launch from a Sarov-class submarine on Nov. 27, said Pentagon officials familiar with reports of the test.

No details were available about the location or results of the test.

Pentagon spokesman Capt. Jeff Davis declined to comment. "We closely monitor Russian underwater military developments, but we will not comment specifically about them," Davis said.

Development of the new drone submarine was first disclosed by the Washington Free Beacon in September 2015 and then confirmed by the Russian military two months later. Russian officials said the secret program was mistakenly China needs more nuclear weapons to deal with Donald Trump should the US treat Beijing unacceptably, according to a government mouthpiece newspaper.

An editorial in the pro-government Global Times said China should 'significantly' increase military spending and build more nuclear weapons as a response to comments made by the President-elect Donald Trump on the country's policies.

China should 'build more strategic nuclear arms and accelerate the deployment of the DF-41 intercontinental ballistic missile' to protect its interests, should Trump attempt to corner the country in an 'unacceptable way', it said.

China is preparing to conduct a flight test of a new missile capable of destroying satellites in space, one of Beijing's most potent asymmetric warfare weapons.

Test preparations for the Dong Neng-3 anti-satellite missile were detected at a military facility in central China, according to Pentagon officials familiar with reports of the impending test.

Intelligence agencies were alerted to the impending test by China's announcement of air closure zones covering the expected flight path of the DN-3.

The flight test could come as early as Thursday, the officials said.

No other details of the missile test were available. A Pentagon spokesman and a State Department official both said, "We

Watchdog warns 'nuclear terrorism' can strike anywhere

by Staff Writers

Vienna (AFP) Dec 5, 2016

"Nuclear terrorists" can strike anywhere, the head of the UN atomic watchdog warned Monday at the start of a week-long ministerial conference on preventing misuse of radioactive materials and attacks on facilities.

"Ensuring effective nuclear security is important for all countries, including those which possess little or no nuclear or other radioactive material," International Atomic Energy Agency chief Yukiya Amano said.

"Terrorists and criminals will try to exploit any vulnerability in the global nuclear security system. Any country, in any part of the world, could find itself used as a transit point. And any country could become the target of an attack," he said in Vienna.

Countries all over the world have stepped up their investment in nuclear security with support from the IAEA, and have been working to reinforce staffing levels with more than 10,000 police, border guards and other specialists trained in the past six years, Amano said.

The IAEA has given countries over 3,000 instruments for detecting nuclear material and this year provided radiation detection equipment and other assistance to Brazil during the Olympic and Paralympic Games in Rio de Janeiro.

Iran has been conducting a series of massive war-drills meant to demonstrate the Islamic Republic's "supremacy" and show Western forces that the country is prepared to attack forces stationed in the Persian Gulf region, according to Iranian military leaders and reports in the country's state-run media.

The war drills, which began on Sunday in southeastern Iran and continued into Monday, include ground and air forces as well as unmanned drones.

The war games coincided with the public release by Iran of a new unmanned drone, the latest in a series of such aircraft publicly flown by Tehran in recent

The UN has voiced strong concerns after Israeli lawmakers gave the green light to a bill which would legalize West Bank settlements. While Washington voiced "deep concern" over the move, Palestinians called on the US to recognize the state of Palestine.

On Monday in a preliminary reading, the Israeli parliament (Knesset) voted 60-49, to pass a revised version of the Regulation Bill. The bill aims to legalize 55 settlements situated on privately-owned Palestinian land, according to Peace Now.

While the draft specifies that landowners are to be offered compensation, the passage of the bill was condemned at home and abroad.

Students at Virginia Tech have compiled a list of 50 "microaggressions" that they find unacceptable for use in conversation.

The phrases were gathered by members of the campus NAACP student group, the Muslim Student Association, and the Jewish Student Union. Some of the "microaggressions" were plastered around campuses on posters, each of which displayed a different phrase deemed to be unacceptable by the student groups.

Interestingly, Derald Wing Sue, a professor of psychology at Columbia University and an early architect of microaggression theory, claims that students and administrators have misunderstood his theory. Professor Sue claims that he doesn't necessarily believe people who commit microaggressions are bigoted or prejudiced. He expressed concern that microaggression theory was being used to shame and punish those who have made questionable remarks that weren't maliciously-intended. He claims that his goal was to educate people, rather than punish them.

"It should have been a campaign to promote common decency, but beneath the surface, it plays into their own scornful agendas," Virginia Tech senior Nicholas Korpics claimed. "The minority groups on campus, especially within the leftist-queer community, have little to no intentions of reconciling with their 'oppressors.' They just want to isolate themselves and then say nasty things about people who oppress them."

At least 160 people are feared dead and scores more injured after a church building collapsed during mass in Nigeria.

The incident happened at Reigners Bible Church International as worshipers were attending a Saturday prayer service in the southern city of Uyo, Akwa Ibom State.

Local reports suggest the church was undergoing renovation work.

One witness told Nigeria's Premium Times how churchgoers had been attending the consecration of a pastor when suddenly "the whole building collapsed."

An Evangelical church near the Old City of Jerusalem was ransacked and virtually destroyed earlier in late November by Muslim vandals in what church members say is part of a years-long pattern of harassment and attacks.

The "Living Bread Church", led by pastor Karen Dunham, has been targeted since 2014 by a gang of local Muslims, who harassed church members and regularly stole property.

Until now, Dunham has refrained from turning to the police.

Dunham says the vandals claim the church owes back rent for two years and have sought to

Anglican Pastor Facing Jail Time for Praying Outside Planned Parenthood

"Father Linton simply offered assistance."

An Anglican pastor has been charged with criminal trespassing and now faces up to 90 days in prison and $400 fine for praying outside a Planned Parenthood clinic in November.

Pastor James Linton maintains that his routine prayers outside a Planned Parenthood clinic in San Bernardino were entirely within his 1st Amendment rights, and that he violated no private property statutes. His lawyer, Allison Aranda of Life Legal Defense Foundation, asserts the arrest explicitly violates his constitutional rights.

"The arrest of Father Linton is an outrageous violation of his First Amendment rights," stated Aranda.

The tradition of offering Bibles in hotel rooms could be in decline as increasing numbers of guests access spiritual literature via apps on their phones.

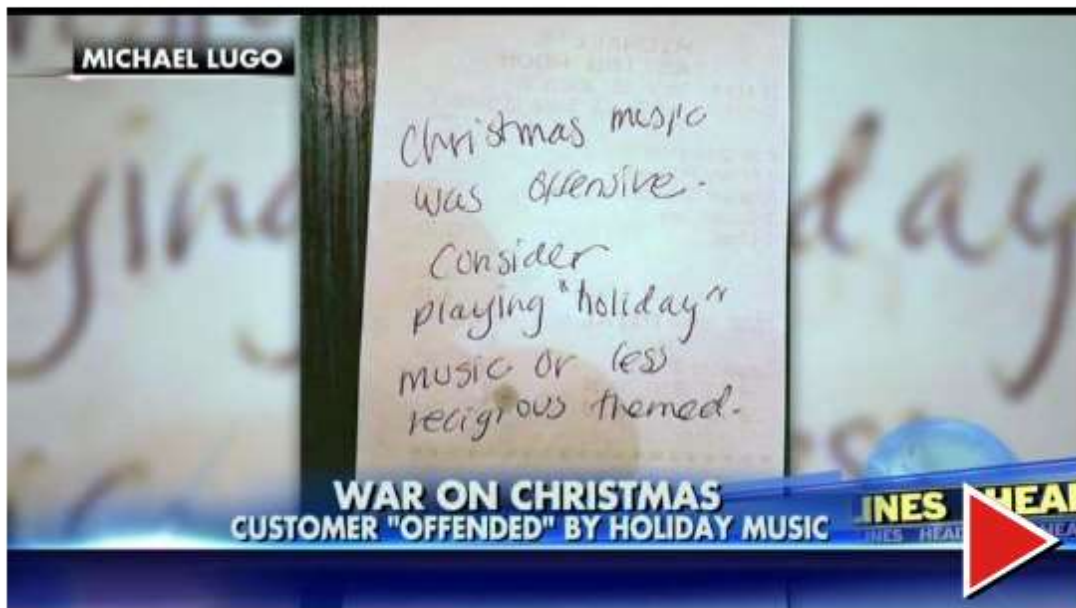

Even until recently, most hotels in the West would have a Bible in their guest rooms, distributed free by Gideons International since 1908.

Parents are deeply concerned about an After School Satan Club that targets children as young as 5 scheduled to open at Point Defiance Elementary School in Tacoma, Washington, on Wednesday, December 14.

"No one wants this club; we don't want a group that identifies itself with Satan to have access to our children," said Jennifer Droubay, a mother whose child goes to the school.

Parents and concerned citizens will be gathering for a prayerful and peaceful protest against the Satan Club in front of Point Defiance Elementary School on Dec. 14, from noon to 1:00 p.m.

Lulu, a transgender girl, reads a book in her room at her home in Buenos Aires July 25, 2013. Lulu, a six-year-old Argentine child who was listed as a boy at birth, has been granted new identification papers by the Buenos Aires provincial government listing her as a girl. According to her mother Gabriela, Lulu chose the gender as soon as she first learned to speak. Gabriela said her child, named Manuel at birth, insisted on being called Lulu since she was just four years old, local media reported. Argentina in 2012 put in place liberal rules on changing gender, allowing people to alter their gender on official documents without first having to receive a psychiatric diagnosis or surgery.
